A Letter to Boys and Girls

Toy Land, Nov. 15, 1927.

My Dear Messrs. Boys and Misses Girls:

Mrs. Santy has said that perhaps you might like to know how the reindeers are feeling. Well, thank you, they are feeling fine, and I hope you are the same.

Dancer had a bit of ice in his hoof when we were taking some toys for C.D.S.L. to the station in a blizzard, and Blitzer, I am sorry to say, kicked Grumper when they were standing side by side in the stable one morning.

They are quite well again now, thank you. I keep them exercised every day, and we hope to make a speed record round the world on Christmas Eve, December 24th, 1927.

Hoping you will be glad to receive this.

Yours very truly,
KLAPPER ZIPMAN,
Head Groom, Reindeer Stables.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith was brushing her long, shining, brown hair. Bob, jerking at his side, peering over her shoulder at her reflection in the dressing table mirror, suddenly broke into laughter.

"And the wise birds have always said women had so much intuition!" he jibed at her.

"I don't know what you mean!" Faith flashed at him irritably, but she raised her shoulder so that her cheek could rub gently against his hand. "I think Cherry is acting like a little lunatic, and I never saw her so rude in my life. I suppose she's still incurably snobbish, and cannot help resenting the fact that Nils Jonson is the brother of our maid. I could shake her!"

"So could I," Bob laughed, "but not for the same reason. You're not kidding your old man, darling? You really don't know what ails Cherry?"

"No, I don't," Faith retorted sulkily, as she reached for her cold cream jar. "Oh, please don't think you're so smart!" she added with a viciousness that only made Bob laugh the harder.

"All right, all right, honey!" he soothed her. "I'll be sober as a judge if you want. But may I have a kiss before you smear that sickening stuff all over your face? No? All right, but you'll be sorry some day!" And he began to whistle plaintively. "Oh, I wish I had someone to love me——"

'Stop that! I'm so sick of 'The Prisoner's Song,' that I warn you I'll bust the radio if any other hick tenor pipes up with it!" Faith scolded, but she smiled with a sudden radiant sweetness and drew his hand to her lips. "Now, what did you think of Nils Jonson?"

"Think?" Bob grinned down at her. 'That gigantic young Viking doesn't make you think—he makes you feel. And he made me feel like a pygmy, and I have the evidence of my life insurance policy that I'm five feet, eleven and a half inches tall. I haven't decided whether I shall forgive him or not."

Faith's fingers, busy with cold cream, began to make slow circles on her cheeks. "Funny, but I felt the same way—oh, not about you, but that he was too big to be real, that the house was too small for him. I think he is probably the bandsomest man I ever saw in my life, excepting my husband, of course."

"Oh, don't mind me!" Bob laughed aloud. "I don't blame you. He's overpowering. Rhoda adores him, by the way, and yet she's afraid of him. I wonder why."

"Because," Faith considered, knitting her brows, "he's a tremendous force and she knows she's too small to cope with him. What I mean is——" and she frowned with the effort to make herself clear, "that Nils is so big, so ruthless, so splendid in a way that has very little to do with brains and civilization, that Rhoda wants to scuttle out of his way so that she can feel big and important among lesser people. No wonder she cut loose and made a fool of herself with the dapper little tractor demonstrator. Nils must be a tremendous sort of person to live up to or with. And yet I'm sure he isn't clever. He never said a word all evening that was worth repeating, but—somehow—he didn't have to. All he has to do it to be."

"Magnetism is the label they pin on that particular quality," Bob said casually, but Faith, staring up at him, saw that his eyes became troubled. "The devil take him! I wish he'd never hove into this port. But—maybe——" and he laughed again, a short, odd bark of a laugh that sent chills down Faith's spine.

Then she laughed too, teasingly. "I believe you're jealous, Bob! That's sweet of you, but I assure you I'm like Rhoda. I'd want to scuttie out of his path——"

"Good heavens!" Bob exclaimed, staring at her incredulously. "Don't you really know what I'm scared of?"

Hints on Etiquette

2. When introducing one's husband to friends, should he be presented, formally, as "Mr.?"
3. If he is a dignitary, is it permissible to refer to him as "the Doctor," "the Colonel," "the Judge?"

The Answers.

1. No.
2. No.
3. It is better to call him by his given name. "The Judge" and so on are almost in a class with "the Wife."

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

To wear with the winter tweed suit nothing is more appropriate than the tweed hat to match.

Not brand-new but decidedly smart is the tweed or homespun hat which many well-dressed women are wearing this winter with tweed coats and suits. It is a rival in a measure of the soft felt hat, though it should correctly be worn only with tweed or as part of a sports ensemble. This type of hat came into favor in Paris last season, was worn by some women here, and now bids fair to become a general favorite.

Another type of sports hat that many women prefer to the plain felt hat is a flexible shape of stitched velvet. I saw one the other day from Suzy of Paris, a small brimmed shape of stitched velvet in a deep shade of yellow with a band of the same color.

Small hats may predominate this winter but all the milliners are showing large shapes which are chosen by many women for more formal afternoon wear. Almost invariably the brims droop and usually more on one side than the other.

Hat ornaments are as much worn as ever, but the discriminating woman now prefers something apparently unique. Some of the jewelers are showing large shoulder pins—many of them of marquisite with crystal—and these may be worn either on the shoulder of the evening gown or as an ornament on a hat.

Simply fashioned yellow-gold ornaments are frequently used on brown hats. I saw one the other day of three large irregular gold circles linked together. Somehow it suggested a golden looking.

Are You In Bad Health? If So Read This Letter----

IT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 9, 1927.
Prof. T. P. Murphy, Box 281, Toronto.

Dear Prof. Murphy,—You were so busy on the market at Kingston yesterday, and you didn't have much time, so I want to write and let you know what your medicine, Tonine is doing for me. I have been troubled with stomach trouble for a great many years. I am now on my seventh bottle of your great medicine and I have not been troubled with it since.

I have great faith in Tonine, knowing it is healing me and many others. I was talking to another man by the name of Mr. Hill on the market Saturday while you were selling your medicine and he was buying two more bottles of Tonine. He has been bothered with lumbago and rheumatism, also pains in the back, and he said he never felt better in years than he does now.

Now I also have another friend, a railroad man, who has been bothered with his stomach and with rheumatism, and he has taken six bottles of Tonine and he went and got another bottle at Mahood's Drug Store, and he swears by it and says he wouldn't be without it.

The lady who is writing this letter for me has a sister in Cataraqui who is also using your remedy with good results.

I think that soon your medicine will be well known throughout Canada as it is here in Kingston, as it certainly has saved many lives. If you care to, you can use this letter as a testimonial in your advertisements, for what you have done for me and others you deserve to prosper. I shall write to you when I need more medicine.

Yours truly,
MRS. A. McDONALD,
199 Wellington St., Kingston.

A large truck of the R. M. Andrews Transportation Company, while on the way from Toronto last night, with a big load of freight, ran into the ditch. The accident occurred about five miles west of this city on the Provincial Highway. The driver drove too close to one side of the road and as a result his truck rolled into the ditch. He claimed at the time of the accident he was blinded by the snowstorm and the lights of a motor car that he was meeting. A relief truck was sent out from this city to bring the load to shelter for the night.

Seven out of Ten Are Victims But Writer Tells How "Uratabs" Bring Swift, Amazing Relief With Renewed Vital Force

"No one knows better than I, the horror of joyless days and sleepless nights, There have been times when I felt hopeless and helpless—and when my weakness caused me the most intense humiliation. Only those who who have gone through such tortures can possibly realize my great satisfaction when Dr. Southworth's URATABS brought me quick relief. Several Strong Stocks Feature Toronto Trade

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (Canadian Press).—Strong upward movements in British American Oil, Canadian Pacific Railway, and Shredded Wheat were conspicuous in an otherwise unsteady list on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. British American was the most active stock of any and it climbed a point and a quarter at 37½. C.P.R. advanced seven at 211½, and Shredded Wheat three at 73. Imperial Oil was firm, but McColl and International Petroleum softened. The active liquor stocks were mostly firm, though Seagrams lost a half at 25. Gooderham and Walkers firmed slightly. In the regular list Brazilian receded 1½ at 222¾. International Utilities "A" lost a point and a quarter at 50, and Industrial Alcohol lost 1¼ at 42. Nickel was steady.

Heavy Selling Causes New York Irregularity

NEW YORK, December 2 (Canadian Press). — Heavy week-end profit taking and occasional bear selling imparted some irregularity to the price movement in to-day's stock market, but the main tendency seemed to be upward. Trading was again in numerous volume, but the ticker kept fairly close to the actual market quotations. Some of the selling undoubtedly was inspired by the raising of the call money renewal rate to 4½ per cent. and the belief that the rapidity of the recent advance in many issues had weakened their technical market position and made a downward re-adjustment of values inevitable. Investment interest appeared to shift ,temporarily at least, from the industrials to the rails, with Canadian Pacific ,which gained more than 10 points, as the outstanding individual feature.

Mine Market Active With Gains General

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (Canadian Press).—The depressing tone of the past few sessions on the Standard Mining Exchange was alleviated partly today with another increase in volume of trading, which brought sales for the morning session almost to a million and a quarter shares. Granda, Rouyn, and Bedford were the active leaders. Granada remained steady at 38, and Bedford gained two at 50. The firmer stocks included Central Manitoba, five higher at 215, Mining Corporation, five higher at 445, and Dome, Amulet, Beaver, Bidgood, Kirkland Lake, Laval-Quebec, and Potter Doal, which had gains of from one to five points. Teck Hughes sold down 12 at 11.65, and Tough Oakes lost 1½ to 73, while Nipissing and Barry Hollinger also lost ground.

SLAYING, RAIDS AND BOMBING REPORTED

All Connected By Police With Chicago's Gang Warfare.

CHICAGO, December 2, Canadian Press. — Bombing, a series of raids, 40 arrests, and the slaying of one man, were recent crime developments shown on the police records to-day. The bombing, the raids and the arrests, together with the accidental shooting to death of a gunsmith at Springfield, Illinois,were linked directly or indirectly, with the Chicago gang warfare.

The bombing, the eleventh in a fortnight of spasmodic gang skirmishing, was blamed by the police on the underworld fight for control of gambling and vice. An untenanted pool hall on West Madison street was the place bombed the explosive being pushed through the "lookout" window in the armored front door. The explosion frightened the tenants of the building but did little damage.

Five police raids were made during the night, all against places credited with membership in the syndicate police say Frank Zuta heads. Zuta is presumably aligned with the Aiello-Skidmore group, pitted in gang conflict against Al Capone and his followers.

KIWANIS CLUB VISITS BAZAAR

Largest Attendance in Months Recorded at Market Hall Meeting.

V. J. McELDERRY SPEAKS.

Kiwanis luncheon today was held in the Market Hall, supporting the bazaar being given by the Catholic Women's League in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital. There was the biggest attendance that has marked the club meeting for months, and among the guests were His Lordship Bishop O'Brien and Rev. P. Costello.

V. J. McElderry, the speaker of the day, acknowledged the "gracious action" of the club in lending its aid to this charitable institution. Remarking on the jollity that reigns at Kiwanis luncheons, he said he believed it was all put on as pose to pretend that the members are not doing anything else. "But anyone in Peterborough," he added, "who looks under the surface, cannot but be impressed by the splendid work you are doing."

Mr. McElderry told of the rise from paganism to this Christian age, and of the birth of new ideas of brotherhood and service with the dawn of Christianity. The greatest change is in the treatment of children, and Kiwanis Club is exemplifying the new spirit. Paganism was for the strong, and the weak always suffered. There was no reward for kindness or charity.

Quoting historical references showing the harsh and cruel treatment of children in pagan days, the speaker remarked: "The work that you are doing stands out in strong contrast against this background. The work you do for children cannot but get under the skin of those who see it."

The appreciation of the club was extended to the speaker and to the Male Voice Quartet by J. E. Smith.

The booster was Dr. G. R. Scott, and the prize winners were H. Huffman, F. Dawson, and D. C. Grant.

Abstention Sentence For Murder Attempt

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 2 (United Press)—Found guilty of attempting to murder his 16-year-old sweetheart, Christensen Eg, 29, a farm hand, has been sentenced by the District Court of Kolding to abstain from liquor for the rest of his life. If Eg takes even the tiniest nip of liquor he will have violated his probation and be sentenced to a long term in prison. The judge said he was lenient because: first, Eg was intoxicated when he tried to kill Martha Hansen, and second, he tried to commit suicide after the crime.

Major League Ball Season, April 11 to September 30

SCHEDULE PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR 1928 SEASON

Committee for Major League Clubs Complete 1928 Playing Schedule.

TWO-DAY SESSION

Newly-Elected President, E. S. Barnard, Represents American League.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 2.—The Schedule Committee for the Major League Baseball Clubs completed its work yesterday afternoon and announced the opening and closing dates for both leagues for the coming season.

Both leagues will open the 1928 season on Wednesday, April 11, and close on Sunday, September 30, the committee announced.

President John Heydler and Barney Dreyfuss represented the National League and President E. S. Barnard and William Harridge represented the American League at the meeting, which has been in session here for two days.

When the schedule makers ended their session yesterday afternoon they announced opening games as follows:

National League—Pittsburg at St. Louis; Chicago at Cincinnati; Boston at New York; Philadelphia at Brooklyn.

The schedules will be published at least a month sooner than in previous years, the National League said, meaning that the schedules will be released about the middle of January.

Sisler for Detroit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Now that the football season has been disposed of, winter comment is turning towards baseball with the stove league engineering numerous trades.

The principal one seems to involve George Sisler, first baseman and former manager of the St. Louis Browns. Last year when Sisler hit only .326 there came a feeling through the major leagues that Sisler would do better in another uniform.

Dan Howley, manager of the Browns, and the one who succeeded Sisler, always has said he could find no better first baseman than Sisler. However, this year indicates that Howley may dispose of Sisler.

One trade often mentioned is that Sisler will go to the Detroit Tigers for Heinie Manush, Lou Blue and Ab Wingo. Supposedly well informed quarters say this trade will be announced shortly. To counteract that comes the rumor that Sisler will go to Washington in exchange for Joe Judge.

Another rumor puzzling the stove leaguers is that Urban Shocker, veteran Yankee, will no longer be seen in Yankee stadium as a member of the world champions. A recent statement of Miller Huggins, New York manager, as to his 1928 pitching staff, failed to include Shocker's name.

Rumors immediately had it that Shocker was to be traded off this winter, but thus far no one has been able to find any place to put Shocker.

Rhem and Bell to Giants.

It also seem certain that Flint Rhem and Lester Bell will not be with the St. Louis Cardinals next season. The new manager of the Cardinals, Bill McKechnie, has let it be known that Bell and Rhem are trading material.

The rumor gained momentum that these two would come to the New York Giants for Lindstrom and Barnes. This was promptly spiked by John McGraw, who said he wouldn't trade Lindstrom for a parkful of Bells and that he was not especially keen about Rhem.

Then, too, there is the case of the two veterans—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker. Both are available for this season and rumor has it either one or both may go to the Giants. Mr. McGraw merely says he is willing to "think over" both players.

WOMEN'S O.H.A. MEETS THIS WEEK

Big Entry Expected in Ladies' Hockey This Year.

TORONTO, Ont., December 1. — The board room of the A.A.U. of C., Ontario Branch, 92 Adelaide St. West, will be the scene of the annual meeting of the Women's Ontario Hockey Association on Saturday, when delegates from various parts of the Province will gather at 2.30.

Popularity of women's hockey has become so great that in some communities it has taken precedence over the men's game, and the Women's League expects a much larger entry than ever before. It is hoped to exceed the record entry of seventeen clubs.

London, Forest, St. Thomas, Galt, Chatham, Preston, Kitchener, Peterborough, Lindsay, and Ottawa are expected to be in the league this season, and any other will, of course, be welcomed by the executive. The membership fees for new teams have been fixed at $11.00, while teams already in the association will pay $6.00.

The Devil-tree of Madagascar is said to drop poison spines on persons or animals who seek to take advantage of its apparently welcoming shade.

TWO TIE GAMES IN BIG LEAGUE

BEATS CHICAGO.

DETROIT, December 2. — Detroit Cougars picked up their fifth point in three games when they scored a 3-to-1 win over the Chicago Black Hawks in the Olympia last night before 5,000 fans. Holding the visitors even in the first period, they outscored them 1 to 0 in each of the other two sessions.

It was a fast and fairly rough display, with the referees busy to keep the players from mixing it. The superiority of the Detroit defenders, in front of Holmes' brilliant goaltending, settled the verdict.

PITTSBURG 0, BOSTON 0.

PITTSBURG, Pa., December 2. — The Pittsburg Pirates and the Boston Bruins battled to a 0-0 tie in an overtime National League match here last night. Play was featured by the rugged defensive tactics of both teams. By virtue of the tie the Pirates checked their string of defeats, which had reach five without a victory. Throughout the regular playing periods and in the overtime the defence men consistently staved off opposing offensives skilfully. There were few penalties.

MAROONS 1, RANGERS 1.

MONTREAL, Que., December 2.—New York Rangers and Montreal Maroons played a fast open National Hockey League match to a one-one draw here last night. The locals appeared to have the game sewed up on Stewart's goal, but after twelve minutes of the third period, Johnson led a four-man rush on the Maroon net. Passing the defence the puck was given to Boyd who made no mistake, and the game was tied. Stewart, taking a pass from Dutton, who made a goal to goal rush in the second period, scored Montreal's tally.

The game was featured by the dazzling speed of the Rangers' forward line, both their regulars and subs going a fast clip. Maroons, however, continued the combination play they have shown their supporters recently and their attempts goalwards, while not so frequent, were more dangerous than the New Yorkers 'tries. Stewart centre-forward of the Montreal team, played the best game he has turned in this year.

Danny Cox To Play On Saturday Night

TORONTO, Dec 2.—The N. H. L. schedule is drawn up in odd shape this season. Take the Maple Leafs for instance. Last week they were on a week's road trip, playing three games in all. This week is a complete lay-off, with the exception of Saturday night, when the Montreal Maroons will make their first visit of the season here.

Boston played four straight home games before tackling foreign fields, while Canadiens have been asked to travel over the western section twice before the home fans in Montreal have scarcely become acquainted with the new players secured.

Schedule or no schedule, the Leafs figure they got a lucky break with the present week's lay-off. For the first three days complete rest was the order. But yesterday the squad got together again for a stiff work-out.

Danny Cox is due to start at left wing on Saturday night. The silent member of the team has come to the front with a bang. Taking advantage of the three road games, Danny showed his real form, and his playing has convinced Manager-Coach Conny Smythe that Cox is the man to start against the Maroons here Saturday. Dr. Bill Carson will get the call at mid-ice, with Bailey at right wing. "Happy" Day, along with Art Duncan, will start behind the blue line. No other than the famed John Ross Roach will play goal. Roach is enjoying one of his best seasons this winter and has acquired the title of shut-out king among the goalies.

VARSITY FORCES GRADS TO FIGHT

GRADS WN OUT 4-2.

TORONTO, December 2. — U. of T. Grads won the S. P. A. senior trophy last night but were all out to defeat the present Varsity team 4 to 2 in the final.

The Allan Cup holders and the team to represent Canada at the Olympic games in February may have entered the contest convinced that it would be just a good exercise for them but soon were made to realize that they would have to hustle if they hoped to win.

And hustle they did after the first period, but not clinching the honors until they were less than two minutes to go in the third when Frank Sullivan wended his way from end to end and beat Murray Snyder with a close-in shot.

The Grads found the Varsity checking anything but to their liking. Harry Whitehead and Hugh Kirkpatrick, the rugged and hard-hitting defence pair, repeatedly rolling Trottier, Hugh Plaxton, Hudson, and even "Red" Porter over as they charged in on the Varsity cage.

Strong defensive play and a lot of speed proved the Varsity's chief stock in trade, and had they boasted any kind of a punch on the attack might have put over a victory and a big surprise. Dickie Richards skated through the Grad's defence in the opening period only to slam the puck into Sullivan's pads when he appeared to have little Joe at his mercy.

First Mack King and then Harley beat Porter and Taylor cold in the second session, but failed to complete their task when Mueller got in the way of the shots. Stewart and Kirkpatrick had wide open chances to score in the third period but they also ran into little success.

SASKATCHEWAN MEANS 'RAPID'

Saskatchewan, the name borne by the great river which rises in the Rockies in Alberta and flows through Saskatchewan and Manitoba into lake Winnipeg, is an Indian word meaning "rapid" or "swift-flowing."

SPORT BITS

At an enthusiastic meeting of hockey players and fans held in Cobourg, the uncertainty which has hovered over the Horse Show Town came to an end with the decision to enter a team in the Intermediate section of the O.H.A. The enthusiasts reached this decision after going fully into all the circumstances which surround the hockey game in the town and agreed that in taking the step they were doing something which would meet with approval, even though it meant much hard work to carry the proposition successfully through. There has been a feeling among the players and fans for some time that it would be too bad if Cobourg would not be represented this winter as in years past and this feeling prevailed at the last, and the final step was made.

The question of putting in a junior entry too was also taken up, and it was agreed after the ground had been gone over that it would be enough to take on the promoting of an intermediate team.

After Ed. Wright and his Peterborough officials had done their best to place a senior team in the O.H.A. series for this year along comes the announcement that "Shrimp" McDougall, who migrated to Owen Sound for two years, and played junior hockey, and this year went back to his home city, Peterborough, and was refused a certificate by the O.H.A. sub-committee, has attached his signature to a Toronto Ravina pro. contract. At the annual meeting of O.H.A. for 1928, President McKay issued a warning to young players not to be hasty in jumping to the money class. If President McKay and his sub-committee had given the McDougall youngster a little more consideration he might have been saved for the amateur class, and more particularly for Peterboro club's endeavor, to build up a new senior team after the invasion of the professional organization in which they lost Dwyer, McLeod Ranger and Bogardis of their championship squad. McDougall's moving back to his native city should at least have been considered more favorably.—Port Hope Daily Times.

And now comes the wrangling over terms for the Belanger-Jarvis world's flyweight championship battle due in Toronto on December 19. The Jarvis end is asking for 30 per cent. of the gross and is offered 22½; Belanger taking the short end against; Genera thinks and thinks rightly, that he is entitled to the long end or 27½.

Fans will probably pay around $20,000 to see this pair, and whatever percentage they finally agree to will probably pay each plenty. Moreover it is very doubtful whether any other centre will turn out anything like that amount for a flyweight battle championship or no championship. It looks as though Belanger is entitled to the long end as the creator of the hectic interest and in his own town.

Flyweights with championship aspirations are bobbing up all over the country. McCoy of Rochester, champion of the coast, and Harry Goldstein of Boston, leading contender in the east, are the latest to seek grappling opportunities against "Frenchy" Belanger.

There will be no senior hockey in Manitoba this coming winter. Lack of ice accommodation was given as the reason for the disbanding of the association by E. A. Gilroy, the president of the Manitoba body. This is the first time in many years that Manitoba has been without senior amateur hockey.

"NOW WE'RE IN THE AIR."

As Wally and Ray, the two American innocents who go to France with their rich uncle and become involved in a mesh of wartime adventures, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have stellar roles in the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week, entitled "Now We're in the Air." The two incorrigibles who got many laughs from their audiences when they enacted the parts of doughboys in the Army picture, "Behind the Front," and of gobs in the Navy feature, "We're in the Navy Now," get a great deal of amusement out of their latest attempt in aerial circles. Louise Brooks is the vivacious maiden who has a "twin" part, as Grisette and Griselle Chelaine, admired by both gentlemen.

At a flying school in France, Wally and Ray disguise themselves as aviators and then pay the penalty by being taken up in a balloon, along with an alleged German spy, the "Professor Saenger" of Chelaine's "Colossal Carnival" Circus. Their adventures in mid-air are typical of the nettle-headed pair and they get a lot of excitement out of acrobatic feats in the swaying gas bag.

Just in passing, the sub-titles, as has been the case in other pictures featuring this feckless pair, add a great deal to the amusement of the pictured narrative.

Later, disguised as a cow, the two fall into the hands of a German outpost, after their forced descent from the balloon, and Wally pretends to be deaf and dumb. They are acclaimed as heroes by the Germans and banquetted in great style, then sent up as observers in another aerial spying manoeuvre. Captured by the French, they are about to be shot as spies, when kindly Fate once again intervenes at a crucial moment and they are snatched from the jaws of death. A typical ending, with the two muddled over the twin likeness of their respective brides, is the climax to "Now We're in the Air."

The short reels have a lot of interesting pictures about the Prince of Wales' trip to Canada with Premier Baldwin and his brother, Prince George. The heir to the throne, by the way, doesn't get much of a "hand" from Canadian audiences.

AT THE REGENT.

"ROOKIES" IS CLEVER COMEDY. Hero and Heroine Discover Love for Each Other while falling in a Parachute.

A complicated quadrangular love affair spun in gales of laughter is "Rookies," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of army life at the Regent Theatre, with Marceline Day and George K. Arthur in the leading roles.

There are a couple of military sheiks, a sweet young thing and a vampire all in love at the same time. I'd call it a scrambled love affair dished up with a garnishing of thrills.

Two of those sheiks, Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, look handsome in their uniforms and they make the maidenly heart of Marceline Day flutter all over the place.

They make love to her everywhere from the soda pop parlor she presides over to a balloon basket away up in the air some thousands of feet.

Yet, I would say, Marceline is as much up in the air when she is on the ground as she is when she is up in the balloon. It is only when George K. Arthur makes love to her in a parachute, as they are dropping a couple of thousand feet that she realizes just whom her heart really belongs to.

I'll never forget that love scene attached to a parachute. It must be thrilling to have a handsome hero in uniform tell you he loves you as you whirl around in the air and fall through space. The combined thrills of the fall and the lovemaking would seem to be even a little too much for one lone girl to stand.

If I ever fall for a man in a parachute there's going to be a bump when we come to earth, because Marceline has shown me a few tricks in aerial lovemaking.

AT THE GRAND.

RICHARDS, THE MAGICIAN.

When you lend a ring that you think a lot of to a magician—

And he apparently pounds it all out of shape and crams it with a lot of other rings into a pistol—

And he pulls the trigger and the other rings are found in a box on the other side of the stage, but your ring is missing—

And then he produces a mysterious bottle from which he pours any kind of beverage asked for and out of the bottom of which he brings out a white rat with your ring tied to its tail—

And he offers you the rat and ring wrapped up in paper—

And when the paper is undone the rat is gone but your ring is there attached to a beautiful bouquet of flowers—

That is one out of fifty of the illusions that Richards, magician extraordinary, successfully executed at the Grand last night to the mystification of a large audience.

If you like such things, and most people do very much, you are going to like Richards during his stay at the Grand, for here is a magician who has a splendid routine of tricks and illusions, a smooth and likeable way of presenting them, and a complete outfit of rich-looking and expensive paraphernalia that gives color as well as effectiveness to his work.

Last night Richards did most of the best tricks that others in the same field of entertainment have done here, and few have performed them any better while, in addition, he presented many effects of his own invention in a most successful manner. Notable was the human cannon ball illusion in which a young lady assistant was apparently fired from a cannon to reappear instantaneously in the innermost of a nest of trunks suspended in mid air!

There was plenty of comedy as well as of mystery in Richards' offerings and last night's audience divided its time between laughter and speculation. Rabbits and eggs were produced from the most unexpected places, to the bewilderment of most concerned with such discoveries. Phonographs vanished in spooky fashion, alarm clocks refused to stay put, human beings were transformed in a twinkling, in fact there were so many wonderful manifestations that if Richards had lived a century or so ago and attempted the same illusions, his neighbors would have undoubtedly taken him out and built a bonfire beneath him.

As a climax the magician gave a demonstration of psychomiency or thought transference or mind reading, whichever name you prefer, during which he was able to read and answer questions written by members of the audience on slips of paper and placed in a glass bowl at the front of the stage, where access could not be had to the contents. There was plenty of fun as well as food for thought in this feature.

Variety was furnished by Doray and Nese, a clever dance team, whose tango, waltz and Apache numbers were most effectively executed.

Richards will be seen at the Grand again tonight and twice tomorrow and the satisfaction of last night's audience is sure to be reflected in capacity attendances at the remaining performances.—F.D.C.

CANADA HAS LARGEST TALC DEPOSITS.

The talc deposits in the Madoc district, Ontario, are the only ones of their kind known in Canada and are the largest on the American continent. They yield a fine, white, foliated talc and this product is used extensively in the paper, textile, and toilet powder trades, for which only the highest grades of talc are in demand.

GRAND OFFICER VISITS LODGES

Mrs. E. Booth Entertained By Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 26.—An event of special interest took place in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesday evening when Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, was honored with an official visit from Sister E. Booth, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. Accompanying Mrs. Booth were Sister B. Watt, Past president of the Assembly, and Sister Londerville, who this year holds the position of Grand Warden of the Rebekah Assembly.

The regular business session of the lodge preceded the social gathering in honor of the President's visit, Sister M. Garside, N.G., presiding. The introductory committee included Sisters B. Hamilton, Past District-Deputy President, and Z. Bentley, P.P.N.G.

Brief and instructive addresses were given by the visiting Grand Lodge officials before the lodge session closed, and the following officers were elected for 1928:

The formal installation of officers takes place in January, when the appointed officers will be included in the list for the respective chairs.

Progressive euchre provided pleasant entertainment until the supper hour, Mrs. Harry Ball and Miss Lila Whyte having to cut for first prize, the latter winning; Mrs. T. H. Bradley had the consolation, Mrs. Bentley and D. Sheppard gentlemen's prizes.

The dining-hall, where supper was served about midnight, was attractively decorated with the [illegible] colors of pink and green for the runners on the well-laden tables, streamers overhead, and shaded the lights. Vases of flowers centred the long tables at intervals added a final touch to a [illegible] color scheme.

Music and dancing with [illegible] card playing for those who wished brought a most successful and enjoyable occasion to a close. The Assembly President continued her official visits in this district, going to Havelock and Little Britain the two following nights.

Quite a number of the gentlemen came in for the social part of the evening on Tuesday, Messrs. J. S. Londerville and B. Watt of Peterborough, being among the guests.

Members of the social committee of the I.O.O.F. Lodge, No. 388, looked after the service of the guests during the supper hour, Brothers C. C. Garside, R. I. Fallis, V. R. Henter, and D. Sheppard rendering this courtesy which the social committee of the Rebekah Lodge returns in kind when the subordinate lodge is observing some special occasion.

GIVING A FOREST FIRE WARNING

Royal Canadian Air Force aircraft engaged in forest patrol work for the Forest Service, Department of the Interior, are equipped with wireless telephones. A practical system of wireless telephones has been developed and reliable voice communication can be maintained over distances of 200 miles from aircraft in flight to the base. The Air Station is linked with the ground telephone system of the Forest Service so that warning of a detected fire can be almost instantly transmitted from the aircraft to the ranger station nearest the outbreak.

CHAPTER XIV

More bewitching than ever, Manon was enveloped in a long cloak with the hood covering her hair. She was tremulous, uncertain, even humble, yet still so young and dove-like that her beauty beggared all description.

Fabien was like one enchanted. He felt it must be some trickery—Manon, of all people in the world, alone with him in the church when he had given up all idea of ever seeing her again.

Unable to divine the purpose of her visit, he waited, trembling, not daring to look at her. For a moment her embarrassment was equal to his own, then she realized that he had no intention of breaking the silence and murmured tremulously, "Fabien."

Her appeal brought forth only a stern and set expression to his face. He did not even raise his eyes.

Manon continued, beseechingly: "I saw your name posted for examinations and attended all week in the hope of seeing you. Fabien, dear, I must talk with you—my heart has been broken." The tears fell unheeded. "You are thinking unfair things of me. I could not help what I did. My brother and the Comte forced me into that hideous situation. I was powerless. They told me that you would be arrested for abduction and that I could save you only by leaving. But I went back to our room and was told that you never wanted to see me again. I have never ceased loving you."

Unwilling to hear more, Fabien turned away. Manon stopped her explanation and watched him with tragic eyes. His entire manner indicated that he was through with her. It was more than she could bear.

Manon approached and Fabien watched her as though hypnotized, but when her hands stole up to his shoulders he awakened from his trance with a start and pushed her away.

"Wanton!" he cried scathingly. "You are as guilty as the hell you come from." His eyes blazed with a holy and righteous anger against this woman whose touch made him forget his duty and think only of the world, the flesh and her!

Manon remained motionless during his condemnation, but she sobbed in agony when he turned away and went out into the garden, like a Saint madly fighting the devil.

Manon gathered up her cloak and followed. "I cannot blame you," she said simply, her eyes soft with love and adoration. "All you say of me is probably true—but I love you so!"

The words were like a lash across Fabien's face and he retaliated by demanding harshly: "What about your lover—the man who buys all these jewels and decks you in satin gowns?" He indicated her expensive attire with a gesture of disgust.

"I am no longer with him," she replied hopefully, then continued: "I hated him and left his house as soon as I could manage to escape—I have not even seen him for months."

"Then who are you with now, to give you all these things?" Fabien was still contemptuous as he indicated her jewels.

"Fabien!" Manon was hurt and shocked. "No one, you should know that. The Comte had given them to me, so I took them away." When she saw the effect of her words she added regretfully, "I am sorry Fabien, but I shall always love jewels and beautiful clothes."

Fabien realized the utter helplessness of the situation. She was not to blame after all. Neither was it wrong for a woman to crave pretty things. He found himself regretting that he had not been the one to lavish luxuries upon her!

"Fabien, why should we be unhappy all the rest of our lives? We know that we were made only for each other, and if you refuse me I shall die and you will never know a moment's peace." Manon was pleading for Fabien's love, to her the only worth while thing in the world.

"Leave—I never want to see you again!" he said sternly.

"You don't mean that. You couldn't! You are being cruel to yourself and to me. I know you love me or I never would have come here to save us both from everlasting misery. Fabien!" with a little moan Manon clung to Fabien, pleading with her body as she had pleaded with her voice and heart. But when she felt no response she sank helplessly to the ground and leaned against his knees. She pressed close and reaching up grasped arm with both hands and stroked it lovingly. "Please . . . dear . . . !" she implored.

Gradually Fabien relaxed. He could not muster sufficient courage to meet her eyes, but he knew she was there—he felt her presence! with clenched hands forced straight down at his sides he raised his face in prayer.

Looking up, Manon saw and understood that she had not won him back. she fell in a crumpled heap at his feet. Her face was almost on the ground as she cried piteously, "You are my one friend: if you send me away, what will become of me?"

Unable to resist such a truly feminine appeal for protection Fabien looked slowly upon her as she bowed there at his feet. With a start there came to him the resemblance between her attitude and that of the image of Mary Magdalen. His expression softened as he encountered the look of adoration and worship in her upturned face.

The man who is sometimes credited with giving the airplane its first real start was the German, Otto Lilienthal, who from boyhood had been trying to devise some sort of wings which would carry a human body into the air. He experimented with kites with curved wings and found to his delight that they rose rapidly.

He was a poor engineer, but he worked hard and saved money. Finally, with his savings, he built a pair of wings, arched like those of birds which he had studied. This was a fairly satisfactory glider, and with it attached to his body he soared from hillsides down into the valley. But he could not fly like a bird.

Each gust of wind tipped Lilienthal, now this way and now that. But by skillful balancing of his body he managed to keep himself from tipping over. He used to practice by the hour together, to the delight of crowds of spectators, who called him the bird man, and wondered at his ability to soar over their heads.

Finally, becoming reckless, he flew one day in 1896 in a strong wind with his big double glider wings. The wind caught him high above the earth and, though he struggled to regain control of his unwieldy apparatus, he crashed to the ground where, a few moments later, horrified onlookers found him dead.

section and marry again far more successfully.

L. W.—Has the boy I go with broken off with his former girl?

E. W.—Will my mother ever receive her father's money from Ireland?

Ans.—She can get this next year, but it will require a competent lawyer to handle the legal part of securing the money.

E. M. D.—Who was it that stole my watch? Can I recover it?

Ans.—You suspect the wrong man. I cannot mention names in The Examiner, but if you will bring your question to the Grand Opera House to-night I will give you the name of the guilty party from the stage, or else secure one of my private blanks at the theatre ticket office.

H. R.—Will I marry the boy I am going with?

Ans.—No, you will marry James W. who you formerly kept company with. You will renew your friendship after first of the year and be married next August.

A. J.—Will I get my wish?

Ans.—No.

D. H. S.—Will my dad sell his car and how much will he get for it?

Ans.—He will sell the car a week from to-morrow for exactly $675 to the man who made the offer last Friday.

This is Mr. Richards' last answer to-day, although another and final installment of answers will appear in The Examiner again to-morrow. Send no more questions to Mr. Richards in care of The Examiner, as he has on hand as many as he can answer in to-morrow's installment. However, he also answers questions at the Grand Opera House to-night and to-morrow during the mental part of his massive big three hour show of amazing wonders, thrills, laughs, music, dancing, mystery and splendor, which made a tremendous hit last night, as it is the largest and finest attraction of the kind ever here, or private question blanks may be had at the theatre ticket office which will assure you a prompt and private answer.

KINMOUNT MAN CHOKES IN CAR

Harry S. Hopkins Dying When Friends Notice Sufferings.

ON TRIP TO TORONTO.

TORONTO, Ont., December 2. — While sleeping in a cramped condition in a taxi last night, Harry S. Hopkins, aged 50 years, of Kinmount, Ont., choked to death. Hopkins had been covered with a blanket in the car by two other men, and it was when driving on Bloor Street, west of Sherbourne, that the men noticed Hopkins was suffering, and ordered the driver to stop the car. He was carried into the office of Dr. William B. Edmunds, 155 Bloor Street East, where death was pronounced.

Slept During Journey.

Police stated that Hopkins had hired a taxi in Lindsay to drive himself and two friends to this city. It is alleged by police that the men had been drinking. Hopkins, it is said, decided to sleep during part of the journey. Passing through Whitby he awakened, then returned to sleep and was covered over with a motor rug lest he catch cold.

Dr. Edmunds communicated with Chief Coroner M. M. Crawford. Before the body was removed to the Morgue, Dr. Crawford made a further examination, resulting in his decision to have a nautopsy held, and in all likelihood an inquest will also be conducted.

The choking is thought to have been accidental. The doctors think that, in resting in the condition the body was in the car, the bumping on the highway caused strangulation. The post-mortem to-day will show if this was the only cause of the man's death.

All Lindsay Men.

George Workman ,19 Kent Street East, Lindsay, owner and driver of the taxi, informed police that he had been paid his fare by Hopkins before they left Lindsay. Harry Thompson, 48 King Street, Lindsay, and William Steele, 41 William Street, Lindsay, friends of Hopkins, were the other men in the car. In the event of Dr. Crawford deciding to go on with an inquest, these men will have to appear as witnesses.

Hopkins, according to Steele and Thompson, was a grocer at Kinmount. He was a widower.

Beg Your Pardon.

Through a typographical error, the name of L. LeBarr, Junior, who assisted at the bazaar in the market Hall on Wednesday afternoon, was entered last night as Mrs. L. LeBarr, Junior.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Crowley took place on Tuesday, November 29 ,to the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Her death took place on Sunday, November 27. These dates were confused in last night's issue.

The wrong initials were given in last night's Examiner, when H. Hogan was mentioned as crashing into the C.N.R. gates. J. J. Hogan should have been named.

IN POLICE COURT.

A local man appeared on remand in police court this morning on the plea of guilty to committing an indecent act against a girl 14 years old. The prisoner was represented by J. A. O'Brien who made a strong plea for clemency in this case. The prisoner was let out on bail for one week as the couple appeared to want to get married.

TALENT TEA.

The Ladies' Guild of St. George's Church is holding a Talent Tea at the Rectory on Thursday, Dec. 8, from 3 to 5, and from 7 to 9 p.m. Sale of plain and fancy goods, home-made cake and candy. Musical program.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to thank the many kind friends who in any way contributed to the comfort and consolation of Mrs. Wilson, who many times made mention of the kindness of the people to her during her illness, also for sympathy shown in my sad bereavement.—Samuel T. Wilson.

DIPLOMAS ARE PRESENTED AT COMMENCEMENT

Peterborough Collegiate Institute Holds Annual Exercises.

IN LEGION HALL.

Seventy-six Students of 1927 Class Receive Their Graduation Certificates.

The annual commencement exercises of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute were held yesterday afternoon in Canadian Legion Hall. During the program forty-two graduation diplomas were presented by the Rev. J. E. Todd, B. A. and thirty-four Commercial diplomas by Inspector A. Mowat, B.A., to the members of the graduation class of 1927.

E. Bruce Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, presided, and other speakers were His Worship Mayor Holloway, A. Mowat, B.A., Rev. J. E. Todd, B.A., and Principal H. R. H. Kenner, B.A.

The assembly hall of the Legion was crowded to capacity by students of the Collegiate and Commercial department and their parents, for the exercises are always a gala day in the history of the local institution.

During the afternoon Nicholls Scholarships were presented by Mayor Holloway. These scholarships are given to the two pupils obtaining the highest marks at the midsummer examinations in the Upper School, Senior Middle School, Junior Middle School, Senior Lower School, and Junior Lower School. The scholarships were made possible by the generosity of the late Mrs. Sarah Jane Nicholls who left in her will $2,000 to the Collegiate Institute. This money was invested by the board and the interest is given in scholarships every year.

The list of presentations was not as long as usual as the local Collegiate had no field day on account of not opening the fall term until the 18th of September this year.

E. B. Fowler in the chairman's address told of the accommodation in the new addition to the Collegiate which, when finished, will house together all pupils wishing a secondary education. There will be an assembly hall capable of seating 1,000 people.

"Boys and girls of to-day have a great opportunity in getting a High school education and Canada possesses the greatest opportunity for those who have this education. In this country of ours there are great possibilities. We have wonderful natural resources which are capable of producing untold wealth. You are now fitting yourselves for the positions which you will occupy in future years. No matter what line or profession you follow if you prepare yourselves you will derive great advantages and you will help develop a country that cannot be excelled," said Mr. Fowler.

Council Was Unanimous.

Mayor Holloway in presenting the Nicholls Scholarships said it was a great pleasure to him that the addition to the Collegiate was started during his term of office. "The proposition when first put before the council was not viewed with favour for we believed, financially, that it was too much for this city. But the Board of Education went to work seriously and drew up a new plan which when put before the Council was accepted unanimously. I congratulate the pupils who have won these scholarships and also those who are getting their diplomas to-day; for education is a very easy thing to car-

Lady Pickpocket Faces Life Term

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press)—May English, known to the police as a notorious pickpocket, may be the first woman to be imprisoned for life under the Baumes laws. She was held without bail yesterday on a complaint by Helen Campen, 512 Tenth Street, Union City, New Jersey, for snatching her purse containing $43.

The woman's criminal record dates back for 20 years, detectives said, and she has been arrested in a dozen cities as a pickpocket.

ONTARIO HAS FIRST SURPLUS IN SOME YEARS

Province Has Paid $3,000,000 Off Debt and Has Cash on Hand.

LIQUOR SALE HELPS.

Revenue and Expenditure of Government Both Increased in Past Year.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—The Province of Ontario in the fiscal year just closed has not only met all its liabilities and taken all its discounts, but has also paid $3,000,000 off its debt and achieved a further cash surplus of $287,990.

In this showing—the best which the Ferguson Government has been able to make since its accession to office—the new liquor control policy figures as no negligible factor. During its first five months of operation it has returned to the provincial treasury a net revenue of $3,300,000.

These figures became available yesterday at the Parliament Buildings when Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, issued his annual financial statement. The practice of issuing such a statement was inaugurated by Hon. Mr. Price when he became Provincial Treasurer, and it gives to the public details of the province's finances which formerly used to be withheld until the treasurer's budget speech in the Legislature.

The statement now issued covers the year ending on October 31st last. It represents the present climax in a series of regularly improving showings which the Ferguson Government has been able to make since taking over the public finances. Total revenues of $56,296,537, are $5,455,495 greater than in the previous year total expenditures of $56,008,547 are $4,355,364 greater than in the previous year. The balance between these two figures however, is $1,100,131 on the revenue side, which shows that an expanding program of government services has been more than adequately financed.

Departmental figures which make up the totals are not without their features of interest. In the Highways Department, for instance, it is interesting to note that while the public paid a total of $450,000 less for their motor licenses, they paid $657,000 more under the heading of gasoline tax, the revenue under this levy totalling $4,033,000 as compared with a previous $3,376,000.

The succession duty branch was the largest single revenue factor, with $9,469,000 to its credit, an increase of $702,000 over the previous year. The corporation tax raised $2,478,000 under the heading of companies, an increase of $138,000; $224,000 under the heading of stock transfers, an increase of $89,000; and under race tracks, $2,-152,000, a decrease of $45,000. The amusement tax increased by $43,000 to $1,664,000. Lands and forests revenue jumped by $144,000 to $3,425,000.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT MAY YIELD SYRIA TO ITALIANS

Possibility Discussed as Result of Briand's Overtures To Mussolini.

MIGHT END FRICTION.

Intense Anti-French Feeling in Italy Reported By Sauerwin.

PARIS, December 3. — The possibility of France ceding her mandate over Syria to Italy as a concession of good will is being discussed in Parliamentary circles as the outcome of M. Briand's speech yesterday and his declaration that he was willing at any time to meet Mussolini again.

This is a proposal which has been made several times already and its discussion is not to be interpreted as meaning that a final decision has been reached. Syria, however is almost the only place on the Mediterranean map which could be ceded to Italy by France or any one else.

This country with its stationary population and its already enormous North African possessions cannot ever aspire to be more than an administrator of the mandate over the Syrian peoples, and that is a costly business. The Italians on the other hand, could possibly take charge of the country to better advantage and the transfer would perhaps do something to counteract the anti-French sentiment which has so strongly developed in the peninsula and placate Italian pride.

Italy's Probable Quid Pro Quo.

Of course, for such a transfer, involving as it would do the sacrifice of French prestige, there would have to be compensations. The first of these undoubtedly would be the abandoning by Italy of any pretensions to share in the administration of Tangier, and the second would be cessation of the press campaign against France, which recently has become of an inflammatory character.

Writing from Rome, Jules Sauerwein, foreign editor of the Matin, at the end of a long despatch describing the situation in Italy sums up as follows:

"Italian bitterness has reached a degree without precedent. Her grudge against the negotiators of 1919 both Italian and foreign; her displeasure at not having soon enough demanded colonial advantages; her disappointment about Asia Minor and Abyssinia, and the successive diplomatic checks which she has received—all these disappointments of the last eight years, whether real or not, reached their culminating point the day when the Italian people were told by their disciplined press that Yugoslavia, which menaces Italy in the Adriatic, had become henceforth the ally of France.

"The Dictator replied at once with the treaty with Albania, which while only putting the existing situation on a legal basis has this result that it must give any incident on the Albanian frontier a far more dangerous aspect.

Resentment at Fever Heat.

"Possibly the situation would have evolved in much the same way whatever government had been in power in Italy, but Fascism has made it evolve to the accompaniment of a sentimental exaltation which has now reacher a paroxsym, and of which France is the only object."

If such a state of friction can be dissipated by France handing back the Syrian mandate to the League, and the League placating Italy's pride by asking her take up what France lays down, all Europe would certainly breathe more easily, and if such a sacrifice would have the desired result and bring into Mediterranean politics a more pacific atmosphere, then M. Briand may be counted on not to hesitate long before he makes the sacrifice.

Former British Premier Breaks Silence Regarding Management of Campaign Fund

LONDON, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press Cable). — Lloyd George has broken his silence on the origin and management of the campaign fund which has come to be known as the Lloyd George Fund and which has long been a matter for comment by a section of his political opponents.

In a statement to the press Britain's wartime Premier says the fund was collected by the whips of the National Liberal party in exactly the same way as every other political fund for well over a century. Referring to allegations that contributors to the fund were swayed by the ambition to obtain honors, Lloyd George says that the honors lists during his Premiership were prepared in the usual way by the chief whips, and he did not know who might have subscribed to the party funds.

He emphasizes that he has never touched one penny of the fund for his private use, and declares the amount of the fund has been fantastically exaggerated. Most of it has been derived through the appreciation of certain newspaper properties in which almost all of it was invested until recently. The fact that these papers should have prospered has excited the envy of journals floundering helplessly in the mud, the former premier says.

Since he left office, says Lloyd George, he worked successfully as a journalist to earn his living, and his emoluments from this during the past four years have been much greater than the aggregate of his salaries during the seventeen years in office. He concludes by saying that his statement would have been an unwarrantable boost if it was not rendered necessary by the cowardly slander privately circulated in regard to his use of party funds.

SNOW STORMS THREATEN EAST

Combination Cold Weather and Flood Conditions Faces Eastern Section.

NEW YORK STATE.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—From rapidly receding flood waters in its western extremity, New York State last night turned anxious eyes toward the eastern districts, where snow and heavy rains threatened a possible combination of cold weather and flood conditions if the bad weather continued.

Snow, which began to fall in Albany and vicinity shortly before noon, turned to rain in the early afternoon, and well into the night kept up a steady downpour. Nerves drawn taut since the recent proximity of the disastrous New England floods found little relief in the predictions of the weather man, who saw no slackening of the storm in sight for a day or two at least.

Streams in the Eastern part of the State, already swollen from intermittent storms of the past week, failed, however, to respond to the urge of the rain last night, and no serious rises were reported during the first few hours of the downpour. In the central and south-central districts, according to reports from Rome, Elmira and other points, several inches of snow covered the ground, and colder weather was in sight.

The western part of the state, with few exceptions, was gradually recovering from a two-day battle with flood waters of large streams.

NO CHANGES IN BUSINESS

Canadian Department Stores Limited Prepared To Continue as Usual.

RECEIVERSHIP TEMPORARY.

C. W. Lapp, Peterborough Manager of Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., has received from G. T. Clarkson a definite assurance that the stores will continue business as usual and that the receivership announced on Thursday is temporary only, for purposes of financial readjustment. There will be no change in the method of doing business, and there will be a constant influx of the high-class goods for which the store is known. Arrangements are being made to care for the specially heavy Christmas trade which has always been attracted to the Peterborough store.

Blood Test Proves Woman Perjurer

BERLIN, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—A German court for the first time has rendered a decision based on the determination of the parenthood of a child by blood tests.

A woman in the case was charged with perjury for describing as the father of her child a man who denied paternity. All three persons involved underwent blood tests by the state medical board at Wuerttemburg.

The doctors reported to the court that the man was not the father of the child, declaring that their examination showed that the man was not the father of the child, declaring that their examination showed that the man and woman both belonged to the "second blood" class, while the child belonged to the "fourth blood" class.

The woman was convicted of perjury and sentenced to six months imprisonment.

BOY INJURED BY MOTOR CAR

Frederick Hunt Struck When He Skates From Behind Parked Car.

HAS WRIST BROKEN.

Frederick Hunt, aged 12, of 214 Westcott Street, was struck by a truck last night while skating on George Street and had one wrist broken and many lacerations on the face.

When the accident occurred Melville Edwards was driving his truck south on George Street and just below Lake Street a car was parked on the west side of George. When Edwards was within a few feet of the parked car, he reported to the police, Hunt skated out from in front of it. Edwards immediately applied the brakes and turned to the left to miss the boy, but the rear end knocked him down. The boy was attended by Dr. J. M. O'Brien and immediately taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. This morning hospital authorities reported that the boy had had a very good night.

DEPARTMENT SEEKS HIGHER SENTENCE

Will Appeal Judge's Imposition of Fine For High Grader.

NORTH BAY, Dec. 3. — Canadian Press.)—The Department of the Attorney General of Ontario will contest the sentence imposed on Walter P. Wilson, Mattagami farmer, who was fined $1,500 for high grading and being in illegal possession of high grade ore. The Department contends the punishment is not adequate and notice of appeal will be served on the respondent as soon as his lawyer returns from Toronto. Wilson was arrested in June as a result of investigations following the arrest of Abraham Simon, Montreal, Montreal, who told the police that some of the ore found in his possession was purchased from Wilson. The latter is understood to have turned over to the police $28,000, supposed to have been proceeds of high grading operations over two years.

Kills Wife In Sleep Then Shoots Himself

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Despondent because he was ousted as an official in a labor union, John Keppler, 54 years old, shot and killed his wife and then fired two bullets into his head at their home in New York, yesterday. He was taken to Wyckoff Heights Hospital, where it was said he would probably die.

The motive for the shooting was found in a three-page note addressed to "My Dear Friends," in Keppler's writing, which was found by the police.

"I tried to do my best as an official in the labor movement," the note said, "but was misunderstood and made enemies of those who had been my friends." The police were unable to learn the name of the union. Mrs. Kepper was apparently shot while sleeping, the police said.

KINGSTON, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Word from Dockrill late yesterday afternoon was to the effect that an additional body, that of a child, less than a year old, was discovered in the wreckage, caused by the head-on collision of the C.P.R. express and a freight train last Sunday afternoon.

Automobile Registrations.

Overwhelming Preference For McLaughlin-Buick.

Registrations as compiled by Might's Directory show that McLaughlin-Buick sold 309 cars in Ontario in October which was 229 more than its nearest competitor, and 10 cars more than five of its next competitors added together. For the city of Toronto for the same month, McLaughlin Buick sold more cars in Toronto than its next competitor sold in all of Ontario. This is the unbiased judgment of the people of Ontario, and no more convincing proof of the wonderful performance and great durability of Canada's Standard Car could be shown.

DATE SET FOR NEXT MEETING OF PREPARATORY COMMISSION

Will Meet After League Council Beginning in March, 1928.

DEBATE ON BASIS.

Commission To Discuss Report of Security Committee To-day.

LONDON, Dec. 3. — Canadian Press cable. — The Daily Telegraph will publish the following from its Geneva correspondent:

The Security Committee yesterday closed its deliberations and to-day the Preparatory Commission for Disarmament Conference will meet again to discuss the report of the Security Committee, which report will in fact have been made out by exactly the same personalities, comprising the Preparatory Commission itself, except that the latter includes United States and Soviet delegates.

The speeches yesterday were all variations on the theme of Lord Cushendun's speech Thursday, when he called for a practical basis on which to proceed. It has been practically decided that the next meeting of the Security Committee shall be held on February 20 and that the Preparatory Commission for the Disarmament Conference will meet after the League Council beginning in March.

Lord Cushendun in a statement made to the British press yesterday, said that the word "security" was very difficult to define exactly as it varied according to the circumstances of each nation. As to the British government or any other government taking engagements under the covenant regarding security, it was very difficult for a parliamentary government to say what it would be prepared to do under the covenant supposing an aggressor made war upon a neighbor, it being impossible to foresee the nature or extent of such aggression. No government could bind some future parliament as a parliament particularly resented having its hands tied in advance.

Naturally Britain would carry out her obligations under the covenant, as she had never failed to honor her signature but it would not be wise to go too far in a precise definition of what exact amount of force we would bring to bear under circumstances, the exact nature of which it was impossible to foresee. It was well to keep a certain amount of elasticity where methods were concerned. Everything went back to what reliability could be placed in the signature of any nation, Lord Cushendun pointed out.

"Britain came out of the war with naval supremacy more unchallengable than ever since 1805," said Lord Cushendun. "From a desire for economy, but also in conformity with the Versailles Treaty, and not to have surplus strength, but to set an example to the world, we had acted perhaps somewhat precipitately in scrapping nearly two million tons of fine fighting material, cutting the personnel of the Navy, and reducing our most splendid arsenals. Similarly our air service at the close of the war was one of the finest in the world. We had scrapped it extensively, but now in view of scientific development and to keep pace with present day requirements, we have been obliged to revise the air service. The British Army had been reduced to such an extent that recently when it was necessary to send troops to China to protect British lives and property, difficultywas experienced in securing sufficient men. Hence Great Britain can come to the disarmament conference to-morrow and say she has already disarmed. This fact however, greatly weakens her tactical position at such a conference, as, if we still had the forces with which we came out of the war, it is clear what great bargaining power would be given us with the rest of the world, and we could make a tremendous demonstration for disarmament."

Source of Power Not Yet Revealed

TORONTO, Ont., December 2 (Canadian Press). — C. A. Maguire, member of the Ontario Hydro Commission, to-day declined to divulge the source of the power which it is proposed to purchase from a private interest in order to supplement the supply for the Central Ontario District east of Toronto.

"The matter is still under negotiation," he said. "If we get what we want it will be a good thing for the people." He denied that the purchase would mean a reversal of policy on the part of the Hydro.

Return True Bill Against Couple

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Dec. 3.—(Canadian Press)—George C. McDonald and his wife, Doris, charged with the murder of Adelard Bouchard, Lachine, Que., taxi operator, will face trial at the assizes here Tuesday, following the return of a true bill against them by the grand jury here yesterday.

Believes Two Powers Will Reach Agreement

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Lord Rothermere, publisher of The London Daily Mail, who arrived today on the liner Aquitania, said he believed that Great Britain and the United States eventually will reach an agreement on disarmament, the only means by which civilization can avert war. Lord Rothermere is on his way to Canada to look into the paper and pulp industry.

Criticizing the Geneva disarmament conference for not having made more progress, Lord Rothermere reiterated his stand for the return to Hungary of areas Hungarian in population but awarded to other nations following the Great War.

BRITAIN CAN'T CUT DEFENCES OR SIGN PACTS

Lord Cushendun Says She Reduced Forces To Limit After War.

ASKS OTHERS TO FOLLOW.

Disinclined To Enter More Agreements For Security of Europe.

GENEVA, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press) —The impression prevailed at Geneva today that Great Britain stands firm in her decision not to undertake any more obligations in relation to European peace. This impression arose from the explanation of Lord Cushendun, British delegate to the preparatory disarmament commission, to British newspapermen that Britain is disinclined to sign any more security pacts and is disarmed to the lowest possible point.

"At the end of the war," he said, "our navy was unchallenged, but we scrapped two million tons. The same thing has been done in regard to naval dockyards and air force. We had to revive our air force while the army was reduced to the level of an imperial police force."

Lord Cushendun said he believed that Great Britain might have disarmed too quickly after the war, leaving herself with nothing to bargain with. "We have done voluntarily," he declared, "what we are asking others to do. If we are stripped we can take off no more clothing."

Conference Adjourns

GENEVA, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press) —The preparatory disarmament conference, which opened November 30, adjourned today after Soviet Russia had suffered defeat in the selection of the date for the next meeting. Russia wanted the commission to meet again on January 10, but the commission put the date off until March 15.

Russia, however, will not bolt the disarmament discussions, despite the fact that the date of next meeting was not fixed in accordance with Russian desire. "Certainly we shall return to Geneva for the next disarmament meeting on March 15," Maxim Litvinoff, Russian delegate, said in response to a question about the Soviet attitude. "We have said we shall always attend meetings which promise to bring about disarmament. We are for disarmament first, last, and forever."

In declaring adjournment, President Loudon warned that disarmament must be built not on dreams, but on realities.

SUIT DISMISSED.

Chief Justice Finds No Evidence of Conspiracy in Sale.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Chief Justice Meredith yesterday dismissed the million dollar damage action instituted against the Hon. F. C. Biggs, and the Ontario Equitable Life Insurance Company. The plaintiffs claimed the policyholders organization was transferred to the Equitable Company for a consideration which was far below its true value. His Lordship found there was no evidence of conspiracy which the plaintiffs complained exists between the defendants and the late A. M. Featherson, general manager of the policy holders' company.

Princes Street in Edinburgh is said to be the most beautiful thoroughfare in Great Britain.

HIGHER FIGURE IS QUOTED FOR GARBAGE WORK

This Year's Contractors Want $1,760 More For Collecting Refuse.

NOT ACCEPTED.

Three Committees Dispose of Minor Business in Short Order Last Night.

"Too much money" was the verdict of the Property committee last night when the lowest tender for the collection of garbage was found to be $10,560. This figure, quoted by Anglesey and Withers, is $1,760 higher than this year's contract price, for which the same firm did the work. There have been additions to the area, but the aldermen felt that they did not justify such an increase. The only other tender, that of R. B. McLeod, was $11,500.

The possibility of the city taking over the collection of garbage itself either buying equipment and hiring men or hiring some of the other teamsters of the city, was brought out by Ald. McIntyre. This matter will be thought over by the aldermen between last night and Monday night, and Ald. Hancock, chairman of the committee, was instructed to interview Messrs. Anglesey and Withers to see if they will modify their figure.

A suggestion of the chairman that a press be obtained for packing up the tins from the incinerator into block, which might be used by the city for filling of various places, was considered. The mayor warned that the tins often are filled with glass when they are taken from the incinerator, and it would be impossible to crush them, but Ald. Hancock suggested that if the men knew they were to be baled they could rake out most of them when the garbage is dumped on the floor ready for putting in the fire. The matter was laid over for further information.

Three committee meetings were held last night within an hour. The first was the Finance committee whose meeting was almost entirely routine, dealing with the accounts and payments for indigent patients. It was decided that the bonds for the Collegiate extension will be issued at five per cent. Last month the suggestion of City Treasurer Frank Adams that the interest and sinking fund would be lower in thirty years if four and a half per cent bonds were issued was accepted. These would sell at a discount while the others would bring more than par, but the difference in the amount issued would not offset the saving. However, the difficulty of getting the Department of Education to consent to the change, which would probably mean the issuing of a larger amount of debentures, was considered, and the original course agreed on.

RICHARDS CLOSES AT GRAND TO-NIGHT — FINAL ANSWERS

The following is the final installment of answers Richards, the famous magician, has given the Examiner. An avalanche of questions poured in during the last two days, making it impossible for Richards to answer them all in the alloted space. However all the questions were answered in the exact order in which they were received, first come, first served. The early questions in, naturally receiving the preference. Richards closes his engagement at the Grand Opera House tonight with his big amazing show of wonders, thrills, girls, music, dancing and mystery, which is the largest and finest attraction of the kind ever brought to this city and who have not already witnessed this unusual show should avail themselves of this last opportunity. Richards will also be glad to answer your questions at the Grand to-night. If you sent your question in early your answer should appear below. Questions from out of town have received the same attention as local queries:

RICHARDS

H.R.H.—Where in my Aunt Katherine now living?

Ans.—She and her "new" husband are living at 1631 Compton Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

C.S.—Will I ever make the trip I have in mind?

Ans.—You will be able to take this trip in about seven more months.

F.F.—Will I ever be really happy, and will I marry again?

Ans.—This is due to your state of mind, and if you will be more determined I see a brighter future for you, also an opportunity to re-marry during the next year, and would advise that you accept.

A.G.—Would we be more successful here than in Michigan?

Ans.—You will do better here, as your particular line of work is overcrowded there, and you will have better business opportunities here.

L.D.—I have lost a bunch of keys. Where are they?

Ans.—The keys are hanging in the lock on your tool box.

M.J.—Will I stay here very long?

Ans.—You will leave here about the last of February and go to Akron, Ohio.

M.B.K.—I am in love with a boy, but he doesn't seem to care for me? Will he ever care more?

Ans.—I advise you to give up any serious thoughts of him. You will meet another young man early next summer with whom there will be a far more mutual understanding.

OHIO STATE TAKES LEAD IN CATTLE AWARDS

HIGH PRICES AT SALE.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan Highest in Shire and Clydesdale Competition.

CHICAGO, December 3 (Canadian Press). — Horses, cattle, and swine of noble breeds from Canada, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa and Illinois had their innings of glory at the International Live Stock Exposition as it neared conclusion yesterday. They romped away with virtually every blue ribbon and championship remaining.

In the Shire and Clydesdale horse competition, the Canadian provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Michigan State College and Illinois won premier honours. Manitoba won three championships and one blue ribbon; Saskatchewan won two championships and three blue ribbons; Michigan State won three championships, and Illinois won the grand championship mare competition in the Shire class with "Model Girl," owned by H. W. Matern, of Lostant, Illinois.

An Iowa farmer, I. C. Lister, of Pulaski; the Franz brothers, and Mrs. James Franz & Sons, of Mount Cory, Ohio, and the Cudahy Bros. Company, of Cudahy, Wis., were the outstanding individual winners of the day.

Scored Almost Grand Slam.

The Cudahy Bros. scored almost a grand slam in the Yorkshire swine competition, exhibiting the grand champion sow and boar, the junior champion boar and sow, and the senior champion boar titles. They took six blue ribbons out of ten events in that class.

Mount Cory, Ohio, continued in long reign as the Galloway cattle metropolis of North America when its entries, owned b yFranz Bros. and Mrs. Franz & Sons, easily won all the honors and championships in that class.

Because of these victories, Ohio scored ahead of all states in cattle awards yesterday, winning 24 blue ribbons and six championships. The victory ensured Ohio exhibitors runner-up honors for the most blue ribbons of the exposition. Iowa clinched the lead two days ago by a wide margin.

Indiana farmers also shone yesterday, winning five blue ribbons and two championships in the swine competition. The championships were won by James H. Williams, of Bryant, Ind., who placed the reserve grand champion spotted Poland boar and the junior champion boar in that division.

Auction sales were concluded yesterday. Results indicate pure-bred beef still leads in demand. The Shorthorn average under the nammer was $596.75, while Herefords averaged $489.23. Aberdeen-Angus breeds averaged $286.67. Fifty-one bulls of the three breeds realized an average of $617.45. The ninety-nine head of cattle sold at the three sales averaged $465.75.

SMITH SETS DATE FOR SNYDER TRIAL

Wishes To Settle All Capital Cases Beefore January First.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 3.—Governor Smith has fixed the date for hearing the appeals of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, convicted of the murder of Albert Snyder, for Dec. 29. No application for a hearing has been filed with the Governor, who said he wished to dispose of the remaining capital cases before he becomes too busy with the work of the Legislative session. He proposes to settle all these matters before Jan. 1.

On Dec. 8 the Governor plans to hear the appeal of Peter A. Seiler, 21 years old, of New York, who is charged with killing a policeman. The case of George Ricci, Brooklyn murderer of the man who he believed caused his discharge as janitor of an apartment house, will be heard at the same time.

Pleas for the lives of Charles J. Doran, Albany murderer of Raymond Jackson, and Louis Mason, condemned to death for the murder of a Buffalo restaurant keeper, will be heard Dec. 28.

In fixing these tentative dates Governor Smith is departing somewhat from his custom of having the appeals made a few days before the date set for the execution.

OPEN COMPETITION AT Y.P.U. MEETING

Girls Give First Night's Entertainment in Young People's Competition.

OMEMEE, Dec. 2—Monday night's meeting of the Young People's Union of Trinity United church was decidedly interesting, it being the first half of a competition between the girls and the boys as to which side could furnish the best evening's entertainment. The meeting was in charge of Miss Violet McBain, who run off a spicy programme consisting of choruses, readings, piano solos and piano duets. Next Monday evening, the young men will hold forth and judging by their enthusiastic meeting following Monday's program their entertainment promises to be A1. The judges for the two events are Miss Ross, Mr. D. Weir and Mr. O. R. Stalter.

"Lena Rivers"

Those who were privileged to attend the play entitled "Lena Rivers" put on by a group of young people from Salem under the auspices of L.O.L. 113, Omemee, on Friday evening enjoyed the programme through out. Each character acted his or her part to perfection and the general delivery was splendid. The attendance was not as large as it might have been had there not been so many activities during the week.

DOTY RELEASED

ORAN, Algeria, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press). — Bennett J. Doty, of Belexi, Miss., released yesterday from the Foreign Legion, is in good health and spirits.

"I will be home for Christmas," he kept repeating after he gained his freedom as a sequel to his pardon for desertion and return to his regiment.

CARD PARTY HELD.

Social Under Auspices of St. John's Church, Keene, is Well Attended.

KEENE, Dec. 3.—St. John's Catholic church of Keene held a very successful progressive euchre party on Friday night last.

About two hundred and seventy-five attended, cards being played until about eleven o clock, after which the Roy Francis orchestra provided music for dancing.

Refreshments were also served during the intermission.

Mrs. Howard Anderson was the winner of the lucky number prize while O. O'Toole received the winner's prize and John Edwards the consolation prize.

LEGION NOTES

The mammoth draw of the Canadian Legion which will take place on the 21st inst. is creating much interest. The prizes, a Chesterfield suite, valued at $175.00 together with a Chesterfield table, Chesterfield lamp, cedarchest, Kenwood blankets and a silk bed spread, as 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th prizes, are now on show at the Canadian Departmental Stores. In addition to the major prizes five geese will be given away to the lucky holder of tickets.

The chairman and members of the Euchre Committee intend to make this event one of the biggest of the season, and Wednesday, December 21 will likely see one of the greatest crowds that has ever gathered at the Legion Hall, the ticket holders will have a crowded evening, having the option of playing cards or dancing, or both if desired, the charge of admission being 50c, which entitles them to the draw on the many splendid prizes as indicated upon the tickets now on sale.

The major prizes will be on show this week and next at the Canadian Departmental Stores, and all those who have not yet got a ticket for the euchre and dance on December 21st are advised to stop and take a glance in the window at these prizes and make sure of getting a ticket before it is too late. There are many more tickets to be sold and the patrons are asked to remember that their purchase of a ticket will be the means of helping some one who is unable to help himself, and will perhaps help to make a merry Christmas for those in need. Help us to help them that are now suffering as a result of their sacrifice to their country.

A LEADER.

Pontiac Six Enjoying Great Public Preference.

The growing popularity of the Pontiac Six has become quite evident for some time. The increasing numbers seen on the public streets is proof positive that the performance and durability of this car is its best advertisement. Registrations for the Province of Ontario for the month of October as compiled by Might's Directory, show that Pontiac was away ahead in the list of registrations for the month. It sold ninety-nine cars more than its nearest competitor in its price field, which was an increase of 50 p.c. over the next in its price field.

POLES ACCUSE LITHUANIANS OF MOBILIZING

Kovno Government Attempted To Force State of War, Says Premier.

CALLS FOE "INSANE."

Is Determined To Follow a Pacific Policy in Crisis.

WARSAW, Dec. 3.—(A.P.)—On the eve of his departure for Geneva, Premier Pilsudski, of Poland, charged Lithuania with mobilizing her army in an interview given to Polish Telegraph Agency, and that he himself, only after a night of deep thought, decided not to mobilize the Polish army in return.

The Premier said he decided to wait instead for the answer of the Council of the League of Nations to the Polish note and that he was determined to follow a pacific policy in the crisis.

The Polish Premier said:

"When an initiative which was not ours carried this matter to the League of Nations, the Waldemaras Government (of Lithuania) became so nervous and excited that it proceeded to mobilize the army. Having learned that I spent the whole night seeking a decision I could not ignore the consequence of our delayed mobilization.

"Though knowing that victory would unquestionably be ours, I trembled to think that war threatened part of our country which would be invaded if I came to its succor too late.

"War's logic demanded mobilization as an answer, with accelerated working in order not to let the adversary take the lead, because each hour lost could mean loss of life and property for large numbers of our population. Considering a state of war imposed upon us by Lithuania, I, for a long time, deeply meditated about the moment in which I would have to give a decisive answer.

"This time the question of a state of war was carried into the international field, where pacific tendencies prevail. Thus I decided to follow the logic of this situation and reasons of state, and the next thing I declared to the French Ambassador that I would not mobilize, waiting for an answer from the council of the League of Nations to our note.

"I consider it my duty to tell you of the circumstances which rendered my decision not to mobilize particularly difficult. The mental state of Waldemaras makes me anticipate anything because I believed him irresponsible.

"When obliged to negotiate with Warsaw he declared Lithuania in a state of war with us and that Poland in order to terminate this state of war should make concession as if she had lost a war. One could have taken that for mere insolence, but in one of his recent complaints Waldemaras maintains that Pilsudski by his trip to Vilna, where he was born and where his family lives, threatened the very existence of Lithuania.

'I should be most obliged to him for the compliment which would testify to the supernatural powers of my person were it not clear that such arguments border on the insane asylum.'

OMEMEE, Dec. 2.—The Omemee A.Y.P.A. held a missionary evening on Monday evening. In order to conform to the missionary topic a set of lantern slides about the settlers from England had been procured. The pictures drew attention to the manner in which the church looks after those coming from the old land, pointing out how Canada benefits from the white settlers.

WOMAN ACQUITTED.

Found Not Guilty of Murder of Her Husband.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 3.—(Canadian Press).—A pale, dark-eyed twenty-three year old woman who for nearly two weeks has been on trial here for murder of her husband, Theodore R. Gibbons yesterday was acquitted by the verdict of a jury which took ten hours to reach decision.

Woman, Mrs. Gertrude Gibbons, mother of five-year-old boy, broke down and wept with joy as the foreman reported the verdict. Theodore Gibbons was found slain in a well at Swansea last May. Mrs. Gibbons, who admitted on the stand that she had lived for six months with Antone Da Silva, was jointly indicted with Da Silva for murder. The State contended that Gibbons was lured to a lonely farm in a desolate section of Swansea and there killed by Da Silva.

Da Silva was never brought to trial. He is in the state insane asylum. Mrs. Gibbons denied all knowledge of the crime.

The NEW CAR

INTRODUCING A FINE CAR IN THE LIGHT CAR FIELD

THIS entirely new car surpasses the accepted standards of light car accomplishment; sweeps aside all boundaries of price class; establishes a new standard of acceleration, speed, power and smoothness. Heretofore the following characteristics have been combined only in expensive cars.

Speed—better than a mile a minute.

Acceleration—5 to 25 miles per hour in high gear in 8½ seconds.

Endurance—this car will travel all day at 50 miles per hour without strain on motor or chassis.

Riding comfort—flexible springs and four hydraulic shock absorbers permit comfortable travel at high speed over the roughest road.

Roadability—this car's low center of gravity holds it snugly to the road on an unbanked turn even at high speed.

Power—in deep, loose sand with the front wheels cramped and from a dead stop, the car will turn in a tight circle, forward or reverse, without effort.

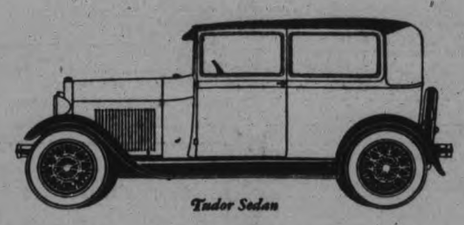
Effective braking—the instant response of mechanical, four-wheel brakes with dual control ensures positive braking for any emergency.

Positive steering control—A relaxed hand on the steering wheel will hold the car steady in loose sand and over bumpy roads. Turning radius 17 ft.

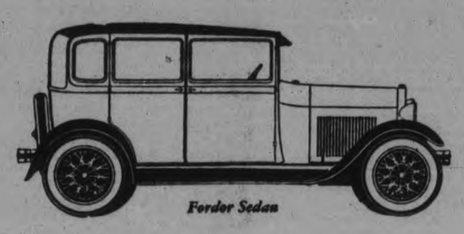
Economy—30 miles per gallon of gasoline, plus the well known economies of Ford car maintenance.

Appearance—coach work of pleasing proportions, tastefully finished in an extensive range of color combinations of durable satin lacquer.

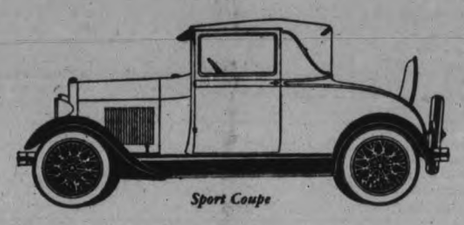
Quietness—Vibration in the engine is practically negligible. New final drive is exceptionally quiet. Double-ply anti-squeak tape, asphaltum treated fabric and hardwood blocks between body and frame minimize body noises.



Tudor Sedan



Fordor Sedan



Sport Coupe

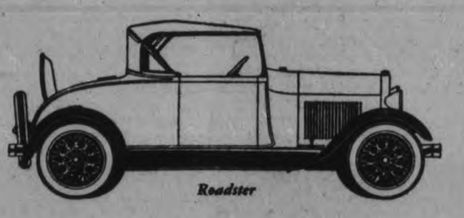
Phaeton



Roadster

Engine—At 2200 revolutions per minute the new four cylinder engine develops 40 H. P. This revolution speed is low for such power and sets an entirely new standard for light car speed and acceleration, enduring quality and operating economy.

Cooling system—Combination water pump and Ford thermo-syphon system doubly insures ample radiation. Engine warms up quickly but will not overheat.

Electrical system—The new Ford designed distributor is placed on top of engine permitting direct connection to spark plugs by means of short bronze bands. The single coil is protected by a water proof case. Co-incidental lock on ignition circuit is theft proof. The powerful starting motor and dependable generator are both of Ford design.

Clutch and transmission—Patterned after the famous Lincoln, these units give an operating ease never before found in moderate priced cars. The nine plate multiple dry disc clutch and the selective transmission are designed to make shifting of gears remarkably easy and simple. Getaway, unexcelled by any car made today, is just one of the many advantages. Three speeds forward and one reverse. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. The only light car in which transmission shafts are mounted on ball and roller bearings.

Rear axle—The axle shaft itself carries no weight as the ¾ floating principle places the weight of the car on the axle housing. Flexible roller bearings minimize rear wheel friction. A Torque Tube drive and spiral bevel gear are additional features.

Springs—Transverse semi-elliptic design. Relieved of all driving strain, they perform the sole function of cushioning road shocks. The transverse type of spring helps to prevent a large amount of frame distortion, makes four-wheel brake operation more efficient, gives easier steering and reduces unsprung weight.

Chassis lubrication—Alemite-Zerk pressure system.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

Ever since there were such civilized accessories as handkerchiefs Santa Claus has included millions of them in his Christmas consignments. And so much much a custom has it become to give handkerchiefs for Christmas that most women are really disappointed when they receive none. At present a handkerchief is much more than a mere nose convenience.

Centuries ago when the French first found a name for the handkerchief they called it a "mouchoir"—using their verb moucher, which simply means to blow the nose. The English name was derived from the fashion of carrying a handkerchief in the hand—frequently purely ornamental handkerchiefs that one would not have thought of using any more than one now would use the ornamental handkerchief, the corners of which protrude from the pocket of the tailored jacket. And now the fashion of carrying handkerchiefs in the hand has been revived among some smart women.

Dainty crepe de chine or georgette handkerchiefs with lace corners are chosen for evening by many women, and for purely ornamental purposes one of these may be knotted about the right wrist or thrust under a bracelet. Anyway, almost every woman likes some dainty lace-trimmed handkerchiefs for evening wear and many of them have already been chosen for Christmas gifts.

Colored handkerchiefs are as much in favor as ever and every shop seems to have some unusual sorts to tempt the Christmas shopper. But remember that if you want your Christmas handkerchief to be personal it should bear the initial of the name of the one to whom it is sent—if it is to show unusual personal consideration it should have the linked initials of first, middle and last names. These initials will be worked on handkerchiefs at some of the shops, and the additional cost is not great when one considers the personal touch that it adds to the gift.

Bob's cryptic words, which he refused to explain, kept Faith awake a long two hours. Bob could mean nothing but that he believed Cherry and Nils had fallen in love on sight. But for once she could not agree with Bob. Hadn't she seen Cherry falling in love scores of times? And had Cherry ever acted like this before? Why, the man repelled her! She had not even been decent to him. Always, when Cherry was falling in love, she became more sparkling, more scintillant, more beautiful than ever. And with Nils Cherry had been pale, almost homely, except for that queer moment of anger in which she had stamped her foot and called him a bully and a tyrant.

Bob was already engrossed with his morning paper and his grape fruit when Cherry did enter the dining room, slipping in so noiselessly that Faith, who was craning her neck to read a sensational headline, did not know her sister was at the table until she heard Rhoda's oddly hesitant and sympathetic greeting:

"Good morning, Miss Cherry. Do you want French toast or plain? I've made both."

"Neither, Rhoda. Just some coffee and orange juice, thank you," Cherry answered in a listless voice.

Faith could not keep from staring at her sister with open dismay, for Cherry that Thursday morning was hardly recognizable. She was like a flamboyantly bright picture that has been faded in a too-strong sun. There was no rouge on her cheeks or lips; even the glory of her copper-and-gold curls, raked carelessly back from her forehead, was dimmed. There were shadowy smudges beneath her flat, lustreless eyes, golden no longer, but the color of tarnished brass. And her little body, drooping dispiritedly in her chair, seeming actually to need the support of her hand upon her cheek, was clad somberly in her least becoming dress—a sheenless black crepe that she had worn only once or twice after her mother's death.

"Are you ill, darling?" Faith's voice was rich with concern.

"No, of course not!" Cherry answered pettishly. "Rhoda, there's the doorbell. Will you answer it, please?"

Rhoda went to the door and returned with a large florist's box.

"It's for you, Miss Cherry," Rhoda gasped.

Cherry's pale face flooded with sudden color. She snatched the box from Rhoda's hands and tore off the purple ribbon with which it was tied. Bob lowered his paper, his eyes quizzical, his mouth quirked with an understanding grin, which broadened when Cherry lifted out a sheaf of magnificent golden-yellow roses. And he only raised his eyebrows significantly to Faith when Cherry, after reading the attached card, dropped the roses back into their box as if their thorns had pricked her.

"Please tell your brother that I detest yellow roses," Cherry said to Rhoda as she rose abruptly from the table, leaving the flowers behind, but taking the card with her. "Bob, I'm going out with Bruce Patton tonight. He's calling for me at eight, and I warn you now you'd better be decent to him."

Bob laughed, and Cherry flashed a look of hatred at him.

HOROSCOPE
The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SUNDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1927

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology, which reads for midday the domination of malefic aspects.

The sway is fairly promising for the churches and those who officiate in them.

There is a promising sign for well-established faiths and for ancient beliefs, since the world again is to turn to religion, if the seers are to be trusted.

Under this rul of the stars there may be a spread of wrong ideas among the people. Old prejudices between nations again may be awakened.

Mars is in an aspect read as threatening to world peace and encouraging to warlike preparations.

The evening is favorable for intellectual leadership and the clergy should benefit.

All the signs appear to indicate renewed interest in books and literary workers should greatly benefit.

Warning is given that in the month which brings thoughts of peace and good will, Saturn has power to disturb nations.

New dictators are foretold for Europe and one who has ruled may meet a violent death.

Repeated warning is given that severe storms of unprecedented violence may be expected on the Atlantic ocean.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of good luck in employment.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly successful all through life, but they may be too fond of sports.

FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1927

This should be a fairly lucky day, according to astrology which finds that benefic aspects dominate in the configuration for this date.

There should be keener foresight and better judgment under this sway than usually prevails.

It is a time to study business conditions and to plan wisely for the new year.

Women are subject to adverse influences that may thwart their efforts in public affairs.

This is not a favorable date for weddings since it seems to presage disappointment for the ambitious.

Theatres may experience uncertain business today, which is not an auspicious time for presenting new plays.

The cost of tickets for dramatic productions probably will be a subject for widespread protest under this planetary government.

The evening of this day should be an auspicious time for entertaining, especially at musicales or opera.

All the signs presage prosperity for those who follow the artistic professions.

It is well to take note of the predictions concerning the two eclipses of this month which augur ill for winter weather.

Again storms that wreck ships at sea are foretold and there is the prophecy of more earthquakes.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have many disturbing experiences in the coming year which nevertheless will be fortunate.

Children born on this day may have many ups and downs in life, but the subjects of this sign usually succeed in scientific work. Many physicians are subject to this sign.

FLORAL TRIBUTES SENT BY STUDENTS
Holders of Beaverbrook Scholarships and School Teachers Show Sympathy.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Fifteen students of the University of New Brunswick, both men and women, who are holders of Beaverbrook Scholarships, have united in contributing a floral tribute to the late Lady Beaverbrook, who died on Thursday and was buried today in England.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and neals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flue. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RICHARDS CLOSES AT THE GRAND

M.M.—Will my son and his wife go back together again?

Ans.—Tell your son to use the initiative, and she will live with him again, and if they will have a little better mutual understanding of their domestic affairs, they will not separate again.

L.V.C—Will my husband's new invention be successful?

Ans.—Fairly so, but he will do better to sell his patent rights than try to produce himself.

M.B.—Would I be more successful as a bookkeeper than a teacher?

Ans.—I advise you to keep on teaching, as you would not do as well in an office position.

M.M.—I am a widow. Will I get the one I am interested in?

Ans.—Yes ,and a little later financial conditions will be better for you.

K.S.—Does the young man I keep company with intend to marry me or is he bluffing me?

Ans.—He is none too anxious to get married for some time. However, if you will use a little more tact in causing him to have greater interest in you, he will marry you. You will be fairly happy.

M.E.B. (Norwood, Ont.)—Will I finish school and do what I am expecting to?

Ans.—I advise you to go right ahead with this, as you will be quite successful.

F.M.—Who is the woman that my husband goes out with? Shall I leave him and go home?

Ans.—No need to leave your husband, as your trouble can easily be settled, although I cannot mention the woman's name in The Examiner, as she is too well known in Peterborough, but bring your question to the Grand Theatre to-night and I will give you her name and full details from the stage.

J.M.—When is my sister coming to Peterborough? Will she stay here?

Ans.—She will arrive next Friday and remain until the middle of January. You will receive a letter from her on Monday confirming this.

H.T. (Havelock, Ont.)—What shall Ido with a homestead I have in Alberta?

Ans.—I advise holding it for at least three more years, at which time you can make a highly satisfactory disposal.

N.G. (Millbrook, Ont.)—Will the job my husband and son took be satisfactory?

Ans.—They will do quite well with this, and late next year you will move from Millbrook.

C.E.M.—I have lost my opal ring. Where can I find it?

Ans.—Your sister Anna has your ring. She forgot to give it back to you before she left here for Toronto. Write to her and she will mail it to you.

This is Mr. Richards' last answer to readers of The Examiner ,and if your question did not get in, it was simply due to arriving too late for publication, as all questions were answered in the exact order received. First come, first served. However, Mr. Richards will be glad to answer you to-night at the Grand Opera House during the mental part of his massive big three hour mystery-musical-comedy production, which has made a tremendous hit in Peterborough, or private question blanks may be had at the theatre ticket office which will assure you a prompt and private answer.

WATERS FALL AS RAIN STOPS
Advent of Cold Weather Aids Ending of Flood in New York.

CANAL BOATS TIED UP.

ALBANY N.Y., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—New York State's floods and flood menace were disappearing today, aided by the advent of winter cold and almost complete cessation of the prolonged rainfall. In the western counties, silt covered streets and flats, bordering streams barely within their banks, told of recent flood conditions. Families driven from their homes in the counties today found them again livable and returned to clean up. The water had fallen away from railway tracks over which it swept during the peak of the flood and normal train service generally was resumed.

The run off of flood waters feeding into the Mohawk River and the lake in the barge canal system was one of the few indications of high water remaining today. It was estimated that at least 250 boats were tied up in the canal system awaiting resumption of traffic. The canal was closed officially for the season several days ago, but these vessels remaining in the canal were granted the privilege to steam clear before the freeze-up.

WAS SO NERVOUS and SHORT OF BREATH COULD HARDLY SLEEP

"I managed to keep at my work, somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I had to give up. I used many kinds of medicine, but found no help until I got a box of MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS. After the first box I found a great change, and after two boxes I was as well as I could be.

REBEKAH EUCHRE ATTENDANCE POOR

Rain and Ice Prevent Many From Coming To Party.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3.—The progressive euchre held by Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening was attended by about sixty guests, fourteen tables being in use for play. This was about half the usual attendance when the Rebekahs entertain, but encouraging considering the icy condition of roads and sidewalks, the all-day downpour of rain, and the extremely dark night making it all but impossible for members and friends living in the country to accept the invitation to be present.

The announcement of prize winners was made preceding the supper hour, Miss Lila Whyte taking the ladies' first and Mrs. Ivan H. Gray the consolation; Mr. R. Stone and Mr. W. Thorne were a tie for gentlemen's first, the latter winning the cut; the consolation went to Aubrey Fallis.

Music, and dancing for those who wished, completed the entertainment after the service of refreshments, bringing to a close a very enjoyable occasion.

The Rebekahs will entertain at a euchre before the Christmas season comes too near.

Wins Many Prizes.

Wesley Brown, on the Zion Line west of the village, was successful in carrying off a number of prizes at the Royal Winter Fair, including three firsts: early oats, late oats and field pumpkins. The third prize was won on fall wheat; 6th on timothy seed; 10th on red clover, and 5th on field peas.

There was forty-one entries in the late oats' class. Mr. Brown exhibited in eight classes and won seven prizes.

The annual "White Christmas" under the auspices of the Sunshine Mission Band, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, superintendent, will be held in the basement of the United church on Tuesday, December 13, at 8 p.m. when 'something to put on the tree' will be the price of admission.

The children are preparing a cantata, "Little Housekeepers", and there will be other items on a good program. The object in view is to teach the boys and girls the pleasure of giving, rather than receiving, gifts, and the parcels received will afterwards be packed and forwarded to Miss Hawken, missionary-teacher among the Ruthenian children at Wahstao, Alberta. They help to provide a Christmas tree for these little foreigners. A silver collection may be contributed by any attending who do not bring a gift for the tree.

Finds Steer Butchered In Summer Pasture

WARSAW, December 2.—Bringing cattle home this fall has resulted in a few disasters. One man got home with no trouble, but one steer objected to being tied, and jerked so that he broke his neck. Another had an animal die suddenly before he started to bring them out. Still another found a fine young steer had been butchered the hide, hindquarters and flesh from the forequarters taken, the head and the skeleton of forequarters thrown into a bush. Two other men went back to their ranches, two days in succession. Their cattle had got so wild they could not get them out. They will have to return to the job again.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

MADOC CHURCHES.

MADOC, November 30. — Rev. G. W. Rivers, pastor, preached at Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, taking as his subject "The Meaning of True Christianity." Sunday school met at ten o'clock under the leadership of James Keene.

The evening service opened with the singing of two or three familiar hymns. The subject taken was: "How do we respond to Visions?" taking St. Paul's declaration "I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." After giving St. Paul's experience Rev. Mr. Rivers dwelt on those of Pilate, Agrippa and Festus, then went on to those of more modern times.

At St. Peter's Presbyterian Church the pastor Rev. T. G. Marshall took as his subject in the morning: "One thing we must do." The Sunday school and Bible class met as usual an hour before the morning service.

In the evening a ten minute song service was held, and the address was the third of the series on famous women of the Bible: "Deboran."

The Holiness Movement Church still continues to hold special services.

The Ladies' Guild of the church of St. John the Baptist, held a very successful sale of fancy work and home cooking on Saturday afternoon. The sale was held in the furniture store by the kindness of Messrs. Tufts and Kelly. A splendid display of fancy aprons, embroidery and crochet work, etc., was made, and the cakes, pies, etc., all helped to draw a good crowd of customers, in spite of the almost steady downpour of rain.

LITERARY SOCIETY SEES FARM SLIDES

Pupils of Madoc High School Have Interesting Program.

MADOC, Dec. 3.—The High school Literary Society met as usual on Friday afternoon with a good attendance of staff and students.

After routine business and some hearty singing the principal item of the afternoon's program consisted of the showing of lantern slides, mostly relating to agriculture, including some excellent ones of horses and also some of different breeds of hens.

A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Foster of the staff for the excellent slides presented. The closing number was "May God Preserve thee Canada."

Last week the first of a series of addresses on the Fathers of Confederation was given. Mr. Albert Caskey took as his subject "Sir John A. Macdonald", and gave a very interesting and comprehensive talk.

The Madoc school decided to put on a motion picture show as soon as possible and elected Messrs. Donald Whytock, Albert Caskey and Miss Hazel Ross as a committee in charge of all arrangements.

The Misses Parker favored the audience with a fine vocal trio, and the meeting was closed by singing the High School song, "Madoc High School Colors."

WEDDING BELLS

MARTIN—GOLLOHER.

NORWOOD, Dec. 3.—In Peterboro on Tuesday, November 29, the marriage of Miss Teresa May Golloher, daughter of Mrs. Richard Golloher and Mr. Russel Martin, son of Mrs. Edward Martin took place. The young couple, who are both residents of Dummer, have the best wishes of a host of friends.

SANDERS—DINGMAN

CAMPBELLFORD, December 3. — A very quiet marriage ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. John's United Church at 8.15 yesterday evening, when Frances Ada, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Dingman, Raglan Street, became the bride of Perry Cecil Sanders, of Campbellford. The Rev. Ernest Harston was the officiating clergyman and Miss Alice Harston signed the register as official witness.

But quiet as the ceremony may have been, a large group of well-wishing friends were waiting to shower the newly-weds with confetti as they hurried from the parsonage to their waiting motor. They left for a brief honeymoon in Peterborough and Toronto, and upon their return will reside in town.

For some years the bride has been a valued member of the post office staff and was very popular with the general public through her gracious and pleasant manner of execution of her duties. It is understood that she will resume her duties till after the coming rush Christmas season, and her generous action is greatly appreciated by the authorities here, as this is a very inopportune time to attempt to initiate a new member.

Mr. Sanders has lived in Campbellford since early boyhood and has a large circle of friends. For some years he has been in the employ of the Hydro-Electric and upon his return will resume his duties along that line.

IONIC CHAPTER BANQUETS LADIES

Campbellford Masons Hold Annual Social Event.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 3.—The local Chapter, Ionic No. 108, Royal Arch Masons, paid tribute to the ladies in the form of a banquet and social evening last night. The entire program was carried out in their rooms, Queen Street, Long of Campbellford catering for the dinner. The ladies' banquet has become an annual affair, and is one of the functions which is eagerly anticipated for many weeks before it is another fond recollection of those fortunate enough to receive an invitation.

After the banquet and toasts there was a most enjoyable program with A. M. Rollo, E. J. Free, E. H. Greig, the Rev. Ernest Hartson, Cecil Searles, J. A. Allan, E. A. Bedford and G. A. Kingston as artists and speakers. J. O. Herity, Belleville, contributed much to the program and his entertainment was received, as usual, with thunderous applause. The toast to the ladies was proposed by Dr. O. C. Watson and responded to by J. O. Herity. Both men are gifted and witty speakers, and their remarks were greatly appreciated.

As an interesting feature, it might be recalled that Mr. Herity was presented with a magnificent cane by the local chapter. G. A. Kingston made the presentation, and his address was well worth hearing. It was a matter of great disappointment to his many friends that E. C. Clarke was unable to be present, but the Rev. Ernest Harston was an able substitute. Mr. Harston is one of those enviable persons who is always able to step into the breach and fill the bill. He is never at a loss for the proper thing to be done next.

At the conclusion of the program, the guests retired to another room and cards were the order till any one felt like taking their departure. As usual, the Chapter entertained the ladies royally, and this year it has added one more number to their long list of achievements.

London's pigeons, long regarded as an asset to the city, are now so numerous they are becoming a nuisance.

A. A. U. Approves "Class B" Reinstatement Applications

CAPITAL CITY BRANCH IS IN GOOD STANDING

Official Recognition of New Organization By A.A.U. of Canada.

EDMONTON MEETING.

Swimming Affiliation Under Discussion—Reinstatement Applications Read.

EDMONTON, Alta., December 3.—Most of the business transacted at the fortieth annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union meeting which convened here on Thursday, and which will last for three days, was transacted in committee during the afternoon session, with President J. A. McVicar in the chair.

In the morning the delegates, some fifty in number, were welcomed to the province and city by Premier J. E. Brownlee and Mayor A. U. G. Bury, and P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, replied.

The principal matter dealt with at the morning session was the resolution offered by the Quebec branch, and presented by E. H. Bourdon, calling for the re-establishment of the Ottawa Valley branch. This resolution brought forth considerable discussion, but finally the Quebec and Ontario delegates got permission of the chair to retire together for a few minutes and they reached an agreement in a very short time. As a result the branch was given official recognition.

The only other piece of business that brought out any discussion cropped up when a motion to approve of the actions of the officers and board of governors was presented. Some objection to the alliance of the Canadian Swimming Association and its affiliation with the A. A. U. came up for discussion later on.

Immediately on resuming after lunch, committees on registrations, records, and resolutions were appointed, and the different committees were engaged during the whole afternoon. Later, the general meeting was resumed when the annual reports of President McVicar and Secretary Lamb were accepted without discussion.

The real business of the convention got under way yesterday morning, when the recommendations of the different committees were presented.

Ottawa Branch Reorganized.

The question of the reorganization of the Ottawa Valley branch was dealt with. President McVicar introduced the subject. After the resolution had been submitted and spoken to by E. H. Bourdon of Montreal, and seconded by Charlie Higginbottom of Toronto, P. J. Mulqueen moved that the matter be shelved until the next meeting. Following a conference between the Quebec and Ontario representatives the matter was straightened out. The annual branch dues of a hundred dollars were promptly paid, and Mr Bourdon was seated as an accredited delegate.

The Swimming Affiliation.

When the motion to approve of the actions of the officers and boards of governors came up, a hitch developed in connection with the affiliation or alliance of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, with head quarters in Montreal. Eventually, a motion was passed that the actions of the officers and board of governors be concurred in, with the provision that the matter of the swimming association and its affiliation come before the meeting through the Resolutions Committee later on.

Big Year in Ontario.

President C. E. Higginbottom presented the report of the Ontario branch. He reported 8,433 athletes registered during the year, an increase of over 400. Mr. Higginbottom gave a comprehensive review of the year's work in the Province of Ontario under President Elwood Hughes, and added:

"The holding of the Canadian track and field championships in Toronto in August by the branch did a great deal toward stimulating interest, and much enthusiasm was displayed by the athletes and spectators on that occasion. Not since the war has there been an athletic meet which drew anything near the number of spectators as did the national championships, and the officers of the branch left no stone unturned in their efforts to make this set of championships a memorable event.

"The assistance given by the Canadian Olympic committee in helping to defray the expenses of the athletes from outside the privinces of Ontario and Quebec made this year's national meet one of the most representative gatherings of athletes which have ever been brought together on one field in Canada. We feel sure that the money was wisely spent and that the Olympic committee has in return gained a knowledge of the athletes from coast to coast which could be secured in no other way. So successful were the championships this year that we in Ontario feel that the Olympic committee might well consider the advisability of assisting in a similar manner each year. In doing so there would be a two-fold return. Not only would the Olympic committee have an intimate knowledge of ability of athletes of the Dominion, but the A.A.U. would gain financially in the percentage of the receipts which it receives from the organization holding the meet."

Delegates From East

Among the outstanding figures in attendance representing the East are: J. A. McVicar, president A.A.U., Winnipeg; Prof. T. R. Loudon, Toronto, Canadian oarsmen; P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, chairman Canadian Olympic committee; Dr. A. S. Lamb, Montreal, secretary A.A.U. of C.

Reinstatement Applications

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Out of seventy names submitted by different amateur athletic branches in the Dominion, only those players who are "Class B" athletics will in all probability receive their amateur cards.

All "Class B" athletes came up yesterday for approval at the general session of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. As the registration committee, of which H. W. Bellamy of Wetaskiwin is chairman, had approved of the reinstating of "Class B" athletes, the players will be granted their cards.

"Class B"—athletes are those men in the Dominion who, while carrying amateur cards have played with or against professional players and have not received any money. "Class A" athletes are those who have turned professional and who have admitted that they received money for their services while with a professional team.

Many applications for reinstatement, particularly in Alberta, were recommended by the registration committee, but could not definitely be passed upon owing to the fact that those making application for their cards had not submitted sufficient documents to show that they were "Class B" men.

Owing to the fact that the Canadian Olympic committee was to be in session late yesterday afternoon, and because the lists have not yet been issued by the secretary, it is impossible to publish the names of those who will receive their cards and those who have been recommended.

Several cases are yet to be heard.

There was considerable discussion over the case of Anthony Gratton, who formerly played pro hockey with the Saskatoon club, and who was recommended for reinstatement by the registration committee and the Ottawa Valley branch. Gratton, who is only 21 years of age, was given consideration by the registration committee under the "misguided youth" clause. But in open meeting his application was turned down.

Reports from the different branches and from affiliated bodies took up a larger portion of the morning session.

Practically every branch was reported in a flourishing condition and the same applies to most of the affiliated bodies.

Rivals Stage Scene At Railway Station

LONDON, Dec. 3. — (A.P.)—The rivalry between Mercedes Gleitz and Millie Hudson for the honor of first swimming the Strait of Gibraltar resulted in a little scene on the station platform yesterday as the best pair of Channel swimming stenographers in London left for Tangier.

Miss Gleitz, who has refused a challenge from Miss Hudson to race across the strait, repeatedly declined Miss Hudson's proffered hand shakes and embraces before news cameras.

"I am going on this swim for my fund for an institute for poor people and I am not seeking publicity," said Miss Gleitz.

"We shall see who will get across to Gibraltar first," retorted Miss Hudson.

Queens May Cancel Trip to the States

KINGSTON, Dec. 3.— (Canadian Press.)—Present indications are that Queens senior hockey team will be forced to cancel their proposed Christmas holiday trip to the States. Definite arrangements were made to play Yale at New Haven on December 31st, but negotiations with Boston College, Buffalo, and two other American teams can not be completed and it was felt at the University yesterday that the trip may have to be abandoned.

KINGSTON, Dec. 3.— (Canadian Press.)—Varsity Grads, Allen Cup holders, may play an exhibition game here in January, if present negotiations are completed. The Grads have signified their agreeing to a game with a local all-star team on either January 17 or 18 when they will be on their way to the Olympic winter sports. J. S. McDonell, manager of the Jock Harty Arena, is endeavoring to complete plans for the game.

INSIDE SPORTIN' DOPE

By A WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

If these here 1928 Petes, Mac, can move as fast on the ice as they has been doing this week we oughta see some greased lightning stuff when the season gets under way. Any team what can jump right outa the O.H.A. senior serious and back again inside 24 hrs. ain't no slouches. The boys deserve credit, Mac, for sticking to the ship. A lotta good men has drifted out, and the loss of young Mister McDougall was a blow right on the button, but the lads has decided they'd rather fight it out in the big serious than go back to the coaloil loop, and I for 1 don't blame them. After 3 or 4 years in the majors, Mac, it would be kinda tough dropping down to the small rinks and scant publicity of the intermediate serious. Of course, Mister McDougall woulda been a big help. The Shrimp knows his hockey groceries, and he woulda been mighty useful engineering plays up on the Petes' forward line, but they ain't no use crying over lost Shrimps, and the boys is fulla fight and determined to battle it out to the last ditch. That spirit oughta be a big help to them when they drop over the boards for their 1st set-too.

Mister Lebarr's youngsters did about as much as could be expected in the S.P.A. serious. Them lads from Newmarket, helped out, they say, by 3 or 4 young fellows borrowed from Bradford, had been on ice ½ dozen times before the clash, and naturally they had a big edge on the young Petes. A old hockey expert at the Arena said it all when he yapped that no race horse was ever ready for a race what had been standing 7, 8 months in the barn.

I didn't have no money on Balmy Beach, Mac, but I couldn't have been more tickled if I had when I heard the bird over the radio say the game was over and the Beachnuts had win. I ain't got nothing again the Tigers, but them birds has been up there plenty, while the Balmies has been putting up a great fight yr. after yr. without much encouragement, and I'm sure the customers is glad they finally made it. By the way, Mac, what a swell pair of football stars was spoiled to make grade 2 pro. hockey players when Mister Foster and Mister Cawkell jumped into the professional ranks right after the finals. Neither of them birds never set the ice on fire, and it's a safe bet they'll be finding the going in the cash and carry bowcoop heavy. You didn't think I could talk French, did you? Well, you was right at that.

The sr. Petes ain't going to play in the S.P.A. finals. Anyway, it woulda give the Grads a kinda blackeye to be licked before they leave for Europe, and the Petes is too kind-hearted to want to take the joy outa life for the Lumnis. I see where Mister Bunny Morganson of The Telegram says the Grads is going to sail from Montreal in January. They'll sure make history if they get an ocean-going vessel outa that port next month. Mebbe Mister Morganson meant they was going to skate around from Montreal to Halifax.

Well, Mac, I gotta date to look over the new Ford. I wanta to see if it's the kinda car I'd like to ride in if some of the customers ask me for a ride.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

WHEN the salesman representing a General Motors car visits you, he comes armed with facts of unmistakable interest—facts which you should know before you select a motor car. He will tell you about the greater value and satisfaction of Body by Fisher—the all important story of engineering and manufacturing leadership which every car owner should hear. Once learn about Fisher bodies—about their safety construction, their greater value, comfort, beauty—and you will surely choose a General Motors car which bears the emblem "Body by Fisher". General Motors of Canada, Ltd., has just announced new cars of incomparable beauty, performance, comfort, and durability—each offering the advantage of Body by Fisher.

Roof—In every Fisher Body strength is built into the roof construction by a lattice work of slats and bows, covered with durable, weather-resisting and sound-reducing material, which eliminates "drumming" noise.

Plate Glass—Crystal plate—or thick window glass—is now used in Fisher Bodies. The diamond-like polish of the genuine plate glass used in every Body by Fisher affords perfect clarity of vision—another highly desirable safety feature of every Fisher Body.

Composite Construction—Affording flexibility, durability, and greater strength. The wood reinforces the steel, and the steel reinforces the wood.

VV Windshield—The Fisher Vision-and-Ventilating windshield affords an unobstructed view through a single pane of plate glass, which may be raised or lowered vertically with one hand while the car is in motion. This type of windshield assures perfect ventilation and complete protection in every kind of weather.

THROWN STICK PROVES COSTLY

Windsor Loses Game By Goal Awarded For Foul Tactics.

CAN. PRO. RESULTS.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 3.—Kitchener Millionaires are leading the parade in the Canadian Professional Hockey League as a result of their 3—2 victory over Windsor in an overtime game that came to an abrupt end after three minutes of extra play. Referee Sandercock gave the winning goal to the Millionaires when Bellemer threw his stick just as Ripley was about to shoot from point-blank range. The fans didn't know what had happened, nor did the Hornets until they followed the victors into the dressing rooms and heard the details.

Ravinas 6; London 2

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 3.—The London Panthers had a two-goal lead at the end of the first period of their joust with Toronto Ravinas last night, but they couldn't hold it in the face of the extra notch of speed and the accurate passing game, backed up by a seemingly inexhaustible supply of the stamina of youth that Frank Selke's youngsters turned against them, and after seeing the score tied at 2—2 in the second period, they were scared into a state of disorganization and partial exhaustion in the third period that gave the visitors four more counters and a 6—3 verdict.

Stratford 2; Niagara Falls 0

STRATFORD, Dec. 3.—Stratford turned in a 2 to 0 victory over Niagara Falls last night in a hard-fought battle in the "Canpro" League. The score just about indicates the play. The first period was almost neutral, but Stratford had the advantage in the second and third frames. Peculiar to this, however, all the scoring was done in the initial period, Fournier notching both tallies.

TRIALS OF INDIGESTION.

Errors About This Trouble Into Which People Fall.

Many people so far misunderstand the digestive system as to treat it like a machine; neglecting it until it works sluggishly, then irritating it into work again by the use of purgatives. The stomach needs help at all times, but a study of the process of digestion will show that purgatives as commonly taken, are seldom necessary and often harmful.

To safeguard your digestion the diet must be controlled. Over-eating is always harmful, but one must assimilate enough food to supply the needs of the blood. Remember, the blood has to carry nourishment to all parts of the body and find fuel for its energy. Hence when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises. Therefore the sure remedy for indigestion is to build up the blood. If you suffer from any form of indigestion choose your diet carefully and take wholesome nourishment. Above all, start building up your blood by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then under the influence of the new blood supply, your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite improve and your food will do you good. So begin to improve your digestion by starting to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now.

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOOD PROGRAM FOR MUSIC CLUB

Miss Myrtle Hare, Contralto, of Toronto, is Visiting Artist.

LOCAL LADIES PLAY.

(By Jeanette.)

The fortnightly meeting of the Women's Music Club, held yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, was well attended and was marked by a very pleasing programme. Miss Myrtle Hare, contralto soloist of Toronto, with Miss Mary Harstone in pianoforte solo numbers, and Miss Mary Agnes Logan in accompaniment to the songs, provided a very enjoyable afternoon for the members.

Miss Hare is possessed of one of the loveliest contralto voices heard here in many years. It is an entrancing voice used with a rare, distinctive style, full of luscious shadows in its low tones, and sweet, clear and vibrant in the soaring upper register, whose approach reminded one of the effortless satisfying singing of a bird. It is a delight to hear such a voice, used as Miss Hare uses it, with a charming, unaffected simplicity and graceful presentation, that adds much to its rare beauty of timbre.

The songs sung in Italian and German were perhaps the best of a very fine programme of vocal numbers. In the English songs, it was hard to get the words.

Three Italian songs formed the opening group, in an aria of Handel's composition, "Care selve," the velvety smoothness of the rich voice having a free range in this typical bit by the great master, which was followed by a little lullaby in "Fa La Nana Bambin," by Sadero, and "Se Tu Mimi," by Pergolese, illustrative of this musician's sweetness and freedom of style. A quality of effective, unforced interpretation characterized all of Miss Hare's work.

"A May Night," by Brahms, was a beautiful thing of soaring, sweet melody, followed by two compositions by a modern Granville Bantock, in "Lament of Isis," the cry of the bereft one, and "Adrift," with a superb rendition of Russian music, in Tschaikowsky's "Was I not a Blade of Grass?" an example of the mordant, weird, sombre music of the Slav, rendered with intense, dramatic impressiveness.

Leo Smith, a Toronto musician and 'cellist of note, had a place on the programme in two oddly-atmosphered songs of his composition: "Oranges —Sweet Oranges," a fantastic bit of vocalism, and "Imogen's Wish," a song of vernal sweetness.

Two songs in German concluded the vocal programme, with a repetition of the last number as an acknowledgment of the enthusiastic applause which followed its rendition, and also marked each of the earlier offerings. These were Schubert's "Haiden-Roselin," a dainty bit of joyous sweetness, acclaiming the attraction of the "little meadow rose," full of simple, expressive melody, and Schumann's "Ich grolle nicht," an individual bit of composition in words descriptive of the singer's humour of the moment, and phrased in low, rich tones.

The piano numbers by Miss Mary Harstone were a delightful addition to the vocal programme, and were played with a facile ease and evident thorough mastery of technical difficulties that made them very pleasing. A splendid interpretation was given of music of a varying type in J. A. Carpenter's "American Polonaise," a brief, bright opening number, in a dreamily, soft, smoothly - flowing composition by Lisst, entitled "Annees de Pilgrimage," ("Years of Pilgrimage") and a "Fantasie Impromptu," by Chopin, illustrative of the great master's whimsical treatment of a vagrant, floating melody. Repeated applause followed the conclusion of Miss Harstone's group of numbers.

Miss Mary Agnes Logan contributed her proficient, satisfying touch to the vocal programme in the piano accompaniments played by her for Miss Hare's songs.

The president of the Club, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, in introducing Miss Hare, spoke of the winning by her of the degree of L.T.C.M. at the age of seventeen years, also of the gold medal from the Conservatory of Music in Toronto, won in contest with the entire Dominion.

Mrs. Allan asked the members to patronize the sale of Christmas seals by the Health Association, and spoke of the programme for the Christmas Musicale which will be in accord with the season, and will be featured by an address to be delivered by Judge Huycke.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

"MOTHER."

Belle Bennett, who created history with her superb work in "Stella Dallas," has added new laurels with her magnificent performance in "Mother," coming to the Regent Theatre. "Mother" is a simple and wholesome, yet absorbing, story of a woman who sacrifices herself for her family, only to find them growing away from her when prosperity arrives, and Miss Bennett's artistry makes her literally live the part.

Few pictures in recent months have achieved such a powerful effect as does this straightforward but intensely dramatic film. As a study of the results of too much success and too much jazz, it is thoroughly worth while, and with the crowning touch of Miss Bennett's perfect interpretation and the support of a splendid cast, it is a masterpiece.

Much of "Mother's" appeal is due to the remarkable direction of J. Leo Meehan, the man who made the notable screen versions of Gene Stratton-Porter's "Laddie," "The Magic Garden" and "Keeper of the Bees." Meehan has an unusual flare for the "homey," natural type of story, such as both Mrs. Porter and Kathleen Norris, the author of the famous novel which suggested "Mother," wrote, and he has reached heights in his handling of the story values and the fearless presentation of the theme.

Crawford Kent heads the supporting cast ,and gives a superb portrayal of the architect who forgets his wife's share in his success. William Bakewell, a youngster of immense promise, is splendid as the wayward son, and little Joyce Coad, Mabel Julienne Scott, Charlotte Stevens and Sam Allen are perfectly cast in their respective roles. Dorothy Yost wrote an excellent adaptation and continuity of the story suggested by the Norris' novel, and Allen Siegler, the cameraman, deserves a word of praise for the marvelous photography.

ONTARIO HAS FIRST SURPLUS

Under the heading of expenditures the last provincial election cost $531,000. Upkeep of institutions and grants to hospitals, charities, and industrial schools increased by $539,000. Highway expenditures were $900,000 greater. Increased grants to education took an extra $326,000, increased expenditure on Northern Ontario roads required an additional $163,000 and the growth of the mothers' allowances also called for $137,000 over the total of last year. In the Prime Minister's Department the capitalization of rural Hydro bonuses required an extra $505,000 and in the Agricultural Department expansion of services called for an additional $100,000.

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they live happily together. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoir. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. Fabien, thinking her perfidious, returns to his studies. On the eve of his ordination Manon confronts him and pleads for his love.

"Manon, can you promise that you would never leave me a ain?" Fabien searched her eyes.

"Darling—I know—I swear it!" her eyes answered his.

The agitation and tumult that her nearness kindled in Fabien thrilled him with a kind of horror that made him experience the vague sense of being carried into a new existence.

That is exactly what was happening and it came about with such power that he could no longer resist the call. As Manon's fragrant nearness broke down his last spark of resistance, Fabien gathered her hungrily into his starved arms and strained er to him in a strong passionate embrace. His lips found hers and held them for a wonderful moment of complete forgetfulness.

"My dear, do you hear?" questioned Fabien happily. "Their ringing means my freedom, and yours!" He gathered Manon to him again for a brief ecstatic embrace, then removed his cassock and left it on the ground—the only part of him that was to remain within the narrow confines of the cloister walls.

To be together was all they asked, and since holding Manon in his arms Fabien had not had a moment's doubt about the wisdom of again relinquishing his vows for her.

They agreed that their present and future happiness was secure beyond the reach of Fate or the interference of man; and so with one arm about Manon's slim shoulders Fabien led her out into the world.

Where? They neither knew nor cared. Just what awaited them did not matter so long as they had each other.

CHAPTER XV.

Love with all its resulting pleasures is a wonderful thing, but unfortunately cannot be enjoyed for very long without enough money to insure food and shelter.

Fabien's hasty and unpremeditated departure from St. Sulpice did not leave time to think of money, and when he wanted to return for his purse Manon would not consider it. She feared complications and dreaded the thought of losing him again even for a moment. Anyway, the content of the purse would not have lasted long, for Fabien demanded nothing in the way of worldly goods while at St. Sulpice, and naturally his finances were never large. Now, however, money was as essential to their future as the food their bodies required.

Manon had salvaged enough from the odious but profitable days with the Comte De Ravoir to take care of them for some time. Of course she offered it immediately as a solution to their problem and was surprised when Fabien rebelled at the abhorent idea.

It took only a little explaining on Fabien's part to make her understand why they could not exist on the Comte's past generosity. Manon acceded to his wishes very graciously; in fact, nothing mattered now that they were together with the past all explained and buried away. She assigned herself unresignedly to Fabien's care and instinctively knew that in some way he would provide everything her heart desired.

Fabien was even more sure of this than Manon. He had lost her once because he was so absorbed in dreams of love that he ignored the material. Now he planned to provide for her even more lavishly than had the Comte, so that no odious comparison would ever make Manon unhappy or cause him to fall in her estimation as a man and provider.

The only means at hand was for Fabien to draw on his father and he did it with a heavy hand because he knew that after his parent had been notified a second call for funds would be refused.

To satisfy Manon's love for pleasure it seemed important that they should reside in Paris. She found a beautiful place that she wanted, consequently Fabien took it and they established themselves in gorgeous style with utter disregard for expense; nor did they take time from love making to think where more money would come from when their dwindling supply was exhausted.

They were enjoying a dream, and money never matters in dreams; so why should they have worried? Besides, all dreams end soon enough. It is stupid to attempt control, just give yourself up completely to the temporary oblivion and make the best of the rude awakening.

The flying weeks added a new radiance to love. Manon grew so sweet in her unceasing attentions to Fabien that he felt fully rewarded for his past troubles and changed plans. Her passion for jewelry and beautiful gowns went hand in hand with her love for amusement, and she soon discovered that Fabien gratified every whim.

Smart new friends became frequent visitors at the Des Grieux household. It happened that many of the same people who witnessed the dramatic scene between Fabien and Manon at the Gambling Club, annexed themselves to the host of friends and admirers. Strangely enough, one of the most faithful from this group was Nana. It may have been because she found Manon's salon the best place in Paris to meet interesting men, but we will give her credit for a flare of real friendship and add for good measure that she no longer treasured a grudge against Fabien—instead she openly admired him and would have given her soul to hold the place in his affections that Manon occupied. She openly and secretly, when occasion permitted, angled for his attention and her efforts were so untiring that Fabien often had to make excuses to get away from her.

Manon's boudoir was lovely beyond compare. Panelled walls of soft rose colored satin matched the exquisite hangings. All of her toilet articles were of crystal and gold, a gift from Fabien that made her lavish caresses on him for a whole hour. Abundant payment.

The bed was charming, but not more so than its occupant as the brightness from the mid-day sun filtered through the windows and shone brightly upon Manon as she sat there, banked with silken pillows, enjoying her breakfast chocolate, while Fabien, who had been up for hours, came in to watch her.

"Your hair is so soft and lovely," said Fabien, tenderly patting the mass of golden ringlets spread out on the pillows around her head. "I like you much better this way than in a formal wig. It reminds me of our first night in the attic room when I saw you asleep."

Fabien buried his face in Manon's curls and as her sweetness took possession of his senses he kissed her—many times—while she pillowed his head upon her breast and bowed her head in adorable submission.

A knock at the door warned them that it was time for Manon's day to begin. Late hours night made it advisable for her to remain abed until noon and Fabien always came in to waken her and remain until the maid arrived to draw her bath.

By the time the door opened, Fabien was way out in the middle of the room talking casually with Manon as she, just as casually, finished her chocolate. It was a little game of hoax they always enjoyed. Although it concealed nothing for the simple reason that the maid was—Marie—the wise gossip loving slavey from the pension. It had been another whim of Manon's to engage her as personal maid and costume her in all the neatness of a pretty uniform. Marie arose to the occasion grandly and watched over her adored mistress as jealously as a devoted watch dog. The new surroundings also gave her hungry soul a feast and she found the large servant' hall an amazing place for scandal.

"Messieurs the Abbe Martineau and the Duke D'Eaufort—Mademoiselle Nana—and the hairdressers are waiting to see Madam." Marie made her announcement very stiffly, while now and then she cast a grim look at Fabien. Now she did not like him because she was forced to change her opinion about his appearance and his wealth.

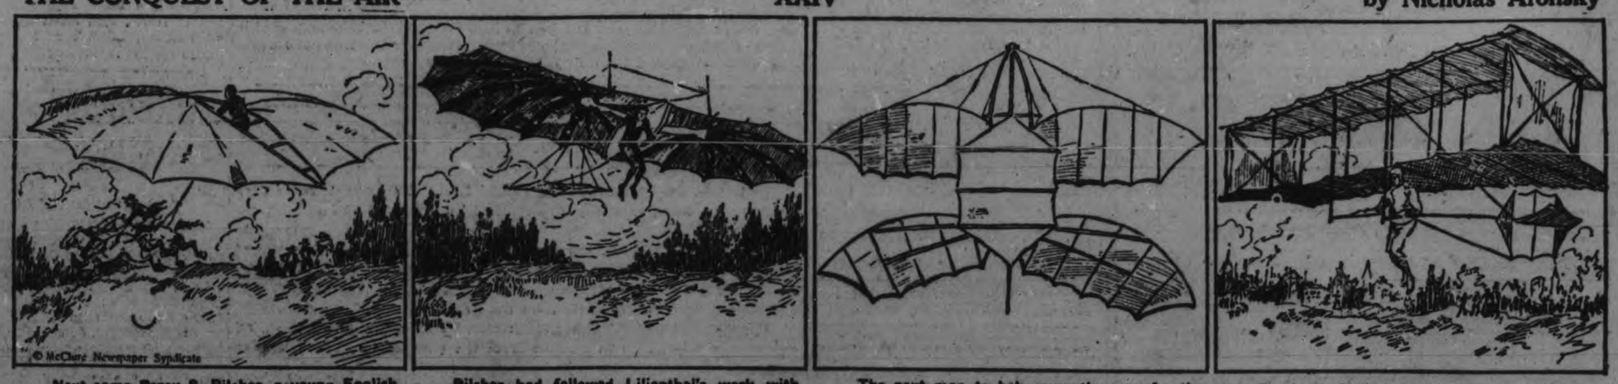
THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XXIV — by Nicholas Afonsky



Next came Percy S. Pilcher, a young English marine engineer, who built a glider called The Gull. Treating it like a kite, he fastened it on and had it hauled out into a field attached by a rope to strong horses. When it had been caught by the wind he unfastened the rope and went soaring through the air.

Pilcher had followed Lilienthal's work with great interest. He improved on the Gull in a second glider called the Hawk. One October day in 1899 when he was making a flight in this glider near Oxford, an imperfect part of the apparatus broke and the daring and ambitious young flyer crashed to earth.

The next man to help pave the way for the great accomplishment of the Wright brothers in the making of a practicable flying machine was Chanute. In 1896 he built several large machines, one of them a Lilienthal glider. On this he made several successful glides in the United States in the next few years.

But he decided that the principle of this machine was wrong and devised a big double-deck glider in which he made over seven hundred safe glides. This big machine was really the prototype of the first Wright airplanes which brought lasting fame to them and opened up the era of modern flying.

EXPANSION

Owing to the increase in our business, we found it necessary to build an addition to our factory and install therein a ten-ton hoist, also a granite surfacing machine that prepares the stone for the polishing mill. We will also add a sand blast machine. These additions to our plant will give us one of the best equipped Monumental manufacturing shops in Ontario, and will enable us to handle, with a great saving of time and labor, all orders entrusted to us at prices that defy competition.

Male Voice Choir Concert

(By Jeanette.)

The first concert for this season of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir proved a popular event last night, with over five hundred people in attendance at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, when a splendid program of music was presented by the Choir, about fifty strong, assisted by Miss Pearl Newton, of Toronto, elocutionist and artiste graduate of the Owen A. Smily Studio. A great deal of applause was tendered the various numbers on a satisfying program that was not too lengthy, and was full of varied interest. The atmosphere of the edifice in which the concert was given was noticeable in the character and rendition of the selections, and the Christmas season also colored the program, in the number of carols included in the vocal offerings. These illustrations of the Yule-tide music of older years were exceptionally well done, the final group of four carols by the Choir constituting one of the outstanding elements of a very fine program.

Smooth vocalization, excellent enunciation, rhythmic, well-rounded tone and instant attention to attack and release, combined with an evident enjoyment in singing, makes the music of this choir very attractive. With watchful eyes on the baton of their conductor, Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., to whose expert tuition their fine singing is undoubtedly due, they interpreted their program with pleasing and artistic effect, their skill being particularly noticeable in the difficulties of unaccompanied numbers and in the pianissimo effects in several selections. Accompanists who added much to enjoyment of the program were Miss Muriel Bridge at the piano, H .L. Armstrong, playing the organ, and J. H. Chenhall, the chimes.

An opening, dramatic introduction to the evening's program was an organ solo, a Fantasia entitled "The Storm," descriptive of the rising turbulence of raging elements with the thunder, "God Almighty's guns going off," simulated in the roll of the organ and the lightning in the rattle of descriptive music. This was a massive and well-played number, by M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

The first Choral selections were a negro spiritual, in an unaccompanied rendition of the "Deep River" number which is always so popular, accentuating a soft, humming refrain and crescendo passages, well phrased. Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar" was a second minor-keyed rendition of the beautiful composition.

A trio of descriptive pieces in full-voiced atmosphere included the old favorite "The Bells of St. Mary's," with chimes paramount in the accompaniment of the measured beat of the melodious music, and an encore repetition of the number, also "The Village Blacksmith," a peculiar, unmelodic setting, with staccato beat of the anvil underlying the somewhat unattractive setting that had a fine interlude in a solo part by Edward Jones. A final number was the and from these the best of Rugby material was coming along. Next year, he said, there would be a Central Ontario league in which there would be two groups.

The valedictory address was delivered by Jacob Low. He emphasized the benefits of the new addition. He bid farewell to the old P.C.I., but conjured those who were left to "Play Up, Play Up and Play the Game."

Miss Alma Blanchard sang Morning and Rock-a-Bye-Land, and Arnold Spencer rendered two violin selections, Londonderry Air and Souvenir, accompanied on the piano by Miss Gwen Donley.

ry and will ultimately lead to success. If those who have won these scholarships put the same efforts in their labors when they go out in the world they will be assured of the same success as they have had when attending the Collegiate Institute."

Inspector A. Mowat in presenting the diplomas to the graduates of the Commercial department, congratulated them on making such a splendid showing under very difficult and trying conditions in the old South Central school. "Ontario in the last few years has been going ahead educationally. Pupils used to stop school at 14, but now they have to go on further and most of them are getting a secondary education. The curriculum must be wide and provision must be made for practical courses. Under the conditions in the past these courses were greatly handicapped, but the new addition will be helpful to those who desire that kind of a training. There will also be plenty of opportunity for reading, which, after all, is the real thing. I always think a good definition of education is 'Enrichment of Personality'."

Graduation Diplomas.

The graduation diplomas were presented by Rev. J. E. Todd. "It is often said that youth is no respecter of persons, but youth must learn to be a respecter of persons. We men who are old have a great deal to pass on to you as a heritage, some things we are proud of, and some not; but young people must learn to respect those who are older and have this experience to pass given," said Mr. Todd.

Principal H. R. H. Kenner made the presentation to the "Princeps Alumnus" which went to Reginald Howden. Every year Mr. Kenner gives a prize to the boy whom he and the staff consider to be the best all round scholar. The boy is judged from the standpoint of scholarship, character, leadership and sport. Mr. Kenner said that 95 per cent. of the boys and girls in the school were playing the game and the boy that he had chosen had proven himself a successful leader in last year's Literary Society, he had both character and scholarship, but had not taken a prominent part in sport." Mr. Kenner urged everyone to take part in competitive sport, for on the playing field they learn lessons that cannot be learned any place else.

The Rugby team, headed by James Gimblett, presented to C. S. Browne, M.A., the coach, a sweater coat, and to Dr. Neal a cigarette lighter, for the faithful services rendered by these two men during the last season.

Mr. Browne in thanking the boys, said that during the year there had been no league games but the boys had practised faithfully. There were five Rugby teams in the Collegiate, swinging measures of the lovely number, "Bells of the Sea," ringing out in contrast to its companion.

The quartette of Christmas carols that formed the conclusion of the program were exceptionally attractive and well sung. The "Adeste Fidelis," in English, the joyous, flowing music of two traditional compositions of this type, in "The First Nowell" and "Good King Wenceslas" and the final example of old-time music, in the "Silent Night" carol, a transcription of the German "Stille nacht, heilg nacht," were beautifully rendered and were received with as much applause as the opening numbers.

The singing of a quartette composed of Messrs. A. Lee, C. H. Crowe, E. A. Rowe and V. A. Wood was a high light in the entertainment. Two old English numbers were given first, in "A Carol for Every Man" and "To Shorten Winter's Sadness," sung with buoyant freedom and fine, harmonizing tone. "Massa Dear" from Dvorak's lovely "New World Symphony" had a finely-rendered solo part by the baritone, E. A. Rowe, and "Those Pals of Ours" was the fourth number by this quartette of good singers.

Miss Pearl Newton, elocutionist, of Toronto, scored a real triumph in her dramatic rendition of "The Trial Scene" from "The Merchant of Venice." Possessed of a flexible, vibrant voice of many shades, an excellent memory and a degree of dramatic ability that lent itself admirably to the atmosphere of Shakespeare's famous scene, she simulated in turn the five principal actors: the Duke of Venice, Antonio, the merchant, Bassanio, his friend; Shylock, the Jew, and Portia, wife of Bassanio.

The audience remained in silent, intent appreciation throughout this remarkably enacted scene and broke into enthusiastic applause at its conclusion.

Miss Newton also gave a splendidly-mimicked humorous monologue entitled "Bridget O'Brien and the Musickers," a recital of the trials of a "scrub lady" who acts as caretaker in a musical studio building and relates some of her re-actions to amateur musical efforts, to a sympathetic friend.

Encores to the selections by Miss Newton were generously given, in a composition about cats by a snivelling school boy and a little bit of forced merriment in a final offering entitled "Aren't Men Funny?"

The concert last night was of a benefit nature, the following organizations receiving the funds: Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., Anglican Young People's Association of St. John's Church, Young People's Society's of St. Paul's Church, and Knox Church Choir.

Toronto Trading Active With Most Stocks Up

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—International Nickel and British American Oil were the two dominating features in this morning's hectic session of the Toronto Stock Exchange, when stocks generally advanced in extremely heavy trading. Nickel touched 72½ and at noon at 71¼ was ¾ higher than yesterday, while British American Oil touched 39¼ and at noon at 38 7-8 was 7-8 higher than yesterday. Brazilian climbed nearly three points at 229 and Alberta Pacific Grain, Dominion Stores, Canadian Oil, F. N. Burt, and Seagram substantially advanced. Utilities A and B were both slightly higher. The oils firmed in line with British American. McColl gained 3-8 at 62 7-8, and Petroleum a half at 35, while Imperial was steady. The liquor issues, despite Seagram's gain, were easier, Carlings, Walkers and Gooderham all easing. The strength of banks was another feature, Dominion, Nova Scotia, and Standard having five to seven point gains.

Mine Market Active But Trend Indefinite

TORONTO, Ont., December 3 (Canadian Press). — With active trading, over a million shares, spread over a very broad list and no sensational activity in any one issue, there was an indefinite trend to the Standard Mining Exchange list today. More issues were unchanged or a little easier. McIntyre receded most of any stock, losing half a dollar at $27.00, while Amulet, Granada Rouyn, Columbus Kirkland, Kirkland Lake, Potter Doal, and Teck Hughes all lost ground. The unlisted Amity Copper and Jackson were also lower. A gain of seven points was recorded in Bidgood, which had perhaps the largest turnover of any stock. Barry Hollinger firmed two and Howey and Newbeck were also firmer.

All Grains Stronger As Buying Commences

CHICAGO, December 3 (Canadian Press). — General commission house buying developed early in wheat, corn, and oats to-day, and lifted the price of all three. The demand was associated with talk current that the grains had dropped out of the rut and are in a period of advancing prices. Opening at ⅛c off to ½c up, wheat later scored moderate further gains. Corn started unchanged to ⅝c to ½c higher and subsequently rose all around. Oats were firm. Provisions held about steady.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 129¼, March 133⅜. Corn, December 90⅝, March 94⅜. Oats, December 52½, March 54½.

"SEEMING CONTRADICTIONS."

In the King James version of the New Testament, we find in Matt. 28.18 an incorrect translation of one word. The passage reads, "All power is given unto me in heaven and earth." The word power is not a correct translation and should read authority. Authority is giving to another a legal right to act. Reading the passage correctly, there is no discrepancy. The thoughtful, truth-loving one reading the passage with the incorrect word power would be compelled to come to the conclusion that there was contradiction. All power or almighty power belongs to Jehovah God only. Jesus said, "My Father is greater than I," John 14.28; and that he could do nothing of himself, John 5:19. Jesus said his Father taught him and he spoke the things his Father taught him; and further, he did always those things that pleased his Father, John 8:28-29. M. T. BUTCHER. 1d-131-1967.

INTERMEDIATE CLUB PLANS CITY LEAGUE

Will Have Junior, Senior and Ladies' Hockey Series.

The Intermediate hockey club have organized for the season and have started a course of training for their players in preparation for the coming season. All of last year's players with the exception of Chou and Dundas, who are out of the city, will be available. With the addition of a number of new players, a strong, well-balanced club will take the ice for the opening game in the Lakeshore group.

It is the intention of the officers of the Intermediate club to operate a City League again this year with the object of developing players for the O.H.A. teams.

It is proposed to run the City League in three sections: Senior, Junior and Ladies. A meeting will be called in the near future to organize for the season, and prospective teams will be invited to send representatives.

Ladies' hockey has not been played in Peterborough for a number of years, but throughout the province it has made great strides, and the ladies were represented at this season's O.H.A. annual meeting. It is felt that as there are a number of promising lady athletes in Peterboro, it would not be very hard to form a section in the City League. From this section an all-star team would be chosen to play in the Ontario playoffs in Toronto at the end of the season.

SOCIAL WORKER IS VISITING CITY

Mrs. E. M. Whittemore Will Speak at Y.W.C.A. and St. James.

Of unusual interest is the coming of Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, of New York ,to Peterborough. Mrs. Whittemore is one of the most remarkable social workers of this generation. A cultured woman in high society, she went many years ago to the old Water Street Mission in what was then one of the worst parts of lower New York. This visit was one of curiosity, and resulted in this society lady giving her whole life to Christian social service work.

Mother Whittemore will tell some of the thrilling romances of her marvellous work in the Y.W.C.A. at 3.30 p.m., and in St. James' United Church at 8 p.m. on Monday. The public is invited.

KNOX UNITED ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry, of Toronto, is Special Speaker.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS.

The seventeenth anniversary of the founding of Knox United (formerly Knox Presbyterian) Church) was observed yesterday with special preaching, singing and offerings. Both morning and evening services were attended by large congregations of members and friends of the church The Rev. E. A. Henry, D. D., Pastor of Deer Park Church, Toronto, was the speaker at both services. In the morning his subject was "The Living God," and at night he spoke on "God's Challenge to Man's Essential Worth."

Taking his text from the eighth Psalm, verse five, Dr. Henry preached a splendid sermon at the evening service. The words which he chose specially to deal with were "Thou hast made him a little lower than God and hast crowned him with glory and honor." He pointed out that his translation was a little different from that generally used, as he had substituted "God" for "the angels." This, he believed was proper, as the Hebrew word translated "angels" in this verse is taken as "God" in others.

There has been a tendency among theologians to decry man, began the speaker, but Jesus is never found doing that, He rather helped him up There is a dark side to human nature but the speaker would rather preach to the other side. Instead of saying man is a child of the devil whom God is seeking to save he would say he is a child of God on whom the devil has set his hand.

The sermon, continued Dr Henry, would be divided into two parts. First he would endeavor to show from various indications that man is only a little lower than God. Then he would take up God's challenge to man. Mostly he intended to address the young people because their seniors are too set in their ways.

The first point showing man's place was the wonderful work he has done. He has subdued everything except himself. There is hardly a material force which has not been brought under man's sway. He has harnessed the river, the electricity of the air, all the forces of nature.

Man's capacity for God was Dr. Henry's second reason for thinking him little lower than God. There must be, he pointed out, some contact between the teacher and pupil or between friends. The capacity of man for God means that there is something in man like unto God. He touches God because he is like Him. The incarnation is an expression of that fact. God took upon himself the nature of man because there is something Godlike about man.

The recognition of this fact comes

URGES ADOPTION DEFENSIVE PACT

MATTER OF SECURITY.

ROME, December 5 (Canadian Press). — Albania holds the same strategic position for Italy that Belgium holds for Britain, Deputy Andrea Torre told his colleagues in the Chamber of Deputies in urging the adoption of the Italio-Albanian defensive alliance.

"Just as Great Britain considers Belgium as the point from which may come danger to the seas of which she is mistress," Torre, who is reporter of the Chamber, declared, "so Italy must consider Albania as the country whose independence must be guaranteed for ever."

Signor Torre then referred to the peril "stalking abroad" in the Balkans, and predicted if Albania's independence and security was not safeguarded, it would become a second Macedonian problem.

"It is thus a matter of security not only for the Balkans, but also of international civilization," Torre went on. "We must once for all avoid the creation of new ground for war hate in the Near East and show again that Italy is the creator of order and the guarantor of security and independence."

The Chamber approved the treaties by acclamation after Deputy Gray had declared that Premier Mussolini recently said that Albania's independence day is also an Italian birthday.

ANNUAL EXHIBIT BEING PREPARED

Trent Waterways Association Will Show Attractions at New York.

WILL BROADCAST AGAIN.

The Trent Waterways Development Association will have its annual exhibit at the National Motor Boat Show, which will be held in New York City from January 20th to January 28th of the coming year. This association has enjoyed free space as the only Canadian exhibit at the show for several years.

Their location at the coming show will be changed somewhat, due to the fact that last year's floor space, occupied by the Association, has been leased to a private company for the sum of $892.50. The location this year, however, will be every bit as good as that of other years. It will be in the educational department of the show.

It is expected that the Honorary President, G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls and Hamilton, will attend the show and also the president, W. M. Foulds of Hastings, along with N. K. Wagg of Midland, Manager of the Georgian Bay Tourist Company of Midland, Ltd., who has generously offered the use of his motion picture machine, stuffed fish and game specimens, and interesting Trent Waterways scenes in the north division of the system.

The officials of the Association, while in New York, hope they will again be able to broadcast the attractions of the Trent Waterways, an invitation to do so having been received through the courtesy of the show management.

The new Trent Waterways de luxe publication will be available for distribution at that time.

The entire arrangements in connection with the Trent Waterways exhibit at the Motor Boat Show, remain, as usual, in the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer, at Peterborough.

The Association will this year seek the co-operation of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, asking that department to assume part of the expense of the exhibit and also to send their representative to New York.

Around the City

Though the records at the Fire Department this morning indicated that no less than four calls had been sent in, three of them from Bethune Street, none were of a serious nature, according to Fire Chief Gimblett. A call from 131 Brock Street had proven a false alarm, while chimney fires gave little trouble at 221, 293, and 367 Bethune Street.

The City of Los Angeles possesses an electrically operated cotton compress whereby cotton can be pressed until it weighs 52 1-2 pounds per cubic foot. The pressure exerted is 2,260 pounds to the square inch.

Chicago Police Authorities On Lookout For Powerful Diamond Holdup Gang

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Police of more than a half dozen cities, with recovery of more than $700,000 of stolen diamonds as their objective, have joined the Chicago authorities in a search for twenty-two men and women, said to be members of a gang that kidnapped Morris Reismer, St. Paul, Minn., real estate dealer, last Thursday.

Eight suspects have been arrested. They and the twenty-two at large are said by police to constitute the most powerful diamond robbery gang in the United States. Simultaneously, it is charged, they carried on kidnapping plots on an extensive scale.

In possession of those still at large, police say, is the nearly three-quarters of a million dollars of loot, proceeds of robberies in Chicago, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and other cities.

Even while Reismer was being held captive and efforts made to make him pay $75,000 for his release, detectives were tracing the stolen jewels to Chicago. The investigators obtained their most definite clues following the robbery of Swirsky Bros., of Cleveland, of $205,000 worth of diamonds.

Reismer said he was taken to an apartment, where he was kicked, beaten and threatened with death and ordered to raise $75,000. He carried only a cheque for $5,000. Evidently despairing of getting the money, the men released Reismer and he was found last night in a Loop hotel.

Sailors Are Rescued From Stranded Ships

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 5 (A.P.). —Two steamers are ashore on the North Carolina Coast, one a mile and a half southeast of Hatteras Inlet and the other just north of Kitty Hawk.

With heavy seas running, twenty-one men had been rescued late yesterday from the Norwegian steamship Chiao ashore near Hatteras Inlet. They were taken off by life savers from the Cape Hatteras and Creed Hill stations, who were attempting also to rescue fifteen others, said to be still on the stranded vessel.

The fate of the Greek tanker Paraguay, reported Saturday night in a sinking condition sixty miles southeast of Cape Henry, was not known here. She was not seen yesterday morning by the steamers City of Atlanta and Baron Herries, which were within five miles of her Saturday night.

Coastguard officials here believe the ship ashore at Kitty Hawk may be the Paraguay.

SOVIET SIGNS GAS PROTOCOL

Condemns Use of Poisonous and Asphyxiating Gases in War.

COULD DESTROY WORLD.

GENEVA, December 5 (Canadian Press). — Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation to the disarmament preparatory conference, announced on Saturday night that he had signed a letter of adherence to the protocol in behalf of Russia, condemning the use in war of poisonous and asphyxiating gases.

M. Litvinoff informed the Associated Press correspondent that he had signed a letter of adherence, and sent it to the French Government, which is now the depository for signatures of adhesion to the protocol. The Russian action follows M. Litvinoff's attack on the employment of asphyxiating gases in the course of an address before the disarmament commission when painting the horrors of its use. He quoted experts as declaring that New York could be destroyed by gases.

In his plea for complete disarmament, M. Litvinoff especially demanded the cessation of all preparations for chemical warfare, believing that it would cause a veritable cataclysm in the event of a new war.

The anti-gas protocol, which was proposed by Theodore E. Burton as head of the United States delegation, was elaborated as an annex to the convention for the control of international traffic in arms. It was signed by 27 nations, but has been ratified by France alone.

COUNT'S BODY FOUND IN COVE

Identified By Papers As That of De Lesseps, Missing Airman.

NOT DISFIGURED.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland.— The body of an aviator, believed to be that of Count De Lesseps, Canadian flier, who together with a mechanic has been missing since he set out on a flight from Gaspe, Que., last October, was picked up on the shore at Clambank Cove, Port au Port Peninsula according to advices reaching the Deputy Minister of Customs. The body is in the care of the Rev. Father Pineault, Port au Port. Further inquiries are being made by the Department of Justice.

St. George's Bay is near the southern end of the west coast of Newfoundland fronting on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. This location makes it improbable that the body is that of any of the trans-Atlantic fliers who disappeared last summer while on their way to or from Newfoundland, as their courses would not have carried them so far from the east coast.

A plane coming down the St. Lawrence River, on the other hand, if it passed south of Anticosti Island in the Gulf, would be headed direct for St. George's Bay.

Papers Prove Identiy

SYDNEY, N.S., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—A despatch received here from Aguntsia, West Newfoundland, stated that papers found on the body discovered yesterday on the shore of the Port au Port Peninsula, indicated the body was that of Count de Lesseps. Further search along the shore revealed no trace of De Lesseps' plane or the mechanic who accompanied him.

The body found was clothed in a rubber suit and was well preserved, only the exposed parts of the face and hands being disfigured.

Count De Lesseps was the scion of a prominent French family, his father having been engineer-in-charge of the construction of the Suez Canal. The Count was a pioneer in aviation in Canada, and married Miss Grace Mackenzie, daughter of the late Sir William Mackenzie, Canadian railway builder. The Countess de Lesseps resides with her family in Toronto.

Count De Lesseps was on aerial survey work when he was reported missing in October last. For several weeks Quebec government and other airplanes searched for the missing men but found no trace, except some of the wreckage of the ill-fated plane.

Little Girl Shows Faith In Magician

A small eight-year old person who evidently has a great belief in the powers of Richards, the versatile magician at the Opera House during the past three days of this week, interviewed a gentleman last evening with the request that he take a shawl she was carrying on her arm, and prefer it to Mr. Richards, with the request that he turn it into a collie pup. She explained that the magician had done this on the stage, and she had always wanted a collie puppy, anyway. She thought she would rather not make the request herself, on account of a slight feeling of uneasiness with regard to the performer's magical powers. "He might turn me into a bug when he looked at me", she concluded.

COUNTY TEAM STANDS FIFTH

Peterborough Boys Make Good Showing at Ottawa Winter Fair.

HAROLD DUNSFORD TENTH

In the live stock judging competition held in Ottawa this week, in connection with the Ottawa Winter Fair, the Peterborough County boys again made a very respectable showing. In the competition of all the Eastern Ontario counties, Peterborough stood fifth, and except for a little hard luck in hogs would have headed the competition. The team was first in dairy cattle, second in horses, third in beef ,and sixth in sheep—a standing which the coach, J. B. Nelson, Agricultural Representative, considers excellent .

The team at Ottawa consisted of Harold Dunford, R. R. No. 2, Lakefield, David Forsythe, R. R. No. 2, Indian River, and Harold Wilson, of Keene.

Harold Dunford was high man of the competition in dairy cattle, fourth in horses, third in beef, beside being tenth ranking man in the whole competition.

Harold Wilson was third in dairy, fifth in horses.

Grain Judging Competition.

The Peterborough County team was also entered in the grain judging competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair ,and several of the members received prizes.

Harold Dunford secured first in judging alfalfa, ninth in barley, sixth in potatoes, and ninth in naming weeds.

Harold Wilson, sixth in oats and tenth in barley.

David Forsythe, ninth in oats, and sixth in barley. This competition was also won by Carleton County, with quite a margin.

In both the competitions the Peterborough boys made a very good showing ,and are to be congratulated. They received just as much money in prizes as any other county team entered, and more than most.

Farmers Win Prizes.

At the Ottawa Winter Fair this week in the Field Crop Competition, two Peterborough County men did very well. Edgar Clarke of Norwood secured second in the large class of oats ,and George A. Elliott of Norwood got fourth in the same class. The other Peterborough County entries were very creditable, but had not been prepared quite well encugh to get into the prize money.

Northumberland Does Well.

The Northumberland team this year was composed of Reg. McCann and Edward Huycke of Norham and John Goodfellow of Codrington.

These young men were successful in winning sixth place in the county standing, thirteen counties competing. Reg. McCann was fifth high man of the competition, thirty-nine boys competing. The boys won third and fourth in sheep and sixth in beef cattle.

Shoot Five Anti-Red Union Officials For Dismissing Women.

SHANGHAI, December 5 (Canadian Press). — Four hundred students of Sun Yat Sen University stormed a cotton mill at Hankow, which had dismissed several women workers, and dragged five anti-Red Union officials into the open and shot them, it is reported from Hankow. The shooting is said to have occurred in the presence of armed police, who did not interfere.

A recrudescence of Communistic activities is seen, and it is reported that the Communists are organizing armed corps to bring about another reign of terror.

POLISH DELEGATION DECLARES WITHDRAWAL RUMORS FALSE; CAME FROM BERLIN SOURCES

Sovereignty in Vilna Needs No Ratification, Says High Official.

ENVOYS DISCUSS PROBLEM.

Polish-Lithuanian Dispute To Come Up Before Geneva Council To-day.

GENEVA, Dec. 5.— (Canadian Press).—A categorical denial that Poland is prepared to resign from the League of Nations unless the Council of the League succeeds in arranging a resumption of diplomatic relations with Lithuania was given to the Associated Press yesterday by the Polish delegation. The council has on its agenda the Polish-Lithuanian dispute, which will probably be reached to-day.

The report that Poland would resign her seat in the League reached Geneva from Berlin sources, and stated also that Poland would insist on unqualified recognition of Polish sovereignty over Vilna.

A high official of the Polish delegation said yesterday that his government believed the state of war which Lithuania insists still exists between the two countries is in contradiction to the League covenant and therefore should cease. He added that his government merely wanted to live in friendly relationship with Lithuania and to help her economically.

"As for Vilna," he said, "our sovereignty there requires no ratification by the League of Nations councils."

Foreign Minister Zaleski, heading the Polish mission to Geneva, conferred to-day with Sir Austen Chamberlain and Aristide Briand, Foreign Ministers of Great Britain and France, respectively, on the Lithuanian problem.

Ministers Confer.

GENEVA, Dec. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, and Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, both arrived in Geneva yesterday morning and shortly afterward had lunch together to talk over the international situation with special reference to the Polish-Lithuanian dispute which comes before the council of the League of Nations when it opens to-day.

It was also believed, although there was no immediate confirmation, that the two statesmen discussed the possibility of arranging a meeting between Sir Austen and Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Russian delegation in Geneva, for the purpose of permitting a discussion of Russo-British relations. It was learned by the Associated Press correspondent that the Russians had made overtures for such a meeting through the French minister.

Yesterday afternoon M. Briand conferred at length with Litvinoff and his colleagues on the international situation, and after the meeting the French minister said the conversation was very satisfactory. Litvinoff told newspapermen that he was leaving for Moscow to-day and that he knew nothing about the plan to meet Sir Austen. It was said in French quarters, however, that if Litvinoff would request it, Chamberlain would consent to such a meeting.

MEETING ARRANGED.

GENEVA, December 5 (Canadian Press). — Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister, has arranged to meet Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Vice - Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, this afternoon. The British delegation to the League of Nations, in announcing that the meeting would take place, said it had been arranged at the request of Litvinoff.

Secure United Europe.

GENEVA, Dec. 5. — (Associated Press.)—M. Briand, the French foreign minister, made another move yesterday to secure a united continental Europe.

He employed all his persuasive forces of statesmanship to induce Russia to stay actively in the European concert. He received both Maxim Litvinoff and M. Lunarcharsky, of the Russian delegation, and, with M. Paul-Boncour, the French Socialist, and his wife, he felicitated the Soviet envoys on their participation in

He intends to seek election on his record as alderman, for eight years, seven of which he has been chairman of the Finance Committee. "I have always had the interests of the people of this city at heart and if I should be Mayor, my first thought will be for the welfare of the citizens and for the good of this city." he said.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED TODAY

British and Soviet Delegates Discuss Relations Frankly.

ISSUE COMMUNIQUE.

GENEVA, December 5 (Canadian Press). — It was not found possible to reach any basis of agreement, says the official communique issued by the British delegation at the conclusion of the interview this afternoon between Sir Austen Chamberlain and Maxim Litvinoff ,arranged to discuss Soviet-British relations.

The full text of the British communique, which was agreed to by Litvinoff, Soviet Vice-Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, read:

"M. Litvinoff having asked Sir Austen Chamberlain for an interview, a meeting took place between them at the Hotel Beaurivage.

"The meeting gave occasion for the frank exchange of views upon relations between the Union of Soviet Republics and the British Government.

"It was not, however, found possible to reach any basis of agreement within the course of the interview."

CHANGING WINDS SPREADING FIRES

Blazes in California Forests Threaten City of Glendale.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Brush fires which have been raging in four sections of Southern California since Saturday, continued to burn out of control in several places to-day after having consumed about 150 mountain homes and inflicted damage estimated at from five million to more than ten million dollars.

In the face of efforts by more than three thousand men to stop them, driving winds which often veered and turned into near gales, mocked the tired army of fighters along the extended front and in one case the flames threatened to enter the city limits of Glendale, near here.

CERTIFICATES GIVEN PUPILS AT MILLBROOK

Annual Entertainment at Continuation School is Great Success.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN

Pupils Make Presentations to Teachers—D. Hutchinson Wins Scholarship.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 5.—The annual entertainment, under the auspices of the Millbrook Continuation School drew a capacity audience in the town hall on Thursday at 8.15 p.m. a number having to stand throughout the evening.

An opening chorus, "Keep Right On to the End of the Road," for which all the Continuation School pupils were massed upon the stage, was preceded by the school "yell" with all the vigor of youthful lungs; white middies with navy collar and cuffs, and navy skirts worn by all the girls gave uniformity and attractiveness to the picturesque effect of the massed pupils, the school colors of orange and black being prominent in the girls' ties, and the rosette which each boy wore on his coat lapel.

The Byam Orchestra, with Mrs. L. H. Winslow at the piano, provided music while the large audience was gathering, and also at intervals during the program.

G. E. Burnham, chairman of the school board, acted as chairman for the entertainment, Messrs. J. A. Vance and H. Jordan being the ushers.

A one-act comedy, "The French Maid and the Phonograph," literally "brought down the house," every character taking her part extremely well. Flossie Green (Margaret McCarthy) desires above all else to appear grown up, and to ape the manners of her friend, Lotta Ayers (Beryl Wood), who is cleverly pretending she has lived in Paris and speaks French fluently. A real Parisienne, Madame Renard (Joyce Woods) arrives, and tries to sell a phonograph which will teach French in a few lessons.

Flossie's mother (Margaret Armstrong) has promised her daughter choice of a birthday gift not to exceed ten dollars in value, and Lotta bargains with Madame Renard who has dicovered ner hoax, to persuade Mrs. Green to buy the machine. To have a French maid, Antoinette, is another of Flossie's ambitions and the advent of Mary Ann French (Sadie Allen) in reply to Mrs. Green's advertisement, and her promise to pose for this part, is a most amusing feature.

Mollie Green (Margaret Russell), a younger sister, unmercifully snubbed by Flossie and her friend, arranged this and other matters in a way that ultimately satisfies her determination "to get even."

Two friends, Pauline (Jean Stinson) and Gladys (Hazel Morton) bring a surprise for Flossie's birthday, and in the end while Lotta is exposed when the phonograph sale falls through, all tangles are happily straightened out, and the two "would-be" young ladies agree with Mrs. Green's kindly expressed decision "We are only little girls after all."

Jean Fairbairn delivered the valedictory address when the graduates were called to the stage, the list including Verna Fallis, Bena Brown, Jean Fairbairn, Hazel McMahon, Wilma Fallis, Beryl Wood, Dickson Hutchison, Donald Rutherford, Jack Byam, Kenneth Fallis, and George McKnight.

Following the chorus, "Millbrook High School," Rev. Canon Allen presented the Norman Allen Scholarship to Dickson Hutchison, whose record as the best al-round boy in the school, won for him this high honor. The framed certificate and cheque for fifty dollars was handed to the recipient, who replied suitably.

Colonel Duncan Walker, Principal of the Peterborough Normal School, presented the diplomas to the two pupils, Jean Fairbairn and Beryl Wood, who had covered the required curriculum. In his address Colonel Walker expressed his personal interest in the M.C.S. because of Normal pupils coming here for practice teaching, and because 57 pupils from Millbrook and vicinity have been enrolled at Peterborough Normal since its opening. A common interest in educational matters was another point of contact.

Stressing the nobility of work,—"God might have given us better fun than hard work, but He doubtless never did"—the speaker emphasized the importance of honor; the dignity of labor; learning "to play the game so that you win modestly and lose gallantly"; the necessity to love learning, and to work on to the end of the road.

Before resuming their seats the chorus, "Dear Old High" was sung, and afterward, Miss Dorothy Crossley, carrying a shield with orange ground, and black lettering, the school motto, "Age Quod Agis" circ-

Many Willing To Sacrifice Left Ear To Earn $2,500 Offered By Woman

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The market for left ears was bullish as a dozen young women and three men offered their portside aural appendage to an unnamed New York and Chicago society woman who advertised for one. The attorney, whose client has sought through the want ad. columns to get an ear to replace one she lost in a motor accident abroad, said that the offer of $2,500 first made would be doubled, provided the transfer of the ear from the seller to the buyer proved successful.

One offer came from a young mother who wanted four thousand dollars instead of the offered $1,500. Pressing bills, she explained, made her willing to make the sacrifice. Another offer came from Miss Doris Clark, young, pretty, and, she explained, broke. She wanted a fur coat and proposed to market her left ear if it met the requirements. "I'm tired of being without money, a nice dress, and the fur coat that most Chicago girls have," she told the reporter. "I think a fur coat will do me lots more good than my little old left ear."

RUSSIA NAMED AT SPIES' TRIAL

Prosecuting Attorney Says Soviet Concerned in London Affair.

RECONCILIATION SOUGHT

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(United Press)—While Russian disarmament delegates were waiting at Geneva in hope of a reconciliation conference with British Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain, the prosecuting attorney in a spy case at Bow Street police court Saturday said that Russia was concerned in the affair.

The case was that of Wilfred McCartney, 29, reported to be an Irish-American, and George Hansen, 24, said to be a German.

The prosecuting attorney was Sir Travers Humphreys.

Hansen and McCartney was arrested November 17th after a raid upon their residences. It was charged at their first court hearing November 19th that they had collected information calculated to be useful to a foreign power.

BANDITS THREATEN TO MURDER CAPTIVE

Say They Will Kill British Sailor if Attempt Made To Round Them Up.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Chinese bandits who kidnapped Capt. Lator of the British steamship Siangtan after attacking the boat near Ichang on the Yangtze River, threaten to kill him if any attempt is made to round them up. They have reduced the amount of the ransom they are demanding from one hundred thousand to sixty thousand dollars. The British authorities, despite the bandits' threats, entertain hopes of effecting Capt. Lators' release shortly. They have demanded of General Yang Sen, who controls the affected section of the Yangtze, the immediate despatch of soldiers to free the captain.

BROTHERS FOUND

Men Missing Since Sept. 22 Discovered in Winnipeg.

BRANDON, Man., Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Allan, Rodney, and Louis Low, three brothers missing from their home near Foxwarren, Manitoba, since Sept. 22 have been located in Winnipeg by the Provincial police. The three men disappeared under suspicious circumstances, causing quite a sensation in Foxwarren district, as they were reported to be very shy and reticent. They were never known to shave or cut their hair, according to the story told by their parents, and had isolated themselves on a little farm away from their own family.

Municipal Elections In Three Border Cities

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Municipal elections will be held today in Windsor, Riverside and Tecumseh, with nominations in Walkerville and Sandwich. A light vote is expected in Windsor, but a good turnout is promised in Tecumseh and Riverside, where the French-speaking people take their politics more seriously. Lack of a mayoralty contest, however, tends to dampen enthusiasm in the three municipalities.

Interest in Windsor centres around the aldermanic race with the so-called "faithful" seven, with Alderman Clyde Curry as recognized leader opposed by their five colleagues who voted against the proposed dismissal several weeks ago of ex-Police Chief Dan Thompson. Alderman Curry, whose charges against Thompson precipitated the police investigation, asks the people to vindicate his action. He seeks to head the poll.

Mayor Alex. McKee seeks a sixth term in Sandwich. Opposition has been threatened. It is expected that Mayor Robert L. Daniels, of Walkerville, will be given a second term by acclamation.

COMMITTEEMEN GATHER TO-DAY

Would Choose City For Holding Republican Convention Next June.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—With its eyes turned on the election year of 1928, the Republican National committee will assemble here today, coincident with the convening of a session of Congress which is certain to furnish much of the campaign material for the next presidential election.

The primary purpose of the gathering of the committeemen is to choose the city to which goes the honor of holding the national convention next June, but in the minds of all ,the foremost question was one of candidacies, in which the names of all those mentioned most prominently as eligibles were being bandied about last night.

The figures of Coolidge, Lowden, Dawes, Hoover, Hughes, Curtis, Longworth and all of the others who have shown above the political horizon as possible presidential candidates were prominent in the discussions, with major interest centred on whether Mr. Coolidge would amplify his "do not choose to run" statement of the Black Hills. No one seemed to have authoritative information on that subject.

While the national committeemen talked politics over the week-end with the influx of arriving senators and representatives, delegations representing a dozen cities prepared to go before the committee with arguments they hope will land for them the convention.

Still apparently the most favored of the group were Detroit, San Francisco and Kansas City, but Cleveland and Philadelphia continued to figure in the speculations. A choice will be made Wednesday.

In addition to selecting the convention location, the committee will act upon vacancies and will decide upon a temporary chairman of the convention.

ACCUSED PAIR ATTEND SUNDAY CHURCH SERVICE

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Beach Take Part in Jail Services.

JURY IN CONFINEMENT.

Wife of Victim To Testify in Her Own Defense To-day.

MAY'S LANDING, N.J., Dec. 5.—(Associated Press).—This was the last Sunday of uncertainty for Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and Willis Beach in their fight against a charge of murder and they spent the lagging hours singing old-time hymns in their barred cells.

Before another Sunday, perhaps by to-night, their fate will have been decided and they will know whether they must pay with their lives for the killing of the woman's aged husband, Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, of which they are accused.

The seven men and five women who will decide on the guilt or innocence of the two also spent their Sunday in confinement, and they, too, turned to worship on their first day of leisure since the trial opened last Monday.

The jury, which is housed under guard in a little building behind a hotel adjoining the jail, heard Sunday services over the radio, but Beach and Mrs. Lilliendahl took part in special jail services, presided over by the local Methodist minister, in the corridor between the cells.

Hymn books were handed to each of the score of cell occupants, and as the minister led and his wife accompanied him on a piano that stood close to the door of Beach's cell, the voices of the invisible worshippers floated out into the corridor in a half tuneful chorus that had its measure of pathos although it was considerably off key.

Mrs. Lilliendahl's soprano, weak but true, could be heard from her balcony cell, but no sound could be distinguished as coming from behind Beach's bars, though jail attendants reported that he kept his eyes on his hymnal and that his lips moved as though in song.

Both defendants spent a restful night and ate the special meals sent into them with apparent relish. Neither has partaken of the regular county jail fare since they were arrested on October 6.

Under Doctor's Care.

Beach suffered no recurrence of the heart attacks to which he is subject, although a doctor was kept in close attendance in the belief that the ordeal of Saturday might bring on an attack.

For three hours and a half Saturday, Beach sat in the witness box and upheld his assertion that he was nowhere near the scene of the killing of Dr. Lilliendahl on September 15. He accounted for every hour of the day and other witnesses corroborated his testimony.

To-day Mrs. Lilliendahl will testify in her own defence and repeat her story that her husband was killed by two negroes whose motive was robbery.

Almost all the defence witnesses are believed to have testified except Mrs. Lilliendahl, and it is believed the defence will rest soon after she leaves the stand. The possibility was seen yesterday by court attendants that if defence testimony should be concluded before time for adjournment today, Justice Campbell might continue court late enough to complete summations and his charge and turn the case over to the jury at once. In that eventuality, provided that predictions of a speedy verdict are correct, Mrs. Lilliendahl and her alleged lover and conspirator against the life of her husband will know before Tuesday whether the jury has believed their stories or classified them as the lies of guilty persons who would escape punishment.

OLD MASTERS

When I have fears that I may cease to be
Before my pen has gleaned my teeming brain,
Before high-piled books, in charact'ry
Hold rich garners the full-ripened grain;
When I behold, upon the night's starred face,
Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance,
And think that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour!
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in the fairy power
Of unreflecting love!—then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think
Till Love and Fame to nothingness do sink.

—John Keats: When I Have Fears.

ARCTIC ISLANDS PRESERVE.

The area of wild life preserves set aside for the benefit of natives by the Department of the Interior, in the Northwest Territories, Canada, has been extended by taking in all islands north of the mainland between the 60th and the 141st degrees of longitude. This large area is now known as the Arctic Islands Preserve.

SEALS ARE FAVORED.

Where seals are plentiful the Eskimos of the Canadian Arctic are not greatly concerned about walrus, white whale, or narwhal. Owing to their great size, however, the latter animals can be made to supply large quantities of meat for winter use, while the skins of the white whale and the narwhal are considered a delicacy and often form the "piece de resistance" in Eskimo hospitality.

CONTRACT AIDS OTTAWA HYDRO

Puts End To Power Condition That Has Given Much Concern.

20,000 H.P. PROMISED.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—The recent announcement of Premier Howard Ferguson that a contract is nearing completion between the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission and the Gatineau Power Company for a supply of power for Eastern Ontario is said by civic officials to mean that the people of Ottawa are now assured of obtaining electricity at comparatively cheap cost for years to come.

The Ottawa Hydro is guaranteed under the new contract at least 20,000 more horse power than at present, and it was made known last night that the contract ends a condition which has been giving the local Hydro Commission considerable concern.

Baby Talk Cause Of Speech Defects

CHICAGO, Ill., December 5 (United Press). — Encouragement of small children to talk "baby talk" is responsible for many speech defects in adults, according to Dr. Elmer Kenyon, of Rush Medical College.

If the baby makes any noise at all, its parents are delighted in interpreting the sound as "mamma" or "papa" Dr. Kenyon said in an address to members of a women's club. "All speech disorders originate when the child is learning to talk, and should be corrected."

All Grains Recede After Irregular Strat

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press.) —Influenced by unresponsive cables from Liverpool, the Chicago wheat market soon turned downward to-day after an irregular start. Relative weakness at Liverpool was ascribed to 500,000 bushels increase in the amount of wheat on passage to Great Britain. Opening at 78c decline to 14c advance, Chicago wheat hardened a little but then underwent a general sag. Corn oats, and provisions were also easier, corn starting unchanged to 1-4c off and subsequently showing further losses.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 129 3-8, March 133 58, Corn December 91 1-8, March 133 5-8, Corn December 52 3-4, March 55 1-8.

40 CANADIAN DEALERS STUDEBAKER GUESTS

Mr. John Selkirk, of Selkirk and Elliott, local Studebaker and Erskine car deaers, returned home Saturday after a pleasant visit to South Bend, U.S.A., where he made one of forty Canadian dealers in conference in that city.

The visitors spent one day at Walkerville, inspecting the Canadian Studebaker plant and discussing business matters of purely Canadian interest. At South Bend, Vice-President Vance and Chief Research Engineer James explained the engineering improvements made in Studebaker and Erskine automobiles; and the Canadians were taken on their first visit to the proving ground, where they saw the cars subjected to the severest kind of road tests to make sure they are perfect before reaching the buying public.

At a dinner last Wednesday evening, timely speeches were made by a number of Studebaker-Erskine executives, and several Canadian distributors also addressed the banqueters. Mr. A. R. Erskine assured the gathering that today's Studebaker and Erskine cars are the very best it is possible to build.

Mr. Selkirk has returned home exceedingly enthusiastic over the sales possibilities of Studebaker and Erskine cars, following the ample proof recently given of their stamina and outstanding performance.

THANK OFFERING SERVICES HELD

Miss Evelyn Mitchell Gives Addresses in Two United Churches.

UNDER W.M.S. AUSPICES.

Interest in missionary work was greatly stimulated by the inspiring address given at the W.M.S. thankoffering service by Miss Evelyn Mitchell, of Toronto.

The service was in charge of the local Auxiliary, who attended in a body, together with the Mission Circle and Mission Band. Miss Mitchell took her audience quickly from field to field — Korea, China, Japan, India, and Dark Africa—giving them a glimpse of the wonderful results of the work that has been accomplished through the Woman's Missionary Society. As Travelling Secretary of the W.M.S. Dominion Board, Miss Mitchell comes in close contact with the actual work and the workers, not only in the far countries, but from coast to coast of our own Dominion, going as far north as Alaska.

She told many touching incidents of how avidly the foreigner grasps the truths taught in day school, Sunday school, and church, and how many of the girls and women of the far north walk fifteen miles to attend a church service, and are eager to pass on the good news to their people who cannot hear it.

The present great need is for workers, money to carry on the work already begun, and for prayers of the church at home. A strong appeal was made to the young people present to offer themselves for this service. She also urged that every women in the church become identified with the W.M.S.

In closing Miss Mitchell explained that the work was being done almost entirely by voluntary service. The vast amount of money raised annually by the W.M.S., over a million and a half, is administered at the extremely low cost of 1¾ per cent.

An exceptionally generous thankoffering was received.

The thankoffering meeting of the W.M.S. of Mark Street Church was held last evening in the church, when services were in charge of the society, and a splendid address was given by Miss Evelyn Mitchell, of Toronto, Travelling Secretary for the Dominion Board of the United Church of Canada. Miss Mitchell's address was an inspiring word painting of the task with which the United Church is confronted, in both the East and in our own North-West, and was an incentive to go forward in the work of missions at home and abroad.

Kitchen aprons, bags for school books, raincoats, beach slippers, radio covers any many other articles now are being made from waterproof paper.

PRODUCTION, NOT MARKETS, CHIEF QUESTION NOW

Need of Greater Agricultural Production Strongly Outlined.

FARMERS' DAY.

C. P. R. Development Agriculturist Talks To Rotary and Guests.

That it would be impossible to increase agricultural production in Canada fast enough to keep pace with the increase in available markets was the message brought to the Peterborough Rotary Club at its annual Farmers' Day luncheon by P. C. Armstrong, Development Agriculturist of the Canadian Pacific Railway who delivered a most instructive address upon the subject of greater production.

The luncheon today was arranged by Rotarian George A. Gillespie and while the attendance of farmers was not as large as usual owing to various circumstances some twenty five representative farmers accepted the club's invitation to be present and the occasion was a very enjoyable one.

A feature of the programme was the presentation of a silver tray, suit ably engraved to Rotarian Tom Dutton who recently joined the ranks of the benedicts. The presentation was made on behalf of the club by Past President Claud H. Rogers.

In introducing the speaker, Rotarian Gillespie extended a warm welcome to the farmers present and commented upon the fact that among farmers there were many who were as Rotarian in spirit as members of the club.

Mr. Armstrong who is an offical of the Department of Colonization and Development of the C. P. R. declared that Canada's problem was not to find more markets but to increase its agricultural production to take care of the available markets He surveyed the world situation showing that while the world's population had increased from one billion to two billion in three generations, the production of food stuffs had by no means kept pace with that increase. As a matter of fact, only one third of the world's land could be considered as good for agricultural purposes and the rapid increase in population was paving the way to a serious situation. The United States, he pointed out, was increasing her population at the rate of from 1,500,000 to 4,000,000 every year which meant that every two years the population of the neighbouring republic increased enough to assimilate all of Canada's exportable food stuffs.

Two factors were making it difficult in this country to increase her agricultural production. The first was that the young people were not remaining on the land. The average age of the farmers in Canada was on the increase as a result of this exodus of young people a condition that called for serious consideration. The second reason was that there was no longer any free land available Plenty of unused land existed but it was owned by somebody and no longer could be had for nothing, creating a new situation.

Mr. Armstrong declared there was no question about markets. The demand for farm products would continually increase and it was Canada's duty to take advantage of this situation by increasing her production.

In this development, he urged upon city men the necessity of co-operation with the farmers who could not be expected to assume the whole burden. In the matter of transportation, financing, labour, turnover and other factors entering into the question these problems could only be solved by city people and from them the speaker pleaded for assistance in order that this country's production might be increased in pace with the growth of available markets.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Armstrong on motion of Rotarian G. A. Gillespie on behalf of the farmer guests and of the members of the Rotarian Club.

Brazil has the lowest rate of taxation of any country. It is about $5 an individual a year, this amount being only one-sixth of the rate in the United States.

DR. PRATT BEGINS LECTURE SERIES

Delights Large Audience With First Talk on American Poetry.

Professor E. J. Pratt, of Victoria University, Toronto, who gave a series of delightful lectures on Literature at the Young Women's Christian Association last season, had a large audience last evening for the commencement of this year's series of addresses, which are starting with two lectures on American Poetry, followed by an address on the speaker's own work ,and a trio of lectures, after Christmas, on several of Shakespeare's work, "Romeo and Juliet" and "Hamlet."

The charming manner of address which characterizes Dr. Pratt's lectures gains him at once the undivided attention of his audience ,and was noticeable on Friday night in a discourse on American Literature which commenced with a reference to Vachell Lindsay, called the "jazz poet of America." Lindsay has introduced in his work a development of the negro spiritual which has become so popular in vocal melodies, of late years. He tries to show the relationship between poetry and song, and his verses should be chanted rather than read. Illustrations of this author's peculiar and striking trend was given in "The Congo," a story of the negro race and a descriptive thing, supposed to be given by a negro preacher, centering around the storied character of Simon Legree. "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Night" was another illustrative bit of the work of this composer.

"Turning the Babies in the Bed" was a whimsical, sympathetic bit in negro dialect, the work of Paul Lawrence Dunbar, also illustrated in "A Coquette Conquered." Compositions of Irwin Russell ,the first Southern writer to appreciate the possibilities of the negro character in verse, were given in "Blessing the Dance" and "The First Banjo."

"Our Two Opinions," by Eugene Field ,who wrote always for newspapers, was another much-enjoyed quotation of the work of American versifiers. The president of the Y.W.C.A., Miss Margaret Hamilton, presided last evening, and a very enjoyable musical interlude was afforded in the numbers sung and played by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park and Miss Mary Agnes Logan. Mrs. Park sang 'Hark! the Echoing Air a Triumph Sings," by Purcell, and "Ah Love! But a Day." Miss Logan played Grainger's arrangement of "Londonderry Air" and Schubert's "Moment Musicale."

FARM STOCK IS NEGLECTED

VERY EMACIATED.

Humane Inspector R. C. Smith and Provincial Constable N. F. Maker in response to complaints received of animals and fowl starving on a farm in Douro, on Saturday investigated the case and found 31 geese, 17 turkeys, 3 chickens, and 3 head of cattle in what they say was a very emaciated condition. The cattle were foraging in the snow covered field and were much better off than the fowl.

The seventeen geese and one of the turkeys were discovered in the cellar of the house in about a foot of water said Inspector Smith. The door was securely locked and barred and no one was found around the premises. The officers broke the door in and drove the geese out but the turkey was in such a weak condition it could not walk. To rescue the turkey Inspector Smith had to crawl over several ralls and boxes.

The fowl apparently had not been fed for several days although the officers found a quantity of oats in a box. A neighbouring farmer was asked to look after the fowl and the turkey was given to him to keep in a warm place.

The house which belongs to an old lady about 75 years of age was in a very filty condition and the woman was reported to be staying in this city.

Provincial Constable Maker is trying to locate the owner and have her either dispose of her poultry or look after them.

Officers of St. James' Mission Band Provide Treat For Children.

A splendid meeting of the Mission Band of St' James' United Church was held at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. Elliott, on Saturday afternoon. The President, Mabel Copson, was in the chair and all the other officers were in their places. Over thirty members were present to enjoy the Christmas music in solos, duets, and choruses.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by the president. The heralds reporting were: Africa, Dorothy Drysdale; Indian, Alma Walsh; India, Doreen Elliott; and Korean, Dorothy Frost.

Soloists were Thelma McLaren and Miss Mae Ritchie. Duets were sung by Nellie Payne and Dorothy Dudgeon, while Jean Rose and Eleanor Gibson sang with ukulele accompaniment.

At the conclusion of the program the children were given a treat by the officers and a happy hour was spent in games. All those who helped make the program such a success agreed that it was well worth while.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The third day's session of the Kuomintang, or Nationalist political organization, which is seeking to restore amity among the Nationalist faction, came to a sudden and unexpected end late today. MAKING IT EASY TO VOTE.

It will be interesting to study the figures of today's municipal election in St. Thomas where the Kiwanis Club has been making a whole-hearted effort to induce the citizens generally to do their full duty as electors.

The aim of the club was to persuade every elector to cast a ballot today, the slogan being "Every voter vote Monday—if you don't use your franchise don't criticize."

In order to make it an easy matter for everyone to use his franchise, the Kiwanians installed a special telephone in the City Hall, put some of its members most conversant with the city and the voters' list on duty, and supplied electors with the necessary information as to where they voted.

Furthermore, the club provided a fleet of cars that were kept in reserve at the City Hall to take care of any citizen who desired transportation to the polls.

With such service available there was not much excuse for residents of St. Thomas failing to exercise their franchise, and other municipalities worried over the same problem of how to secure an adequate expression of public opinion will watch with some interest the result of the Kiwanis experiment.

Considerable light is thrown upon the volume of business done by the Liquor Control Board by the financial statement just issued by the Provincial Treasurer.

Government sale of liquor has played a big part in giving Ontario its first surplus in recent years.

In the five months of the Liquor Control Board's operations up to the end of October a net profit of $2,800,000 on sales and an additional $500,000 for permits was derived and turned into the Provincial Treasury.

At that rate the next fiscal year promises to supply a net profit from liquor sales of around $7,000,000, a figure that may indeed be exceeded by reason of the establishment of more stores and of the expected growth in tourist traffic next summer.

It is reasonable to suppose that with such profits in sight the Government will feel called upon to provide some relief for the municipalities of the Province, particularly as they have been in many cases been forced to assume extra expenses because of the operations of the Liquor Control Act.

Big however as the estimated net revenue from the sale of liquor may seem, it does not come near taking care of the expenditure on roads, which during the year just closed amounted to $14,000,000, while education took nearly $10,000,000 from the Provincial Treasury.

MONEY IN THE BANK.

For the first time in recent years the Province of Ontario is able to show a surplus for the fiscal year ending October 31st.

Hon. J. D. Monteith, the Provincial Treasurer, in bringing down his pre-sessional financial statement, makes the cheerful announcement that the Province is $287,990 to the good on the year's operations, a very welcome contrast to the $15,000,000 deficit in the last year of the Drury regime.

The surplus has been attained after taking care of last year's deficit of $812,140, providing for the discount of bonds, and better than all, after paying off $3,007,000 of the Provincial debt under the 40-year debt retirement scheme inaugurated by the Ferguson Government.

The statement makes good reading for the people of the Province, particularly as it gives good reason for expecting further tax reductions when the Budget is brought down.

There will undoubtedly be some slashing done, perhaps in the direction of relieving municipalities and of a further cutting of the amusement tax so as to eliminate the tax on all tickets costing 50 cents and under.

The cost of automobile licenses will also come down, but in spite of the surplus, an increase in the tax on gasoline is expected, inasmuch as the Government is solid in maintaining that those who use the roads the most should pay for their maintenance proportionately.

The healthy condition of the Provincial finances is a matter upon which the Province is to be congratulated.

FOOLISH HOARDING.

A canvasser for charitable funds a few days ago told of homes where he was refused money for poor people, when he was confident that the poverty of those who refused to contribute was not real; that there were misers still abroad in the land.

It is stated that there are on this continent more than eight thousand people definitely classed as misers, with forty-five million dollars hidden away in the proverbial de-spouted tea urn, in walls, socks, under floors and various other places. It is estimated that among the foreign born in Canada and the United States, including the rural communities, earnings amounting to about four hundred million dollars are kept out of circulation, from which no person receives any income. The following items, giving individual instances, are interesting:

"A woman placed a number of bills in a tin can, hid the can in the stove, then forgot all about it and built a fire."

"A taxicab driver left an estate of $25,000, part of it secured in the tubing of a hidden bed."

"A second-hand dealer discovered in an old stove which he had purchased, the sum of $4,200 wrapped in a newspaper."

"Five thousand dollars in bills were used to kindle a fire the other day. A man drew his life's savings from the bank and neglected to tell his wife that he had left it, wrapped in a newspaper, in the kitchen. That was the newspaper she used to start the fire."

"A man hid $6,000 in a box recently, somewhere on his premises, and told his wife that sometime before he died he would tell her where he had hidden it. Dying suddenly and quite unexpectedly, he passed out before he had time to disclose to her the whereabouts of the box."

There is room for advice here as to the proper handling of money. Such hoarding as the above is uneconomical and foolish. No one is benefitted by it. If these several amounts had been invested say in life insurance premiums, for instance, the money would have been wisely and carefully placed in securities by those responsible as custodians, resulting in the nation's growth commercially and assuring to the depositor a return of his money for himself or his dependents.

A "DEEP FUNDAMENTAL FRIENDSHIP."

(From The Washington Star, Nov. 12.)

In connection with the beautiful ceremonies held at Arlington yesterday on the occasion of the unveiling, the tender and the acceptance of the cross given by Canada in admiring memory of United States citizens who died in service with Dominion troops, Washington enjoyed a military spectacle as unusual and educational as it was colorful and inspiring.

For the first time, as far as can be ascertained, Washington had the privilege of the sight and the sound of a full Highland pipe band—a score of pipers and half as many drummers. As this picturesque unit, resplendent in tartans and ostrich plumes, paraded the greensward in slow time, with muffled drums and with pipes pealing the strains of that most popular of "Laments," "The Flowers of the Forest"—now withered away, as the old song has it—it may have come to the minds of those there that bodies of American lads washed ashore on Hebridean isles from torpedoed troop ships were carried reverently to lonely hillside graves and preceded by young boys and old men playing "Lochaber No More" in friendly sorrow.

The flags; the brilliantly uniformed ranks, standing vis-a-vis to equal lines of United States troops clad in that olive drab which was worn in war by all born both south and north of the three-thousand-mile-long and utterly unfortified border line; the sacred music of the church militant; the azure sky; the hues of the trees, which seemed to have been kept on beyond their time in honor of the visitors from the land of the maple leaf—all these were but adjuncts of an evident feeling of deepest and friendliest sentiment, which reached its climax in the brief but eloquently heartfelt speeches of the War Secretaries of the two commonwealths.

It is safe to say that not a man, woman or child who was present came away without being the better for witnessing this exemplification of the deep fundamental friendship between the two great peoples who speak the same language and fight for the same cause. Furthermore, it is a pity that Americans of a certain type just now in the limelight, in whose oddly developed minds the dates 1776, 1812, 1917 and 1927 seem to have become inextricably mixed, could not have been there in full force and to have come away more wise, more thoughtful and, above all, more silent.

ONTARIO'S MINERAL WEALTH.

Ontario's great mineral area continues to justify the optimistic promise of increasing production. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, estimates that the output for this year, based on nine months' records, will exceed that of 1926 by $6,000,000. The chief gain is in gold, with an increased value of $850,000. Nickel is a close second. Silver, owing to decline in price, shows a falling off in production value. There are declines also in production values of platinum metals and lead, but a gain appears in both metallic copper and exported matte.

It is, however, over a period of years that the true perspective can be had of the mineral development of the Province. As new mines are opened up and the long and expensive process necessary for getting ore to the market proceeds, the value of production mounts. The peak of gold output so far has been in 1925, when it reached $30,206,432 in value. This was $6,000,000 more than the estimated value for this year, which reflects the clean-up by Hollinger of low-grade ore. But in 1921 Ontario's gold output was valued at only $14,692,357. In 1922 it was $20,579,369. In 1923 it was slightly less, and the following year it climbed to $25,669,303. In 1925 Canada stood next to the Transvaal and the United States in gold production, and nearly 90 per cent. of the product came from this Province. The Dominion accounted for 11 per cent. of the world's output. In 1913 less than 4 per cent. was from Canada, and of this slightly more than 4 per cent. was Ontario production. This change has necessarily focused world attention on Ontario's possibilities in the yellow metal. At present Canada is the hope of the monetary gold standard. In the fifteen years ending 1925 world production of gold declined 12 per cent. In the United States it went back 45 per cent.; in Mexico, 15 per cent.; in Oceania, 75 per cent.; in California, 33 per cent.; in Rhodesia, 15 per cent.; in West Australia, 66 per cent.; in India, 20 per cent. The Transvaal showed a gain of 8 per cent. in the same period. Canada gained 112 per cent. Ontario gained 556 per cent. And "the surface has not yet been scratched."

The potentialities of Ontario's mineral areas are unknown, but they have produced, so far, to a value of approximately $1,500,000,000, and thorough scientific development may be said to have only commenced. More than half of the output has been metallic. In this classification silver has led in value, with nickel second and gold third. One-third of the production has been in structural materials. It seems to be apparent, however, that untold wealth remains in a wide variety of earth's products, and that it will be revealed in increasing volume for many years.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is necessary now to add the name of Hon. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, to the list of political Santas. That surplus is a welcome Christmas gift.

The garbage collectors want more money. Another indication that with them business is picking up.

Many Ontario municipalities are electing their civic governments today, whereas here in Peterborough we don't even know the names of our prospective candidates yet.

As a result of the Ontario Government's surplus, a further cut in the amusement tax is foreshadowed. It will be popularly received.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—Active buying of a more general character than for some time sprung up in the grain markets on Saturday. Nearly all-around buoyancy resulted, with reduced estimates current regarding the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat and with May oats establishing a new high record for the season. Bull leaders contended that grain had got out of a rut, and are in a period of advancing prices.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾ to ⅞c net higher; corn ⅝ to ⅞ and 1c up; oats at ½ and ¼ to ⅝c gain, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 17c.

New unofficial estimates at hand from various sources placed the Argentine exportable wheat surplus at 137,000,000 to 140,000,000 bushels. These figures were in sharp contract with a recent British estimate of 168,000,000 bushels, a sharper much to stimulate buying of future deliveries in the wheat market here. The fact that on the advances which ensued big sales to realize profits were readily absorbed spoke volumes for the increased demand in evidence.

Upturns in wheat values here were also in the face of disappointing cables from Liverpool that told of increased offerings of Argentine wheat in Europe. Bulls in Chicago, however, gave little heed to the Liverpool advices, and likewise paid scant attention to word that fresh export business in wheat from North America appeared slow. An outstanding feature was relative strength of the December delivery of wheat here as compared with May. This was explained as due to the fact that with Winter wheat here commanding a high premium, December contracts in Chicago apparently must be filled by shipments of Spring wheat from Minneapolis or Duluth.

Corn was influence by indications that consumer demand for that grain is far in excess of daily receipts. Country offerings of corn to arrive were light despite bulges in price. Good demand was reported for all grades of oats, with premiums being paid as compared with future deliveries.

Provisions averaged steady to firm, sympathizing with grain.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in grain here Saturday was extremely quiet owing to the fact that new crop Argentine wheat can be bought at lower prices than Canadian.

Owing to the further strength in oat futures at Winnipeg a stronger feeling developed in the local market for cash grain and prices were advanced one to two cents per bushel.

The flour trade was without any new feature to note, prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades being well maintained but the volume of business was small.

The trade in all lines of millfeed continued active and the tone of the market was firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was good and values were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 208 cases.

The undertone to the butter market continued easy, but there was no further change in prices. The demand continued dull. The receipts were 462 packages.

Extreme dullness again marked the cheese trade, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 810 boxes.

CAUGHT BAD COLD WHILE OUT PLAYING NOT PROPERLY DRESSED

Mrs. L. Mantie, Millet, Alta., writes:—"My youngest child had a very bad cold which she got by going out playing in a strong, cold wind not properly dressed.

"She got so hoarse she could hardly speak, and her throat and chest were very sore.

"I used everything available, but she received no relief until, finally, I secured a bottle of

and the first few doses certainly did her good. It is wonderful how it can help so quickly."

cling its lower edge, spoke a few words of welcome on behalf of her fellow-pupils, and invited the faculty to take places with her behind the footlights. Miss Muir, principal, "our dramatic director"; Miss Wagenest, "our musical director", and the assistant, Mr. H. Jordan, "our business manager," were then presented with beautiful bouquets of 'mums and roses for the ladies, and a handsome tie pin to the gentleman, as marks of appreciation from their scholars. Pearl Carl, Ruby Cunningham, and Norman McBain proferred the gifts.

Brief addresses were made by the teaching staff expressing their gratitude for the tangible evidences of esteem and understanding, and the chairman then introduced Mr. Adrian McDonald, of the Peterborough Normal School staff, who gave a comprenensive synopsis of Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," up to the time of the "Trial Scene," which was presented in a most commendable manner by the following cast: Portia, Bertha Lang; Shylock, Piercey Pitt; Bassanio, Gordon Armstrong; Gratiano, Eddie Nattress; Nerissa, Elizabeth Russell; The Duke, Aubrey Todd; Salerio, Albert Doak; Attendants, Donald Henry and Garnett Russell; Clerk, William Todd.

Mr. McDonald, who had a fund of humor in connection with his most interesting and instructive talk, completed the story when the disappointed Shylock had dragged himself, unwillingly, from the court room and Portia had persuaded Bassanio to part with his signet ring, in gratitude for her services. The National Anthem brought a very successful entertainment to a close. Receipts were well over $100.00.

POLISH DELEGATION

the disarmament discussions, and earnestly voiced the hope that they would be the precursor of further international collaboration.

Another question which M. Briand broached to M. Litvinoff was Paul-Boncour's plan for a continental security pact, with Russia included, believing that this would immensely improve the chances of success of the disarmament conference.

The Russians, it is understood, gave indications that they contemplated additional co-operation whenever possible.

When it came to lending a helping hand to improvement of Russo-British relations, the French foreign minister met with stony ground. Both M. Litvinoff and Sir Austen Chamberlain readily expressed willingness to see each other, but neither apparently was ready to assume responsibility of proposing an interview, and diplomatic niceties, or apprehensions, threatened to render sterile all attempts of third parties to bring them together.

"We have no diplomatic relations with Great Britain," said the Soviet spokesman, "hence there is no reason why Russia, even though only represented by the vice foreign minister, should take the initiative for a meeting with the British foreign secretary."

Spends Busy Day.

This was one of the busiest days of his career for M. Briand. One by one the statesmen and diplomats of Europe entered his study for crisp half-hour talks. After lunching with Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain, M. Briand received the Russian delegates, then Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister, and after him Eduard Benes, of Czecho-Slovakia, and many others, including Zaleski of Poland; Politics, Greece, and Scialoia.

The Polish-Lithuanian dispute is the most important of the problems to be taken up at this session of the League Council, which opens to-day under the presidency of Mr. Cheng-Loh, the Chinese Minister to France.

SPEND DAY IN CONFERENCE.

LONDON, December 5 (Canadian Press). — The Daily Telegraph will publish the following from its Geneva correspondent:

Lord Cushendun, chief British delegate to the League of Nations, postpond his departure from Geneva and had a long conversation with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, yesterday morning. This has been a day of meetings. Sir Austen with his wife had luncheon with M. Briand at the latter's hotel, after which the two ministers had a long talk over the coming meeting of the League Council.

Shortly after Sir Austen left M. Briand, Maxim Litvinoff and Lunarcharsky, the Soviet delegates, visited M. Briand and remained a half-hour. On their leaving I asked M. Litvinoff if a meeting with Austen Chamberlain had been arranged. He replied that he had not yet received an invitation to such a meeting.

Sir Austen Chamberlain yesterday also was seen by the Chinese and Rumanian representatives, the latter informing him that they were doubtful whether the health of M. Titulesco (the Rumanian delegate) would enable him to come to Geneva.

Finally Chamberlain received M. Zaleski, the Polish Foreign Minister, who informed him that in conversation earlier in the day M. Briand had impressed upon him (Zaleski) the necessity of arriving at a friendly understanding with Lithuania so that commercial relations may be re-established and the black cloud overhanging Eastern Europe be lifted.

M. Zaleski promised to wire asking Marshal Pilsudski whether the latter was coming to Geneva or not.

Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, arrived only yesterday afternoon and paid his respects to his colleagues. With his arrival all the members of the League Council are now assembled. As at present arranged, M. Litvinoff should leave today, but as he originally contemplated a stay until after the New Year for the January meeting of the preparatory commission, circumstances may yet change his plans.

The French delegation absolutely deny the truth of the reported projected visit of M. Briand to Rome to consult with Premier Mussolini. Should such a meeting become desirable after the meeting of the Council has ended, it will occur half-way, probably on the Italian Riviera, but nothing is definitely settled.

In regard to Russo-British relations it is useless to beat about the bush. The Russian delegation assert that they are anxious to arrive at a friendly understanding and are prepared to give guarantees that there will be no attempt on their part to interfere with internal affairs of the British Empire. They positively deny having ever carried on propaganda by stealth as whatever their revolutionary doctrine may be it has always been openly declared by them.

FIXED RATE FOR CUBAN EXPORTS

Will Be Admitted To Canada For Year Under Intermediate Rate.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—For the year 1928 Cuban exports will be admitted to Canada under the intermediate tariff rate. An Order-in-Council made public last night makes this arrangement for the twelve-month period with the provision that a trade convention with the republic may fix other tariff rates.

The order states that it has been brought to the attention of the Minister of Finance that if the benefit of the intermediate tariff was extended to Cuba it would result in an advantage to Canadian trade. The Cuban Government has assured Canada that in return "they will apply to goods the produce or manufacture of Canada on their importation into Cuba the duties of the general tariff of the Cuban Customs tariff in force at any time."

Cuban goods must be imported direct in order to secure the benefit of the Canadian intermediate tariff. The order also makes a provision for maritime trade: "In order to secure the advantages such products shall only be deemed to be imported direct when conveyed without trans-shipment from a Cuban port or from a port of a country enjoying the preferential or intermediate tariff into a sea or river port of Canada.

The balance of trade in recent years has been in favor of Cuba. During the six months ended September, Canada exported to Cuba goods valued at $2,148,000 and imported goods worth $3,700,000. Under a new tariff schedule recently announced by Cuba, there are substantial increases in duties affecting Canadian products, particularly potatoes.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5.—The home cooking sale held in the sample rooms on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Seymour West branch of the Women's Institute, was probably the most successful sale of its kind to be held this season. Shortly after four o'clock, the entire stock-in-trade had been disposed of. A man who visited the sale about half-past four thought he would be in plenty of time to select something tasty for his evening meal. Much to his chagrin, he found only a solitary pie of the huckleberry variety and a comb of buckwheat honey. The honey was already sold so he purchased the pie. One of the ladies whose heart was somewhat softer than the others, agreed to part with the honey. She had purchased it for her own use, but no doubt thought she saw a coyetous look in the young man's eyes. Anyway he got the honey.

The sudden cold snap has brought a harvest to the garage men. Besides selling an unusually large amount of anti-freeze, there has been a continuous call for service on the road and in the private garages of the local motorists. In most cases, men who simply get in and step on the starter, were rather peeved to find that such was not to be the case. Frequently it was necessary to tow the cars for considerable distances before the motors could be made to function properly.

A few minutes after Cherry, still rougeless and subdued, had left for the office with Bob, Faith entered her sister's room to bathe, dress and feed the baby. Ever since Hope had been kidnapped by Cherry's divorced husband, Chris Wiley, Cherry had uncomplainingly and with a regularity that amazed her sister awakened each morning at six to prepare her baby's bottle.

But this Thursday morning when Faith entered her sister's room she saw at once that the inexplicable change in Cherry had found other expression than in the leaving off of rouge and the wearing of an unbecoming dress. For the baby, sitting proudly erect in her crib and playing with a red rubber ball which Cherry had brought home a day or two before, had already been bathed and dressed in one of the little hand-embroidered white dimity frocks that Faith had made for her. And the room itself was orderly, Cherry's bed smoothly made, all evidences of the baby's bath removed, the aluminum pan and the shiningly clean bottle sunning on the window ledge—mute and touching witnesses to the fact that Cherry had not slept after six o'clock, if indeed she had slept before that time.

Faith prepared the baby's second feeding, and was brooding over the child's sweetness and beauty as well as over Cherry's astonishing behavior when Rhoda appeared in the doorway, both hands clasped about a tall, green vase in which were arranged the magnificent golden-yellow roses which Nils had sent and which Cherry had apparently scorned.

"I thought I'd better put these roses in Miss Cherry's room," Rhoda said, her eyes averted from Faith's, her plump, pretty face clouded with trouble.

"Rhoda," Faith began abruptly, "why are you unhappy? What are you afraid of? Something is troubling you. Can't you tell me?"

Rhoda flushed and her hands trembled as she set the vase upon the baby's chiffonier. "It's her—Miss Cherry," she blurted out. "I—I don't want her to hurt Nils. He's my brother—all I've got left—and I'm crazy about him. Oh, I wish he'd never come. I told you not to send for him!"

"But Rhoda," Faith puzzled, "I don't understand. My sister does not seem to like Nils, though I think he's rather wonderful myself. What makes you think she will hurt him?"

"At first," Rhoda answered, ignoring Faith's question, her turquoise-blue eyes looking desperately in every direction but at her questioner, "I thought Nils would hurt her because he wouldn't fall in love with her and she would want to make him love her, like all the girls do. And then as soon as he saw her—"

"Wait, Rhoda!" Faith commanded sharply. "Do you mean to tell me that Nils is a heart-breaker, that he takes pleasure in having girls fall in love with him?"

"Oh, no!" Rhoda was shocked. "It's not like that at all. Nils doesn't pay any attention to any girl. But they all fall in love with him just the same and bother the life out of him. He's never acted even the least bit interested in a girl until now, and she—she acts like she's insulted! As if she thought she was better than Nils. Oh, I wish he hadn't come here!"

DECISION UPHELD.

Appeal of James Akey Against Conviction For Having Liquor Dismissed.

His Honor Judge Huycke thtis week in Cobourg issued his decision in the appeal of James Akey, Peterborough, who was convicted of having liquor in an automobile by County Magistrate W. H. Floyd at Alderville in September and was fined $100 and costs.

The judgment, upholding the Magistrate, reads: "After hearing the argument, I have read carefully the record and all exhibits on file. I am quite unable to see that the Magistrate has erred, in fact from my perusal of the evidence, I should agree with him. The appeal is therefore dismissed."

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5. — The fire alarm which sounded shortly after ten o'clock Friday morning was not exactly a false alarm, but the fire had been extinguished by the time the local brigade arrived. This was because men in the vicinity were sufficiently cool-headed to extinguish the fire and not simply become panic stricken.

A few Campbellford people are attending the dance in Brighton being given under the auspices of the Canadian Legion there.

There seems to be sufficient evidence to warrant a statement that square dancing is meeting with the approval of local dancers. Friday night there was a larger crowd than ever at the Community Hall, also the dancing was of a much better calibre. This is due, no doubt, to the larger percentage of older people who are apt masters at quadrilles but are not greatly in favor of the modern round dances. It is a revelation to watch some of these older people who, when met on the street, seem almost feeble, stepping it off in fine style. Because that is exactly how they do it. Never a miss and never an error do they make. Figure after figure and set after set, they take the floor and actually dance rings around the younger set. Without doubt, the old-fashioned dances will be revived in due time.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

"Jeannette's" Launch Mammoth Overloaded Sale of Stylish Ladies' Ready-to-Wear This Week.

An announcement of interest to the ladies of Peterborough and district is being made by the already popular Jeannette Style Store. It comes in the form of a mammoth sale of cloth coats, fur coats, hats, dresses, and fur neckpieces, which will commence on Thursday, December 8th, at 8.30 a.m. sharp. The management, who, after 10 years of successful service in Toronto's foremost retail stores, have been rapidly gaining popularity in Peterborough and now promise a real sensation with this sale.

Only a few months in business means that everything is fresh and new, with more arriving daily.

Backward weather conditions have retarded movement, until right now there is a considerable overload of fine ladies' wear, and this must be reduced, regardless of cost or values. Everything will be marked at unheard of price cuts, including garments not three days in the store. To give customers who have a fur coat in mind an equal chance to effect a big saving, all fur coats will be given the same heavy price slash as other goods, and carry Jeannette's absolute guarantee as well. This is an opportunity to purchase the smartest and best in ladies' ready-to-wear, just when needed and at after season prices.

Watch for the big advertisement in Wednesday's Examiner, and be prepared for the most startling values of the season.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When finger bowls are brought in on doilies set in dessert plates, how does one proceed?
2. When finished with dessert, what should one do?
3. Is it proper to dip in the fingers of both hands simultaneously?

The Answers:
1. Remove fingerbowl with doilie and place at left of your plate.
2. Unless the waiter removes your plate, place it a little to on side and draw your fingerbowl near enough to use.
3. One at a time is a more graceful method.

PRICKLY PEARS

Prickly pears make a nourishing salad if sliced with tomatoes and served with mayonnaise and grated cheese. Serve on Romaine instead of lettuce.

BAKED TURNIPS

Turnips, if cooked a short time in boiling water without cover, are delicious if baked with rich cream sauce and strips of pimento.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SKIPPER'S SURPRISE

"Are we going to take Skipper for a ride today, Daddicums?" asked Jingle, one of the forty 'leven little bunny rabbit children who lived in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. "Are we going to ride our cricket in his new little peanut sled?"

"Oh, I guess so," answered Mr. Longears.

"And this month is Christmas, too! Isn't it, Daddicums?" asked Jingle.

"What you s'pose Santa Claus will bring me?" Baby Bunted wanted to know. "Will it be a new doll?"

"And will he bring me a pair of skates?" asked Bumper.

"I want a baseball bat. Can I have that?" asked Stumper.

"And can I help you pull Skipper in his peanut sled?" cried Custer, while his brother Buster opened his mouth ready to ask a question.

"Oh, dear me! So many things as you want to know all at once!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, holding his paws over his ears. "Yes, we shall take Skipper for a ride, but not until you come home from school!" he said quickly, and the children, who had started to shout, thinking they would have a holiday, looked disappointed, until Jingle said:

"Come on, then!" called Jangle. "The quicker the time passes the sooner it will be Christmas; don't you think so, Daddicums?"

"Oh, yes!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Hop along to school now, and when you come home we'll take Skipper for a ride."

Away hopped the bunny children, while in his snug, warm corner, near the hearth fire, Skipper, the cricket, sang "Tweet! Tweet! Tweet!"

"Shall you be glad to go riding in the little peanut-shell sled I made for you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes," answered the black insect, sticking his head out of his warm crack hole. "But I hope I don't catch cold."

"I have lined your peanut sled with warm cotton from the milkweed pod," said the rabbit gentleman. "Here it is, all ready for you, as soon as the children come home from school."

It was true enough. Uncle Wiggily had found the cricket a few days before, rolling himself along inside a walnut shell on his way to find a warm place to stay for the winter. The rabbit gentleman took the cricket home with him and the black insect, hearing the rabbit children tell of their fun in coasting down hill, said he wished he could join them. So Uncle Wiggily made a tiny sled out of half a peanut shell, and put in it some cotton fluff from a milkweed pod. Nurse Jane had gathered many of the milkweed pods in the fall to use the cotton in making a bedquilt.

After a while the rabbit children came home from school. Uncle Wiggily was waiting for them and called to Skipper the cricket:

"Hop out now and get in your sled. We're going to take you for a ride." Out from between the bricks hopped Skipper, his tiny eyes shining with excitement. Uncle Wiggily lifted up the top layer of cotton, Skipper snuggled down on the bottom layer and then he was warmly covered by the rabbit gentleman.

"Now you children run outside!" Mr. Longears told the bunnies, "and I'll come out with Skipper. You get your own sleds and I'll pull the peanut one." Away ran the children, laughing and clapping their paws for joy. Uncel Wiggily went to get a drink of water and then he hauled the tiny peanut sled out of his bungalow and, lifting it down the steps, began to run it along the snowy path.

"Aren't you having a nice ride, Skipper?" asked Uncle Wiggily, looking behind him. "How do you like it?" There was no answer from the cricket.

"I guess he's gone to sleep, he's so nice and warm inside his cotton covers," said Jingle.

"Maybe he has," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Well, let him sleep. I'll give him a nice ride." So the bunny uncle drew the peanut sled around the bungalow, and he let Jingle, Jangle and some of the children bunnies have a turn at pulling it. But though they called to Skipper from time to time he did not answer.

"How soundly he sleeps!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I guess it's time to wake him up, now, and take him back to the warm fireplace." But what a surprise there was! For when Mr. Longears lifted the top layer of cotton, there was no cricket in the peanut sled at all. Skipper was gone! He wasn't there! What a surprise!

"Oh, he must haev fallen out in the snow!" cried Jingle. "We must look for him!"

Cheap Furs! Cheap Furs!

Something For Nothing?

FUR COATS represented as "Exceptional Bargains" are being offered in many quarters bearing such inducements as these:—

Persian Lamb Coats, worth $175.00, for $125.00.
Electric Seal Coats, unusual values, marked down $55.00.
Hudson Near Seal Coats, $165.00, worth $250.00.

What They Really Are

In order to show just what these garments are, we have procured samples—which can be seen here. But! instead of $125.00 for this "bargain" Persian Lamb you can have it for $90.00, and this Seal Coat marked down to $55.00 can be had for $35.00. If more are wanted, we can procure them, as we make our regular profit at these prices.

Why We Don't Stock and Sell Them

You naturally ask: "Why don't you stock and sell them?" We answer: "They are trash, and no good fur house which has a reputation and a character to sustain, dare sell his trade such merchandise, as they can't give service."

Patched pieces, and poorly-dressed, badly dyed, or "burnt" skins have to be disposed of, and once in this class, no matter how rich the fur or the lustre, they have to be sold for whatever they will bring, as their usual market values are ruined. Made up to look sightly, long profits are made by persons so disposed to do. And the customer gets no more than he pays for, only he generally pays too much.

Something For Nothing?

IS WORTH EXACTLY NOTHING

Remember also that in reading of "20% to 50% discounts" one cannot take discounts off unless they are first put on. Goods apparently discounted during the seasonal demand are not worth their marked prices, else Why the discount?

3 Hygienic Worries

Women Formerly Experienced

Uniquely Overcome

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

OLD-TIME "sanitary pads" are largely being supplanted now. They lacked efficiency in three embarrassing ways. 8 in 10 better-class women now employ a new way called KOTEX.

Kotex ends the fear of light frocks and long hours under the most severe hygienic situation. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent, it is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad.

It ends also another worry—it deodorizes completely as it acts. And it ends forever the embarrassment of disposal. It discards like tissue; no laundry.

Get Kotex at any store. 12 in box. Look for name "Kotex" on box. If not there, watch out; it isn't genuine Kotex.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS AT 'CLERICY' MINING CAMP

COPPER HILL FEATURES FAVORABLE REPORT.

Outstanding features in Canada's mine industry for the years 1926 and 1927 have undoubtedly been the revelation of new mineral wealth and the development of new mining camps in all sections of its area, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the advent into Canadian mining circles of great mining interests, having headquarters in both Great Britain and the United States.

As a matter of fact, from the early days of Cobalt to the present time, Ontario mining camps have been especially fortunate in attracting the attention of some one or more of the mining corporations of recognized importance and reputation.

The early attention paid to Cobalt by Col. W. B. Thompson and E. P. Earle and the interest in those early discoveries displayed by the Guggenheims, the Lewissohns, John Hays Hammond and Barney Baruch did much to awaken the world-wide interest that came later on.

In those days Ontario had no great mining corporations such as she has today and had to look to outside capital.

In the same way the other camps of the North have been fortunate in securing men of importance in the mining world to interest themselves in the early discoveries. This outside capital having been enlisted, persistence of effort was assured and encouragement given to both the small operator and the prospector to continue their efforts.

Capital and persistent efforts have made the great mining camps of Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec what they are today. The recent market activity is only the culminating point, that was bound to follow the great prospecting and mining activity that has prevailed during the past few years throughout the mining areas of the North.

Probably no new mining camp of the Northland has so suddenly jumped into the limelight as Northern Quebec's newest camp at "Clericy."

It was only in the spring of the current year that active development of the discoveries began. Today a dozen properties are being actively developed. Shafts have been sunk to varying depth, the deepest probably being 125 feet, and an immense amount of trenching and Radiore surveying has been done.

A railway station has been provided and a busy mining town is being built up.

Copper Hill Mines, Limited, has been one of the most active companies operating in this district. Under the direction of Mr. Julius M. Cohen, M.E., work has been carried on with exceptionally encouraging results during past six months. Diamond drilling in each of the seven holes put down revealed ore in every hole across widths varying from 22 feet to 54 feet, giving evidence of a massive ore body heavily impregnated with chalcopyrite.

A shaft has been sunk on this ore body and is now down more than 60 feet, and the importance of the showing to date is evinced in the report recently made by Mr. N. O. Lawton, who recently inspected the property for Mr. August Heckscher of New York City, whose mining interests are diversified and located in many camps in the United States and Canada and known to Canadians because of his directorship in the Nipissing Board.

Mr. Heckscher is a multi-millionaire, widely known as the former owner of the New Jersey Zinc Co. His entry into Northern Quebec, following his acquisition of a very substantial interest in the Copper Hill Company, involving a considerable cash investment, is bound to attract other operators.

Mr. Lawton's recent visit to the Noranda property so enthused him with the possibilities of Northern Quebec that he availed himself of his visit there to inspect and report on Copper Hill for Mr. Heckscher.

He expressed himself in favorable terms and endorsed the operations to date by the resident engineer, Mr. Julius Cohen.

It means much to a new field like Clericy to have an engineer of Mr. Lawton's standing come out so outspokenly in expressing his favorable impressions.

Mr. Lawton's experience as an engineer and geologist has been a varied one, and he has occupied many very prominent positions in his profession.

After three years in the field for the Michigan Geological Survey (two of which he was in charge), he was chief engineer for the Penoka and Gogebic Consolidated Mines, with five operating iron mines and the Aurora Iron Mining Company. He was there for thirteen years and then took charge of the Iron Belt Mining Company's properties on the Iron Belt Wisconsin for six years. His labors were then varied by his becoming General Superintendent for the Newfoundland Exploration Company and the Terra Nova Company, remaining there three years. He then spent a year each with the Arnold Iron Mine of New York State and Brown Alaska Company and then become the Superintendent of Mines for the Miami Copper Company, Arizona, and as such planned the development and system of mining of the property.

For the last six years he has been consulting engineer for Mr. August Heckscher and has following his profession of consulting engineer in Salt Lake City.

Mr. Lawton, impressed with the massive showings of chalcopyrite on Copper Hill across commercial widths and with the results at depth on the Horne, is encouraged to look for similar conditions at depth in the Copper Hill. It has been established by the diamond drilling done to date that values and formation are sustained to the lowest point yet reached. Further diamond drilling and underground exploration will be vigorously prosecuted, as an ample treasury has been provided.

Owing to the depth of the overburden, trenching proved both slow and expensive, and a contract was let with the Radiore Company. Results were most satisfactory, and the presence established of mineralized zones over a very large proportion of the company's acreage. Eight conductors have been established by the Radiore on new ground recently

These will all be opened up by underground development, as a compressor has been set up, and sinking and drilling will now be done by air.

Active development on the Waite, recently acquired by the Noranda, is also beng vigorously prosecuted, and Clericy is today recognized as one of the permanent and most promising camps of the North.

OBITUARY

ZILLAH HAFFEY.

The death occurred in Bradford, Pennsylvania, on November 28th, of Zillah Haffey, only daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. J. K. Haffey and granddaughter of the late John Haffey of Peterborough. The deceased was also a cousin of Miss Emily T. Carew, formerly of Peterborough and an employee of The Examiner Company, and remembered by a large circle of friends here. Miss Carew made her home with the deceased lady during the past four years.

The Bradford "Era" makes an extended reference to Miss Zillah Haffey, alluding to her life as a "career of wholesome, ungrudging service. As instructor in kindergarten, teacher of night Americanization school, active club woman, participator in every movement for the public good, and, financially, as the rallying spirit in a movement to reorganize the Universalist church congregation in this city, Miss Haffey gave prodigally of intellectual and physical strength."

Going on to speak of the late Miss Haffey's enthusiastic support at all times of every movement having a sound moral background, and of the passion for helpfulness which led her to perform joyous service for all who applied to her for assistance, the article concludes with the pithy sentence: "Bradford is a better community because of her life among us."

Miss Haffey is survived by one brother, in Bradford, and two cousins, Miss Emily Carew and Mrs. Ross Klyne, of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

MRS. JOHN NORTHCOTT.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 5. — The funeral of the late Mrs. John Northcott took place on Friday afternoon, proceeding from her late residence on Chippewa Ave. to St. John's Church where the service was held. A large number attended to pay a last tribute of respect to one of the oldest residents of the village and one who was held in high esteem.

Rev. W. J. Creighton read the beautiful funeral service and spoke briefly of the one whose long and useful life on earth had ended and who had now entered into the higher life of the church expectant in paradise; Mr. Creighton spoke words of comfort to those who mourn a good mother and a kind friend and neighbour. Favorite hymns of the deceased lady were sung, Mrs. Todd presiding at the organ.

The pall bearers were Messrs W. Morrison, H. Wannamaker, W. Wannamaker, F. Hockaday, Charles Waldor, and Fred G. Kendall. Interment took place in the Lakefield cemetery.

Mrs. Northcott was well known in the village and the vicinity as one of the old residents as she had lived in the same house for fifty six years, bearing her part in the community life as a devoted wife and mother, and as a church worker, till failing health made active work out of the question but in her illness she retained her interest in the home life and the activities of the village and church.

BANK OF MONTREAL DURING FISCAL YEAR MAKES NOTABLE GAINS

Total Assets Are $831,548,967, An Increase of Over Fifty Millions For the Year—Liquid Assets Amount to $63.78 Per Cent. of Liabilities to the Public—$1,000,000 Added to Reserve.

Indicative of the marked expansion which has taken place throughout the Dominion of Canada, the Bank of Montreal is issuing to its shareholders an annual statement which shows a striking gain of fifty million dollars in total assets, to a new record level of $831,548,967. While a portion of this large increase is probably due to the handling of some special accounts, the whole statement reflects the greater amount of business being transacted throughout the country.

At the same time the Bank has maintained its usual strong liquid position, and out of its balance of profits has added a further $1,000,000 to Rest Account, bringing it up to $30,916,700, as against the Paid-Up Capital of $29,916,700. The bank premises account has been reduced $250,000.

The statement, which is for the fiscal year to October 31st, shows that the total assets of $831,548,967 have increased from $781,525,145 at the end of the previous year. Included are liquid assets of $481,996,915, equivalent to 63.78 per cent. of liabilities to the public, as compared with $424,919,084, or 60.30 per cent, a year ago. In liquid assets are cash on hand, represented by gold and subsidiary coin current, Dominion notes and deposit in Central Gold Reserves, amounting to $107,953,213, equal to 14.28 per cent of public liabilities, against $100,411,634, or 14.25 per cent. in the previous year.

Large Increase in Loans.

With the larger requirements for handling the business of the country, there has been a marked gain in loans, and holdings of government and municipal securities and railway and other bonds and stocks have also increased. Current loans in Canada are $255,155,693, as compared with $252,338,858. Call and short loans in Canada have increased to $29,719,404 from $15,486,054, and call and short loans in Great Britain and the United States of $151,281,604 compare with $145,325,247. The principal accounts in liquid assets include Dominion and Provincial Government securities of $86,760,587, compared with $79,157,614; Canadian Municipal securities and British, Foreign and Colonial Public securities $32,963,446, as against $29,230,754; railways and other bonds, debentures and stocks $5,344,028, up from $4,463,251.

With the strong position the Bank holds in all parts of the Dominion, deposits continue to show substantial increases. Deposits bearing interest now total $539,166,910, up from $515,925,640. Deposits not bearing interest are $161,060,302, which compare with $132,034,727, and probably reflect provision for special transactions being carried out at this time of the year.

The Profit and Loss Account shows a comfortable surplus, after the payment of dividends and charges.

BANDITS ARRESTED.

Windsor Man Charged With Hold-up of Cottage in Tecumseh.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—Joe Gardiner, 24, of Sandwich, charged with the hold-up of a Saturday night party in a cottage in Tecumseh, was arrested early yesterday by Windsor and Riverside police. Investigation indicated, police reported, that Gardiner was one of the merry party and that everything was all serene until the party grew rough and some person confiscated one of Joe's two revolvers. Joe, it seems, lost his temper and determined to have his gun back, lined every person along the wall for a search, incidentally banging away with a revolver to make his stunt all the more impressive. He got his gun back and left. He was followed into Windsor and arrested.

CHURCH SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

Rev. James Grier Preaches at Preparatory Service at St. Andrew's.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5.—A very representative congregation attended the preparatory service in St. Andrey's Presbyterian Church on Thursday. The Rev. James Grier based his remarks on the story of the fiery furnace and very deftly explained its significant relation to modern religion. A very gratifying fact to the church officials is the addition of nine new members to the roll of the church. Of these there were seven who united by certificate from other congregations and two who professed their faith in the gospels. There were also six infants baptized at the service.

The Dayspring Mission Band of St. John's United Church held their annual entertainment in the basement of the church. The record attendance shows the keen interest that is being taken in the work by the older members of the congregation and much credit is due to the officers of the band for the excellent training which they are affording the children. The youngsters themselves though a little stage struck acted their parts very cleverly and many of the parents went home feeling justly proud of their children.

Roseneath News

The attendance at the young people's play at Harwood was fitting tribute to the popularity of the piece. The cast was picked from the members of the Young People's Society of the Roseneath Anglican Church and the different parts were very cleverly acted.

A car belonging to ex-Constable Fewtrall was considerably damaged by fire last Tuesday night in Alderville.

Miss Annie Brown is confined to her bed through serious illness. Her condition is reported as improving nicely.

Roseneath citizens are very sad to know of the death of Mrs. McCulloch of Harwood. She is mourned by one daughter, Mrs. Southworth of Campbellford and four sons. The funeral service was Friday afternoon and interment at Bethesda Cemetery

TWO CONCERTS AT MILLBROOK

Minstrel Show By Local Talent Attracts Capacity House.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 5.—The entertainment given in the town hall on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 79, drew a full house and was evidently much enjoyed.

Local talent, assisted by a number of artists from Port Hope, were among the "Southern Minstrels" who entertained the audience with jokes, local hits, plantation melodies, etc., Stagg's orchestra, of Port Hope, providing the music for the concert and the dance following.

The 'minstrels' from Millbrook who took part, under Manager Harold Hunter, were: Maurice Gray, Piercey Pitt, Lawrence Ingram (end man), Melville Strong, George Clarke, and James McIvor. From Port Hope the performers were: Messrs. Al. Stagg, G. V. Strong, J. Winfield, F. Ough, James Thomas.

Specialty acts, solos, and clever sketches made up the section of the program contributed by the artists from the neighboring town, and rounds of applause greeted every number both from these, and the local men.

A large number remained for the dance after the concert, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Strong furnishing music for the square dance, and the visiting orchestra for the fox trots, waltzes, etc. It was well into the morning hours before the gathering finally dispersed.

Variety Concert.

Locally there has been a surfeit of entertainments recently which probably accounts for the decidedly small audience which greeted the Peterborough artists in their "Grand Variety Concert" given in the town hall on Wednesday evening.

A capacity house the preceding night for the minstrel show by local and Port Hope talent, with a number of social events in the community, gave small opportunity for an out of town company, not coming under the auspices of any local organization, to look for a brisk demand for tickets.

Mr. Ted Markham, the comedian of the company, and evidently in this role 'to the manner born' is the director of the Peterborough Concert Party which put on the show. Albert Nichols is the musical director, presiding at the piano throughout the evening, and the De Laval orchestra, which was advertised, for some reason failed to be in attendance.

Messrs. Clarke and Livingstone played selections and popular airs on banjo and banjo-guitar for the opening number, the other items on the program being:

Baritone solo, "Garden of Happiness", by Mr. Arnold Everett; encore, "I Love You Dear With All My Heart." Comic song, "I've only got down for today", by Ted Markham; encore, "Cabbages, CaBeans, and Carrots." Soprano solo, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling", by Mrs. Janet Brooks; encore, "Child of My Dreams". Solo, boy soprano, "Ladies Take Warning", by James Parks; encore, "The Prisoner's Song." Soprano solo, "Since My Love Departed", by Mrs. L. Groombridge; encore, "Come Back Dear". Song, "Just the Same as Me", by John Snowell, Scotch comedian; encore, "It's Nice to Get up in the Morning". Song, "O To-morrow Night," by Ted Markham; encore, "I Like Pickled Onions". Soprano solo, "Russian Lullaby", by Miss Dora Quinlan; encore, "Just Once Again". Sleight of Hand by Mr. Dick Lush, 'the Mystery Man'. Pianoforte solo, by Miss Quinlan. Song, "On a Cold and Frosty Morning", by Ted Markham. Banjo duet, by Messrs. Clarke and Livingstone.

National Anthem.

Financially receipts were disappointing not reaching sufficient to cover the expenses incurred for rent of hall, piano, etc. The company deserves credit for going on with their full program in spite of the discouraging features which they encountered in this, their initial appearance in this locality.

TRINITY BAZAAR HELD IN STORM

But Attendance at Omemee Church Function is Good.

BOOTHS WELL ARRANGED.

Omemee December 5 — The annual bazaar and supper under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church, was held on Thursday afternoon and evening in the Sunday School room of the church. In spite of the blinding snow storm, which prevailed until almost the hour set for the opening of the bazaar, there was a splendid attendance and buying was brisk at the several booths, which were prettily arranged around the room. The decorations of the different booths were novel and pleasing. The general color effect was bright and attractive, with the prettiest ideas carried out in the arrangements of the various articles.

Promptly at 4 o'clock Rev. E. W. Rowland declared the bazaar open, following the singing of the National anthem and prayer.

Starting from the door of the basement the kitchen booth was the first booth, where Mrs. J. Bushnell, and Mrs. R. H. Williamson displayed knitted goods aprons of many styles and colors, tea towels, and a host of kitchen articles.

The dining room booth was next in line and was in charge of Mesdames J. Shield, F. G. Sandy and J. Widdiss. Here one could purchase table runners, buffet sets cushions, luncheon sets, centre pieces, tray cloths, etc., all prettily hand embroidered at a reasonable price.

The baby booth followed, and numerous dainty articles could be purchased from Mrs. E. Bradburn and Miss N. Rutherford.

Mrs. Harold Laidley and Miss Florence Rutherford had a huge assortment of home made candy for the sweet tooth, and did a thriving business until their stock was entirely disposed of.

Passing on, one was confronted by a huge sign, which bore the inscription "White Eelephant and Sample Booth." Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Mrs. D. Weir were in charge and their stock was composed of Snap, varnish, glassware, china, pictures, aprons, etc.

The country store looked very attractive and appetizing with a large stock of home baking, jellied meats, head cheese, chickens, jams, jellies, vegetables and apples, and the many customers were well looked after by Misses Lila Parsons and Eva Race.

Mrs. W. Henderson and Mrs. P. Parsons had charge of the Woolworth's Store, which was prettily decorated with red fringe and streamers, and was the centre of attraction for the younger girls and boys.

Long before closing time, the "Sold out" sign was hung up.

Last came the bedroom booth, which was made attractive with pink and blue streamers and shaded lights. Mesdames A. Rutherford, H. Lamb and L. A. Mahood did a brisk business in useful and fancy articles for this particular room, having such articles on display as linen towels, bath towels, vanity sets, dainty pincushions, ladies' coat hangers, embroidered pillow covers, etc.

In the centre of the room was the attractive tea table, adorned with baby 'mums, and yellow crepe paper. Here a splendid supper was served for the sum of twenty-five cents.

The ladies in charge were Mrs. C. Ivory, Mrs. I. Fee Mrs. Courtney, Mrs. R. Poast and Mrs. D. Rea, assisted by several young ladies, all of whom spared no time and care in catering to the wants of their guests.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland made the change for the various booths, and was in demand on many occasions at the one time.

The proceeds of the affair, which as yet a definite statement has not been given out, are very gratifying to those interested in its success.

Canadian Teams Victors in Saturday Pro. Hockey Games

SENATORS COME FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT BOSTON BRUINS 4-2

Make Vicious Last Period Attack to Win in N.H.L. Fixture.

TIE SCORE TWICE

Combination Play of Vanquished Continual Menace to Ottawa Citadel.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 5 (Canadian Press). — Ottawa Senators came from behind with a vicious last period attack to defeat the rugged Bruin team of Boston by 4 goals to 2 in a National Hockey League intersectional thriller here on Saturday night. The crowd of some 6,000 which turned out for the fixture saw the world's champions twice come from behind to tie the hard-checking Bruins and then go on to win with less than five minutes left to play. The winning tally literally smoked off the stick of George Boucher, captain and stellar defence pinion in the capital's hockey machine.

On the night's play the Senators were the more aggressive, but their goalward thrusts were for the most part individual efforts, and they could make little headway against the stonewall defence of the Ross clan. On the other hand, the visitors brandished a close-knit combination attack that was a continual menace to the Ottawa citadel, and only the undeniable offensive of the locals which burst into flame in the final period gave them the win.

Outshot Ross Men.

In the opening period the winners outshot the Ross men almost three to one and looked certain for a victory if they could hurdle the seemingly impregnable net-tending of the veteran goalie, Hal. Winkler. They pummelled Winkler with seventeen hard shots while Boston was showering only six on the Ottawa cage, but the Bruin tender turned them all aside. "Sailor" Herberts, relief forward, gave the visitors their first goal after accepting a pass the width of the ice from Wingman Gordon and then barging clear in on top of Alex. Connell to flip the puck through the Ottawa goalie's legs. Frank Nighbor and "Punch" Broadbent had previously combined to trick the Boston backs and the Senator centre beat Winkler, but the referees disallowed the tally owing to an offside pass. The play was close and Referees Billy Bell and George Mallinson were royally razzed by the crowd.

Nighbor hammered the first tieing goal in around mid-session in the second period when he took a rebounding puck close in on the Boston net. Some eight minutes later, Gainor, another substitute on the Boston front rank, joined with Lionel Hitchman on a two-barreled rush, and lifted a high shot past Connell to give the Bruins the lead a second time.

From the opening of the final period, the Ross men resorted to shooting the rubber the length of the ice away from their own cage to kill time. They were playing strictly defensive hockey when Frank Clancy let a stiff shot fly from the Bruins' blue line and the score was knotted again. The winning goal of Captain Boucher was of the same variety, a viciou slong shot from the left boards.

The line-up:

French Tennis Player Denied Reinstatement

PARIS, Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Paul Feret, who turned professional lawn tennis player to go barnstorming with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, was denied reinstatement in the amateur tennis ranks by the French Federation Saturday night. The Executive Committee of the Federation, instead of passing directly on the problem, turned the issue into a question of referring Feret's application to the Rules Committee, which it refused to do.

If the request had been referred to the Rules Committee, it was understood the Rules Committee would have been expected to find some way out, either by changing the rules, or "interpreting" them to admit Feret.

15 RELATIVES IN PLAY

When Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson recently gave two matinee performances of "Twelfth Night" in London for the benefit of charity, the veteran actor had 14 other members of the family in the cast. The idea of making the productions a "family affair" was suggested by Lady Forbes Robertson, and the others entered into the plan enthusiastically. Daughters brothers, nieces and grandnieces of Sir Johnston and Lady Forbes Robertson took part. As Forbes Robertson is 74 it may be his farewell appearance in public.

"Kiki" Cuyler Comes to Contract Terms With President Veeck of Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who was traded to the Chicago Cubs for Infielder "Sparky" Adams and Outfielder "Pete" Scott, has come to terms with President William L. Veeck and signed a contract for 1928. The salary was not announced, but was understood to be one of the largest on the club. Cuyler was said to have drawn more than $10,000 with the Pirates last year.

Cuyler, who arrived here from his home in Flint, Mich., was very enthusiastic about becoming a member of the Cubs. He said he was glad to get away from Pittsburgh and will give the Cubs everything he has to give Chicago a winning ball club. He was in conference with Manager Joe McCarthy, who stopped off here en route to the minor league meeting at Dallas, Texas; William Wrigley, Jr., and President Veeck.

HIGH SCORING FEATURES PLAY OVER WEEK-END

SOGGY GROUND

Queen's Park Defeats Raith Rovers Eight Counts to One.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable). — High scoring notably in the Scottish League marked a number of soccer football games played Saturday. Forty nine goals were scored in the first division of the Scottish League, the high mark going to Queen's Park, who defeated Raith Rovers by eight goals to one In the first division of the English League Middlesborough took five goals from Portsmouth and Tottenham Hotspurs five from Burnley. In the second division the League leaders, Chelsea, downed the tallenders, South Shields, by six to nil and Port Vale trounced Blackpool by six goals to one, Millhall, fighting for the leadership with Northampton, in the third division, southern section, annexed seven goals from Wallsall. In Ireland Belfast Celtic blanked Larne by seven goals In contrast, Everton, English First Division leader, and Sheffield battled at Everton in a no score draw, Newcastle United and Liverpool drew with a one all score, while Blackburn Rovers and Sunderland were unable to register.

Hat tricks were secured by McClelland and McAlpine for Queen's Park, Moregan, Hearts, Hood, Clyde Camsell and Phillips, Millwall and Varning of Tranmere.

The finest match in the English League proved to be the game at Birmingham in which Leicester City gave a thoroughly polished display before 20000 people. Lochead and Rine scored for Leicester before the interval.

Tottenham Hotspurs were the only London club in the senior division to win. Clay was again with the Spurs. Thirty five thousand saw the match. The goals were scored by Osborne. Twice before half time, and O'Callaghan, Handley and Dimmock. Burnley were hopelessly outclassed.

Both Newcastle United and Liverpool played scintilliating football. Ten thousand people attended. Hodgson registered for Liverpool six minutes before half time and McKay equalized six minutes from time.

Takes Early Lead.

Huddersfield Town were hosts to Arsenal. The London team went into the lead early in the first half through Drain, but Huddersfield played up strongly when they changed ends and Smith got a couple of pretty goals.

Everton were out of luck against Sheffield United, Dean who played his usual aggressive game, could not find the net, missing once rather badly. Critchley also shot wild from only a short way out. Then Troup netted but the score was disallowed. Thirty five thousand saw the match, which was staged at Everton.

Despite the fact that Chelsea obviously had an easy job with South Shields the game attracted 25,000 fans Chelsea had the Northerners three down at the interval.

Bristol soccer enthusiasts to the number of 30000 turned out to see their city team win from Manchester City. The Bristol goals were secured by Weating and Blackmore. Manchester missed an easy penalty goal.

ERNIE JARVIS HOLDING OUT

Arrangements For Flyweight Championship Bout Still Far From Settled.

MAY FIGHT HILL.

TORONTO, Ont., December 5. — Whether Jarvis and Belanger will mingle on the 19th or not is still far from settled. The former through his manager, Johnny Keyes, is holding out for a larger percentage than the Shamrock Club is disposed to give or for that matter will give, and unless he comes down to earth he will be side-tracked for somebody else in a hurry.

Jarvis claims to be the European champion at the flyweight limit, but his credentials are apparently open to question. It is said that Johnny Hill has a better right to the title than he has by virtue of the fact that when Elky Clarke relinquished his belt he handed it over to Hill. The latter since he became champion by defaut has beaten all European opposition, including the French and Belgian champions.

On this dope it is apparent that Jarvis for all that he has a great record, has little reason for demanding more than his pound of flesh before he will accept the terms offered. As for Belanger he is willing to meet all comers. This goes for McCoy, the Pacific Coast claimant to the title or anyone else. Frenchy is keeping in active training and is not allowing prosperity to affect his pudgment of proportions.

The little champion was amongst those present along with his father and uncle, when his cousin Jacqueline Belanger proved that all the athletic talent in the family was not his sole possession at Thursday night's speed skating meet. "Jackie" cleaned up in three divisions, 14, 16, and 18, and this, in spite of the fact that she is only 13 years of age and no bigger than a minute. "Frenchy" was more overjoyed over her conquests than he was over his victory of Monday night.

On Monday night, the flyweight champion will make his next public appearance, this time in a new role, that of referee in the eighty pound bout which will be one of the features of the amateur show at the Standard Theatre. He is more nervous over this assignment than he was prior to his bout with either Brown or Genaro.

DELTAS WIN ONTARIO TITLE

Hamilton Club Take Interscholastic Honors for Second Consecutive Year.

PLAY TIGHT GAME

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press.) — For the second consecutive year Hamilton Deltas wrested the Ontario Inter-scholastic title from the Sarnia C. I. when they downed the locals here Saturday 22 to 8.

Delta's outstanding stars were without doubt Welch, Coldwell and Sprague. The running and kicking of Welch was phenominal in the first half and when he was carried from the field owing to a wrenched knee Coldwell filled his shoes and did it ably. Sprague was the only Delta linesman who made any effect on Sarnia's defence and that but seldom however, he shone and scored a touch by quick thinking and a little good fortune. For Sarnia to pick a star is a hard task for all were good. Strain's 55 yard run was perhaps the feature though Paterson, Fraser, Missener, Clarke and Frayne also turned in splendid games. On the defensive, the tackling of Stubbs, McGibon and Twaits was good and with one exception Sarnia held Welch for small gains.

Sarnia opened the scoring in the dying moments of the first quarter when Strain run 55 yards for a touch down from kick formation. Moore converted beautifully. Nothing daunted, Welch came right back with the same play two minute later but it went unconverted. Welch's dash measured 75 yards and was a brilliant piece of work. After the kick off had been returned a bad snap went over Strain's head and Sprague, dashing through dealt the bounding oval a mighty boot over the line and raced over himself to recover it for five more points. The score at half time was 10-6 with Delta leading.

Sarnia came back strongly after half time and in two minutes Paterson kicking forced Evans to rouge twice. Some fumbles and Delta's recovery of an on-side kick lost this advantage however, and Coldwell's on-side forced Fraser to rouge. The last period visited Sarnia with more bad breaks for a fumble on the three yard line gave Sprague another touchdown and a short on-side kick gave Ralph a chance to dodge over the line for another major score. A deadline boot by Coldwell totalled Delta's points for the game and when the final whistle pealed Hamilton Deltas were inter-scholastic champions.

The lineup:

LES CANADIENS PROVE TOO FAST FOR AMERICANS

Whitewash New York Team 4 to 0 in Game at Montreal.

MORENZ STARS

Green, McKinnon and Conacher Lead in Attack for Losers.

MONTREAL Que. Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—With the play dominated by the flashing figure of Homie Morenz, Canadien's centre ice player, the local Canadiens were too fast for the New York Americans in their National Hockey League match here Saturday night. Morenz accounted for three goals and Joliat for one, to defeat the visitors by four goals to nothing. The Americans, chiefly through R. Green and McKinnon, assisted by Conacher, made valiant efforts to break into the scoring column, but Hainsworth maintained his position of having had less goals scored against him than any other goaler in the league this year and kept them out.

Joe Miller, former rugby player with the Ottawa Senators, and now goal-keeper for the New York Americans, was hit in the face by a stinging shot from Morenz. He was knocked unconscious and carried from the ice. Following the game it was announced that Miller was not seriously injured, the force of the drive having been lessened through the puck hitting his arm first. Miller left for New York with the team later in the evening. Norman Himes, who started the game at centre, went to the net and kept the sheet clean till the end of the game. Miller's injury came in the early part of the third period.

11,500 fans turned out to see Canadiens in their first home game for 12 days. Play had hardly started before the locals were swarming around Miller and Morenz got his first goal with a shot across the front of the goal after two and a half minutes' play. Himes and Red Green worked in clever combination. Many of their rushes ended on poke checks from Morenz and Pete Lepine. As the period ended checks were becoming heavy and sticks were carried high.

Joliat made a swerving run around the Americans' right defence for his goal just after the second period started. His trickey wrist flick left Miller no chance. Himes and Red Green were robbed of a goal when Hainsworth blocked the shot and rebound. Billy Burch got back into the game after a rest-up of over a week following an injury. He and Red Green had a collision and the centre player retired. He came back later but did not get going during the game.

Make Combination Play.

Canadiens swept up the ice four abreast with Hainsworth hammering with his stick as a signal for a man to drop back on defence. It was unnecessary, however ,as the combination play was successful and Homie Morenz shot his second goal. Two minutes later Morenz soared a loose puck at centre ice and was through on Miller for his third and the team's fourth counter.

At the start of the third period there was a twenty minutes' delay while Miller was being attended to and Himes was shifting to goaler's pads. Canadiens spent the time in shooting practice which did not bear fruit, the remainder of the game going scoreless, while Himes blocking shot after shot like a veteran. At the other end Hainsworth had had difficulty in saving from fast rushes by Simpson and McKinnon just before the game ended.

The line-up:

Americans— Goal, Miller; defence, Simpson and Conacher; centre, Himes; wings, R. Green and McKinnon; subs, Reise, Boucher, W. Boucher, Burch, Barry, Bouchard.

Canadiens—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Gardiner and Mantha; centre, Morezn; wings, Joliat, Gagne; subs, Burke, Lafrance, Leduc, Lepine, Larochelle, Hart.

Referees—Hewitson and Romeril.

Summary.

First period—

1—Canadiens, Morenz, 2:45.

Second period—

2—Canadiens, Joyiat, :47.

3—Canadiens, Morenz, 14:46.

4—Canadiens, Morenz, 2:32.

Third period—

No score.

Penalties—First period—Joliat, Conacher, Gagne; second period, McKinnon and Gardiner; third period, Boucher.

Gibson Ineligible Under Track Rules

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—University of Pennsylvania Athletic authorities yesterday confirmed a report that John Gibson, Fordham University track star, who defeated Lord Burghley in the 400 metres hurdles races at the relay carnival here last April, was ineligible to compete in the meet and that the British noblemen had been recognized as the winner of the event.

A report that Gibson had been requested to return the watch awarded him as the winner of the race was denied by H. Jamieson Swartz, manager of the University of Pennsylvania Relay Races.

The Fordham athletic authorities were notified six weeks ago of Pennsylvania's position in the matter and the incident is closed, said Mr. Swartz yesterday.

Mr. Swartz said the question of Gibson's eligibility was considered by a committee of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America in New York on October 16. Swartz received a letter from the committee stating that Fordham had admitted Gibson's ineligibility to compete in the relays or any meet under the rules of I.C.A.A.A.A., because he was a night student and not studying for a degree. The letter also stated that Fordham athletic authorities said that the entry of Gibson had been sent in under a misapprehension.

RAGGING DELAYS TORONTO GAME

Leafs Fool Round While Shorthanded—Maroons Win Out.

RANGERS BREAK EVEN.

TORONTO, Dec. 5.—For two periods of fast, strenuous hockey at Arena Gardens Saturday night a crowd that filled the building comfortably sat and watched the Montreal Maroons play a strictly defensive style of game to protect a one-goal lead gathered in the opening period.

Although lucky on some occasions, Maroons were successful in resisting the frantic efforts of the Toronto Maple Leafs to overcome the handicap, and the first period score of 2 to 1 was the final score of the game with Toronto on the short end.

Perhaps no game of N.H.L. hockey played in Toronto has aroused the fans to such a dangerous pitch or provided such a laugh at the present code of rules which is making the pro game merely a burlesque of the fastest game in the world.

Eight thousand people had to sit and watch a player skate around from centre ice back behind his own goal and around and around for nearly two minutes without one of the opposing players making any attempt to check him, although the opposing players outnumbered their rivals at that time. The referees stood idly by and made no effort to interfere. The rules permit such ragging, and Toronto fans made no complaint because Irvin Bailey was the puck carrier and the Leafs were stalling for time until "Hap" Day, the victim of an unearned five-minute penalty, could come back on the ice. This occurred not once but two or three times when Toronto was at a disadvantage with a man in the penalty box, but the Maroons were quite content to let the time drag in such fashion. They had a one-goal lead, and every minute that passed gave Toronto that much less opportunity of overcoming it.

RANGERS BEATEN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Chicago upset the New York Rangers, leaders of the American division of the National Hockey League, 4 to 2 here on Saturday night before 5,000 fans.

Forward Dick Irvin scored the first goal for the Black Hawks in the first period ,and three others were added in the final frame, Dennenay scoring twice and Fraser once. New York scored in the second period, with Murdock making both goals. The Black Hawks scored four other gaols, but none were allowed, due to offside.

WON ON SUNDAY.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Frank Boucher, centre man for the New York Rangers, stepped into the limelight of the National League hockey game here last night when he scored all of the three goals for his team, thereby bringing defeat to the Detroit Cougars, who were able to make only one tally.

ALEKHINE GAINED HIGH RANK IN 1909

Scored His First Major Victory in That Year.

NEW YORK, December 5. — Alexander Alekhine, Doctor of Laws, former Russian nobleman, now a a citizen of France, and the world's chess champion, is a product of the modern school of chess which came into being about 1903 with the death of Tchigorin.

Born in Moscow, Oct. 19, 1892, Alekhine first gained prominence as a chess expert in 1909 when he captured the national tournament at St. Petersburgh. He gained the rank of master player in the international arena by playing first at Stockholm in 1912. From that moment he became a prominent figure and prize winner in every tournament in which he was a competitor. He took part in the famous 1914 St. Petersburgh tourney and placed third to Dr. Lasker, the winner, and Capablanca.

It was that year too that saw a decided change in his type of play. During the Russian tourney he and Capablanca became great friends, and it was from the man from whom he was later to wrest the title that he learned much of the higher technique of chess, which, when fully combined with his own dynamic and aggresive play was to make him the outstanding player of his time.

That year also saw more harrowing experiences in his career. When the war broke out he was engaged in a tourney in Germany, and being a Russian army officer, he was interned. He made his escape later, was wounded in battle, recaptured, and lay for weeks in an Austrian hospital where he entertained officers and soldiers with his exhibitions of simultaneous blindfold play.

Following the war he left Russia for political reasons, adopted France as his country, and resumed his chess activities, which resulted in one brilliant triumph after another. He made his debut in America in 1924, when he placed third to Dr. Lasker and Capablanca in the New York tourney, and then clinched his hight as foremost challenger for the world's title by placing second to Capablanca in the grand masters' tournament here last spring.

Alekhine, who speaks half a dozen languages fluently, probably has the greatest memory of any chess player in history. He can play over, without a score, almost every game played in any important tournament in the last 30 years. In 1924 he startled New York with his talent in this respect by playing 26 opponents simultaneously when he was blind folded, setting a world's record and a year later improved upon this mark by playing 28 simultaneously in Paris without sight of the board.

He is a tireless worker in the interests of chess and after the 1924 New York tourney secluded himself for three months in a French villa to annotate the games in that tournament.

WHOLESOME SOUPS

There are many kinds of soups, from the clear bouillons to the mixed thick soups, where often a dozen or more food articles are used in the preparation.

A bouillon is a thin clear soup generally made by boiling beef and using the broth. A bouillon is also made from clams or tomatoes. Consomme signifies specifically a clear soup made by boiling together a knuckle of veal, a shin of beef, and a fowl.

The bouillon or consomme soup does not contain much nourishment, but furnishes a warm, highly flavored dish which is relished by many at the start of a meal.

Cream soup is usually made of vegetables and meats and then strained, and flour sauce or cream added.

Puree is a French culinary term which means a thick soup.

Soups of many kinds are now canned and are of great convenience to the housewife, offering an agreeable diversity, with no trouble of preparation, and capable of being served at a minute's notice.

If wholesome soups are desired it is well to keep in mind that the same rules about combinations which hold good with solid foods are likewise good rules to use in the selection of the ingredients for a soup. It is not wise to combine too many kinds of food at any one meal, and this rule holds good in the making of soup.

It is a good plan to use only those foods in the preparation of a soup which are also used with the rest of the meal. For instance if the meal is to consist of string beans, spinach and celery, portions of these same foods can be finely ground and boiled together into a soup, flavoring with salt and butter if desired, or adding pure cream just before removing from the fire.

A delicious puree may be made of any of the non-starchy vegetables by grinding them through a food grinder, cooking in a small amount of water for a long time over a slow fire, and adding seasoning or cream as desired after the soup is thoroughly cooked.

If meat is used in the preparation of the soup, it is not advisable to use any highly starchy foods, such as rice, potatoes, or macaroni. If a starchy soup is desired, it is best to use only one of the highly starchy foods and combine it with one or more of the non-starchy vegetables. Cream also combines well with this mixture.

The soup which is the most difficult of digestion, and which often ruins an otherwise good meal is that made with meat or fish in combination with starchy vegetables or a flour sauce.

Make your soups of as simple combinations as possible, and observe the same rules about combinations which you use in combining the other foods at your meal.

Questions and Answers.

Question: N.S. writes: "My girl twelve years old has a birth mark on the forehead, right over the eye, and it is beginning to come down in the corner of the eye. The doctors call it a cyst, something like a blood tumor. Is there anything that can be done to remove it without an operation?"

Answer: Birth marks can usually be removed by the proper electrical treatment. I advise you to take your girl to a skin specialist who understands the treatment which will be necessary.

Question: T. C. asks: "What is the best method of making cider? Should the cider be kept in bottles or a cask?"

Answer: Cider is easily made in a small home press which can be purchased in any large hardware store. If the cider is to be kept for any length of time it must be Pasteurized and put into bottles. Otherwise, it turns to vinegar.

Question: N.J. writes: "What treatment do you advise for multiple sclerosis? What is the cause? Violet rays have brought back the feeling to patient's limbs and he has use of them, but a numbness comes over him at times."

Answer: The fundamental cause of multiple sclerosis is a faulty diet. Patient you write of will get quickest results by taking a fruit fast for a week or ten days, followed by a well-balanced diet. Treatment such as massage, osteopathy, chiropractic, and electrotherapy will be helpful in restoring the circulation to the affected parts.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THANKS BE

Thanks be—for what? Well, not for gold,
Though gold comes mighty handy.
And not for youth—I'm getting old,
But feeling fine and dandy.
Our health means more in every way
Than any gold we gather.
So am I glad Thanksgiving Day
For anything? Well, rather!

Thanks be—for what? For relatives,
The far ones and the near ones,
Though I, like everyone who lives,
Have got some mighty queer ones.
But they're my kin, if near or far,
In Michigan or Siam.
I hope they're glad because they are,
Because I know that I am.

Thanks be—for what? Well, thanks for all
My friends, and for so many.
When all my failings I recall
I'm thankful to have any.
I'm thankful for the folks I know,
I'm thankful just for living.
And, for the chance of saying so,
I'm thankful for Thanksgiving!

THE WIDOW M'GINTY

On Thursday and Friday evenings of last week, a very well-presented comedy in three acts, "The Widow McGinty," was given in Wesley Hall by the Cognawaga Athletic Club of St. James' United Church, with a good attendance for both performances. The story deals with the adventures revolving about the jolly widow" and her admirers, and evoked much laughter from its watchers. Mrs. A. Davis as Bridget McGinty, widow of the late Daniel McGinty, played the part exceptionally well, and had excellent support from her three daughters in the cast, Rosie (Miss Greta Welbourn), Mary Ellen (Miss Dorothy Collins), and Katie (Miss Edna Dingman). E. McGee as a negro, Snowball White, did some good work, and the rivalry between Barney Muldoon, an Irish gentleman, and Patrick O'Hooligan, an alderman, was portrayed in great style by P. Vannest and D. Davis. Other parts which were well enacted were those of a tragedian, Barnstorm Walker, taken by R. Rowe, and a Dutch dude, Mikey Scotcheimer, by A. Vannest.

The play, staged in New York City, was in three acts, and a bright, breezy introduction was the chorus by the Club, while orchestral numbers between acts were provided, also songs by Fred Cripps and Les Church and banjo duetts by Messrs. Clark and Livingston. The orchestra was led by Mr. C. Russeau and announcements were made by President A. Davis.

Members of the executive staff in charge of arrangements were W. McLaren, business manager; A. Vannest, acting manager and director; S. Church, property; P. Vannest, stage carpenter; C. Church, electrician, and W. Prest, pianist.

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMA TALMADGE STARS IN MODERN VERSION OF 'CAMILLE'

Most famous of the classics of romantic literature, "Camille" the younger Alexandre Dumas' immortal story, has been adapted to the motion picture screen in modern form, with Miss Talmadge in the title role.

While no liberties are taken with the pathetic romance of the youthful "Armand" and his "Lady of the Camellias," as originally conceived, Miss Talmadge has given the story its setting in present day Paris and the picture is in other respects a product of the present age. With bobbed hair and a wardrobe expressing the last word of Parisian creators, the characterization of "Camille" is the star's visualization of the famous siren as she would appear in current times.

This adaptation of a classic of a past generation to existing conditions, so strikingly carried out in "Camille," is heralded as the possible forerunner of other modernized versions of famous plays and novels.

The direction of "Camille" is the work of Fred Niblo, director of some of the outstanding screen successes of recent years. Those who have been privileged to preview the picture have been enthusiastic, without exception, over the manner in which he has unfolded the stirring Dumas romance on the silversheet.

Roland As Armand.

As her leading man, in the colorful role of "Armand," Miss Talmadge selected Gilbert Roland, a handsome young Spanish actor virtually unknown a few months ago, who is declared to be one of the most sensational "finds" in recent motion picture history. Roland was signed to a long term contract by Joseph M. Schenck, who produced "Camille" for First National release. He was given the role opposite Miss Talmadge, regarded as one of the choicest acting plums of the season, as his first part.

The supporting cast presents a list of well known names, with Lilyan Tashman appearing as "Olympe," Rose Dione as "Prudence," Harvey Clark as "The Baron," Alec Francis as "The Duke," Helen Jerome Eddy as "Camille's maid," Albert Conti as "Hendri," Michael Viseroff as "Camille's father," Evelyn Selbie as the mother and Etta Lee as "Mataloti."

"Camille" was adapted to the screen by Fred de Gresac, a screen and stage writer of long experience in France and America. The continuity is the work of Chandler Sprague, former Los Angeles newspaper man, and Olga Printzlau.

In charge of photography was Oliver Marsh, who has attained wide recognition for his camera work, and the assistant director was "Lucky" Humberstone.

Georgeous Settings.

The modernization of "Camille" called for a tremendous number of beautiful costumes and luxurious settings. The various gowns and wraps and other apparel worn by Miss Talmadge are the most gorgeous she ever has provided for screen wear and the costuming of supporting players is in harmony with that of the star.

The settings were designed by William Cameron Menzies, art director of all Joseph M. Schenck enprises. Among the settings are Camille's apartment, with the famous bedroom which is referred to as "the last word in intimate luxury," and the dining room which is the scene of her famous "soiree intimes"; the Paris Opera; the pretentious home of Mataloti, in which is held a spectacular pageant of the sirens, and other colorful backgrounds.

The adaptation of the story, construction of the sets, selection of costumes, casting and various other angles of preparation that preceded actual shooting of the picture, were supervised personally by Miss Talmadge.

AT THE REGENT.

MOTHER.

Once in a blue moon comes along a picture which sends an audience away from a theatre with a better and brighter view of life, a picture that makes one think in a different vein.

Such a picture is "Mother,' now showing at the Regent Theatre, and a picture which has gleaned more kindly comment than any shown hereabouts in many months.

Belle Bennett, who won signal fame in "Stella Dallas," gives an even superior portrayal in "Mother," which is the story of a real American family in moderate circumstances, just such a family as live right around the corner from any one. You are taken into the home and you get a human slant at the joys and sorrows, the longings and the disappointments which, obviously, are prevalent in every home. And above all you are reminded of the great sacrifice that every mother makes for husband, home and children.

In adidtion to Miss Bennett, brilliant work is done by Crawford Kent, William Bakewell, Joyce Coad, Mabel Julienne Scott and Charlotte Stevens.

J. Leo Meehan directed with infinite skill and a thorough understanding of his theme.

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoir. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. Fabien, thinking her perfidious, returns to his studies. But Manon seeks him, explains, and they go to Paris again, where they live in dreamlike splendor.

"Oh, Lord!" ejaculated Fabien. "You will have to pardon me, my dear. I will return when I do not have to share you with so many." Fabien hurried to Manon's side and kissed her finger tips gallantly.

"Wait!" she commanded gaily. "Help me up first." Fabien lifted her to the side of the great bed. "Thank you—no, don't go yet—my slippers next!" She extended bare, pink little feet and as Fabien fitted on her satin slippers she bent over and kissed him provokingly on the forehead. Turning away with a laugh, before he could imprison her hands, she began struggling into a filmy negligee. Fabien came to the rescue and wrapped her lovely figure in its fragrant folds.

"Now, my lady, will you descend?" he inquired with mock dignity, offering his hand. Manon touched it gently with her finger tips and with exaggerated grace stepped from the dais to the floor—like a queen descending from her throne.

"Darling, one kiss—" Manon stood on tiptoes with pursed lips. "—Yes—now you may go, but come back very soon!" She watched Fabien depart; then turning to the maid with a big happy sigh she said, "Marie," have them come in."

They came. A troupe of morning callers who sat about and chatted while the hairdressers prepared Manon for the festivities of the day.

The Abbe Martineau was a quaint little figure. Manon's beauty had inspired him to write verse and the first thing he did was to perch himself on the arm of a big chair, at one end of her dressing table, and indulge in the pleasure of reading aloud while her coiffure was being arranged before his very eyes. It was just intimate enough to please him immeasurably. Pauses in his reading were due not so much to emotion as to intervals in which he sipped wine and times when others intruded for a moment of Manon's time.

Manon was charming and attentive, with the result that the little man came every day and remained long enough to read a new couplet and imbibe a glass of wine.

The Abbe's presence, on this particular morning, annoyed Nana excessively. She did not have any perfume that compared with Mannon's and the special bottle she wanted was on the corner of the dressing table where the Abbe interfered with her getting it. In the meantime she glowered at the little man and consoled herself by smelling the contents of every other bottle she could get her hands on. When she found a scent that she liked a generous portion was immediately transferred to her fingers and then brushed across her lips.

"Do you like that odor, Nana?" inquired Manon, who had been watching her with amusement.

"Yes, it is most seductive—what do you call it?"

"It's yours, if you want it," replied Manon generously.

"I couldn't think of it," protested Nana, but she had already decided to take the crystal and gold bottle as well as the rare perfume.

"That is all right, Nana; Fabien will buy more—he gives me everything I want."

"Yes, I have noticed—I don't see how you manage it," drawled Nana with mingled admiration and envy. "I have never owned as much jewelry as you have discarded."

Manon knew that Nana referred to the Comte De Ravoir's gifts, and it was annoying to have that episode of her life revived. Besides she hated to have anyone think that Fabien had not done a great deal more for her.

Opening a dressing table drawer, Manon took out a handsome velvet case and offered it for Nana's inspection. A priceless diamond pendant glittered handsomely from the rich velvet box.

"Isn't it a darling?" she inquired proudly.

"It is more beautiful than the Comte's ruby necklace." Nana's admiration was sincere.

"Fabien brought it to me last night," Manon lifted the jewel from the box and slipped the delicate chain over her head.

The hairdressers had just completed their pleasant duty and Manon's callers gathered about to inspect her new gift.

She made a lovely picture, sitting there before her mirror, so happy in her love, with her lover's latest extravagant gift sparkling from its nesting place on her breast.

Unknown to everyone, Fabien was the most absorbed spectator of the little scene.

Since leaving Manon's boudoir he had wandered about the great house trying to settle upon some way to handle the pressing need for money. His father had disowned him. Tiberge was still friendly and compassionate, but his means were limited, and even if he gave up all he had it would not be sufficient to meet their extravagant mode of living. It did not occur to Fabien to live simply, because Manon's nature demanded luxuries and amusement and he felt that he should be man enoughto provide them for her. Also, he loved her in the gay happy moods that were hers in the midst of their present surroundings and some way, some how, he was determined to provide all that her pleasure loving nature craved.

Fabien had not settled on any definite financial plan when he recalled Manon's request to "come back very soon." He returned to her boudoir and chanced to arrive at the open door just as she was showing her necklace. Fabien remained outside, a look of comic dismay on his worried face.

A few days before Manon had described the jewel to him with such enthusiasm that he could not resist surprising her with it as a gift. No one knew better than he how ill he could afford the indulgence. But when he saw what a beautiful picture she made in its reflected glory he did not regret the extravagance. The incident only drove home the fact that he must raise money—a quantity of money—before many more days passed into eternity and carried him along in a hopeless maze of bills and insistent bailiffs.

Fabien did not join the admiring throng gathered about Manon. He was about to enter when a servant quietly approached and said: "Monsieur, there are two—gentlemen—in the drawing room who insist upon seeing Monsieur."

Fabien tried to put Manon out of his thoughts as he went downstairs to confront the two—gentlemen. He knew only too well who they were and what they wanted. Their presence in his home was not welcome and he dreaded the consequences of the enforced interview.

CHAPTER XVI.

When Fabien entered the drawing room he felt two pairs of piercing eyes centered upon him.

The humiliation and annoyance that had been his before entering the door changed to an air of amused nonchalance. The situation did have an amusing side. Why not play up to it and ignore the danger involved? At least it would be a new and refreshing way to receive the callers.

"Good afternoon, gentlemen," Fabien bowed politely as though they were distinguished guests. "I had not expected to have the pleasure of receiving you again so soon!"

The two men plainly showed their surprise at this unexpected greeting and as a result the things they had intended saying came out in unintelligible sputters. One of them began searching his pockets for a paper that it was his duty to serve. Fabien saw the gesture and with an amused twinkle and deliberate misconstruction said:

"Won't you try some of mine?" offering his snuff box. "Perhaps you left yours at home."

"We didn't come here to take snuff with you—and you know it!" shouted the angry bailiff, at last finding his tongue.

ONE POLICEMAN FOILS BANDITS

FIGHT RESULTS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press). — An attempt to hold up two hundred guests at Parody Cafe early today turned into a sensational gun fight with the dance floor as the battle ground. The casualties were, one man shot dead, and five men and two women wounded.

There were six robbers. Two, carrying pistols, entered the main entrance during an intermission in the dance programme and ordered all hands up behind them came two others, carrying sub machine guns, rapid firing automatic weapons frequently employed in gangster raids.

Behind these four came a man in a black mask, carrying an automatic shotgun. This robber, the leader stopped in the middle of the dance floor ,whirling about with the weapon so as to command the four sides of the tables at which sat guests. The man in the mask fired one shot into the ceiling as he commanded all to keep their hands above their heads.

John Fried, a policeman attached to the city prosecutors office, who was a guest, opened fire on the man an easy mark in the middle of the polished floor. The robber pivoted about to meet the attack, fired one shot and his weapon jammed.

Fried emptied his revolver and the bandit chief dropped with four bullets in his body.

Later, at hospital, it was said he probably would not recover. When robbers first appeared, Harry Smith, a waiter, attempted to slip out a rear exit. He was shot dead by sixth member of the gang.

Fried's action in opening fire threw the place into confusion. Several police officers, off duty, but present as guests, began firing. The single shot the bandit leader fired at Fried hit June Griffith, 20, in the left side. She may die. Miss Fannie Hillman, 28, was shot in the hand and Police Sergeant Cohan, who joined in the general battle, was shot in the left side. Another guest, Charles Silverman, got a bullet in the left hip, and William Malone was shot in the body.

The bandits, except the leader, had crossed the dance floor seeking the table at which sat the proprietor, Dave Palinsky, from whom they hoped to get the receipts of the week end business. The outbreak of firing, however, turned the offence to defence and they shot their way towards the exits and escaped.

KNOX UNITED ANNIVERSARY

when man sees God. There is a wonderful thrill to the heart when one recognizes his source in God That is real religion. Not going to church-paying collection, singing, and praying, but union of one's life with God is religion. Man capacity to look into the great things of the universe and see God is one of the glorious things of the world to come.

Man's capactiy to sin is also a mark of his greatness, continued Dr. Henry. Only man can sin. The animals can not sin. Sin is the power to defy God to try to thwart His purposes. All the troubles of humanity rise from this power to defy God.

Calvary was the fourth point taken by the speaker to show man's nearness to God. Its full meaning, he said, is concealed from him. It cannot be defined any more than the love of a mother which made her willing to suffer and die in her cottage so that the candle to welcome her boy home might never be neglected. Calvary reveals three things; the unspeakable love of God, the unspeakable heinousness of sin, and the unspeakable worth of the human soul. Unspeakable means "not describable by words, but only definable in a dramatic manner.

God's use of man was Dr. Henry's fifth point. If Christ is going to walk in Peterborough, he said, He uses the feet of Christian people. For His acts He uses their hands, and for His speech He uses their mouths. Man is stamped with His sign, which is an indication of intrinsic worth.

Gods' challenge to man is to come back and enter upon the dominion that belongs to him, began the speaker in taking up the second part of his sermon. The first sign is the small voice within which some call the voice of conscience and others the voice of God in a mans soul. God is always calling man to do right and exercise his lordship.

There are many men who will curse the preacher, but never has Dr. Henry found a thinking man who will curse Jesus. There is also an instinctive respect for the Man of God, who has obeyed the call to use his own greatness. In every man there are capacities for glory and power going to waste. Man is willing to use the power of the cataract and other forces of nature but not the power of God has placed in the human soul.

God is calling to man to associate his weakness with Him. To repair a ruin to make it like its original form, it is necessary to go back to the builder, who has the plans. The only way for people to be rebuilt when they have sinned is by having the great architect of the universe get out the plans and rebuild them.

The resources of the world are all about but it needs the skill of a master to bring them out. Man has resources of power and beauty but it needs God to bring them out. Some people say that becoming a Christian ties one down. The greatest man of all time was Jesus, Christianity is a religion of addition, not subtraction, and becoming a Christian makes one bigger. Jesus said, 'I am come that ye may have life in substance."

God's call is a call to big things. Some people are only seat warmers and make no impression. "The pity of it is," said Dr. Henry, "that you and I are content to grovel when we can soar. Man is not meant for low things but is little lower than God himself." Four statements were given by the speaker in conclusion:

Man is the greatest of all God's works.

The greatest part of all his greatness is that he has capacity for God.

The greatest of all sins is the waste of capacity.

The greatest of all tragedies is man's refusal to link his weakness to God.

The services were conducted by the Rev. William McDonald, B. D., minister of Knox Church. Special music by the choir, under the leadership of R. J. Devey, was splendidly sung, both solos and anthems being beautiful numbers. The music was:

Morning: Solomon's prayer— "O Lord, My God" Malin. Solo Mr. Douglas Carlisle. Anthem—"The Lord is My Shepherd" Harkness.

Evening: Organ Recital, commencing at 6.45 p.m. Solo Mr. Douglas Carlisle. Anthem —"Rejoice Ye With Jerusalem" Tours, with tenor solo by Mr. Stanley Willis.

Included the short organ recital by Mr. Devey was 'The Dead March' as a tribute to a former member of the choir, Mrs. Allan R. MacNabb, who died on Saturday.

GOSPEL HALL

Gospel Hall was filled last night to hear Evangelist William Hynd, his subject was "Bad News," "Sad News" and "Glad News."

Bad News was given to Adam when driven out of Eden on account of sin, and sin has been the cause of all the bad news ever since.

It was also sad news when God said. "The soul that sinneth it shall die," and all have sinned, so death is passed upon all for all are unjust and sinners.

Glad News came when the word came "Unto us a Son is given and He shall Save his people from their sins." Mr Hynd made it very clear to all present that good works never saved a soul but only the Blood of Christ shed on Calvary could put away sin. He made a most earnest plea for all to close in with offered mercy.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight His paths," a verse taken from the third chapter of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, was the text of the sermon given by Rev. K. Corkery at the masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, the reverend speaker likening the season of Advent, with its preparation for the great feast of Christmas, to the preparation by the great Precursor, John the Baptist, for the coming of Christ.

St. Paul said: "Unless ye do penance, ye shall all likewise perish." Penance is the proper preparation for the approach of Christmas. It is necessary to satisfy the wrath of an offended God and turn aside the darts of His anger against the sinful people of the world, and it is the chastisement of the body also that leads to the subjugation of the flesh and gives the soul power to avoid evil and the wiles of the devil.

God does not demand extraordinary measures from His children. He does not ask that they spend long hours daily in prayer, but only a few minutes at night and morning. He does not wish that all worldly goods be bestowed on the poor, but that we give what we can spare to the needy and suffering. He does not demand a constant program of austerities such as were practiced by the saints of old, but only that we follow the precepts of the church and strive to live up to its teachings.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

ST. ANDREW'S, CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5.—At the morning service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church yesterday, the Holy Communion was dispensed. In the evening, the Reverend James Grier allowed his sermon to take more the form of a lecture of Christianity and religion. As a basis for his remarks he chose the latter half of the twenty-third verse of Porverbs fifteenth chapter, and a word spoken in due season, how good it is.

After remarking that he wondered how often people left the church saying to themselves, "I wonder what he was talking about," Mr. Grier said that there would be no reason for such to be the case last night, as he intended to speak very plainly on some matters which lay very close to the everyday lives of most of the people. His remarks were begun by a very simple illustration of the fact that what is good for some men is not good for others. Strawberries he claimed were delicious fruit, but some people found them almost deadly poison. Furthermore, he did not believe in a special religion for Sundays and a totally different outlook on other days. This he said was the case with many men who entertained certain ideas when in church and entirely different ones later at the club.

In some respects, there was such a thing as carrying religion too far. For instance, some people delight in saying exceptionally long graces at the table and meanwhile some very excellent soup was getting cold. Though this remark was made in all seriousness, there were few faces that did not show signs of suppressed smiles. Quoting from the diary of a famous man of letters of olden days, Mr. Grier read how this man had neglected to offer up his usual prayer before retiring for the night. This forgetfulness was explained by the fact that the writer had imbibed too freely of the wine cup earlier in the evening. While earnest and sincere prayer was indeed a very necessary thing, he thought it hardly proper for a man to attempt prayer while drunk.

Nor did he believe in mixing religion and wordly entertainment, and under this heading, the annual fowl supper did not escape a little criticism. It did not seem exactly proper to open a concert with a hymn and perhaps a prayer and then proceed to all sorts of other entertainment. It appeared to be more proper to do either one thing or the other at the proper time, but there ought to be no mixing them. Regarding parties, he saw no harm in them, but he did not see why the young people should be expected to remain for the family hour of prayer. It was more fitting that they be invited to the party, allowed to enjoy themselves and take their departure after the party was over.

In conclusion, Mr. Grier said that he did not ask people to accept his point of view as entirely correct. He had stated his opinion and firmly believed in all that he had said. Though he had not delivered the usual sermon that one expects to hear from the pulpit, he was of the opinion that there was really a sermon in what he had said.

SNOW AND SLEET OVER EASTERN U.S.

Rain Follows, Threatening Trouble For All Kinds of Traffic.

GALE SWEEPS NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The first measurable storm of the season left a snow and sleet blanket over the Eastern States and provided a threat of more trouble for all forms of traffic with rain today. Riding a northeast gale which at some places reached a velocity, of more than fifty miles an hour, the first cold wave of the season yesterday spread over the States bordering the North Atlantic Coast and resulted in delays to railroads and ocean shipping. Little relief was promised before tomorrow, when the storm, which swept north from the Carolina coast was due to lose itself in the North Atlantic.

HIT BY TRAIN.

A young lady driving a car over the tracks on McDonnel street the other day, was struck by the train which was moving slowly. Little damage was done to the car.

Witnesses of the accident say the young lady admitted seeing the bus had stopped at the crossing and there were other evidences of the necessity for stopping, but she thoughtlessly took a chance, and it is said she was lucky to escape as easily as she did.

Never try to beat out a train; the chances are always against the motorist.

GENEVA COUNCIL DELEGATES FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT IN ANGLO-RUSSIAN QUARREL

Refusal of Soviet Government To Accept Responsibility For Any Communistic Propaganda in England Main Cause For Non-Settlement.

CANNOT BE BLAMED FOR ANY AGITATION CARRIED ON BY THIRD INTERNATIONALE

All Powers Lending Hand in Effort To Reconcile Poland and Lithuania and Effect Settlement of Quarrel Arising Over Border Dispute.

GENEVA, December 6 (Associated Press). — Refusal of the Soviet Government to accept responsibility for any Communistic propaganda in Great Britain was the main cause yesterday of inability to settle the Anglo-Russian quarrel.

Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Russian delegation to the preparatory disarmament conference, who stayed over for a talk with Sir Austen Chamberlain, is understood to have emphasized to the British Foreign Secretary that the Moscow Government cannot be blamed for any agitation repeatedly carried on by the Third Internationale.

The separation of the two statesmen without even discovering the slightest foundation for a possible later agreement leading to resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries, threw a shadow over Geneva, which was really anticipating Russia's return to the European concert of nations. Nevertheless, the opinion was widely voiced that yesterday's failure should not necessarily be deemed conclusive. Additional efforts are anticipated.

France, Germany, Great Britain, and Russia are all lending a hand in the effort to reconcile Poland and Lithuania and effect a settlement of the quarrel arising from Poland's seizure of Vilna, which has prevented the two neighbors from entering into diplomatic relations.

Delegates Confer.

Sir Austen Chamberlain received Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania yesterday and discussed with him the situation which is giving the League of Nations considerable uneasiness. Foreign Ministers Stresemann of Germany and Briand of France, and Vice-Commissioner Litvinoff of Russia have also talked over the Polish-Lithuanian class with Waldemaras, who has been urged by all to approach the League Council in presenting his complaint against Poland in as conciliatory a spirit as possible.

Waldemaras is a man of great determination, and such pressure is being brought upon him by his Lithuanian constituents that his position is extremely difficult, but Council members are working with great energy to bring both the Polish and Lithuanian representatives into a less hostile attitude.

Litvinoff, who plans to depart today for Moscow, has been assured by M. Briand that France considers the incident of the requested recall of the Soviet Ambassador, Christian Rakovsky, as closed, and expects to renew conversations concerning debts, credits, and the proposed pact of non-aggression as soon as the new Soviet envoy arrives in Paris to succeed Rakovsky.

Briand and Litvinoff are in accord in a belief that cessation of the technical state of war between Lithuania and Poland is imperative in the interest of the permanent pacification of Europe. Herr Stresemann is also prominent in seeking appeasement of friction in the Baltic region.

M. Briand indicated last night that in his view too much was being made of a rumored meeting to take place between himself and Premier Mussolini of Italy to iron out differences between their countries. The French Foreign Minister explained that as a result of the circulation of reports that he did not wish to see Mussolini, he thought it desirable to put the situation in a proper light, and consequently said in a speech to the Chamber of Deputies that he would always be glad to talk to the Italian Premier. He said, however, that there was no question of his travelling to Italy for the purpose.

Ministers in Accord.

One development which has contributed to the optimism of statesmen was an announcement from the Polish delegation that Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany and Zaleski of Poland had a satisfactory discussion of German-Polish relations and had pushed forward negotiations for a treaty of commerce and friendship.

Furthermore, says the official communique, the two Foreign Ministers reached an accord concerning the attitude to be adopted on all questions on the agenda of the Council and agreed to continue their efforts under the aegis of the League of Nations to maintain pacific and normal relations in Eastern Europe.

BAND BENEFIT CONCERT GOOD

Large Number of People Hear Young People's Program.

"KITCHEN BAND" FEATURES.

Four hundred and fifty people, gathered in the Salvation Army Temple, evidently thoroughly enjoyed the varied and well rendered program given by the various sections of the Young People's Corps last night.

Arranged as a benefit festival for the young people's band, the cause was a popular one. The Boys Band of the Salvation Army, the only one of its kind in Peterborough, has a large place in the hearts of the citizens. Their selections and marches as rendered under the able direction of their leader, Joseph Halcrow, showed marked signs of improvement. The money raised, last night, will buy a new book of marches and selections, fifty in number, that will be in advance of any they have played before.

The Young People's Singing Company, a brigade of 25 girls voices, under the direction of Miss Ethel Payton, is a venture started under the guidance of Commandant Frank Ham, in February of this year. It is a fitting counterpart to the musical activities amongst the boys. The part singing was most enjoyable, both items were heartily applauded.

The Life Saving Girl Guard Troup under Guard Leader Mrs. W. Jones, and Asst. Leader, Miss Kate Winslade, gave a short sketch, entitled, "Little Mothers of the Home League" and also a prettily illuminated and executed Japanese lantern drill.

The Life Saving Boy Scout Troop, under the leadership of Scout Leader Harold Barton assisted by Patrol Leader Herbert Brooks, and six scouts, gave a demonstration of first aid bandaging.

A wand drill by twenty five members of the Band of Love, under the direction of Band of Love Leader, Miss Catherine Gilmour, and also a nursery rhyme dialogue by the little tots of the band of love section, made a very interesting section of the program.

A little group of Juniors from the Brownton Temple, gave an item entitled "A Sunbeam." They were trained by Miss Clara Barnes.

The only individual item on the program was by Miss Phylis, who recited. Her recitation was entitled, "Busted."

The preliminary announcement that a new band would make an appearance on this occasion, caused no little wonderment amongst the audinece. They were announced to appear with new uniforms new instruments, and a new leader. They came, they played, and judging by the generous applause, they conquered. Kitchen Band, armed with kitchen utensils and the leader directing with a rolling pin.

An interesting and novel item was the "Living Waxworks" manipulated by an able director. They marched and sang a song. Each wax work represetned a striking feature of local army activity during the year 1927. During this item, Mrs. Commandant Ham read statistics and details connected with the various features represented.

Young People's Sergt. Major R. C. Braund read the scripture portion.

Commandant Frank Ham, acted as chairman, on acount of the unavoidable absence of Alderman R. S. Cotton, who had been announced as chairman.

Ramsay MacDonald Is Re-elected Leader

LONDON, Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Ramsay MacDonald was unanimously re-elected leader and chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party at a meeting to-day. J. R. Clines, widely known Labor leader, was elected deputy leader of the party.

After the meeting members scouted the idea of Mr. MacDonald giving up his leadership at an early date because of ill health.

MANY MATTERS ARE DISCUSSED BY PRESIDENT

Coolidge Urges Continuance of Self Denial in Expenditure.

WANTS MORE CRUISERS.

Advises, However, Against Participation in Naval Race With Any Power.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — (Canadian Press). — Calling upon the people to continue "stern self dental' in national expenditure, President Coolidge laid before Congress to-day, a moderate programme of expansion for its defenses and natural resources in a message which touched upon virtually all the legislative issues which have aroused interest and speculation. The President presented views differing only in minor details from those he has previously outlined on major problems of farm relief, taxation, flood control, foreign relations and the state of the army and the navy.

Informing Congress that he had not changed in his opposition to the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill with its equalization fee, he recommended instead a federal farm loan board with a revolving fund to build up co-operative marketing and aid in the disposition of crop surpluses. On tax revising, he stood by the treasury's programme.

More Cruisers Advised.

The navy, he said, should be expanded by addition of cruisers, submarines, airplanes and carriers, as well as the development of the merchant marine as a second line of defense.

He recommended that flood control be confined this year to the lower Mississippi river, with provision for edequate dykes, emergency spill ways, and aids to navigation, cautioned that this problem should be met by viewing it as a separate, national question without attempts to link it with other proposals for river control and expansion, and suggested that the people enjoying the benefits of land reclaimed in government built dykes share a partial, although perhaps lighter burden of its expense.

Referring to the St. Lawrence waterways, he said, "Congress in its last session authorized the general improvements necessary to provide the Mississippi waterway system with better transportation. Stablization of the levels of the Great Lakes and the re-opening to the sea by an effective shipway remain to be considered. Since last session the Board of Engineers of the war department has made a report on the proposal for a canal through the State of New York and a joint board of engineers, representing Canada and the United States, has finished a report on the St. Lawrence river. Both of these boards concluded that the St. Lawrence project is cheaper, affords a more expeditious method of placing western products in European markets, and will cost less to operate. The State Department has requested the Canadian Government to negotiate the treaties necessary to provide for this improvement. It will also be necessary to prevent fluctuation in levels of the Great Lakes.

DEPUTY MINISTER DISCUSSES REFORESTRATION IN ONTARIO

E. J. Zavitz is the Special Speaker at St. Paul's Men's Banquet.

FOREST PROTECTION.

Tourists and Settlers Said To Be the Two Great Causes of Forest Fires.

The Men's Club of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church were honoured last night at their monthly banquet by an address from E. J. Zavitz, deputy minister of Lands and Forests in the Province of Ontario. Mr. Zavitz in his short address told of the work of the department of Lands and Forests, of how worthless stretches of land were being reforested and how the great forest wealth of this Province was being protected from the fire menace.

Hon. William Finlayson, minister of Lands and Forests was to be the speaker but he was detained in Toronto for a cabinet meeting which had been postponed from yesterday morning until last night.

It was in 1905 that the government first undertook the plan of reforestation and the initial step was made at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. At that time the government saw that, if the rapid depletion of Ontarios forests continued without any reforestation plan, the immense timber wealth of this province would soon be a thing of the past. A policy was then formulated said the speaker, whereby farmers reclaimed wood lots and waste land and by 1914 between 2,000 and 3,000 trees were being distributed annually which will reforest 5,000 acres."

The department has to-day three plans of reforestation — that of distributing trees to private owners distributing to local municipalities for demonstration purposes and to counties where large tracts of land are being reclaimed.

Mr. Zavits told of the large tract of non agricultural land in Norfolk County that was reclaimed and planted in red pine trees in 1908. To-day on one particularly poor ridge, the red pines are from four to six inches in diameter and from thirty to forty feet in height. 'Many counties in this province are purchasing blocks of land that are practically wasteless and planting them in trees which through time will be a real asset to the county. The department in distributing trees to the private owner allow him 3,500 annually."

"In some sections of the province that have been inhabited unadvisedly, the department is moving the settlers out to better land and planting trees." The speaker referred to the section North of Peterborough as being one that should be reforested. There fire has burnt the timber off and as it is no good for agriculture, the only thing to do is reforest it. "The forest production such as you would have here would keep many industries going and it would be a source of wealth to this city and county."

"In Northern Ontario much of the land is not fit for agriculture. It is considered that there is between 50 and 75 million acres that will never produce anything but forests so the department is carrying out a plan whereby these tracts are being reforested.

Fire Protection.

"The greatest problem to-day is to protect the forests from fire and for this purpose the department has organized Ontario into 3 divisions under 10 units. A skeleton force is kept the year around and during the summer months the force is largely augumented. The first thing the force has to do is to detect the fires and this is done in two ways. In that part of the Province ,south of Lake Nipissing, there has been constructed lookout towers which are connected with each other by telephones; then in the north western part of the Province where there is little or no communication, lookout towers and an air service have been established In the air service nothing but flying boats and seaplanes are used. For the fighting of fires, a thorough protective force has been organized with fast cars on the railroad, fire fighting pumps and other fire fighting apparatus," said the speaker.

Mr. Zavitz said that the department had found that the most difficult thing was to develope public consciousnes whereby people would be careful. "The settler and the tourist are our great causes of forest fires in the past season, which has had the smallest fire loss in the history of the Province. It is a problem of educating the public, for the burning up of our forest heritage is the destroying of future public ownership problem the province has to face to-day and if properly dealt with in years to come the Province will derive a large income which will reduce taxation and aid public institutions," concluded the speaker.

James Dutton moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his splendid address and said he was in favour of the plan in Sweden where a forest inspector designated the trees that were to be cut down: "Few of us realize the importance of our natural resources and few realize the great heritage we have. Let us try to

Murder Witnesses Are Burned to Death

WILLIAMSON, W. Virginia, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Eight persons met death in a fire which destroyed a boarding house here to-day. Six of the victims were residents of Dingess section of Miner County, who had come to Williamson to testify in the murder trial of Elijah Wellman and his three sons.

The fire originated in a hallway between two sections of the rooming house about six a.m., and spread so rapidly that the eight were trapped when flames cut off the stairway at the front of the building. Another stairway at the rear, intended as a fire exit, was blocked and prevented escape in that direction, it was said after the fire.

TEN YEARS AGO TO-DAY HALIFAX WAS WRECKED

Explosion of Munition Ship in Harbor Cost Two Thousand Lives.

SOME SUFFER YET.

Relief Commission Which Expended Millions Then Still Functions.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.) — Ten years ago this morning, knots of people gathered on the thickly settled slopes of Fort Needham Hill in the north end of the city and along the water front, watching two freight steamers manouevring in the Narrows. The Belgian relief steamer Imo, outward bound on its errand of mercy to war-wracked Europe, had just collided with the incoming French steamer Mont Blanc, loaded to the scuppers with deadly explosives. But people on shore didn't know this latter else they would not have watched with so little concern the blaze that had sprung on the deck of Mont Blanc as they waited the arrival of the fire engine, whose bells could be heard as it raced northward. It was a little before nine o'clock on a frosty morning, with the sun fitfully breaking through the haze.

Just as the fire engine approached the nearest point of the highway to the burning steamer, a huge black cloud rimmed with red shot with white lightning, billowed up over the Mont Blanc ,and, in a breath, that populous hillside was swept with a blast of death. Five thousand homes crumpled to match wood, and nearly two thousand people were snuffed into eternity even while that bell-shaped cloud hovered over the Mont Blanc, or where the Mont Blanc had been.

Such was the Halifax explosion of December 6th, 1917, the greatest disaster of its kind in history, the explosion that startled the world and so touced the hearts of other nations, particularly the United States, that in a few days millions of dollars in money and material were rolling in to the hastily former relief committee.

The explosion is forgotten except by the few whose loved ones suffered and died, or the pitiful ones whose eyes were blinded by the gas that was one of the worst features of the explosion. Some of the injured are still receiving aid from the relief commission and will continue to do so as long as they have need for it.

GILROY REPLIES TO ATTACK ON J. J. MORRISON

President of U. F. O. Gives Details of Salaries Paid To Family.

SAYS THEY ARE EARNED.

Resents Imputation That Secretary Dictates Policy of Board.

TORONTO, Dec. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—In his presidential address to the shareholders of the United Farmers' Co-operative Society, in the annual meeting here to-day, President H. A. Gilroy of Alvinston, replied to charges made by Mitchell Hepburn, member of the House of Commons for Elgin West, to the effect that the U.F.O. secretary, J. J. Morrison was leading a "family compact" to gain control of the organization.

"The board resents the imputation that Mr. Morrison dictates the policy of the board in any degree whatsoever," Mr. Gilroy said at the conclusion of his speech. Mr. Hepburn, he said, had drawn particular attention to the circumstances of Morrison's family being on the payroll of the company and receiving "fat salaries" that were not justified.

"I might say that this company pays Mr. Morrison $3,000 per year, which is half of his salary," Mr. Gilroy said. (Mr. Morrison is joint secretary of Co-operative and the U.F.O. itself).

He went into detail concerning the employment of relatives of Mr. Morrison. Mr. Morrison's son was one of the U.F.O. chief salesmen, he said, and was the lowest paid salesman in his class, with a salary of $3,120. He had been offered a thousand dollars more by a competitor. A cousin of the secretary, Mr. McKee, was giving efficient service for $2,880 a year in place of a man who had been receiving $4,500 a year, said the president. Mr. Morrison's daughter was an invoice clerk at $16 a week, replacing a clerk who for several years had drawn $35 weekly. Lastly, a son-in-law of Mr. Morrison, was receiving $3,640 and further earnings on a commission basis up to $4,000 a year. If the maximum had not been set at $4,000 this gentleman would have doubled it, Mr. Gilroy said.

"The question is, do these individuals earn their salaries? We are satisfied they do," Mr. Gilroy concluded.

Council Fixes Speed Limit For Hunter Street Bridge at 15 Miles an Hour—Sewer Connection To Be Given New School in North Monaghan.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Repealed the by-law requiring house-holders to shovel the snow off the sidewalks in front of their property.

Limited the speed of traffic over the Ashburnham Bridge to 15 miles an hour.

Agreed to allow the Fire Chief to answer urgent calls from Lakefield at the request of the municipal authorities, pending a decision from the Fire Marshal on its effect on insurance rates.

Agreed to give a sewer connection to the new Confederation School in North Monaghan under a temporary agreement.

Accepted the offer of the Border Transit, Limited, to plow the city streets at $2.50 an hour.

Awarded the contract for the gathering of garbage in 1928 to Anglesey & Withers at $10,060, an increase of $1,260 over this year's figure, but $500 less than was originally quoted.

Put through two readings a by-law granting the Western Clock Company a fixed assessment of $1 on the new building just erected. The present building is under a fixed assessment of $20,000 and the purpose of the new by-law was to give a ten-year's fixed assessment for the new structure.

Passed a by-law to submit the foregoing by-law to the people.

Heard the report of the Suburban Area Commission on the year's work.

Much business was transacted at the last regular meeting of this year's Council, held last night, three hours and a half being required for the night's deliberations. The meeting was featured by the large number of persons in the gallery, fifteen men being present at the early part of the meeting, although none of them stayed until the session was over.

Prominent among the actions of the Council last night was the decision to repeal the by-law requiring the shovelling of snow from the sidewalks before ten a.m. This was sponsored by Alderman Phelan, who remarked on the great number of complaints that had been made. He expressed the opinion that it had been passed in a hurry in the Spring and that the first two or three snowfalls had shown it to be too rigid. It imposed a hardship on many citizens and should be repealed.

Ald. Macdonald was opposed to the repealing of the by-law. There had been, he charged, too much passing of resolutions in haste, only to repeal them when some person entered a protest. The Council should stand by and enforce its by-laws.

Ald. McIntyre recalled that he had voted against the by-law when it was adopted and he would vote for its repeal.

The Mayor opposed the dropping of the by-law unless something could be substituted for it.

Shovelled Neighbor's Walk

No personal objection to complying with the by-law was entertained by Ald. Stocker, but on behalf of the widows and others unable to shovel their own snow he wished to support its repeal. He cited the case of a woman living near his own home, and when one of his colleagues suggested that he could have shovelled it himself, modestly stated that he had.

Ald. Phelan pressed for the repeal of the by-law. He pointed out that it would leave the city in the same place as it had been for forty or fifty years. The by-law was unworkable, he declared, and would bring many people into court.

The suggestion was put forward by Ald. MacDonald that those wishing to have the by-law repealed should bring something in its place, as it has its good features.

Ald. Greene, declaring that a bad rule is better broken than kept, stated his belief that the by-law is unenforceable and many citizens cannot obey it. There is no advantage in having a by-law on the books when it cannot be enforced.

The idea of appealing to the citizens to keep the sidewalks clean, without the present by-law to force this action, was advanced by Ald. Cotton, who thought this would have better results.

Ald. Denne explained that the idea in the mind of ex-Ald. Fife,

ALDERMAN ROLAND DENNE.

Alderman Denne who announced his intention at the council meeting, last night, as a candidate for Mayor of Peterborough for 1928.

Ald. Denne still a young man, has been before the public of Peterborough for a good many years and states in going before the citizens for election as Mayor, he is doing so on his record of public service given in the city's interests. He gives freely of his time and while a member of the Board of Education for twelve years. President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition 10 years Alderman of the City for three years, he tried never to shirk a job that had been assigned him to do. Ald. Denne also states his whole aim as a private citizen or as a servant of the people has been to make this city a bigger, better and happier place in which to live and this would always be what he would work for.

Candidates For Mayoralty Are Given Official Title a Little Too Soon

Whether Ald. J. M. Greene or City Clerk S. R. Armstrong is the better prophet will be demonstrated at the municipal elections on January 2. Ald. Denne was in the chair once while the Council was in committee of the whole last night, and Ald. Greene addressed him inadvertently as "Mr. Mayor." A few minutes later, Ald Phelan, who has also announced his intention of seeking election as mayor, was occupying the same position, and the City Clerk addressed him as "Mr. Mayor."

Attention was called by other members of the Council last night to the splendid way in which both the candidates already in the field filled the chair—physically, not officially.

ADVISORY BODY ON WATERWAY TO BE CALLED

Will Meet Sub-Committee of Federal Cabinet Early in January.

ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT.

Report of Engineers For Both Countries Is Completed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—The National Advisory Committee on the St. Lawrence waterway has been summoned to meet a sub-committee of the Federal Cabinet early in January, Premier King announced last night. The completed report of the engineers of Canada and the United States has been printed and was placed in the hands of the Government yesterday. This consists of a bulky volume of appendices to the original report. It is to be sent at once to the members of the Canadian Advisory Committee with instructions to them to make a study of the volume to be prepared to confer with the Government on the entire St. Lawrence project early next month.

Canada was invited by the United States this summer to open negotiations "with a view to formulating a convention" on the subject of the St. Lawrence waterway. Premier King, as Secretary of State for External Affairs, replied, pointing out that the engineering board of the two countries had been unanimous in many respects but had differed on certain important phases of the proposed development and that important appendices containing alternative schemes were being prepared. Until these appendices were available the Government of Canada could not determine its policy.

Report Completed.

The completion of the appendices and the summoning of the National Advisory Committee brings the whole project to the front. The United States Government has expressed itself as desirous of proceeding at once with the negotiations of a treaty and the Canadian Government's present activity would indicate that definite steps are to be taken before long. The Government has requested the committee to make an 'immediate' study of the completed report.

Chairmanship Question.

The Government's position repecting the chairmanship of the National Advisory Committee was made clear last night. Rt. Hon. George P. Graham resigned from the chairmanship upon entering the Senate, when he ceased to be a member of the Government. It is now felt that the committee should be of a strictly advisory nature, and in that position it should not have as a member any Cabinet Minister. The committee has now eight members and it will be left to the body itself to determine the chairmanship. It can elect one of its own number if it can request the Government to appoint a chairman.

The present membership is as follows: Thomas Ahearn, Ottawa; Hon. W. E. Foster, St. John; Beaudry Leman, Montreal; E. D. Martin, Winnipeg; Dr. W. L. McDougald, Montreal; Hon. Sir Clifford Sifton, Toronto; Major-Gen. J. W. Stewart, Vancouver; Hon. Adelard Turgeon, Quebec. The committee was appointed in 1924 to consider generally whether or not the completed project would be of benefit to Canada.

Judgment Reserved In Wright Case

STRATFORD, Ont., Dec. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Judgment was reserved until to-day by Justice Raney here yesterday afternoon in the case of Isabella J. Wright, now of Hibbert, against her husband, William A. Wright, now of Detroit, and against his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, of Tuckersmith. The plaintiff claims alimony from her husband and seeks to recover on a bond signed by the defence, guaranteeing the good behaviour of the husband towards his wife, a bond which the plaintiff claims was not kept.

This was one of only two cases on the Supreme Court November jury list for this sitting. Trial in the other action started yesterday afternoon. It is an action for alimony brought by Mary Jane Odbert against W. N. Odbert, both of South Easthope.

France Will Call Loan Due in Nineteen Forty-five

Although official announcement has not been published, it is understood that the French Government will call for redemption on March 15, 1928, at 110 and accrued interest, all the outstanding bonds of the twenty-five year eight per cent loan due 1945, offered in the United States in 1920. This will affect a considerable number of Canadian investors who hold these bonds.

Out of the total amount of $100,000,000, $30,000,000 will have been redeemed through operation of the sinking fund. The remaining bonds will be refunded through the issue by the French Government of $75,000,000 five per cent forty year bonds which will not be offered to the public but will be purchased by the International Match Corporation and the Swedish Match Company.

This operation serves as a reminder that sound foreign credits are now being more correctly appraised according to their merits than in the earlier stages of foreign financing, in the United States, after the war. It also reminds us that such bonds, bearing interest at a high rate and with provision for call prior to maturity, should only be regarded as relatively short term investments.

HEAVY STORMS HALT TRAFFIC

COVERS WIDE AREA.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—One of the worst blizzards experienced in a number of years has been sweeping the prairies of Alberta since early afternoon and was still raging last night.

The storm extends from Edmonton south to the United States' boundary, east as far as Brooks and Bow Island, and west to Yoho, Alta.

In the cities, street car service had to be discontinued, in some sections schools were closed, and trains were held up by the storm. Early this evening the Canadian Pacific Railway office at Calgary reported twelve trains storm bound on various Alberta sidings.

From the country districts came reports of impassable roads, tornado-like wind which was piling the snow in huge drifts, and of schools being closed. It is feared that there will be a great loss of range stock.

In Calgary hundreds of workers were forced to walk home yesterday evening, and the street railway was completely tied up at 7 p.m., with the storm still raging. Schools were closed shortly after noon and the assistance of the fire department was required to bring children home from some of the outlying schools.

Followed Chinook Wind.

The blizzard followed a Chinook of the week end which in many districts sent the mercury up to 35 above zero. Last night the mercury was hovering arond the six below mark in many sections.

Early last night Lethbridge, in Southern Alberta, reported the worst blizzard in ten years, which threatened to tie up rail and vehicular traffic in all directions.

Cardston reported "the worst blizzard on record." Schools had to be closed and search parties had to be sent out to locate children who were on their way home when the storm broke.

Some of the children were in an exhausted condition and suffering from frost bites when found by citizens who went from Cardston in sleighs.

In Saskatchewan and Manitoba colder weather followed heavy snow storms of the week end, and some sections reported light snow fall last evening. Temperatures ranged from zero to nine below zero. Winnipeg recorded the lowest reading at 7 p.m.

NORTHERN WIRELESS SERVICE

In order to keep the Mackenzie valley in touch with the outside world the Dominion Government maintains wireless stations at Fort Smith, Simpson, and Aklavik in the Northwest Territories. CHICAGO RESORT RAIDED BY GANG

Masked Robbers Stage Wild West Hold-up in Night Club.

WAITER KILLED.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—The wildest Wild West holdup in the history of Chicago night clubs resulted in the death of one persons and the wounding of eight others shortly before 3 a.m. yesterday when half a dozen masked robbers invaded the Parody Cafe in North State Street and fought with pistols, shotguns and machine guns against half a dozen policemen who happened to be guests while 200 panic-stricken merry-makers threw themselves on the floor to save their lives.

"When They Say Hello, They Mean Hello," sang two girl entertainers above the moaning of saxophones and laughter of guests in the packed and dimly-lighted cafe as the leader of the robbers appeared suddenly, closely followed by four others. "When they say hello, they mean hello," he shouted. "Stick 'em up everybody." A policeman sitting at a nearby table thought it was all part of the show. Then to prod the slow ones, a couple of shots were fired into the ceiling. "Hands up," the leader shouted, brandishing his weapon.

Shots Exchanged

The policeman, Sergeant Charles Cohen, shoved his wife under a table, drew his pistol, fired and missed. The gang leader turned and fired, but missed the policeman as one of the girl entertainers who had been singing the "hello" song slumped to the floor.

Then there was a fusilade of shots as other policemen joined the fight. In the melee the lights went out. When the shooting ended and the lights came on, a waiter lay dead in a corner, killed as he raced to the street to summon help. In the middle of the dance floor was huddled the crumpled form of the girl entertainer, nearby at another table another wounded woman screamed.

Bandits Wounded

The bandit leader and four of his companions lay wounded near the entrance. The terrified guests made a rush for the exits that knocked over tables and chairs and smashed dishes. The police came to find the panic-stricken merrymakers hurrying into the dawn.

The gang leader, who, doctors said, probably would die, was identified as Edward Cummings, married, and the father of two children.

The dead waiter was identified as Harry Smith, and the girl entertainer, whose condition is critical, as June Griffith, 20. Miss Fanny Hillman, a guest, was shot through the hand as she held it above her head. Sergeant Cohen was shot in the exchange with the gang leader. Others wounded all believed to have been members of the bandit gang, included William J. Malone, Abie Schaffer, Benny Silverman and Resco Rotuno. Another man, also believed to have been involved in the holdup, was arrested and he along with the wounded suspects was booked by the police on charges of murder and several charges of assault with intent to murder.

CRAIG HEADS KINGSTON POLLS

Elected Mayor By Majority of 1,121 Over E. J. Johnston.

ELECTION RESULTS.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Ald. Wm. H. Craig, head of the wholesale grocery firm of W. C. Craig and Co., now a part of the National Grocers, was elected Mayor of Kingston yesterday by a majority of 1,191 over Ald. J. E. Johnston, shoe merchant. The vote was 3,046 to 1,855.

The aldermen elected were as follows:

RECO ATION,

"Is this a healthy town?" asked the newly arrived invalid.

"I should say so," answered the native. "When I came here I had not the strength to utter a word; I had scarcely a hair on my head; I couldn't walk across the room, and had to be lifted from my bed."

"You give me hope. How long have you been here?"

"I was born here."—Capper's Weekly.

GIRLS AND BOYS GROUPS MEET

C.G.I.T. and Tuxis Square Gather at Regent Street Church.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 6. —On Wednesday evening last the "Christian Sentinels" group of the C. G. I. T., and the Katchewanookan Square of the Tuxis Boys held a joint meeting in the school room of the Regent Street United Church, the program being a joint one.

The devotional part of the meeting, which marked its opening, was in charge of the boys' group, after which business was discussed and announcements given from both sides.

The girls gave a program which was carefully prepared, well rendered and heartily appreciated. It began with an informal sing-song, which is always conducive to fellowship. Misses Marion Wagar and Ione Sanderson contributed piano solos, Miss Edna Harrison a solo, and Miss Eileen Brown a reading.

Kenneth Kemp, president of the boys' group, took charge of a program of contests and games, which were enjoyed, the former being particularly interesting as mind-teasers.

The refreshments were served by the girls in an efficient manner, bespeaking excellent training.

Before the meeting closed, Mr. Kemp proposed a toast to the girls' group as an acknowledgment of the appreciation of the boys for the evening which had proved both pleasant and profitable to both groups.

Miss Merle Crawford, president of the girls' group, gracefully replied, thanking the boys for their co-operation in the dual program.

The Tuxis boys are putting on a movie on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 6 and 7, in the Queen Street theatre. Besides the pictures there will be orchestra selections and music by local talent. The play is "The Cheerful Fraud," featuring Reginald Denny. The proceeds are for the local boys' work and will help to defray the expense of the local member to the older Boys' Parliament, which meets in Christmas week in Toronto.

Fruit for Veterans.

On Tuesday evening of last week Percy Spence packed a barrel of preserved fruit and pickles, which were donated during the "Week of Appreciation and Remembrance" to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion for the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto. This is the first year that the people of Lakefield have observed this, but it is safe to say that next year there will be even a greater response and the custom will become an annual one. The Ladies' Auxiliary passed a vote of thanks to the donors of the fruit and to Mr. Spence for his kindness in packing the fruit.

The ladies who made the donations were: Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. Robert Bullock, Mrs. M. Sanderson, Mrs. Albert Darling, Mrs. D. C. Chad, Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Mrs. W. J. Webster, Mrs. T. B. Marling, Mrs. W. Chappell, Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. McMaster, Mrs. Thomas Watson, Mrs. W. Spencer, Mrs. W. W. Yale, Mrs. F. J. Burgess, Mrs. T. M. Wesley, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Mrs. W. Gillman, Mrs. J. A. Porter, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. W. J. Creighton, Mrs. W. M. Graham and daughter.

St. Paul's Card Party.

St. Paul's Church ladies held its weekly card party on Friday evening in the Holy Name Society rooms over Leonard's store. Twenty tables were played, the prizes were won by Miss Odell Watson and Mr. E. Maloney, and the consolation prizes by Mrs. M. Allen and Mr. J. Maloney. The special door prize (a pair of chickens) was won by Mr. C. R. Armstrong. This is the last card party before Christmas. The series will be resumed in the New Year.

The weekly card party under the auspices of the A. Y. P. A. was held on Thursday evening in the Sunday School. Seventeen tables were played, prizes were won by Mrs. Mahood and Mr. Reg Murduff, while Miss Dorothy Holmes and Mr. W. S. Rennaul won the consolation prizes.

A community dance will be held under the auspices of the Badminton Club on Tuesday evening, November 29. This is the first of what is meant to be a series of dances under the auspices of the Badminton Club.

Sunday was the first Sunday in Advent and was specially observed in St. Paul's Church and St. John's Church.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute will be held at two o'clock, and not two-thirty, at the home of Mrs. W. M. Graham on Wednesday, December 7.

TESTING HIS SPEED.

The doctor had received a hurry call from the home of a young couple who had their first baby. Arriving, the doctor found the young father on the doorstep, watch in hand.

"What's the trouble?" asked the doctor.

"Nothing this time, Doc. My wife just wanted to see how quickly you could get here in case the baby was taken suddenly sick. You made it in four minutes this time."—Pathfinder.

Make Last Stand Against Bush Fires

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 6 A.P.). — Three hundred men made a final stand last night near the rim of the world highway far above San Bernardino, against the last blazing front of a series of brush and timber fires in Southern California, which caused a loss of $1,000,000 in property over the week-end.

Checked on three fronts, the San Bernardine mountain fire still ate its way through fine stands of timber on the crest above Plunge Creek Canyon, but it was expected to be stamped out finally within a few hours. Blackened areas many square miles in extent marked the path of five other conflagrations. The most serious of the unseasonable fires—that in the Verdugo Hills between Glendale and Burbank, northwest of Los Angeles—was completely out. A hundred houses were destroyed in Sunset Canyon in this area and hundreds of men received minor injuries.

'WHITE SLAVE' REPORT ISSUED

League of Nations Publishes Also Comment of Governments Mentioned.

HAS BEEN DELAYED.

GENEVA, Dec. 6 — (Canadian Press). — Famous "part two" of the League of Nations report on the international white slave traffic, hitherto suppressed was presented to the league council to-day and its publication ordered, with the report were appended the observations of the governments of countries to which the report referred. Publication of part two had been held up in order that the countries mentioned might have an opportunity to refute any declarations made in it and to afford the experts opportunity for revision wherever they felt the criticism justified.

POLISH DEPUTIES TO BE DRAFTED

WARSAW, Dec. 6 (United Press). Bad Weather Hampers Rescue Work In North

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—Severe weather has hampered the work of the rescue parties searching for 1,000 fishermen reported lost near the Selenginsk district in a terrific snowstorm which swept over the Caspian Sea a few days ago. Forty-one vessels carrying 112 fishermen are reported missing in the Krasnoyarsk region. The wreckage of four freight vessels, with the crews missing, has been discovered near Briansk Cape.

The Government is sending airplanes to reinforce the rescue parties and to search for those lost in the icefields, who face starvation.

DISTILLERY FIRM SUED FOR $418,000

Government Claims This Sum As Due For Sales Tax.

TORONTO, Dec. 6 — (Canadian Press). — Gooderham and Worts are defendants today in an action taken by the Dominion Government in a special court, presided over by Mr. Justice Grant at Osgoode Hall, for $418,000 claimed by the Department of Inland Revenue as sales tax due on liquor exports. The suit is an aftermath of the customs inquiry last spring when books of distillers and brewers throughout the country were inspected.

OLD MASTERS

The gray sea and the long black land;
And the yellow half-moon, large and low;
And the startled little waves that leap
In fiery ringlets from their sleep,
As I gain the cove with pushing prow,
And quench its speed in the slushy sand.

Then a mile of warm sea-scented beach;
Three fields to cross till a farm appears;
A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spirit of a lighted match,
And a voice less loud, through its joys and fears,
Than the two hearts, beating each to each!

—Robert Browning: Meeting at Night.

UNIVERSAL OPINION.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has, for some weeks, been publishing in each issue, letters from subscribers in all parts of the Dominion, in which the opinion is unanimous that The Family Herald is the greatest value at one dollar a year in the world today. It is safe to say no other paper in Canada could reproduce so many letters of a similar nature. Some are from readers for ten, twenty, and even forty years' duration. The Family Herald deserves its success. It has been the motto of the paper to improve and give greater value years after year. Today it is a newspaper covering all parts of the world, a family magazine that provides clean, wholesome reading for old and young, an agricultural journal excelling anything of the kind on the Continent. All these three are in one big paper of 72 pages, and for one dollar a year. It is a credit to Canadian journalism.

U.S. Paris Divorces Held Up By Cabinet

PARIS, Dec. 6—(United Press.) — Determined to halt the growing avalanche of divorce suits by Americans, the Ministry of Justice to-day ordered the civil court of Versailles to hold up pending cases until the exact status of plaintiffs, the length of their residence in France, and their reasons for being here could be ascertained.

The suit of Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, is among a number affected.

Among recent divorce suits at Versailles, which led to the court action, was that of Marilyn Miller, stage and movie star, against Jack Pickford.

CITIZENS NO LONGER REQUIRED TO CLEAN SIDEWALKS, ETC.

who sponsored the by-law when it went through the council during the time in the spring when there was a great deal of slush, was to have the slush cleaned off. He would favor a by-law dealing with this section of the trouble.

This substitute for the present by-law appealed to Ald. Macdonald, who suggested a clause calling for the citizens to square out the sidewalks after the snow plow had passed, levelling up and straightening the pathways.

The plight of those who own vacant lots a long distance from their homes was bemoaned by Ald. Greene. Even with this latter by-law they would have to do the work or have it done early in the morning.

As the vote was being taken, repealing the by-law, Ald. Phelan suggested that those wanting a by-law substituted covering the removal of slush or the squaring up of the streets could have it put through before spring.

Speed Limit Set.

Another source of considerable debate was the by-law regulating the speed of vehicles crossing Hunter street bridge. The by-law itself was unopposed but the rate to be set was the subject of controversy. The speed fixed by the Board of Works and proposed by Ald. Stocker was ten miles an hour, but the rate favored by most of the aldermen and included in the by-law was fifteen miles an hour, so that as soon as the Department of Highways approves the by-law and the necessary signs are erected this limit will be enforced.

The principal contention of Ald. Stocker and the Mayor was that even at fifteen miles an hour there would be splashes of water hurled up on the sidewalks and on pedestrians in wet weather. On the other hand, Ald. Phelan, Denne, and Hancock pointed out that this speed would be required by law in all weather, and would not be enforceable.

Ald. Greene, who favored the lower rate, said that it would be exceeded, as would the fifteen mile limit, and with the drivers coming close to the curb the pedestrians would be splashed. Ald. McIntyre stated that the splashing was done by cars going thirty miles or more an hour and that fifteen miles was limit enough.

Following Ald. Macdonald's declaration that what ever the rate fixed it should be enforced, it was set at fifteen miles an hour and the by-law carried.

Plow Agreement Questioned.

Ald. McIntyre questioned the value of the agreement with the Border Transit Company for snow plowing, pointing out that it means an expenditure of $13 a day for the machine alone, which could go toward the purchase of a machine.

Ald. Stocker explained that the agreement is an experiment and may be cancelled if found unsatisfactory.

The by-law was passed, Ald. McIntyre voting in favor.

In speaking of the Monaghan school connection by-law the Mayor asked if there is any parallel case as he had had suggestions of a $100 rate.

Ald. Denne asked what is the average amount paid by residents in the city, suggesting that a percentage extra be added.

Ald. Hancock suggested that $50 be the fee, while Ald. Stocker proposed the rate paid by Mount St. Joseph. This was looked up and found to be $112 for 30 years, and $44 a year for 30 years for sewage disposal.

Ald. Denne reminded the aldermen that all the other connections will be obtained if this is allowed and advised against a prohibitive price.

Ald. Hancock stated that the sewer suggested in comparison was built for the Mount alone and at a high cost, and that this agreement is only for 30 years. When Ald. Macdonald moved that the price be $100 he asked if this would result in the other agreement being thrown back or in the Provincial Health authorities fixing the price.

The Mayor pointed out that this agreement is only for six months. If the amendment to the provincial health law is not passed so that the township can make the other agreement with the city, this agreement is cancelled and the connection can be closed on two months notice.

$500 Off Garbage Contract.

Speaking to the by-law appointing Anglesey and Withers to collect the garbage, Ald. Hancock explained that the tenderers had been persuaded to take $10,060 instead of $10,560 and to agree to the inclusion of two more streets, Walnut and Murray street west. He said that the amount of work now required means that they have to keep their horses out for long hours and an extra team is needed. The strictness of the fire rules about burning of leaves and brush has added to their work, while there are not enough dump grounds.

When the added property was described Ald. Denne pointed out that there was a lot of vacant property being included and had the decription altered.

Ashes Give Trouble.

One of the contractors pointed out that many people pile their ashes in their yards until spring and then, just as the heavy garbage of spring cleaning comes along they put out many boxes of wet ashes. These people, he said, get two collections a week the same as others.

The Mayor suggested that these cases be reported to sanitary inspector and the people ordered to put their ashes out regularly.

The contractor also pointed out that his teams had to work 12 hours a day and that the contract amount is equal to $5.64 daily for each of his six teams. The man gets $3.00 and this leaves $2.64 a day for feeding and caring for each team.

The Mayor commended the men for their work and proposed that a clause be inserted in the by-law, if not already included, calling for the regular putting out of ashes.

Lakefield Represented

Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield introduced a deputation from Lakefield, for which Councillor J. F. Lillicrap was spokesman.

Mr. Lillicrap brought up the matter of getting the government to take action in regard to getting the east Nassau-Lakefield road repaired.

Another member of the deputation pointed out that the east road is open much longer than the Smith road and will be used more than ever this winter.

The Mayor recalled that the government had built the road for carrying supplies for the canal and it had since been abandoned.

Reeve Tanner announced that the Douro Council was willing to spend some money on the road if the province would give a grant.

Ald. Denne suggested that the 1928 Council should deal with the matter, but Ald. Macdonald proposed endorsing the scheme. Aldermen Phelan and Denne moved that any steps taken by Lakefield be supported.

Fire Protection Granted

A. H. Clarke, Chief of the Lakefield Fire Brigade, asked whether the city would be willing to allow the Peterborough Fire Brigade to give prompt assistance in an emergency.

The Mayor pointed out that there were two matters to be considered: first, the permission of the Ontario Fire Marshal, and second, the matter of roads. The city would probably allow such assistance without permission if the municipality asked for it. This was confirmed by the Council.

To Decorate Streets

J. J. Turner, Dr. F. C. Neal, and H. C. Huffman were a deputation from the Kiwanis Club which asked the support of the Council in a scheme to decorate George Street from Murray Street to King Street in an endeavor to stimulate Christmas trade. They wished permission to put up evergreens and co-operation in asking the Utilities Commission to string colored lights along the standards.

The Mayor replied that the engineer of the Utilities Commission had stated that the Commission would give the permission as soon as asked and would put up the lights.

On the motion of Alderman Denne and Greene the proposal was endorsed.

Roads Cost $32,374.91

Chairman Harry Gainey and his colleagues of the Suburban Roads Commission attended to report on the work done during the year. The totals were as follows:

Maintenance	$21,195.36
Construction	9,166.47
Steel Culverts	1,137.65
Concrete	873.43
Grand total	$32,372.91

He reported that fourteen cars of rocks from Havelock had cost more for freight than for rock.

The Mayor asked how far the Suburban Roads ran. The Chairman gave the distances as nine miles on the Lakefield road, and six or seven on the Norwood road, out the Keene road to Zion, down Park Street, and out to Chemong.

The Mayor complained that when the city has a road built up the province took it over. He asked if it would not be better to go out three miles on each radiating road.

The chairman expressed the belief that the main roads should be taken up, as each good road adds to the trade of the city and stressed his belief that Peterborough is getting more and better roads for its money than any other city.

Survey Nearly Ready.

F. T. Webster exhibited the plan of the area drained through the Park Street drain. The plan is almost complete and Mr. Webster promised to have the report ready for a special meeting of the council at the middle of the month.

F. H. Rowan was granted permission to erect three brick veneer houses on the east side of Aylmer Street, south of Sherbrooke Street.

City Engineer Parsons expressed his disapproval of the project as he predicted that the district will become a warehouse and business district. Ald. Green pointed out that many houses in the district are now brick veneer and that the warehouse area would be across the road. Ald. McIntyre and Denne supported Mr. Rowan's petition, the latter calling attention to the large number of houses built by Mr. Rowan and moving that the permission be granted.

To Change Fire Area.

Mr. Parsons then pointed out that there are other parts of the fire area which are wholly residental and where brick veneer houses might be allowed. He was instructed to draw up a report of such areas and at Ald. Denne's suggestion the matter of "patent" shingles was added. These, he said last a shorter time than cedar shingles and are no more protection than cedar with asbestos paper underneath.

In discussion of the finance committee report Ald. McIntyre recalled that a resolution had been put through the Council instructing that orders for gasoline should be distributed. He pointed out that every month there is an account for the same company. He asked why this had not been complied with.

Ald. Cotton, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, reported that he had had no knowledge of such a resolution.

Ald. Denne pointed out that it was before Ald. Cotton entered the council and the latter announced that he would see that the Fire Department, which buys all gasoline for the city vehicles, should buy this from the various companies alternately.

Ald. McIntyre apologized for any slur which his complaint might have seemed to throw on Ald. Cotton.

The Mayor introduced the matter of down pipes draining on to the sidewalks. He mentioned the building at the north-east corner of Hunter and George as an instance. The water from this roof runs down the sewer, but that from the cornice runs on the sidewalk. The owners wish to connect the two pipes and let the water down into the sewer.

Ald. Stocker objected, that such work should be done in mid-summer, but the Mayor pointed out that it is an inside connection.

Ald. McIntyre asked about the plumbing inspector's stand and proposed he be given power to suggest a different way of remedying the matter or permit the connecting of this pipe to the sewer.

This was agreed on.

The Mayor reported that the City Trust had raised objections to the proposal to advance money to the city in January for debentures to be issued in May, as it needs money in June for payments on other debentures.

Ald. Phelan pointed out that the trust had offered to buy the bonds and must have money. He and the Mayor were given authority to make any agreement necessary.

Ald. Denne called attention to the fact that money is cheaper and that the city ought shortly, as a result, to get money at five per cent. instead of five and one-half per cent. as is paid now.

Charles Cheu, Hum Lee and H. S. Forler were granted eating house licenses

The Department of Railways and Canals wrote in reply to the Council's request that it is in no way obligated to widen the bridges over the Trent Canal within the city.

Letters asking the city to advertise in the Ontario Motor League road book and other publications were referred to the committees concerned.

The superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal wrote, offering to share the cost of repairing the road along the east bank of the canal if the work is not done until next spring.

City Clerk Armstrong reported that a letter to the Newbolt Company which had offered a large sum for exclusive permission to erect billboards had been returned marked "not found."

Ald. Roland Denne announced his intention of running for Mayor for 1928. He had been asked, he said, to make his announcement in The Examiner, but had declined, wishing to make it first to the men he worked with.

His Worship the Mayor expressed his pleasure at the co-operation he had received from the aldermen during his two years in office, which had given him great pleasure. He wished all the aldermen success in the future.

FIRST THOUGHTS

Some first thoughts on reading in The Examiner of November 26th, the account of the address to the Women's Art Association by Mr. J. H. Burnham on the Relativity; of the Victorian woman, the Modern woman, the Bible, the Chinese, Evolution, Modernism and Ancientism, Madam Curie, Einstein, the Single Standard and the General Tendency to go to Hell in four dimensions, but with an appreciable shortening of the dimension of time.

There was an ex-statesman named Burnham,
Who thought he was sure he could learn 'em,"
So proceeded to prate
Of Victorian state,
'Til the women said, 'Oh, let us burn him."

Modern woman who opens a can,
He proceeded with vigor to pan,
For down to his level
On quite a steep bevel,
She's slid to the arms of the man.

Of the Bible you must not partake,
As you would of a pie or a cake;
You must swallow it whole
For the good of your soul,
Nor fear that your tummy may ache.

He says that the heathen Chinee
Has cast out the missions with glee,
Because they are liable
To say that the Bible
Is not what 'twas once thought to be.

Of beauty let women be ware,
Of artists and art have a care;
They're the lowest of the low:
'Tis I who say so,
Let any of you differ who dare.

Lest any of you rise in a fury
I would point to the late Madam Curie,
Whose electron relation,
"Nature's second foundation,"
Was deemed, by a Scientist Jury.

'Twas Einstein, with insight sublime,
Found that length, breadth and height lacked a rhyme,
Relativity demanded
"A fourth" should be landed,
So he dragged in poor old Father Time.

Swoon in hour of need; keep strictly to house,
Be Victorian "Christian," with spirit of mouse,
And perhaps this old world
You'll prevent being hurled
Right straight to "Deminition Bow Wows."

. . . . . .

Said the women with humor most rare,
"If this man, who is su ch a bear,
Thinks that this universe
Grows relatively worse,
He's discovered the nest of a mare."

P.S.—There won't be any second thoughts—'tisn't worth it.

COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE OF OF JACK PINE.

Although at one time looked upon as more or less of a "weed tree," the jack pine (Pinus Banksiana) to-day is of considerable commercial importance. The average annual production of jack pine ties and lumber is probably not less than 35,000,000 feet board measure, the greater part of this being utilized as railway ties. Some 30,000 cords are also cut for pulpwood and some 19,000,000 laths and 1,900,000,000 shingles are made each year.

SANDING THE STREETS.

The practice of some merchants and others in the business section of having the pavements in front of their premises swept clean of sand soon after the city's men have sanded the streets as a safety measure is likely, according to City Solicitor Wearing, to involve the offenders in a legal action should an accident occur.

When the sidewalks are in a dangerous conditions, necessitating the use of sand, the merchant who takes the responsibility of having this protection removed must also be willing to face the risk of being a defendant in a damage suit should some one, as a result of this action, fall and sustain injuries.

Under the new by-law, too, it should be understood that when the sidewalks are slippery it is the duty of householders to see to it that the portion in front of their homes is sanded or covered with ashes to prevent accidents.

These warnings from the City Solicitor should be borne in mind, particularly that in regard to the habit of removing sand that has been spread over the pavements by the Board of Works employees.

It is obviously useless for the City to adopt such precautions if the protection is eliminated by the merchants.

GETTING TOGETHER.

Although various unexpected causes resulted in a smaller representation of farmers than usual at the Farmers' Day luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club yesterday, the attendance from the surrounding country was representative and the get-together session will play its part in developing that entente between city and county that is so essential to the development of Canada.

The service clubs of Peterborough have done much since their inception to bring the two elements closer together and it is an effort well worth emulation by other organizations.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has perhaps been the pioneer in developing a spirit of co-operation and its success has materially assisted the service clubs in their campaign in the same direction.

City dwellers and farmers have long been associated as fellow-workers on behalf of the Exhibition and both have benefitted from the frequent opportunities provided to discuss each other's problems and to get the other fellow's viewpoint.

This association of both in support of a worthy cause, coupled with the efforts of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs to bring about a better understanding, is perhaps making greater progress toward a more complete entente than is perhaps realized.

THE FIRST CANDIDATE.

The thud you heard yesterday was the sound of the first hat to be dropped in the mayoralty election ring, the well-known head-dress of none other than Ald. Nagle Phelan, the watchdog of the civic treasury.

With Ald. Phelan's official entrance into the race, the municipal campaign will begin to take on a liveliness that has been sadly lacking up to the present.

Mr. Phelan, young in years, is old in civic experience and judgment.

For eight years he has been a member of the City Council, and for seven out of those eight terms he has been Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Two years ago he was beaten in the stretch after a hot race for the mayoralty honors by His Worship Mayor Holloway, and now he is back in the running and ready for the starter's pistol on New Year's Day.

Mr. Phelan's announcement will add zest to the municipal sweepstakes, particularly as it will undoubtedly be followed by other declarations.

It will be decidedly beneficial from a general viewpoint to have the mayoralty contest assume definite form at this early stage inasmuch as the effect will be unquestionably greater interest in the civic election and a better chance to secure an adequate expression of public opinion.

THE FARMER'S PROBLEM.

The need of greater agricultural production in Canada set forth in a striking address at the Farmers' Day meeting of the local Rotary Club yesterday, by P. C. Armstrong, Development Agriculturist with the C.P.R., has not perhaps been generally realized.

The man on the street has been inclined to believe that what Canada needed most was better markets for her farm products, rather than to increase production, but the C.P.R.'s expert declares that it would be impossible to increase the output of agricultural products in this country fast enough to keep pace with the world's demand for foodstuffs.

Rightly too, Mr. Armstrong lays the responsibility for solving many of the problems that enter into the question of greater production upon the men of business and finance, upon the urban dweller, rather than the farmer who cannot be expected to carry the whole burden.

Many things stand in the way of increased production, foremost among them that mentioned by yesterday's speaker when he referred to the exodus of farmer's sons and daughters from the land.

If there is to be a greater output it is obvious that there must be more man-power available, and it seems to many people that the quickest aid that could be given the Canadian farmer, if the experience of the agriculturists of our district is typical, would be the furnishing of an adequate number of farm workers, preferably from the British Isles.

If there is available in the old country a sufficient surplus of trained farm labourers or of material that could be at least partially trained before being sent out, there is not the slightest doubt that such help could be absorbed quickly by Canada's farmers, with ultimate benefit to the whole country.

The average farmer's biggest problem today is to secure sufficient help when he needs it and if production is to be increased that help will have to be forthcoming.

ALD. DENNE IN THE RACE.

When the article on this page dealing with the entrance of Ald. Phelan into the Mayoralty race was written, the Chairman of the Finance Committee was the only candidate in the ring.

At last night's meeting of the Council, however, Ald. Roland Denne announced his intention of contesting for the Mayoralty, and the issue is now joined.

The nominations are not closed, of course, but the two candidates already in the field ensure an exciting contest.

Ald. Denne's record in public positions is well-known to the electors.

His service to the community has included excellent work as a member of the Board of Education and three years as a member of the Council, while his ten years' record as the President of Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition is another item to his credit that will be remembered.

Whether or not there will be other aspirants for the chief magistrate's chair, the entrance of Ald. Denne and Ald. Phelan into the race will provide the electors with a good choice and add interest to the civic elections.

SEEING RESULTS.

Belleville has had a good example recently of the results of the taking of precautions by the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Cronk, and the local Board of Health to protect the city against the possibilities of outbreak of smallpox. The setting this autumn has been ideal for the spread of disease, extreme mildness prevailing at a time when ordinarily the weather is severe. Many citizens recall outbreaks of the disgusting disease during such mild winters of the past.

To the credit of Dr. Cronk, it must be said that he realized the danger early and so fortified the city against possible inroads by the disease. He secured ample supplies of vaccine and vaccination was begun in earnest and ultimately it was made necessary for children attending the schools. Many adults also took advantage of the preparations and guarded themselves by way of vaccination. Today as a result of these efforts and measures Belleville can claim to be free of the disease, while communities in this district have been and are under quarantine as to schools and public meetings because of the prevalence of the disease.

The action of the local Officer of Health in meeting the situation resolutely in the face of an inevitable amount of opposition, which was to be expected, is commended by the public. Besides keeping the city free, he has made Belleville an example to municipalities around about, which will take a lesson out of local history in regard to epidemics. Besides Dr. Cronk had by this means gained friends for vaccination, for opposition to the practise of immunization dies slowly and opponents to the practise have to be shown good results of vaccination. By the good works of the M.O.H. and the Board of Health some of the opponents will doubtless become staunch advocates of the method, while those who favor vaccination are further confirmed in their belief as to the efficacy of this means of combatting the disease.—Belleville Ontario.

COUNTERFEIT GOLD MINES.

"All is not gold that glitters," nor is every gold mining prospect as rich as its promoters or the people who heed their glowing prospectuses think that it is. Some person with a mathematical mind and desirous of rendering a service both to the investing public and to legitimate mining enterprises might prepare a statement showing how much money has been sunk by Canadians in unprofitable mining concerns, without the return of one cent., since mining was commenced in this country. The result of this compilation, we feel sure, would be an eye-opener and would lead to a greater measure of precaution being taken by those innocents who are now tumbling over one another to entrust their funds—often their savings—to every smooth-tongued salesman who calls upon them, writes them a letter, or, more rarely, makes use of the long-distance telephone to hand them "a tip."

One Montreal brokerage concern reports in its weekly circular that "Not so long ago three gentlemen with cheeks aglow from the bracing air of Rouyn, walked into our office and offered to sell us a mine the like of which the world had never seen before. It could be had for a song. After hearing their description of the property it was apparent that the gold was in solid blocks a mile square and a mile deep. The gold was encrusted with silver, copper, zinc and countless precious metals. Nothing was said about diamonds and platinum, but the chances are they were there, too, and available in carload lots. It was evident that this enticing deposit of mineral glory made the Hollinger look like four cents, with Noranda in comparison a poverty-stricken junk heap. Sunk in blissful meditation, the writer found himself wondering what he would do with his money after purchasing the property. His first thought was to give away $100,000,000 to the poor, and then with patriotic fervor settle Canada's national debt. As a precautionary measure he thought it might be advisable before purchasing the bonanza to have an expert examine it to determine whether it would likely yield four billions or only two. So he asked a personal friend, who happened to be learned in geology, to look it over. The friend wrote: 'Have just seen the property and have had the best laugh I have had in years. Offer them 20 cents for it, but be sure the money is counterfeit. Dig up your garden in Montreal; you'll find more gold there.'"

Before they are ready to invest their money in any or every mining property that appeals for support, people with a mind to do so should take some steps to ascertain whether the property in question has really any prospect of being successful or whether it belongs to the twenty-cent counterfeit class that this firm of brokers reports.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Those Ontario municipalities that have their civic election worries over for another year are to be congratulated.

Ontario's experience is different from that of the individual consumer inasmuch as the province has been able to drink itself out of a hole.

It was 34 below zero out West the other day. But then, of course, they never feel the cold out there.

With banditry on the increase in Toronto the Queen City police department has no reason to complain of not having enough work to do.

Christmas shopping can be done more comfortable this week than next and more satisfactorily all round than the week after that.

Most of Peterborough's civic candidates seem to be pursuing a policy of watchful waiting.

Politeness has largely become one of the lost arts, and it yields bigger dividends than almost anything else, with the possible exception of honesty.—Brantford Expositor.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday was very slow and little business was done. Trading in grain on spot was also of a very limited character, but the tone of the market was steady.

The undertone to the Spring wheat flour market was again easier, but there was no actual change in values. This was attributed to the limited demand from all sources. There was no change in prices for Winter wheat flour and the market was inactive.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained with an active business passing for local and country account. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices were firm.

Owing to the absence of any demand from the United States for potatoes and the limited demand from other sources a weaker feeling developed here and prices scored a decline of ten to fifteen cents per bag. Car lots of Prince Edward Whites were quoted at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.10 to $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk and Quebec varieties at 90c per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The egg market continued active and firm. The receipts were 719 cases.

The tone of the market for beans was steady with a fair volume of business passing. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel, and car lots to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, ex-track, while broken lots sold at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter continued quiet and the undertone was easy. The receipts were 280 packages.

With the exception of a little business done with United States buyers the cheese market was quiet. The receipts were 806 boxes.

TWO SENATORS NOT ADMITTED

Barred From Taking Oath By Resolution Declaring Them Unfit.

DISCORD LIKELY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The new session of Congress, born with every promise of a career of discord and political insurgency, opened to-day with a curtain raising in which William S. Vare, Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Smith, Illinois, were denied, at least temporarily, the Senate seats to which they aspire. When they presented themselves to take the oath of office the two would be senators were stopped by a resolution presented by Senator Morris, Nebraska, declaring them unfit to sit in the Senate because of the scandal surrounding their primary campaigns. It was agreed to postpone further action until to-morrow. The Senate also put off until later the election of its secretary and other officers, around which another storm is brewing.

A SPACIOUS HOME OF REFINED DESIGN

By Richards & Abra, Architects.

This beautiful home is particularly commendable for its refined and restrained exterior treatment. Features such as the entrance porch, and the windows, give this charming effect as a result of their Colonial style of design.

The treatment of the verandah is worthy of the reader's special attention, for its beautiful classic design is of real merit.

Another noteworthy item is the wrought iron railing over the front entrance porch. Beautiful wrought iron added its charm to many original Colonial home the builders of which realized that, when wrought by skilled craftsmen, nothing can be more effectively employed to create or emphasize an artistic point of interest.

The interior is spacious to an extent unusual with modern homes and to permits, if desired, furnishing treatments other than the very simple coziness which is the most practical and attainable objective in furnishing a small room. Imagine, for example, this 13 ft. by 23½ ft. living room with its molded plaster cornice, large bay window, and fireplace, tastefully decorated and furnished in a period style, and the result will inevitably be satisfactory.

Directly across the hall is the dining room which also has a plaster cornice, is of very ample size, and has a French door to the verandah.

The kitchen may be entered from either the hall or from the outside through a rear entry in which is a refrigerator recess. Descent to the basement is also made from this entry, thus insuring complete privacy from all tradesmen in the kitchen.

Light is provided in the hall by the inclusion of sidelights both at the entrance, and between the hall and vestibule. A coat alcove is conveniently located off the hall.

The upper floor plan is everything an upper floor plan should be. Three large bedrooms, ample closet space and a tiled bathroom, are here arranged in the most convenient manner possible while over the verandah is the sleeping porch.

Exclusive of the verandah, which although very desirable is not essential this home measures 26 ft. by 35 ft. and was designed for erection on a lot facing south.

With concrete foundations, solid brick walls, shingle roof, and hot air heating, the cost of erection was approximately $7,500.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architects direct. Address Messrs. Richards & Abra, Ottawa, Ontario.

SHORT STORY

JOE'S FAITH

By Corona Remington.

She was only a little maid in a big hotel and he the chef, but he had generations of chefs behind him and hers was a family of the highest type of maids. One aunt had been in the Delpont family for twenty-five years, and at one time her first cousin had been employed in the White House.

When Joe Porter had first mentioned marriage to Cornelia Allen she had hesitated, although she did love him.

"Well, I'll never marry anybody else," he vowed. "You're as pretty as a little picture and your folks are all honest and fine people, and I love you and I believe you love me too. Isn't that reason enough why we should get married?"

Cornelia said nothing for a moment, she merely permitted him to keep his arm around her which was a sort of consent, he considered, since she never had done this before. She did love him, she knew she did.

"But, Joe, I wanted to go up in my work—get to be ladies' maid to somebody big in society," she protested, and her dark eyes so close to his looked troubled, almost tragic.

"That don't matter," he answered. "They'll never love you like I do, honey, so you'd better take me."

It was a wrench to give up her ambition, but at last she consented and once done she gave herself up entirely to her new plans in life, and as the days sped by she grew happier and happier.

She was in the midst of doing her work on the fifth floor one day when she received a summons to go to the office of Mr. Williams, the manager, at once. Puzzled, she hurried down and found her employer talking to a stranger whom she supposed to be a guest. He seemed disturbed about something and would scarcely let Mr. Williams speak, but with a gesture of the hand the manager silenced him and addressed the maid himself.

"Cornelia, did you clean up 516 this morning," he asked.

"Yes," answered the girl, her face suddenly paling. "Why? What's the matter?"

"You know what's the matter," broke in the guest.

"I don't!" protested the girl on the verge of tears.

"Did you let anyone else in the room while you were cleaning it? I mean, did any of the other maids come in?" continued the manager.

"No, sir, I was the only one in and I locked the door as soon as I had finished."

"Well, you have my wallet, then, with $116 in it," broke in the guest angrily, "because I left it under my pillow and forgot to take it downtown when I left this morning. As soon as I missed it I rushed back to my room and it was gone. You may both come up and look."

Together the three took the elevator to the fifth floor and hurried down the long, red-carpeted corridor to Room 516. After a thorough search they were forced to give it up. The wallet was not under the pillow nor under the mattress nor on the floor beneath the bed. In fact, it was apparently nowhere.

"Go on to the servants' quarters," ordered the manager harshly, and Cornelia fled out of the room. But she did not go to the servants' quarters, instead she sought out Joe and told him of her undeserved disgrace.

"Kid, you never did it," he declared, holding her close. "And I'll break anybody's face who comes here saying you did."

"I'm so g-glad you still b-believe in me," Cornelia said, clinging to him. "You're the only one that d-does. I'll be ashamed to look at anybody around here after it gets out because most of 'em'll think I did steal it—going to be married and everything, they'll think I wanted it to buy clothes with. Oh, Joe, I'm so wretched." And again she burst into tears. "You'll be disgraced if you marry me because there's lots'll always believe I did it."

"They'll not either. They know you too well."

But Joe was wrong. By noon the news had seeped out and at lunch Cornelia could not eat for the suspicious glances that were shot in her direction and whispered mumblings that went on among the servants. With flaming cheeks and drooping head Cornelia tried to force herself to eat, but she felt that her very crestfallen manner implied guilt. If they had only talked to her about it and given her a chance to protest her innocence. . . .

The next morning the manager sent for her again and she was horrified to see the same guest sitting there at the side of the desk. This time Mr. Williams let the other man do the talking.

"Here's a twenty for you," he said "I found my wallet. I'd slipped it inside the inner pillow slip when I thought I was just putting it under my pillow. As soon as I lay down last night I felt it under my head. Sorry it happened."

"I don't want your twenty dollars," said Cornelia, with the dignity of a princess, "but I'm glad you found your purse. All I want is that you or Mr. Williams tell the servants at dinner today that I did not take it."

"Be glad to," said the manager, warmly.

Once out of the office, she shed her dignity like a cloak and rushed out to find the chef. After she had told him she gave him a little sudden hug.

"I'll always l-love you a little more for believing in me so hard," she said.

"Then it was lucky for me it happened," he laughed, and because she was so happy she had a little glad cry on his shoulder.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by
Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 13

It frequently happens that a player has both good help for his partner's bid and also a strong suit of his own. The question then confronts him: "Shall I help my partner's bid or show my own suit?" The answer to that question is really very simple: If your partner bids a major suit and you have good help for the bid, you should show support for his suit first, before you bid your own, even if such suit is also a major suit.

To bid your own suit first and then support your partner, doesn't give him a correct picture of your hand. On the other hand, if you first support his hand and then bid your own suit, you have given him accurate information. He should know that your bid of your own suit, after supporting him, is not intended as a denial but simply as a means of informing him of the character of your hand, so that the best bid of 26 cards can be obtained, rather than of thirteen. The clever bidder always tries for that result; that is, the best bid of the combined hands of himself and his partner, and any method accurately obtaining that result should be encouraged.

Example Hand

Hearts — 5
Clubs — A, 8, 4, 3
Diamonds — K, Q, J, 10, 9
Spades — Q, J, 7

	Y
	Z

Hearts — 10, 8, 3, 2
Clubs — 9
Diamonds — A, 8, 5, 2
Spades — A, K, 10, 9

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one spade and A bid two hearts. Should Y bid two spades, thus showing support for his partner's spade suit or should he bid three diamonds? There is no question but that Y should first show support for his partner's spade bid. Y's bid of two spades is overbid by B with three hearts. Z and A pass and now Y should bid four diamonds. By this kind of bidding he has given his partner Z the choice of trying for game in either spades or diamonds, and thus has increased their chances of winning.

It happens that Z's spade bid was based on a four-card suit, so that when his partner shows a big diamond suit, Z should allow him to play the hand at diamonds. He has great help for that suit and a sure game should result. If Z, however, had no support for the diamond suit and a strong spade holding, he should have bid four spades over the four diamonds. In bidding of this kind you must use your common sense. Give only information that is accurate and can be of help to your partner. Try to remember that sound bidding should produce the best bid for the combined hands of the partnership; the best bid for 26 cards — not for thirteen.

Possibly you hear the expert speak of the "squeeze" or the "double squeeze" without understanding what is meant. Suppose, for example, in the play of a no-trump hand, you have a long line of high cards and play them out, forcing your opponents to discard. Very frequently, these discards are very embarrassing and at times actually force one or both opponents to discard winning cards. To force one opponent to discard winning cards thus, is the so-called "squeeze." To force both opponents to do so, is the so-called "double squeeze."

Problem No. 15

Hearts — J, 10
Clubs — A, 7, 6
Diamonds — 8
Spades — 10, 9, 7

Hearts — 3
Clubs — J, 5, 3, 2
Diamonds — none
Spades — Q, J, 6, 5

	Y
A		B
	Z

Hearts — K, Q, 8, 7
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 4
Diamonds — 5
Spades — none

Hearts — 6
Clubs — K, 8
Diamonds — Q, J, 10, 9, 7, 6
Spades — none

Diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Z play the hand so that he can win all of the tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

MANY ATTEND UNITED BAZAAR

Bethany Sunday School Effort Success Despite Bad Weather.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Dec. 6.—The fourth annual bazaar in connection with the United Church school was held Saturday afternoon and evening, November 26, in the school room.

The room was tastefully arranged with booths of dainty and useful articles for sale, also a donation table which was laden with good things to eat, such as fowl, eggs, apples, pies, bread, meat, cabbage, etc. This booth was in charge of Mrs. Elmer Rowan and Mrs. William Lee. The ladies in charge of the fancy articles were Miss Elsie Richardson, Mrs. Crerar, Mrs. W. L. Rowan, Miss McMullen, Mrs. Thorndyke, and Mrs. Clarence Neif attended the door and received the admission fee.

Just inside the door the Young Girls' Mission Club had a dainty booth done in red and white where delicious homemade candy was to be had. This booth was in charge of Mrs. Bertrand Monk and Miss Hazel Jackson.

The tea-room was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Cavano, Mrs. Herb. Fallis, Mrs. Otto Spencer, and Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy.

Mrs. Jackson had the ice-cream booth, and the cream sold very readily.

Throughout the evening music was supplied by Misses Helen Patton, Verna Belle Lee, Winnie Dawe and Doris Driver.

Later in the evening an old woman, who had a thousand pockets containing prize packages, arrived, greatly to the joy of the children who were eager to purchase the contents of one or more of these pockets.

The Rev. A. Poulter opened the bazaar with a short address and a good crowd was in attendance, although the evening was both wet and disagreeable. The result, however, was well worth the time given.

On Sunday, November 27, the Rev. Mr. Foley of Fraserville spoke in the United Church in the interest of missions and the extension work of the United Church throughout Canada. Mr. Poulter had charge of Mr. Foley's work.

The play, entitled "Mail Order Brides," which was given under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of St. Paul's Church a few weeks ago, has been received with success at six different outside points, having been staged at Oakwood, Lindsay, Orono, Blackstock, Millbrook, and Ida.

The annual bazaar in connection with the W. A. of St. Paul's Church was held in the town hall on Saturday, December 3.

A heavy gale passed over this district on Monday night, houses shook on their foundations, fences were blown over, telephones were put out of commission, and the weekly washing suffered greatly in trailing through the mud all night. The flag-pole in front of the town hall also was blown over.

Doris quietly disappeared into the night

CAN LOVE BE SUPPRESSED?

"Love is of man's life a thing apart— 'Tis woman's whole existence!"

DAVID was very proud of his beautiful young wife .... and he really loved her .... yet .... he allowed himself to be lured by the eternal song of the siren She was pretty — this siren with the pharmaceutical blush and peroxide coiffure—pretty in a cheap sort of a way .... and she knew how to handle men! Of course, she made her appeal through David's innate vanity—ignoring his weaknesses, lauding his virtues. And Doris, busy with her manifold household duties, never even suspected disloyalty.

But after the private detective had verified neighbourly gossip, did the disillusioned wife go into hysterics and then sue for divorce? She did not! Doris merely invited her rival to dinner, turned her over to her husband .... and then quietly disappeared into the night!

An old proverb says: "To hurt is easy, to heal is hard." But a woman's heart, once fully possessed by love for a man, is like a strong box without a key. For three lonely years — years fraught with misery and suffering—Doris remained away, trying to tear from her heart the great love that had so brutally cast her into the nocturnal depths of despair.

Did Doris act wisely in permitting her mind, instead of her heart to rule? Should she have fought for her mate with the weapons available to a good woman?

All these vital, pertinent questions, so puzzling to the present generation, are faced courageously and answered fearlessly, impartially, in a true episode from life, entitled: SHE COULDN'T ESCAPE LOVE — which appears in TRUE STORY MAGAZINE for January, 1928. Its poignant drama, elemental realism and soul-stirring pathos will move you to tears.

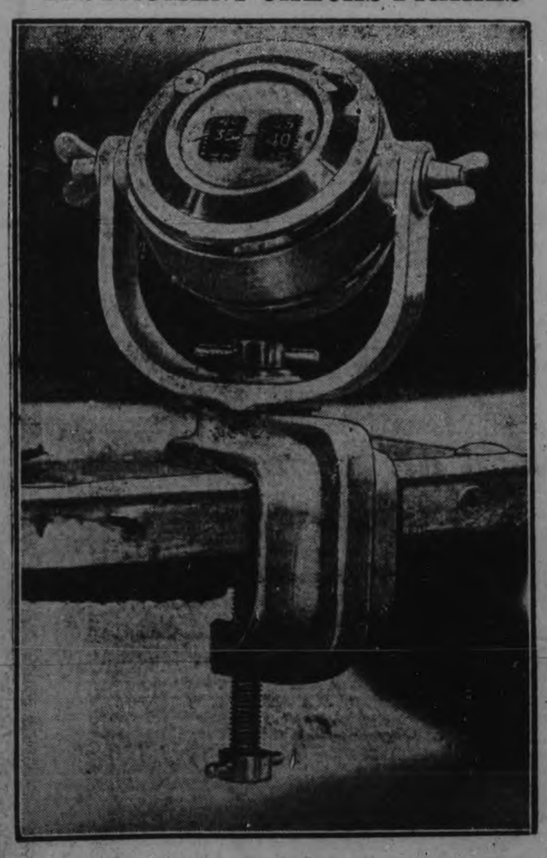
MILITARY WEDDING

Of interest in Canadian military circles will be the wedding on November 26 in Kingston of Katharine Bermingham and Professor O. T. Macklem of the Royal Military College.

TO WED SCOTTISH NOBLE

A daughter of Lord Beaverbrook, formerly Sir Max Aitken and Canadian newspaper proprietor of London, may one day succeed to the position now held by a daughter of Queen Victoria. Princess Louise, fourth daughter of the great queen, is the present Duchess of Argyll, being the widow of the ninth duke. Hon. Janet Aitken, shown here, 19-year-old daughter of Lord Beaverbrook, is, it is announced engaged to Ian Douglas Campbell, heir presumptive to the present and tenth duke, who is 55 years old and unmarried. Ian Douglas Campbell, is 24 and a son of the late Douglas Walter Campbell and a grandson of Lord Walter Campbell. He is thus a cousin of the present duke and the nearest in line of succession to the ancient title and extensive estates. Hon. Janet Aitken was one of the most charming of the debutantes who made their bow to their majesties at court during the recent season. Lord Beaverbrook, in 1906, married Gladys, daughter of Brigadier-General William Drury, C.B., of Halifax, Nova Scotia. The Canadian peer himself was born in New Brunswick.

INSTRUMENT CHECKS BRAKES



This delicate instrument shown ABOVE is being used by Toronto, Ont., police to test brakes on the streets. It has shown that brakes on three out of four cars are defective and that three out of four persons driving such cars do not know the brakes are bad. The usual penalty, so far, has been to order the brakes adjusted. The instrument is simply clamped on the running board and shows the speed at which the car is going and the distance in which it will stop.

POSED AS GLOVERS.

Frank Hampton, former convict, who has been identified through police records as the individual who posed as "George Glovers," brother of Charles Glovers, of Mitchell, Ontario, and who vanished after telephoning the latter's wife from Stratford that he was on his way to effect a reunion after 40 years' separation. Belief that a decomposed body found near St. Paul's was that of the missing man was subsequently proved groundless. Hampton, police say, is an adept at the fake relative game and once posed as Ambrose Small, the missing Canadian theatrical magnate. He was sentenced in Ontario to 18 months on one occasion on several charges of theft.

HAS SECOND SIGHT

Miss Kathleen Shackleton, sister of the late Sir Ernest Shackelton, explorer, visiting in Ontario, has been termed the woman with "supernormal" vision. This gift of second sight is supposed to enable her to put something more in her pictures than a simple likeness.

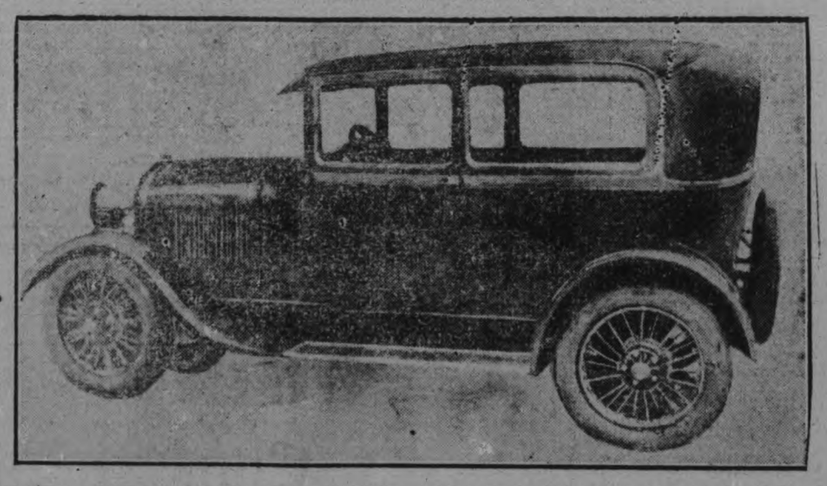
HORSES WIN PRIZES.

Murray P. Fleming, who made history at the horse show at the Royal Canadian Winter Fair this year, winning four ribbons in two jumping events, taking three in the green heavyweight hunter class.

ILL IN LONDON.

Vera, Countess Cathcart, whose entrance into the United States after her elopement with the Earl of Craven gave her world-wide publicity and made the phrase "moral turpitude" famous, is critically ill at her home in London, Eng., from heart disease.

PICTURE THAT 'SCOOPED' WORLD



While vast interests were striving by every imaginable device to get a picture and description of the new Ford car, it remained for an obscure country editor to scoop the rest of the country. F. W. O'Brien, editor of the Brighton (Mich.) Argus, a weekly, obtained and published the first photo of the new Ford. The new car is the Tudor model, has a pea-green body, wire wheels, four-wheel brakes, standard gearshift and bullet-shaped headlights. O'Brien, it is said, obtained his photos by focusing his camera through the chinks in a picket fence. Ford had to make changes costing $100,000,000 to get his new car into production.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Of interest owing to the pressing demand for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway was the convention recently in Toronto of the Great Lakes Harbors Association of the United States and Canada. LEFT is William George Bruce, Milwaukee, Wis., president of the association. In the CENTRE is L. C. Sabin, vice-president of the Lake Carriers' Association, a delegate from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce to the convention. RIGHT is the secretary of the Great Lakes Harbors Association, R. H. Weims, Milwaukee.

CARRIER WAVE PUT IN USE

The new carrier-current system of combined commercial and railway telephone communication between Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg was given a remarkable demonstration in its inauguration recently by the C.N.R. Here A. E. Warren, general manager of the central region of the National Railway, Toronto, is shown talking to Winnipeg, while a telegraph message is being simultaneously transmitted. The service, it is estimated, will mark a saving to the company of about $1,000,000 and is the equivalent of 24,500 miles of new lines.

IN POOR HEALTH

James Liddle, imperial army veteran and prominent for many years in Canada, whose life is despaired of. He is 93 years old and has had an eventful life of army service and remembers Balaclava and Florence Nightingale.

SINKS WITH SHIP.

Captain Simone Guli, the hero of the ill-fated Principessa Mafalda, Italian steamship, which sank off the coast of Brazil, with a loss of hundreds of lives, had a premonition of the disaster. He made it known the other day that he had said before he sailed that he wished to be relieved of duty.

PROVES WOLVES KILL MOOSE

Proof that a large number of young moose are killed annually by timber wolves in the north country is given in the photograph above. The wolf, one of the largest of its species, was shot near Hudson, Ontario, when the bawling of the calf moose, also shown in the picture, was heard. When hunters reached the scene the calf was still hamstrung. The wolf shown measured seven feet.

Gold Stocks Continue To Attract Attention

The public continues to focus attention on the gold stocks. There has been considerable strength to the market during the past week, although the weakness in New York has made the public wary. The flood of good news that has been coming out from the mines seems to have dried up momentarily. There are a number of ventures that are in an interesting stage and many are waiting to see what the market will do when this information is available, before deciding just what their future market position will be. In past years, the approach of December has generally been a period of selling before the holiday ease in the market. The last couple of years, however, has witnessed no perceptible change in prices before Christmas while immediately after there has been quite active trading. The market for mining shares has changed so radically during the last few years and developed such volume in the last few months, that previous old signposts have become useless in trying to guess just what way the traders are going to jump next.

The market has registered some disappointment over the showing of Teck Hughes. Since the report showing that earnings were not as spectacular as many thought they would be was issued, the prices for the shares has eased. It is believed however, that there is some good news coming for the shareholders at the annual meeting. In regard to Teck Hughes earnings, the new mill has not been going long enough to make any great showings in this years effort. Big things may be expected next year as, judging from the reports from the property, it is likely that the average grade of the ore in the high grade mill will be stepped up because of the calibre of ore that is being opened in the deep levels.

Good news is pending on Howey-Red Lake and Bidgood Consolidated Mines. On the former the plans for financing the mill are rapidly nearing completion and it is possible that President Jack Hammell will announce the completion of them at any time and at the same time give a resume of the operations on the property. There is considerable news in this regard that has not been made public.

Bidgood Consolidated has two machines working on the 400 ft level two on the 600 ft. level, driving to cut the downward extension of the ore opened on the 300-ft levels. The drills are expected to cut this area almost any time now. The formation is said to be favorable and if the ore is proven on both these levels it will practically assure the company of a mine of substantial proportions. This is the nature of the news that is being awaited. Success on Bidgood will mean a great deal to Kirkland Lake. The measure of success already met with has caused the reopening of some half dozen operations in the immediate vicinity. There should be no trouble for the company in getting ample funds now on a favorable basis. Until early this year shares were selling around four cents. In April last Bidgood offered shareholders shares at 10 cents and the offer was rejected. Ten cents in the Spring; over $1.50 today! No wonder everyone is speculating in the mines.

Dome Mines property is looking much better and predictions are freely made that this old Porcupine operation, which in the past has mined erratic deposits in the sedimentary rocks, has now found a new mine in the underlying greenstones. It is in this last formation that the other producers of the camp are working. Engineers reason that the rich ore Dome has found in the sediments must have come up from somewhere and would have to pass through the greenstones. They say that where the fissures or breaks in the greenstones and against solid cappings of greenstones there should be found a concentration of rich ore. It is such conditions as this that Dome has been looking for the last couple of years and unofficial reports indicate that the engineers have been meeting with some success for some time now although no word has gone out to the shareholders and any reports of such success have been quite regularly denied by the company. If one is to believe the old market adage to the effect that "the market cannot lie," then there is something really doing in Dome as the price of the shares is now 80 percent higher than it was a few months ago.

Motor Industry Is Likely To Expand

The shut-down of the Ford plant could hardly fail to have a widespread unsettling effect on business, says Investment Securities. When an industry which has grown to the proportion of Ford's, giving direct employment to approximately 140,000 workers (counting all subsidiary lines but excluding dealer organization), and affecting the employment of thousands of others through it, purchases of materials, practically closes up shop for six months, the effect on business in general cannot be other than serious.

It is known, however, that there is a large accumulated demand for cars which has been held back in anticipation of the new product, and which is expected to benefit not only Ford, but other manufacturers as well. How far the decrease of 624,190 in the number of automobiles produced thus far this year as compared with last year reflects solely the interest in the new Ford line remains to be seen, but one thing certain is that a gap has been made in automobile output which will have to be made up sooner or later. No one expects automobile industry to resume the rate of expansion characteristic of its early development, but no one believes that it is going to take any permanent step backward. Unless all signs fail 1928 should be a big year in automobile manufacturing, with corresponding benefit to all lines of business.

Activity of Corn Causes Rise in Wheat

CHICAGO Dec. 6. — (Canadian Press. — Active buying of corn led to an early general upturn in all grain to-day. An initial setback in corn prices as a result of favorable weather opened the way for a general rush to purchase on the part of the commission houses. Starting at 1-8 to 7-8c decline, corn rose to well above yesterday's finish. Wheat opened unchanged to 3-8c off and later scored gains. Oats developed strength, Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: December 126 3-4, March 132 1-8. Corn, December 89 3-4, March 93 3-4. Oats, December 51 1-4, March 54.

Mine Stocks Go Down In Very Active Market

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—The present downturn on the Standard Mining Exchange was accelerated today when all classes of stocks with very few exceptions lost fairly substantially in much heavier trading. The morning turnover was nearly a million and three-quarter shares, an increase of half a million over yesterday. Lake Shore suffered the greatest drop of the list, losing 75 cents at 25.70. Fifty cent losses were effected in McIntyre and Noranda. Teck Hughes sold down to 10.05, 75 cents lower, and Hollinger lost 15 at 17.10. Dome, Crown Reserve, Barry Hollinger, Area, Amulet, Kirkland Hunton, Potter Doal, and Amity Copper showed a loss ranging from one to ten points. Tough Oakes lost more than eight on heavy turnover. One strong spot was Bidgood, which in very heavy trading climbed four at 159. A few others gained slightly or held steady.

Violent Price Changes Are Recorded in Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 6.— (Canadan Press.) — Erratic and violent price changes were recorded in this morning's session of the Toronto stock exchange when trading, especially in the unlisted section, was extremely heavy. A sharp advance of more than seven points was shown by Bell Telephone at 159 3-8 and Consumers Gas was marked up four at 197. Loblaw gained more than four at 90½ and Massey Harris in heavy trading improved a point at 39 1-8. The Oils and unlisted liquor stocks were the active leaders. McColl gained a full point at 63½, but British American at 38, Petroleum at 27¾, and Imperial at 61½ were lower. Losses were also shown by Canadian Pacific, Alberta Pacific Grain, Brazilian, International Utilities, Nickel and Arnolds in the regular list. Liquors generally firmed, though Walkers, the active leader, was unchanged around 61.

Stock Market Reacts After Irregularity

NEW YORK, December 6 (Canadian Press). — The stock market turned reactionary again to-day after an early period of irregularity. The selling movement went into full swing soon after the publication of the President's address to Congress. Many commission houses suggested profit-taking on the theory that "the good news was out." A higher renewal rate on call money, coming after the announcement of record-breaking stock exchange member loans, also had a tendency to restrict speculation for the advance. Commission house comment was generally favourable to the recommendations in the President's address, special attention being paid to the railroad consolidation feature. Merger and dividend rumors accompanied bullish demonstrations in some of the specialties during the morning trading. Wall Street heard that negotiations would soon be concluded for the merger of the Keith and Orpheum vaudeville circuits, but reports linking the Lambert and other pharmaceutical companies were officially denied.

LAKE VESSELS AGAIN MOVING

Snow Covered Ships Pass Through Locks After Storm.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 6. — (Canadian Press).—To-day shipping is again moving on Lake Superior after a storm of great intensity which swept the lake yesterday afternoon, driving with it a high wind, snow, heavy seas and much lower temperature. Spectre-like ships bringing reminiscences of the blockade days of last year were moving slowly through the locks, some covered with ice, others covered with snow, and all proceeding cautiously. A fleet of eight or nine vessels upbound rode out the storm at Whitefish yesterday but last night they weighed anchor and headed up the lake. The downbound fleet, grain laden, was held up by the storm at Thunder Bay and started the downbound trip last night and will reach here to-night.

SWITCH BLOWOUT IS CAUSE OF TIE-UP

Interruption in Power This Morning Occurs at Auburn Power House.

The interruption in the electric power in this city this morning was caused by the blowing out of a switch at the Auburn station. In the past two years there have been several tie-ups in this city on account of trouble at this power house, according to Superintendent Ross Dobbin of the Utilities Commission. The Auburn plant is not operated by the local Utilities Commission but is under the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

GILMOUR MEMORIAL CHURCH

In the Gilmour Memorial church on Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. W. S. Edgar, preached from the following text, "O woman, great is thy faith, be it done unto thee even as thou wilt."—Mat. 15-28.

"These words of commendation were spoken by our Saviour to the canaanitish women, who had overcome his seeming willingness to grant her the blessing she sought. The incident referred to took place near to Tyre and Sidon, where Jesus had gone for rest and quietness. Mark tells us that he did not want anyone to know where he was. He wished, as we say, to travel incognito. But He could not be hid. This grief stricken woman sought Him out. Jesus cannot be hid. It is impossible to conceal Him. You cannot hide a rose, its fragrance will reveal it. If Jesus is present in a church, all the world will know it, for the church will be endued with converting and saving power. And if Jesus is present in an individual life, the fact will become potent to everyone, for that life will be full of graciousness, power, self-sacrifice, and love. These are the proofs of the presence of Christ in a human heart. This woman was in great trouble, her daughter was demon possessed, and she came to Christ and besought Him to cast out the devil. Notice it was her need that drove her to the Saviour. But for her demon-possessed daughter, she might never have sought out Christ. This is an illustration of the ministry of trouble. We rebel at trouble, but as a matter of fact men owe to trouble some of their choicest gifts. David said: "It was good for me that I was afflicted."

Troubles and sorrow will drive men to Christ. When bereavement enters a home, or sin lies heavily on the soul, we immediately turn to Jesus for He is the only one who can help. There are enrichments in trouble. There is a ministry in adversity. Affliction becomes a blessing, if it brings us to Christ. At first Christ seemed to deny the woman's request, but she refused to take a denial. She persisted in her claim, and showed that she was willing to take the lowly position, assigned to her, that of a dog, but she claimed at least the dog's share, the crumbs that fall from the Master's table, and Jesus gave way, praised her faith, and granted her the boon she sought. "O woman great is thy faith, be it done unto you even as thou wilt." Our subject this morning is "Great Faith." I want to ask a number of questions in connection with it:

(1) Where was this Great Faith found? In a heathen woman, no where one would most expect to find it. Like the faith of the Roman centurian, this woman's Great Faith was found, "no, not in Israel." Here we have faith in an unexpected place. As a heathen woman living out with the light, and knowledge of the Jews, we would naturally expect her to be ignorant and unbelieving, but no she has unbounded faith in Christ. There is more faith in the world than we know of, or even think. Men and women of Christ-like spirit, and found in unexpected places. There were saints in Caesar's household. Faith may flourish anywhere. The military camps and the battlefields are not easy places to cultivate faith, yet there have been many good christian soldiers. It is possible to be a faithful witness even in Pergamum, where Satan's seat is. If this great faith had been found among Jews, who enjoyed no end of religious privileges one would not have been surprised, but it was found in a poor, underprivileged gentile woman, the class the Jews regarded with the utmost contempt, and called them "gentile dogs". This is a case of the last being first. Last in privilege, first in faith.

(2) Now what was the character of this woman's faith? Christ calls it "great faith". Speaking to his own disciples on one occasion. He characterized their faith as little. "O ye of little faith, wherefore dids't thou doubt." We read of weak faith and faith as a grain of mustard seed. But this woman's faith was "great", strong, triumphant. She shares with the Roman centurian, the rare distinction of having her faith commended by Christ and characterized as "great." There where three elements, which made this woman's faith great.

(a) It was proved faith. Christ knew it was great, because He had tested it, and it stood the test. He had put it through the furnace, and it came forth like gold, seven times purified. And this story tells how her faith was tried. First, He tried her faith by His silence. When she first cried to Him, He answered her not a word. This is not like Jesus. He was always quick to respond to the cry of distress, in anyone seeking His help. There are many explanations of this, but to me there is only one satisfactory, and that is, He was trying the woman's faith. Then He tried it by a seeming refusal. He said to her: "It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast is to the dogs." The statement seems at first sight, harsh, but when we remember that Jesus was trying the woman's faith, the idea of harshness disappears. Jesus is never really harsh, in his dealings with the sinner. He is the embodiment of tenderness, grace and love. His seeming harshness is real kindness. Behind a frowning providence, He hides a smiling face.

(3) Then her faith was great because it was persistent faith. She continued to believe in Christ in spite of His silence and seeming refusal. Nothing could quench her faith. She accepted without a murmur, the position of a dog, but she replied even that ought not to exclude me from a share in the blessing, for the dogs eat of the crumbs that fall from their master's table This was faith's masterstroke, she ensnares Christ in His own words. It is rather remarkable that this is the only occasion, in which Jesus allowed Himself to beat all entangled in His words. The Pharisees and Sadducees often tried, but with all their cleverness Jesus always confounded them. Here, however, He allowed Himself to be at all entangled persistent faith of this anxious loving mother.

And because it was persistent faith it was also (4) Prevailing faith, be it done unto thee as thou wilt, and her daughter was healed from that hour. Persistent faith always prevails. According to our faith it shall be unto us. Trust Christ always and to the uttermost. He will never fail. If answers are slow in coming it is not because He is slack, it is because we are slack. For triumphs in our individual lives, and in our church life. What we supremely need is a strong persistent faith in our Lord and Master. The man or woman of great faith is not daunted by failure, it only spurs them to more heroic endeavours, and to a more persitent faith that ultimately triumphs.

Now what is my purpose in recounting this woman's story? Not merely to interest you in her, but to teach you, that the same faith which won for her the commendation of the Master and the blessing of healing for her daughter is needed by you to win for you the greater blessings of salvation and life eternal. Without faith it is impossible to please God. But all things are possible to him who believes. You may not be able to rise to the sublime heights of faith, to which this poor gentile woman reached. Christ may never be able to say to you, O man great is thy faith. But we rejoice to know that salvation is not only given to those who have great faith, but to those who have little faith as well, in fact to those who have faith as a grain of mustard seed

If you have this faith, Christ will receive you, and bless you with His salvation. For he says: "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out."

SCOTT'S EMULSION

COUGHS AND COLDS DREADED BY MOTHERS

What a weight of responsibility rests on the mother of the family during the cold weather season. In every cough and cold she seems to hear the warning of serious developments. She dreads croup, bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption and realizes that these are the natural results of neglected colds.

But Dr. Chase has provided a prompt relief for coughs and colds and a preventive of more serious ailments of throat and lungs, in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This medicine is so well-known that only a reminder is necessary to most people to recall its effectiveness in relieving croup, bronchitis, asthma and all forms of throat and bronchial troubles.

The "Flu"

Mrs. Beulah Demone, Pleasant River, N.S., writes:—"Having suffered with the 'flu' a few years ago, I was left with a very weak heart.

"I was unable to go about, and could not do my housework.

"I would get dizzy spells and would have to go and lie down.

"I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up.

"I tried different kinds of medicine, but they seemed to do me no good.

"A friend recommended MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS I have used five boxes and am much better; do not get those dizzy spells, and can do my own work as well as ever."

E. F. Mason seconded the vote of thanks to Mr. Zazits and stressed the need of reforesting the northern part of this county.

W. H. Bradburn, M. P. P., told of the large power developments on the Nipigon river where at present 76,000 H. P. is being supplied to Port Arthur and Fort William and where a new development that will furnish 55,000 H. P. is under construction. "Business may have been rather slack in the past few years but it would have been more so if there had not been so many large developments in Northern Ontario," said Mr. Bradburn.

Miss Jessie Pattison and George Chandler rendered several vocal solos, which were much appreciated by the large audience present. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Emma Lou Chenhall. Mrs. Hazel Davidson McCleland gave two readings in her usua fine manner that were received with much ap pause.

Major H. Dodds, president of the club, occupied the chair and announced that Col. W. St. P. Hughes D.S.O., inspector of penitentiaries would be the speaker at the Januar; banquet. He also read a letter from Mr. Finlayson in which the Minister expressed his regrets at not being able to be present, but he promised that he would come on some other occasion.

Aldermanic Privilege Is Accorded Citizen

The citizens in general were accorded last night by Ald. Macdonald a privilege taken by the Council and commonly allowed the ladies. It is that of changing their minds.

When Ald. Cotton brought up the matter of daylight saving and proposed that a vote be taken on January 2, Ald. Hancock demurred. "It's only two years ago we took a vote," he announced.

"The Council can change its mind in three or four months," retorted Ald. Macdonald, causing laughter among his colleagues.

However, in spite of Ald. Hancock's suggestion that the $60 to be expended for ballots might better be given the orphanages, a motion by Ald. Cotton that a by-law be prepared was adopted.

Safe, speedy relief from RHEUMATISM

Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules are the one remedy that unfailingly relieves the agony of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Neuritis and Lumbago. The proof is in the grateful letters we receive, such as that from Fred C. Irwin, Smithville, Ont.

"One year and nine months I lay on my back. Doctor bills and other expenses amounted to over $1200 and I WAS NO BETTER. A friend advised me to try T-R-C's. After 3 doses I was able to sit up in bed. By the time I had taken ten I was practically well."

T-R-C's act the common sense way on Rheumatism, etc. They enable you to get rid of the poisonous causes. A wonderful remedy. No harmful drugs. Let T-R-C's relieve YOUR pain. 50c and $1 at all druggists. T76

22nd Anniversary of the Bargain Annex

Commencing Wednesday, December 7th

We begin the celebration of our Twenty-Second Bargain Annex Anniversary Sale, and will continue until Saturday. Open every day, with wonderful values that you will appreciate at such an opportune time to replenish your Christmas household and gift requirements, to re-stock your linen closet, your pantry, and your wardrobe. Remember, the Bargain Annex is a Gift Store in itself. You will realize when you see the thousands of dollars worth of new goods for gifts at prices that will be great savings to you.

The Bargain Annex Anniversary Sale

coming as it does this time of the year, enables many of our customers to share in the many bargains we are offering. There are two sides to every bargain: First, the merchandise must be offered at a lower than usual price. Second, it must be something which will give the buyers service and satisfaction, both of which are enhanced by the price economy. Many of these bargains will be found during the next four days. We have been preparing for this Anniversary Sale for some time, and feel that no one will be disappointed in the many values to be had.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 7, 1927.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Good and evil planetary influences contend to-day, according to astrology, which finds that benefic influences dominate late in the afternoon.

There is a fairly fortunate rule for merchandising of all sorts, but all ventures in buying should be delayed.

Under this direction of the stars the judgment may be blurred, especially where borrowing of money is concerned.

This should be a good day for dealing with banks and with brokers, but it is wise to be cautious in all financial matters.

Disasters at sea and severe storms are presaged for this month when there will be much travel on ocean steamers.

Under this sway all purely intellectual activities should benefit. Editors and writers are to have a profitable season.

Many quarrels, political and otherwise, are foretold, for there is a rule emphasizing egotism and ambition for personal success.

Aviation continues under a first-rate rule, making for big advancement in commercial fields.

Railway travel will be heavy at the end of this month, it is prophesied, and the South will benefit as well as the West.

The Moon, now affecting the nativity of the Prince of Wales, may encourage an early marriage.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have anxiety regarding the young folk of their families in the coming year. They should avoid litigation.

Children born on this day probably will be determined in nature and yet often losers. They can easily win success.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When, and only when, is thwording "may I present" used in introe ductions?
2. Is "pleased to meet you" ever a proper acknowledgement of an introduction?
3. How does one acknowledge an introduction?

The Answers:

1. Only to royalty do presentations take place.
2. Never.
3. Nod, smile, shake hands, and say just about any polite thing, such as "How do you do."

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith passed the morning in a fog of bewilderment and foreboding. She could not get the picture of changed, subdued, pathetic little Cherry out of her mind. While vacuum-cleaning the living-room rug she came to with a start, realizing that she had been pushing the instrument over the same spot for several minutes, her mind absorbed with this new problem which she could not solve.

Could it be possible that Cherry was in love with Nils Jonson? Faith shook her head in stubborn negation. Of course Nils had succumbed immediately to Cherry's beauty and charm.. Almost every man who met her did that. His invitation to the opera and his gift of roses proved that he was no exception to the rule. But if Cherry had been intrigued by his Viking-like masculine splendor and by that irresistible magnetism of his which Faith herself had felt, why had she flouted his invitation and his gifts of flowers?

Was it possible that Rhoda was right—that Cherry, a born snob, felt insulted because Nils Jonson, brother of a girl who had been hired as a maid, dared aspire to her favor? Again Faith shook her head in angry denial. Cherry was not that sort of fool. She knew that Nils and Rhoda owned a big farm, were rich according to the standards of the Lane family, which had seldom had enough money to meet the grocer's and butcher's bills. No, she could not understand. Her own nature was too direct, too simple, ever wholly to understand the complexities of Cherry's. But if Cherry and Nils had fallen in love at first sight, might it not be the solution of her own problem? If Cherry married again, she—Faith—would be alone with Bob at last, free to work out her own marriage.

"Bob and Rhoda are simply making a mountain of a mole hill," Faith told herself disgustedly. "The only thing that ails Cherry is that her vanity is hurt because Bruce Patton hasn't pursued her more ardently. Bruce is the kind of man she adores, not a farmer like Nils Jonson, no matter how rich he may be, or how magnetic."

She tried to dismiss the whole tantalizing subject, but it was still uppermost in her mind when Bob called her on the telephone at one o'clock.

"Hello, darling," his voice came blithely over the wire. "Forgive me if I sound like a gossipy old hen, but I thought you might be interested to know that Nils Jonson came to take Cherry to lunch."

"Oh!" Faith gasped. "Was she pleased? Tell me exactly how she acted——"

"She turned him down flat, looked angry enough to bite nails in two, and tried to shut the door in his face," Bob chuckled.

"I don't know what's the matter with her!" Faith marveled.

"Don't you?" Bob laughed out loud. "Well, honey, I might add that Nils simply picked her up and carried her off bodily to the elevator, while I came running with her hat and coat. I've always wanted to see a cave man get hold of Cherry, and now I feel I haven't lived in vain! 'Bye, honey!"

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ICICLE PARTY

One day, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, the old rabbit gentleman thought to himself something like this:

"I want to make a little party for my own forty 'leven little bunny boys and girls, and also for the other animal children who live near my hollow stump bungalow. Yes, I want to give them a party. But what kind of a party shall it be?"

Mr. Longears thought over the different parties he had been invited to when he was a young rabbit. There was a carrot party, and a cabbage party and a peanut party, though this was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bushytail, the squirrels, and Uncle Wiggily, being a rabbit, couldn't eat nuts very well.

"So I shall not give a peanut party for the children," decided the bunny uncle. "And there is nothing new about a carrot party, or even a lettuce one. As for a lollypop party—no one cares for them any more. What kind of a party can I give?" He was so worried he now spoke aloud.

All of a sudden a voice behind the bushes called:

"Why not give them an icicle party?"

"Hello! Who are you?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know.

"I'm Jack Frost," was the answer. "I heard what you said and I want to help you. Why not give an icicle party for the children?"

"That's a good idea," chuckled Mr. Longears. "But where can I get enough cold, frosty icicles to make a party?"

"I'll make them for you!" laughed Jack Frost. "That's part of my business—making snow and icicles. But you don't need to get them."

"Why not?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know. "If I give an icicle party I must have lots of icicles for the children to eat and—"

Then it struck him so funny—little animal children eating icicles—that he laughed and said:

"Look here, Jack Frost: You must be trying to play a trick on me. An icicle party! The idea! Who eats icicles? Certainly neither I nor my friends do. Skip along, you're teasing me!"

"No, really I'm not," said the cute little elf who, just then, skiddered out from beneath a bush. "I mean it. Give an icicle party. It will be jolly fun. But I didn't mean that the children were to eat the icicles. No, indeed!"

"What then?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Why," explained Jack Frost, "You send out invitations for your icicle party. But the icicles are to be brought by the children who come. You must offer a prize for the longest icicle, also a prize for the shortest icicle and another prize for the funniest icicle."

"Say!" cried Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling fast. "That's a fine idea! I'll get ready for my icicle party at once. But what about something to eat?"

"Thank you, I've just had three snowballs," said Jack Frost, blowing out his cold breath like steam.

"Oh, I didn't mean you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I meant what about something to eat for those who come to my prize icicle party. I can't offer them snowballs, you know."

"No more you can," agreed Jack. "Well, you can have your wife and Nurse Jane make a lot of cakes and pies, cookies, crullers and apple turnovers. As for the ice-cream, I'll freeze that for you."

"Give an icicle party!

"Very kind of you," said Uncle Wiggily. "Thanks! That's what I'll do. I'll give an icicle party! I'll give a prize of a picture book for the longest icicle. I'll give the prize of a story book for the shortest icicle. And for the funniest shaped icicle I'll give a prize of a toy balloon. And there will be plenty of good things to eat at my icicle party. Hurray!"

"Hurray!" cried Jack Frost. Then he skipped away while Uncle Wiggily hopped back home. And soon all the animal boys and girls in Woodland were talking about the bunny gentleman's coming icicle party and wondering where they could find the longest, shortest and funniest slivers of ice hanging down—for that's what icicles are—long slivers or spear points of ice.

Such excitement in Woodland was never known before. Every one was talking about the icicle party to be given that night.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

House suits with short jackets are chosen for indoor wear by well-dressed women in France. The model shown has a jumper and front-pleated skirt of beige cloth with a blazer jacket of French blue.

One subject about which most adult Americans have a very definite notion is the proper indoor temperature during the cool months. You yourself may find anything above seventy nearly unbearable and prefer the cool comfort of a room around sixty-five—but your mother-in-law who visits you—though really not what you could politely call an old woman at all—finds any temperature below seventy-five positively shivery and is really at her best when she knows it is about eighty.

With improved heating equipment the tendency may be toward warmer or more evenly warmed houses, but with the ever-increasing cost of coal and other fuel and the increased knowledge of the fact that colds are more easily contracted in the higher temperature—the tendency seems in many cases to be directly in the opposite direction.

Then, too, there are Americans who after a season or so abroad find or say they find our steam-heated houses unbearable. And because they shivered through an English house party attended by Lady This and Sir John That they seem to think that there is something quite smart about rooms that are as cool and draughty as those of an English country house.

If we follow the European custom of having rather cool houses in winter then we should follow the other European custom of having shawls, jackets and coatees specially designed to provide extra warmth to our indoor dress. The house suit, not unlike a spring suit in general appearance, is often included in the European winter wardrobe. The removable jacket is really part of the costume, but may be taken off when by chance indoor temperature makes this more comfortable.

Cochran to Defend Balkine Title Against Schraefer

WIZARDS OF CUE WILL PLAY FOR WORLD'S CROWN

15,000 Point Match Set For Title Contenders This Month.

RECORDS SHOULD GO.

Both Players Have Set Billiard Records in Previous Plays.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. —When Welker Cochran defends his 18.2 balkline billiard title against Jacob Schaefer in a 1,500 point match at the Pennsylvania Hotel December 19, 20 and 21, two of the most prolific counters in billiard history will be competing.

Between them, these two young billiard masters practically have usurped all the billiard records since they started championship play Breaking into a title tournament together in 1919, first one and then the other has set marks unapproached by their predecessors. Cochran's high run of 265 in the 1919 tournament was a record that lasted until he broke it himself in 1921 with a run of 384.

Makes Startling Run.

Schaefer was close upon his heels the same year with a cluster of 316. But in 1924 the son of the former wizard accomplished a feat that still stands on the record and may never be duplicated .In the seventh game of the tournament against Ric Hagenlacher, Schaefer won the bank points without giving his opponent a shot.

Prior to this, in 1921, he had won a game in two innings for an average of 200., defeating Cochran 400 to 0, but his average of 400 for a single game is an accomplishment he alone can boast.

Even the high run of 400 has ben beaten by these two players and no others in championship play. Both were performed in challenge matches which are of 1,500 points. Against Edouard Horemanns, of Belgium, in 1925 Schaefer ran 432, which remains the high run for a championship match. In this same contest Schaefer established another record of 93.75 average for 1,500 points.

SPORT BITS

National League managers are a unit in the belief that Lloyd Waner of the Pirates was playing far above his gait last season and that he will not be such a help to Pittsburgh next season.

"It is hard to believe that a player, with only one year's professional experience, can step right into the majors, star as did Lloyd Waner, and keep it up. We have learned his weakness as well as his strength, and he should be slowed up at the bat next season."

That is the gist of the many opinions expressed by rival managers. To which Donie Bush ,of the Pirates, replies: "If he is just half as good, I will be perfectly satisfied with him."

Walter Johnson, aside from winning great fame for himself over the 20 years he starred as the pitching ace of the Washington staff, helped to win plenty of glory for three catchers.

It was only natural that Johnson's receiver should bask to a certain extent in the spotlight that was constantly turned on Walter.

The first catcher to handle Johnson's shoots was "Gabby" Street. Walter classes him as the best catcher he ever had. Next came Eddie Ainsmith, then Muddy Ruel.

Johnson used a fast ball almost entirely when Street handled his delivery and in those days his speed was terrific.

CAPTAIN OF PRO. TEAM.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., December 6 (Canadian Press). — Walter Hagen was advised yesterday that he had been appointed captain of the 1928 American professional golf team by the directors of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Hagen said that the association had not yet determined if a team would be sent to Great Britain next year . He said he expected to participate in the British open championship himself, and that if men selected to represent the United States could make the trip, a match would probably be played.

MAROON AT STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Ont., December 6 (Canadian Press). — Bill Touhey, centre man of the Montreal Maroons, has arrived in the city, and will be seen in action for the first time on local ice this season when the Nationals tackle the London Panthers here on Friday night. Touhey was with the locals last year. There will be another on the Nationals' line-up on Friday night in Jack Connelly, leading scorer in the Prairie League last year. He was obtained in a trade that sent Jack Kentner, former Windsor amateur, to the St. Paul Club of the American Association.

Eddie Collins May Manage Athletics

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—While Connie Mack continues to deny the rumor that he doesn't intend to manage many years more, it is possible that he may give up the reins of the club before next spring arrives. In that event, Eddie Collins is certain to succeed him as leader of the Athletics. Connie has said when he decides to step out, Collins is the man who will step in. He recently signed with Mack as coach, ready to step in when Mack steps out.

DOG RACING IS POPULAR IN ENGLAND

From 40,000 To 60,000 Fans See Greyhounds Race Nightly.

HEAVY BETTING.

Taxes Paid To Nation Average Around $50,000 Per Week.

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Great Britain is going to the dogs! With enthusiasm and with joy.

The result of it all is that the British treasury is benefitting to the tune of $50,000 per week. Wherefore, Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill probably hopes Great Britain will continue to go to the dogs.

For you see, this is a literal fact. Every night from 40,000 to 60,000 Londoners go to the dogs, and every night in the rest of Britain about 40,000 more go to the dogs. In other words, they are flocking to the new sport, greyhound racing. So are the book-makers.

The result is that this sports-mad, betting-mad nation has a new outlet for energy. The newspapers print almost as much about greyhounds as they used to about horses. Their experts prepare "form" sheets. Their sports editors pick the best choice in each race.

Greyhound racing started in England 50 years ago when some fellow invented a mechanical hare with machinery in its insides which could be wound up and cause the hare to run around a track.

It was an American, O. P. Smith, however, who invented the present electrical hare which is in vogue in Florida, Kentucky and other states in the United States. A little electrically-driven machine runs around the track on a pair of rails. Extending from this machine is an arm on which sits the artificial hare which the greyhounds chase. The speed of the hare is regulated by the man in the control tower.

In July last year, the Greyhound Racing Association was formed here and opened a track in Manchester. The founders did not dream the thing would catch on the way it did. But the facts were there; there is horse racing in Britain throughout the year, but the tracks often are distant from the big cities and people can't afford to go. Also they are held in the daytime and people can't leave their jobs. The result is that men often bet on the horse races but barely see a race.

Greyhound racing filled all their needs. Such races could be held in covered buildings in the big cities. They could be held at night. Huge crowds commenced to flock to them, paying big prices for seats and betting freely on the hounds. So the association rented White City in London and repeated its Manchester success.

The United States think they have big crowds when they get from 30,000 to 50,000 people at a big intercollegiate football final or baseball championship, but London has been pouring from 40,000 to 100,000 nightly to the greyhound races.

The association has since opened tracks at Edinburgh, Birmingham, and a second one in London known as the Harringay track.

On the opening night at the latter, despite a pouring rain, the attendance was 40,000 and 700 bookmakers were there. Independent organizations have opened tracks at Sheffield, Hull, Southend and Bristol. Another concern is going to build a huge one near London, where seats for 100,000 will be provided.

Some idea of the crowds drawn outside of London may be gathered from this estimated weekly attendance: Manchester, 60,000; Leeds, 40,000; Birmingham, 40,000; Blackpool, 35,000; Sheffield, 20,000; Burnley, 20,000; Southend, 10,000.

The taxes paid to the nation in the shape of entertainment taxes and betting taxes are bringing in $50,000 per week to the treasury. And the end is not in sight.

The dog races have been so popular that Lord Lonsdale, a well known sportsman, has seriously suggested that horse races might also be held by electric light.

WEST HAM TIED.

Brentford defeated Walsall by three goals to two in a scheduled match in the third division (southern section) of the English football league.

In a rugby league match Swinton won from Widnes by 27 points to 8.

DELANEY WANTS BEEFIER OPPONENTS

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The case of Jack Delaney versus the heavyweights is furnishing new fuel for the age-old controversy—can a good little man lick a good big man?

As the weeks go on and Delaney faces better, not to mention beefier opponents, one finds a rising tide of mawkish sentiment making a great hullaballoo over the "Rapier of the North" or "Bright Eyes", as he is variously called.

Thumbing back through the archives of fistiana it seems that the man who has foresworn the light-heavyweight title to go after the heavyweight game exclusively is not a pioneer. And although he has met Jim Maloney, Bud Gorman, Paolino Uzcudun, Johnny Risko and Jack Renault he has far to go to equal the success of his predecessors.

Joe Choynski, Kid McCoy, Bob Fitzsimmons, Tommy Burns, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Joe Walcott and others less famous knocked many a bigger palooka stiff.

Fitzsimmons and Burns are the outstanding examples, for each achieved success in the task which Delaney has set for himself—that of annexing the heavyweight title.

Fitz is the greatest because his opposition was the toughest.

Ruby Robert was little more than a middleweight when he met Maher, Sharkey, Jeffries, Corbett, Ruhlin and Dunkhorst.

Ruby, in fact, was not as heavy as Delaney.

Maher, Sharkey, Corbett and Ruhlin tipped the scales around 190. Jeff was a giant and they called Dunkhorst, "the human freight car", but those who saw the latter battle say Ruby Robert drove his arm up to the elbow in Dunkhorst's body with a left hook that flattened him.

Fitz met Maher three times, first winning from him in a 12-rounder at New Orleans in 1892. Four years later Bob stopped Peter in the first round at Langtry, Texas, and a few days later they boxed a three-round exhibition in New York.

Sharkey won from Fitz on a foul in the eighth round in San Francisco in Bob's last fight there before he stopped Corbett at Carson city with that famous solar plexus blow that made him champion. A few years later Fitz stopped Sharkey in two rounds at Coney Island.

Jeff was one of the big fellows Bob could not get past, the boilermaking putting the snore on him twice, once in 11 rounds and again in eight. Fitz stopped Ruhlin in six rounds and Dunkhorst in two, the record books show.

"I've got the speed and I've got the punch", says Delaney, "and there isn't a heavyweight in the racket today who has that combination. They say I've pulled a boner by resigning my title but time will tell. There is more dough and more action in the heavy ranks and I'm going to stick until I'm stopped. A good little man can knock over a good big man—if he has the kick."

So there you are. More food for the debate, perhaps, as "Bright Eyes" unquestionably has a punch that appears a bit heftier than Tunney and his cohorts but Mons. Delaney will have to go some to emulate the scraps of a certain freckled gent named Mr. Fitzsimmons.

Directors Would Prohibit Big League Ownership In American Association

DALLAS, Texas., December 6 (Associated Press). — Adoption of a new constitution, the outstanding clause of which is designated to act against major league acquisition of American Association baseball clubs, marked a harmonious annual meeting of the association officials here yesterday.

The meeting unanimously adopted a provision that the board of directors of the League must approve any sales, or must be given an opportunity to purchase any franchise for the League, in case the sale is not approved. Henry Killilea, of Milwaukee, was made a member of the League Finance Committee.

Minor leagues showed great interest in a decision last night by the National Board of Arbitration blocking the efforts of the Tulsa and Oklahoma City Baseball Clubs to bolt the Western League and join the Texas Circuit. The board ruled that the teams occupied territory belonging to the Western, and it could not be transferred to the Texas.

Many baseball clubs represented here for the National Professional Baseball Association meeting to-day announced that they were in the market for players, but not a single deal developed during the day. Lobby talk was that cash deals in preference to trading was holding up exchanges of players.

The new provision in the American Association constitution will not change the status of the Columbus club, the only Association team owned by a major league club. Cincinnati recently acquired the Columbus franchise, and no action that the league could have taken would have changed the relationship of the two clubs, Thomas J. Hickey, of Chicago, president of the Association, said.

The owners spent little time discussing the major ownership clause. It replaced a clause defeated yesterday which stated in bald language that the association did not favor major ownership.

ERNIE JARVIS ACCEPTS BOUT

SET FOR TORONTO.

TORONTO, Dec. 6—Realizing that Playfair Brown was not bluffing Johnny Keyes, manager of Ernie Jarvis, the British flyweight capitulated unceremoniously over the week-end and accepted the original contract tendered him by the Shamrock club. The abject backdown of the business agent of the stock Britisher was as surprising as it was unexpected. He raved, according to he was asked to accept a paltry 25 percent. for his fighter, and declared that unless he was offered 30 per cent. out there would be nothing doing. But when the local impressario stood pat and showed no signs of yielding he made the best of a bad job. The bout, which will carry with it the flyweight championship of the world, will be boxed here on the 19th. French Belanger's signed articles, which call for the same split as that of his more famous opponent, have been in the Ontario commission's strong box for several days. The latter also displayed a disposition to hold out, but when it was shown Dave Garrity that the club was entitled to something for its time and trouble the local developer of talent listened to reason with open ears.

KANSAS CITY BEATS WINNIPEG MAROONS

Sixth Straight Defeat for the Canadian Team This Season.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6.—The Winnipeg Maroons were forced further into the cellar of the American Hockey Association last night, when Kansas City humbled them by a count of 5 to 2. It was the Marcons' sixth defeat of the season. The hefty visitors gained a lead of two goals in the first period and then held the locals safely in check throughout the remaining sessions.

Signs Byrne.

Goalkeeper Joe Dwyer may have a hard time retaining his position with Kansas City. Pat Byrne, former Ottawa, Iroquois Falls and Eveleth star, has been signed and will likely be the regular net guardian. Dwyer, however, should worry. He has been a long time in hockey and he received a good contract when he did take the leap to professional ranks. Bert McLeod and "Biffer" Ranger ,the other ex-Peterborough players with the Blues, are making good. McLeod is a regular and Ranger a relief forward.

The next meeting of the A A. U. of C. will be held at Port Arthur, and the officals chosen to carry on the work for the coming year are: President, Dr. A. S. Lamb, Montreal, secretary, Sergt. John Leslie, Edmonton treasurer, C. C. Robinson, Winnipeg.

The outstanding thing in connection with the meeting was the fact that there was anything but a relaxing of regulations. "Hew to the line," in effect, was the warning issued by the union to athletics flirting with the idea of turning professional.

No Mixing of Pros and Amateurs

Alberta's resolutions for the intermingling of amateurs and professionals was, perhaps, more stubbornly debated than any other that came on the floor of the open meeting. Prominent western delegates, including B. W. Bellamy of Wetaskiwin; Dr. Sandercock of Calgary; R. P. Stronach, of Banff; and President Cheeseman of the Alberta branch, supported the resolution arguing that in view of the condtions prevailing in the west, Alberta and Saskatchewan particularly, the granting of this concession would eventually work out well for amateurism. Webb Fraser, of the Maritimes, was the only eastern delegate to give the west support. W. A. Fry of Dunnville, C. E. Higginbottom and F. Steele of Toronto spoke against the proposal and all these gentlemen were satisfied that the principle was wrong altogether, a view that was sufficiently well supported to defeat the resolution.

Universal Registration.

The delegates unanimously approved the universal registration resolution and it was evident that all present were decidedly of the opinion that it was a big step in the right direction.

The recommendation to provincial branches that central registry of the births of junior athletes be established was approved. This matter has been advocated for some time by the Ontario branch, and while not compulsory now is believed in the best interest of athletics among minors.

Delegates placed themselves on record as reaffirming their determination to adhere to the amateur defin ition and opposing the action of the International Olympic committee relative to "broken time."

Added power was given to the executive committee inasmuch as between annual meetings at the discretion of the president it may assume powers and duties of the board of governors.

In view of the fact that applications for reinstatment from the same class "C" professionals had been received two or three times, the committee recommended that in future only one reinstatement would be given these transgressors, and it was left to the incoming executive to take action in this connection.

Chief Time Keeper.

A chief time keeper was added to the list of track officials and his duties defined: "He shall read the watches of all timekeepers and give the result to the scorer. His decision shall be final."

An amendment was made to the rule for the broad jump, discus, hammer and javelin throws and shot-put. In all but A. A. U. championships the referee is given power to limit contestants to three trials, provided notification is given before the event commences.

A resolution was passed memorializing the governments to remove tax on amateur sport. Failing to secure the same, a request is to be made that the governments use revenue so derived for the furtherance of amateur sport.

As a result of conditions in the Maritime arising out of the actions of former officers of the Maritime provinces branch F. S. Doyle, W. B. Kleevers and L. B. McMillan are suspended for a period of five years.

John Broderick of Midland, suspended last year for competing in an age-limit event when not eligible, was placed in good standing upon motion of the Ontario branch.

Dr. Lamb President.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Dr. A. S. Lamb, Montreal; secretary, John Leslie, Edmonton; treasurer Claude C. Robinson, Winnipeg. Re-elected Vice-presidents—J. F. Savage, Montreal; Chas. E. Higginbotham, Toronto; W. P. Fillmore, Winnipeg; Frank Cameron, Fort William; W. A. Fry, Dunnville; T. R. Loudon, Toronto; B. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwan, Alta.; D. W. Fraser, Amherst, N. S.

There will also be representatives on the executive committee representing Saskatchewn and British Columbia. All the officers were elected unanimously. A. W. Steel of Toronto, who was nominted for secretary, withdrew in favor of Mr. Leslie.

Votes of thanks to President McVicar, Secretary Lamb, the Alberta branch and others for their services wound up the business session, and in the evening the convention terminated with a banquet.

BEST IN GAME.

Great Throwing Outfielders Are Ruth and Meusel, Huggins Says.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees says he has the two greatest throwing outfielders in the game.

"Bob Meusel is the peer of all right handers", opines Huggins, "while Babe Ruth is his equal and the best of the left handers.

"These two stars throw strikes from the outfield. On balls hit into their territory, players hesitate about trying for an extra base even when the odds are in favor of the runner to make it.

"Meusel gets his throws away a trifle more quickly than Ruth but the Babe I believe is more accurate for it seems his heaves are always right on the runners when he slides into the plate.

"With those two players in left and right, any weakness that Earl Combs may have as to throwing isn't noticed."

CAPITOL

NOW PLAYING

A MODERN VERSION OF DUMAS' WORLD FAMOUS DRAMA.

Don't miss this heart-throbbing love scene as played by the screen's greatest actress!

Norma Talmadge in CAMILLE

With GILBERT ROLAND.

LADY KILLS BIG GAME

Mrs. Clark divides her time between big game hunting and taxidermy. At present she is in New York where she is seen in her studio exhibiting two trophies—a giant zebra skin and a wart-hog's head. Mrs. Clark thoroughly enjoys her chosen profession and does much of the delicate finishing work herself, at the same time supervising her assistants in the work of tanning. She is planning to go again into the jungles on a hunting expedition in East Africa.

THEATRES

NORMA TALMADGE IN 'CAMILLE.'

This picture gives the movie-going public a fine opportunity to witness the method by which French writers handle a "grande passion." One of their favorite themes is to take a "fille de joie," endow her with a romantic love for an innocent youth, then bring her to destruction by making her give him up. One of the essential elements of such portrayals is the fact that they usually have a logical, sad ending, contrasting in this way with the American stories, which delight in the sugar-coated finale to a career of sin. The bitter drops in the bottom of the cup of pleasure remain as the final taste for those who watch such a drama as "Camille," and it is doubtful if the delineation of such passionate affairs can be half as harmful to the junior mind as the saccharine sweetness of films showing a happy ending to a sensual picture.

The little Parisian midinette who later becomes, under the patronage of a noble, excitement-seeking Count, the famous "Dame aux Camelias," is a part splendidly portrayed by Norma Talmadge, who proves her preeminence as a beauty and as an emotional actress of superb finish, in this tale. The little shop girl whose fresh loveliness has attracted to her the notice of a notorious roue, goes home to a cruel father who beats her and sends her out into the rain to find a refuge in the carriage of the Count de Varville. Later, under his protection, she becomes a notable figure in the night life of Paris and changes, in rapid fashion, to the protectorate of a Baron and later, a Duke. This section affords a fine opportunity to observe the way in which a romance of long ago is handled by modern producers, who take these lovers of a more romantic age and spoil their story, to a certain extent, by clothing them in modern garments and giving an up to date setting to a tale that had its proper habitat in an older time. "Camille" would not die in such a manner in 1927. When Alexandre Dumas wrote her story, life stepped to a different tempo. To picture her thus is to imitate the attempt, recently made, to give "Hamlet" a modern setting and clothe its picturesque characters in the drab garments of to-day.

However, Norma Talmadge makes a wonderful central figure for the drama of young passion and tragedy. She attracts the attention of the youthful Armand Duval and returns his fresh love, seeking with him a refuge in the country. Here his father comes to her and demands that she renounce his son, for the latter's benefit. She does this and returns to the Count's home. Armand, in a scene almost exactly similar to that in the picture of "When a Man Loves," taken from the opera "Manon," mocks her in a public gaming-house and she rushes out into the street. Later, at a Christmas time, she dies, companioned only by her faithful maid, Nanine, a part well taken by Helen Edy. Gilbert Roland makes a wonderful hero as Armand Duval and Olympe, the siren of the gaming hall, is Lilyan Tashman, who always makes such a wonderful 'vamp.'

The manner of presenting a picture by looking backward, as it were, characterizes this production, which opens with the sale by auction of the effects of the dead "Camille" and relates the story by means of a diary placed in the hands of Armand.

REGENT

NOW PLAYING!

"Mother"

Starring BELLE BENNETT

A Supreme Triumph of the Screen!

COMEDY :: :: NEWS

Regent Orchestra.

AT THE REGENT.

When one views the marvelous work of Belle Bennett in "Mother," the FBO production now being shown at the Regent Theatre they are looking at one of the most human portrayals that has ever come to the screen, due to a combination of artistry on the part of this brilliant actress and the fact that, during the entire making of the picture, she was living again a real role. It is not generally known, but a truism, however that prior to Miss Bennett's starting work on "Stella Dallas," in which she achieved world-wide fame she had just lost a son, the idol of her heart.

In "Mother,' in that strange way that Fate works out things, she is mothering William Bakewell, a boy just the age of her dead son and resembling him in many ways.

From all of which one can readily agree that Belle Bennett put her very heart into mothering her screen son as she did her real son in life.

"Mother" is generally admitted to be one of the most entertaining pictures and one of the most human documents ever screened. J. Leo Meehan gave an inspired piece of directorial work and in addition to William Bakewell, the supporting cast with Miss Bennett, includes Crawford Kent, Joyce Coad, Mabel Julienne Scott and Charlotte Stevens.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

JUST A WEE WOMAN

She looks mighty purty—or purty to me;
I know there are fellows who mightn't agree,
I know there are women
Who put on more paint,
And some say they're purty,
Though I say they ain't,
But she isn't like 'em; they come right out flat
And say that she isn't—thank heaven for that!

She's just a wee woman, no more and no less,
But God never made any better, I guess.
I know there are women
Who carry more style,
But where is the woman
Can equal her smile?
I know there are matters that she doesn't know
That they do—and thank the good Lord it is so!

No lovers pursue her, she isn't the kind
That lovers will look for, or lovers will find.
I know there are women
Who hunger to roam,
But she is too busy
With babies and home.
She's just a wee woman, and married, you see,
And—loud hallelujahs!—she's married to me!

ON BEING FORCED TO LEARN.

From the first cry of the new born infant to the last gasp at death, we are constantly engaged in a struggle to live and be happy. In moments of exaltation, we sometimes enthuse about the desirability of living a good life in order to stay well. However, my experience with teaching the public, through my private practice and also by writing and lecturing, has convinced me that one who really believes himself perfectly well will not make the slightest effort to remain so.

Those of you who are reading this article are really only interested inasmuch as you think you can find out a way to get well easily and quickly. Do not try to fool yourselves that this is not so. My words will be read with dull eyes by those who are not suffering from some physical discomfort or who are not afraid of "shuffling off this mortal coil."

Only when pain or death are knocking at the door will the average person be willing to listen to reason about changing bad habits to good ones. Of all the letters that I receive each day from readers of this column, not one has ever asked me to point out the way to stay well!

This article is not written as any sort of criticism, but simply to point out to you the fundamental truth that the only purpose you have in studying diet is to cure yourself of pain, or prevent death. Although I know this to be true, I want to urge you to begin your diet study at least a few days before you find yourself on the banks of the River Jordan.

Do not waste time fretting and strutting your hour upon the stage of life with a pill bottle in one hand and an ambulance telephone number in the other! Start in NOW making a study of nature's laws while you have yet time to revise your habits of life, and learn to live with more abundant health.

To help my readers to arrive at a well regulated diet, I have prepared a special article called "A Good Curative Diet," setting forth a suggested diet to follow. Write to me care of The Examiner if you wish to have this sent to you. Make your letter brief. Just ask for the article on "A Good Curative Diet."

Nature is not unkind or revengeful, but if you continue to violate all reasonable rules of life you must expect the inevitable consequence in pain or death.

There is a true science of life for you to study just as surely as there are rules of chemistry, and food science cannot be learned by intuition or inspiration. There is no magic you can use which will change the rules of chemistry that govern the body.

Foods are good for you or they are not good for you. One food combines with another food harmoniously or it does not. A certain quantity of food is helpful, while a little more of the same food will produce disease. All these facts you can learn by study and experimentation, and your experiences with pain should be lessons to assist you in understanding food science all the better. In this way you will learn to avoid harmful food habits, be free from pain, and laugh at the "Grim Reaper."

Questions and Answers:

Question—Mrs. R. G. writes: "I have had a serious loss and it has left me very nervous and has affected my eyes. Would you please tell me what to do?"

Answer: Any eye trouble you have because of nervousness can be corrected if you will adopt a definite physical culture regime with increased exercise, proper diet, etc. You may need glasses also to correct some eye defect which has existed for a long time but which you did not notice until you became enervated from worry. See a good optometrist, and he can tell you whether or not glasses will help your condition.

Question—Q. A. A. asks: "Would like to ask if honey is a wholesome food, and if so how should it be used?"

Answer: Honey is a pure sugar and when used should be taken with only protein food or non-starchy vegetables.

Question—I. B. asks: "Will you kindly explain through the medium of your question and answer column the ice treatment for threatened appendicitis?"

Answer: I do not recommend the ice treatment in the case of threatened appendicitis. When ice is applied over the appendix area it only serves to congest the circulation of blood and lymph, and tends to localize any pus. It is wiser to put hot applications over the entire abdomen, which increase the circulation and encourage absorption of any pus pocket which might be forming. The ice treatment is good as a preparation for surgery, but if an operation is to be avoided, the hot applications are the proper treatment.

Question—M. G. writes: "Your article on Pyelitis—I missed it—but having seen a reference to it, would like to read it."

Answer: I will be glad to send you the article you mention if you will only give me your name and address. Your initials, with no address, are not sufficient.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoir. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. Fabien, thinking her perfidious, returns to his studies. But Manon seeks him, explains, and they go to Paris again, where they live in dreamlike splendor. Then creditors besiege them.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued.

"No? But it is pleasant even if one does not plan ahead to indulge." Spurred on by the bailiffs' surprise and anger, Fabien was having a delightful time. Returning the snuff box to his pocket with apparent regret, he continued, "Perhaps a sip of wine would be more to your liking?" Without waiting for a reply he filled three glasses from a ewer on the table. "Help yourselves, gentlemen—to your very good health—and future success!" Fabien raised his glass and waited, but not for more than a second. The men's red faces indicated too plainly that they never refused a drink.

After the rich red wine had passed their throats it seemed to wash away the anger and the hateful words that had been struggling for utterance.

"Monsieur, we are sorry that it is our unpleasant duty to be insistent, but your creditors are very pressing and we must have money today."

At last it was out, mellowed perhaps by wine, although no less true and foreboding in the horrible consequences if the demands were not met.

"I have told the creditors that I will pay them next week," Fabien succeeded in making his voice stern and final.

"Yes you have told them that every day for weeks! We will not leave here without the money," snorted the other bailiff angrily.

The furnishings in this house are worth a considerable amount," the other continued speculatively as he appraised the valuable tapestries, the rich hangings and rare ornaments in the room.

Fabien understood their intentions and squirmed uneasily. How terrible for Manon if the furnishings she loved were moved out to meet creditor's demands. For a moment he thought desperately about how he could get rid of the collectors; then a smile spread over his face and he said to the bailiffs: "Your expression reminds me—as Richelieu said to Madame du Barry just as she was about to—if you have heard this priceless story, stop me—de Barry was on the point of—" With a friendly hand on each man's shoulder Fabien lowered his voice and continued the point of his story as he craftily guided them toward the door without their realizing what was happening.

Fortunately they enjoyed a rare bit of gossip as much as a glass of rare wine. Deeply absorbed in the scandal they were oblivious to their surroundings until they found themselves in open entrance of house. Immediately they recalled their duty and began noisy protestations.

"Next week," Fabien said with a disarming smile, "word of honor," and closed the door in their faces.

It was a narrow escape and good riddance. However, Fabien was worried because that sort of thing could not continue indefinitely. His credit was exhausted and he had postponed payments so many times that it could not be done again. It would have been comforting to share the worry with Manon, and, although Fabien longed for her sympathy, he had sworn never to make her practice economy; he must handle the matter alone. His air of carefree raillery vanished with the departing bailiffs.

Dejectedly entering the library, he began sorting over great sheafs of unpaid and long overdue bills. Among them were a number of extravagant ones incurred by Lescaut. It was an imposition. Aside from his income, Lescaut had gleaned enough from the gaming tables to live in luxury, but he spent enormous sums indulging his various appetites and a big amount was hoarded away for an indolent old age. Lescaut was crafty.

After the inhuman way he had treated his sister neither she nor Fabien had any desire for his society. But unfortunately the house they leased was in the very neighborhood selected by Lescaut, after the Comte ousted him following Manon's unceremonious departure. One day he chanced to see Manon leave her carriage. Immediately he followed her into the house and not many hours elapsed before he established himself in their midst.

Lescaut was rude and without the slightest principle of honor, so it meant nothing to him that his presence was undesirable. He was determined upon a friendly relationship, because it meant a reduction in personal expenses. By preference he was a card sharp and a gambler, but recently his hand had grown unsteady so that good fortune was as fickle and elusive as luck. Money became the most desirable of all possible possessions and he took all he could get whenever possible. As long as Fabien could provide handsomely, after the manner of the Comte, Manon's choice of lovers was agreeable to her unscrupulous brother.

Lescaut sauntered into the library while Fabien was pondering over finances. Having secretly been through the bills himself, merely as a matter of curiosity, he knew that matters were painfully pressing.

"What are you going to do about it?" he inquired.

"What is there to do?" Fabien shook his head hopelessly and looked into space. He had promised the bailiffs that money would be forthcoming on the following week, but there was no more chance of having it then than there was of seeing it appear on the desk before his very eyes in the next five minutes. One was exactly as hopeless or possible as the other.

Lescaut shrugged his shoulders. There was something that could be done if Fabien would agree. Picking up a deck of cards from the table, his expert fingers casually divided the pack and shuffled them quicker than the eye could follow.

"You are clever enough to make your living at cards," he remarked as he again shuffled in mid-air. "Once you learn the tricks of the trade, it is simple."

"Never!" With a fleeting expression of horror Fabien shook his head decisively.

"Then why not retrench—" Again Lescaut shrugged and continued shuffling the cards directly in front of Fabien. "Cut down expenses—get yourselves a farm in the country and a nice little plow—Manon would like that!" He laughed tauntingly.

"If I am not able to supply Manon with the luxuries she loves I deserve to lose her."

"You could make money at the card tables—if you would," the gambler temptingly stated a fact.

"Cheating at cards is out of the question—for a gentleman, and I was born that. My ancestors were honorable men."

Fabien was proud.

"Mine were not, thank God!" returned Lescaut heartily. "I inherited pluck, not scruples." Lescaut continued as Fabien stared gloomily out the window. "Take a man with millions, and there are many of them in Paris, does he mind losing a hundred louis? No! And isn't a hundred louis better for being in circulation? It's only justice!"

This was more philosophical than anything Lescaut had said before. Fabien looked at him in amused interest. Conscious of his attention, Lescaut calmly shot an ace out of his sleeve. Fabien watched with a fascinated intentness that was not lost on the trickster. Again Lescaut manipulated the aces.

"Ah!" exclaimed Fabien admiringly. "Do you want to try?" Lescaut offered the cards.

"You flatter me—I am not that clever—but as a matter of curiosity I will see if my fingers are as quick as yours." Fabien accepted the cards.

Both men stared in amazement as Fabien dealt an ace from his sleeve with as much adroitness as his teacher had displayed.

"A bit of luck, that! You can't do it again," came from Lescaut.

The first glow of success went to Fabien's head and he was annoyed at having Lescaut steal the glamour by terming it "luck." Just to prove that he had mastered the trick, Fabien shot two cards from his sleeve in quick succession. He was very pleased with himself.

CHURCH BURNED.

No Suspicion of Incendiarism Held, Although Expository Sermon Was Planned.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—The Church of Christ at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, was destroyed by fire yesterday with a loss of $35,000, the blaze being attributed to an overheated furnace and defective chimney. The Rev. Charles A. Tharp, pastor of the church, was to have spoken in the evening on "bootlegging in the Soo," but there is no suspicion of incendiarism.

LABOR LEADER REBUKES MEN FOR DISORDER

Censure From Others In Party Likely To Keep Debate Within Bounds.

ON VOTE OF CENSURE.

Baldwin Still Determined Not To Make Statement on Coal Situation.

LONDON, December 6 (United Press). — Ramsay MacDonald's rebuke to the "vain egotists" who have been flouting the leaders and ruining the discipline of the Labor Party, is expected to keep Wednesday's debate on the Opposition vote of censure well within parliamentary traditions.

The Prime Minister, however, is still determined not to permit himself to be forced by the Opposition's demand to make a personal statement on the coal situation. He intends to speak at the opening of the debate dealing with that part of the censure vote which accuses them of dereliction of duty in not replying to MacDonald's attack in the original debate, but he will leave the formal statement on the coal situation to Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister as originally arranged.

Labor is still feeling sore at this apparent slight on the part of the Government, but the severe criticism of members who were guilty of the recent disorders in the Commons, which has come from within the ranks of the party as well as from outside, has taken much of the edge off Labour belligerency, and the situation is considerably more satisfactory from the Government's standpoint.

The outlook for the coal industry in general is, however, getting worse. All kinds of schemes for the solution of the problem have been offered, but no real progress can yet be reported. Frank Hodges, former secretary of the Miners' Union, and now a member of the Government's Electrical Board, is predicting a revival of the industry if the coal owners will consider the exploitation of the by-products. He believes that pulverized coal will soon be used on the ships in preference to oil, and also suggests the ultimate utilizing of surplus gas for electrical production.

HAVELOCK CHURCH KEEP ANNIVERSARY

Attendance Good at Annual Dinner and Concert.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 6.—On Wednesday evening the annual anniversary dinner was held in the United church and was patronized by over three hundred people. Excellent music was furnished by the Symphony Orchestra, under the able leadership of Mr. R. Bonny, to all who had been served and those waiting.

After the dinner a very attractive program of entertainment, which was well rendered, the contributors receiving encores for every number, was presented in the auditorium of the church. The pastor, the Rev. W. R. Archer, presided and the numbers were as follows:

"All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name" —two verses sung in unison.
Prayer—Rev. H. E. Lougheed.
Selection—Symphony Orchestra.
Recitation—Master Morris Williams.
Vocal Solo—Miss O. Haig.
Anthem—Choir.
Selection on Hawaiian Guitar—Harry Wagner.
Piano Solo—Miss Jean Anderson.
Musical Selection—W. Denike, R. Archer and H. McGill, members of orchestra.
Reading—Joseph Faulkner.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Joseph Vansickle, of Smith Falls.
Speech—Rev. G. E. Lougheed of Knox Church.

Mr. Lougheed expressed his pleasure at being present, and bringing congratulations to the congregation of the United church, and also his enjoyment of the good welcome which Mr. Archer had extended to him. In speaking on three words which were contained in the invitation he had received, namely: "Our church anniversary," he said in part—the word "our" indicates enthusiasm, pride and loyalty and loyalty is a splendid thing amongst church members because the church is the greatest institution. It is an institution not to be compared with other institutions, and if it were not backed by the power of the Holy Spirit it would have been dead long ago. "I congratulate you," he said, "on your church and what it is doing, not only in Havelock, but throughout the Dominion and also in the mission fields." He concluded his address by expressing the hope that the program of anniversaries would never be given up.

Ukelele Selection—Harry Wagner.
Musical Selection—R. Archer, W. Denike and H. McGill.
Address—Rev. Mr. Stillman, of the Norwood United Church.

"I am glad to be with you in your rejoicing on this anniversary occasion," Mr. Stillman said, "because it should be a time of rejoicing. I have been here on several occasions and I have enjoyed many a day in Havelock and many a day in this church and I am delighted to hear of the splendid work you are doing here.

"I thought in coming here tonight that I would bring you some word of encouragement with which to face the future. The tasks are getting bigger, but big tasks make big men. Boys and girls are encouraged today to attend school as training is the one thing that will fit men for the future, and I feel proud of the schools which you have in Havelock, and the surrounding districts. Many people meet the opportunity of their lives and have to decline because of lack of training. The church is facing greater tasks, and we have greater opportunities before us than our fathers had. We are living in a better day, although we have not arrived at the perfect day yet. There are greater opportunities today in the church than ever before."

Mr. Stillman recalled the time when one of his college chums felt he was called to go to Africa to preach the Gospel, and he was forced to go out under another church because his church (Methodist) had no field there. The mission field is very large today, he said and young people have a great scope for service. "It is for you and me and every church member to place ourselves in God's hands, and make the church what God would have it be." He concluded by wishing the Havelock church every success.

Selection—Symphony Orchestra.
Anthem—Choir.
Benediction—Rev. Mr. Stillman.

As there was a large amount of cooking left a twenty-five cent supper was served in the basement of the church on Thursday evening.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN AT SCHOOL

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association Holds Regular Meeting.

A meeting of unusual interest was held in the Queen Alexandra kindergarten room last evening by the Home and School Association of that school, the executives from the sister associations of the Peterborough Public Schools having received invitations to be present.

Mrs. R. Parnell, president of the association, occupied the chair, and extended a cordial welcome to all visitors.

Reports were then read by Mrs. N. J. Hales, secretary, and Mrs. J. T. C. Lang, treasurer, the latter reporting a very satisfactory balance in the treasury.

Especially gratifying was the result of a recent paper collection held by the Queen Alexandra School, prizes going to Miss Burgess' room on the lower floor, also to Miss Walker's and Mr. Park's rooms on the upper floor.

Considerable discussion arose over the question of providing a suitable hill for sleigh-riding, and it was decided that the City Council should be approached regarding this matter.

After the transaction of business, a splendid program was rendered, the opening number being an appropriate Christmas reading, "The Virgin's Babe," by Mrs. W. J. Hales.

The next number was a Hawaiian selection by the Misses Hamilton, Marvin Hamilton and Jack Clayton, these popular young musicians receiving a well-deserved encore.

A splendid address on "Citizenship" was given by Mrs. K. S. Wightman, president of the Local Council of Women, in which the speaker delivered a timely message and urgent appeal to all women to become real citizens.

A piano solo by Miss V. Phillips was well received.

Mrs. C. H. Edwards followed with the famous Christmas story of Bret Harte, "How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Bar," the scene of which is laid in a rough mining district of California during the early days, and which tells, with an odd mingling of pathos and humor, how Christmas came to a poor, sickly lad in the mining camp.

A piano duet by Mrs. Purdy and Miss Miriam Purdy brought the program to an end, after which refreshments were served by the social committee of the association.

PILES!

Famous Healing Ointment Free—"Sootha-Salva" Prescription of Famous Physician

No Cutting or Salves Needed.

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Co., Bond's Drug Store, who will gladly refund the purchase prices to any dissatisfied customer.

G. O. CAMERON N VISITS CITY

Former Manager of Bell Telephone Renews Acquaintances.

EXCITES CURIOSITY.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, formerly manager for the Bell Telephone Company in Peterborough, was in the city yesterday renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Cameron has now the important postion of manager of the department producing and handling the city and district directories for the whole of the Dominion, now one of the most important departments of the Telephone Company's business. "G. O." as he was familiarly known to hundreds in the city when here, on stepping off the train found the first of his old acquaintances to greet him to be Detective Meagher of the City Police Force, and quite naturally Detective Meagher invited him to ride up town in the police car, which invitation was gladly accepted.

Now there were those at the station who wondered why the genial business man who was met at the station by a detective and whisked away in the police car was taking the matter with G.O.'s usual smile and composure. They were not aware that it was a meeting of two old friends.

LEGION NOTES

The Canadian Legion Christmas draw is drawing near to a close, and the committee in charge unfortunately finds that the sale of tickets does not quite meet the expenses of the drive, and they appeal to all ticket agents and others interested to give them all the assistance they can. At present the ticket selling competition is a long way off of being a sure thing for any one and everybody's chance is good. From now on should be the best time for selling as the contest closes on Saturday, December 17th, and all stubs and unsold tickets must be handed in on this date.

In order to make the contest doubly interesting, the following prizes will be given away to the agents selling tickets.

Fifty Dollars in any merchandise will be divided among the three agents selling the greatest number of tickets. This will be divided on a percentage basis according to the number of tickets sold by each winner.

Three geese will be given way (one each) to the agents coming fourth, fifth and sixth in the competition.

A Chrismas present will be given to each person who sells one or more complete book of tickets, but they must get their tickets from a member of the committee or a distributor and not from any agent who is selling in the competition.

A free draw on a ton of coal goes to the agent for every complete book he sells and the one who sells the winning ticket on the Chesterfield Suite wins a goose.

In addition to the major prizesas outlined on the tickets for the euchre, dance, and draw, a free coupon is being issued to those who have already purchased or purchase before December 15th, which will enable them to win one pair all-wool blankets, kindly donated by the Canadian Department Stores, Ltd. All securing these coupons are asked to comply with the rules and drop them in the Canadian Legion coupon box, opposite the elevator on the third floor of the above-mentioned store. These tickets will again be distributed on Saturday next. Be sure and get yours. Remember each ticket you purchase entitles you to drop one coupon in the box, and your ticket is good whether you attend the euchre or dance or not.

The Legion officials thank all for the help they have given them, and ask that in order to raise funds for relief that agents kindly endeavor to double their sales. Their chances of winning a prize will be greater, and they will also have helped to make the coming Yuletide a little more pleasant for those in need.

JOHN THEXTON.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 6. — John Handley received word this morning that Jonn Thexton had passed way on Sunday at St. Thomas N. D. The late Mr. Thexton was an old resident of this community and went west several months ago to reside with relatives.

The body is expected to arrive at Millbrook on Wednesday and funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

Mrs. John Best of Peterborough is a sister.

J. MYLES FITZGERALD

The death occurred in Hamilton on Monday, Dec. 5th, of Joseph Myles Fitzgerald. He is survived by his sorrowing wife, two sisters, Mrs. Rusling, Bay City, Mich., and Mrs. Jarvis, of Simcoe, Ont., and two brothers, Walter and Charles.

The late Mr. Fitzgerald was a member of St. Paul's Church, Hamilton, and a member of the Masonic Order and Canadian Order of Foresters.

The funeral will be held on the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train, Thursday, December 8, to the Lakefield Cemetery, the Rev. J. W. Gordon officiating.

Mr. Fitzgerald is a son-in-law of Mrs. S. Preston, 295 McDonnel Street, City.

MRS. BRIAN MULHEARN.

With the passing of Anna Johnston (Mrs. Brian Mulhearn), Campbellford loses another of its most highly esteemed citizens and a member of the old school. Born in Toronto, Mrs. Mulhearn came to Campbellford as a bride in the days when Campbellford was a prosperous lumbering town, before even rubber-tired buggies were known in these parts. Since then she has built up a circle of friends, which includes all who knew her.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston, the late Mrs. Mulhearn received her education in the village of Brighton, where her father followed his trade of masonry and also farmed for several years. A few years later she was installed as teacher in the Brighton school, and also taught for a time in the Codrington school. Forty years ago she became the wife of Brian Mulhearn, and came to reside in Campbellford where her husband was employed as foreman with the Rathburn Lumber Company, then one of the town's leading industries.

For a short time after coming to Campbellford, the Mulhearns resided at the Gibson House, but as soon as their own home was completed they took up residence there, and have occupied the same house ever since. There the family was born. In 1911 the father, Brian Mulhearn, passed away, leaving his wife and four children.

Though the Mulhearns have been well known ever since their arrival in Campbellford as bride and groom, they became famous as horse fanciers when the father entered the livery business. Many of the men who have visited this town in the days when horse transport was the only means of getting about the country will recall the fine stable of horses which was the pride of the Mulhearn family. Not a few envious glances have been cast at the fine Arabian horses and other full-blooded animals which were owned by the Mulhearns, and some may still recall the treatment which was meted out to anyone found abusing these animals.

The many friends of the late Mrs. Mulhearn will learn with sorrow of her demise and the deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved family. She is survived by two sons, Matthew of Campbellford and Bernard of California, and one daughter, Mrs. J. J. Callins, Hastings. Her husband, Brian Mulhearn, predeceased her almost sixteen years ago, and one daughter, Mrs. T. J. Collins, is also deceased.

For these services he received a pension from the United States' Government. In civil life he had been successful as a railroad foreman and also as a farmer. His first visits to this country were made as a grain buyer.

During the later years of his life, Mr. Johnson was generally known as one of the finest of the older men of the town. He was of a very quiet disposition and held the respect of everyone who was fortunate enough to make his acquaintance. He leaves to mourn his death, his widow.

REV. R. K. MILLS GIVES ADDRESS

Is Speaker at Lily Lake Christian Endeavor Meeting.

TALKS ON GOD'S CALL.

The Young Peoples' Christian Endeavour Society of Lilly Lake held its regular meeting last night with a good attendance. The speaker for the evening was the Rev. R. K. Mills, Pastor of Bethany Tabernacle.

In opening his address, Mr. Mills quoted the 28th Chapter of Matthew. As it was a missionary meeting, he had a missionary thought to bring. When the disciples of Jesus went into Galilee, Jesus said unto them, "Go Ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Galilee was the place of appointment of Christ and his disciples. These disciples He was going to use in a most remarkable way. A task that meant the salvation of everyone who would believe was given them.

"In the 16th to the 20th verse of Matthew there are three supreme and distinct callings and privileges given them by God. The first one is that God called them to a place where He would meet them. At that time He was to meet just these men. Now God makes an appointment with everyone—calls us all to an appointed place. Go ye to Him. This is the great commission of the church He wants us to meet Him as a Saviour and Lord.

"The greatest power than can come into a person's life is the blessing of prayer. Another place where we are called is the place of full surrender—to bring everything we have and lay it at the feet of Jesus God is calling to a place of salvation a place of prayer, of consecration, to give a whole life unto Him." Mr. Mills quoted that wonderful text of Scripture, "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

"If you go to Him and for Him, He will go with you and He will never leave you or forsake you. Give yourself a sacrifice unto God," he concluded.

In closing, the Hymn, "Draw Me Nearer was sung.

MUSIC PLAN LAID BEFORE SCHOOL BOARD

Board of Education Hear Plan For Advancement of Music.

MONTHLY MEETING.

Would Enable School Children To Receive Course in Piano Instruction.

Captain Atkinson, secretary of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, addressed the Board of Education last night at their monthly meeting. The idea of the bureau is to have music in every home and to further this end the speaker submitted a plan to the members of the board.

Mr. Atkinson said that he had nothing to sell but his sole purpose was to try and get music in every home. "There are many homes where the people are unable to pay for piano instruction for their children and it is with this in view that he was appealing to this Board of Education."

The bureau's plan is to have groups of 24 pupils divided into three classes in the schools. These children receive two lessons a week and pay the fee of 25 cents for each half hour lesson. A qualified music teacher has taken the required course of the bureau and who is acceptable to the Board of Education teaches the eight pupils at once. A piano is supplied by the board and each pupil is furnished with a dummy keyboard which he or she practises on while one of the other pupils are practising on the piano. During the half hour the eight pupils each have their turn at the piano. Captain Atkinson said that this plan had been tried out in United States and had been very successful. It has been in force in Kitchener for four years, where at present 140 pupils are taking lessons. The plan was tried out in one school in Toronto last year and is being started in all the schools the first of the year. It is also in force in Montreal and London and goes into force the first of January in Hamilton, Stratford and Ottawa.

There is no expense to the Board of Education outside of furnishing the piano, the class room, the light and heat. The teacher receives her pay from the students and it was recommended that the students pay in advance. Conservatory of Music examinations will be tried by the pupils at the end of each year.

The Board was very sympathetic to the proposal but they felt that it was a matter for the 1928 members to deal with.

Health Report.

Dr. McPherson reported that he had made 84 examiantions during the month. He had found 44 with defective teeth, 18 with bad eyes, 25 with tonsil and throat trouble, 4 suffering from non-nutrition and 3 with defective speech. The doctor said the increase in number was due to the examinations in the kindergarten and primary classes. Miss M. J. V. Jory reported examining 247 cases. Dr. Green reported making 105 fillings, 20 temporary extractions and 12 permanent and 240 examinations.

School Attendance Officer James Abraham reported that during the month there had been 37 absentees on account of colds and 10 because they had no boots and clothing. He reported that these were looked after by the Home and School Associations.

The report of the inspector on his inspection into the manual training and domestic sciences departments in the Prince of Wales and Central schools was received. The domestic science report in both schools was very favorable and the inspector reported great improvement and progress in the manual training departments.

Street Accidents.

A communiction was received from the Kiwanis club calling the attention of the Board to the dangerous corners near Queen Mary school. The club suggested that senior pupils be detailed to see that the little tots got across Monaghan road safely. Recently there has been several very near accidents around the school and the worst offenders appeared to be the drivers of the local busses. The Board referred the matter to Inspector Mowat and also decided to write the manager of the Border Transit Company.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., submitted a very favorable report on the sanitary conditions found in the schools.

Believed Paris Using Theatre As Means To Hasten Franco-Italian Understanding

PARIS, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press). — The Comedie Francaise broke into international politics yesterday with the first presentation in France of "The Light Under the Bushel" written by Gabriel D'Annunzio the poet who has become one of Italy's most popular heroes.

The play was attended by President Doumergue, Premier Poincare, former Premier Herriot, and other French notables, as well as the Italian Ambassador, Gaetano Manzoni. The unusual solemnity with which the drama, written some years ago, was received was interpreted in well-informed quarters as an indication that France is subtly utilizing Art to emphasize her desire to hasten the understanding between France and Italy already made tangible in a modus vivendi recently signed by Foreign Minister Briand and Signor Manzoni.

No other Italian play has been similarly favored by official blessings since the presentation of "Chevrefeuille," also by D'Annunzio, in 1914.

HONOR PAID BISHOP O'BRIEN BY KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Illuminated Address Presented, Congratulating Him on Appointment.

IS STATE CHAPLAIN.

His Lordship Announces Intention of Stressing Charity and Patriotism.

The honor recently shown to His Lordship Bishop O'Brien in his appointment as Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus of Ontario was glowingly reflected in the reception tendered to him last night by the Knights of Columbus of this city, of whose Council he is a charter member. A congratulatory address was read to His Lordship by John R. Corkery, and State Deputy R. A. Jeffrey of Arnprior and District Deputy W. J. Hanley of Toronto added not only their congratulations but also their appreciation, on behalf of the provincial and district memberships, of Bishop O'Brien's acceptance of the office and duties of Ontario chaplain.

J. J. Duffus, State Treasurer, expressed his conviction that all the citizens of Peterborough who knew the good works of His Lordship and his sterling Canadian spirit would share in the satisfaction which the provincial chaplaincy has brought to the Knights of Columbus.

The large attendance of members from the city and district indicated their affection for Bishop O'Brien, who has been associated with Columbian Order for twenty-five years, and his rising to reply to the beautifully illuminated address was the signal for an ovation which eloquently accentuated its fervent sentiments. Bishop O'Brien indicated in his speech that during his incumbency he would emphasize two ideals of the Order, Charity and Patriotism. To that end he would ask the Knights of Columbus to study the essence of these principles, so as to reduce their appealing generalities to concrete ideas. Charity meant the love of God and of mankind, and no finer aspiration could animate the true Catholic than the love and service of God and love for his neighbor. As an aid to the attainment of these high ideals, Bishop O'Brien said he intended to urge upon the Knights of Columbus the study of their religion, and he advocated the formation of a study club by the members in this city. Catholics in England had set a splendid example in this respect, he said. He also proposed that the Knights of Columbus should receive weekly communion, and urged that individually they should develop a "Catholic consciousness" in order that their lives and all their relations with their fellow men, in honesty, sobriety, purity of thought and speech, and in all the other elements of a high Christian idealism and conduct should stand out as the marks and signs of Catholic gentlemen.

And as an aid to practical, everyday patriotism, Bishop O'Brien suggested that civics should be studied by the Columbian members. There was no better country in the world than Canada, he said, and loyalty to this country could be exercised by remaining here and helping to upbuild it. If a man became out of work in Peterborough he should consider the opportunities in Oshawa, Toronto and other cities rather than Detroit or some other city in the United States. It was true that many Canadians had done well across the border, but many others would have been better or just as well of had they stayed in their native land.

"Better Catholics and better Canadians will be my message as Chaplain," said His Lordship.

Expressed Gratitude.

Bishop O'Brien cordially thanked the local council of the K. of C. for its kind reception and flattering address and said that he was duly appreciative of the confidence reposed in him, and of the honor conferred upon him by the Ontario State Board in inviting him to accept the office of State Chaplain. The office for so important a jurisdiction as Ontario was in itself an honorable one and this was further enhanced by the fact that for sixteen years it had been graced by so eminent a Churchman and so distinguished a Canadian as His Lordship the Right Rev Michael Francis Fallon, Bishop of London.

DRURY OPPOSES SPEECH LIMIT

Says He Needs Time To Reply To Resolution Touching His Honor.

STORM AT CONVENTION.

TORONTO, Ont., December 7 (Canadian Press). — A motion limiting the discussion by each member of the resolutions to fifteen minutes precipitated fireworks at the opening session of the United Farmers of Ontario annual convention to-day. The convention had opened in an atmosphere of calm, and had proceeded serenely through the brief address of President W. A. Amos, the reading and adopting of the minutes, and the approval of Secretary J. J. Morrison's report. Then came the resolutions, and immediately the question arose as to how long each person would be allowed to discuss the given resolutions.

Former Progressive Leader E. C. Drury, one-time Premier of Ontario, declared there was one resolution affecting his personal honor, and he wanted time to state his attitude.

The resolution to which Mr. Drury referred as affecting his personal honor, reads as follows:

"Whereas the principle of the riding autonomy to which the U.F.O. steadfastly adheres gives the U.F.O. Riding Associations the right to place candidates in the field if they see fit.

"And whereas the United Farmers of North Huron saw fit to place a candidate in the field to contest the riding in the interests of the U.F.O. on the occasion of the recent by-election, and in doing so followed closely the rules governing the nomination of candidates as laid down by the U.F.O.

"And whereas the U.F.O. nominee as well as the U.F.O., its officials and speakers, were the subject of attack from Liberal platforms during the campaign by one prominent in the U.F.O. movement.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this convention go on record as endorsing the action of the North Huron United Farmers in in so far as the by-election is concerned and that the persons responsible be censured for making an untimely and uncalled for attack upon the nominee as well as the U.F.O. officials and speakers.

LEGION NOTES.

All members of the Legion are reminded that the regular meeting of the branch will be held on Monday, December 19, and regularly thereafter on the third Monday of every month. It is also announced for the information of all members that a regular notice of meetings will be sent out from the secretary's office to this effect.

COUNTY COUNCIL COMMENCES FINAL SESSIONS FOR 1927

Several Communications Were Received at Opening Session of Council.

WARDEN IN CHAIR

Will Support Other Counties In Demanding Relief From Highway Construction.

The final session of the County Council for the year 1927 commenced yesterday afternoon in the Council Chambers of the Court House, with Warden Middleton, Reeve of the Township of Smith, in the chair. All the members were present and Charles Elliott acted as clerk in the place of his father, who was granted leave of absence for several months on account of ill-health at a special session of the Council last April.

Several communications were dealt with and others were referred to the respective committees. A letter was received from Fred Morrow, county registrar, asking for various equipment for the new registry office. Mr. Morrow also drew to the Council's attention the faulty ventilation in the vault and he asked that double windows be supplied as there was considerable draft on cold days.

Provincial Highways.

The Council decided to support the communication received from the United Counties of Prescott and Russell, whereby the province will assume the full cost of the Provincial highways. At the January session delegates will be appointed to interview the Government along with those from other counties in Ontario. The Government, it is also expected, will be asked to grant a further increase in the subsidy for county roads.

Architects' Report.

The report of the architects appointed by the Provincial Secretary to study the condition of the jail building was given to the Council by Sheriff Hall. In the report the architects recommended that bars be put on the windows in the vestibules as in their present condition it would be easy for a prisoner to escape; that a shower bath be installed in the east corridor, and that many other small details relating to the building in general be fixed. The Council felt that the season was too late to do any of the work this year.

The communication from the Peterborough Auto Club about the repairing of the road to Lakefield on the Douro side of the Canal was received.

The general secretary of the Institute for the Blind wrote the Council asking for a grant to enable that institution to carry on its work among those who have lost the sense of sight. In his letter he said that the Government was co-operating with the Institute and granting an equal amount to that raised by the members. It was estimated by the secretary that a service worth $194.46 had been granted the blind of Peterborough County by the Institute. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The report of the grand jury was read and the Council inquired into the case of the woman with a baby under a year old in the jail. The members were assured by Sheriff Hall and John Edgar, secretary of Children's Aid Society, that the baby would be taken from its mother as soon as the jail physician would permit. Mr. Edgar said that it was not the practice of the Children's Aid to take children under two years of age on account of the extra expense involved in caring for them, but in this case he had found a woman who

CANADA ASKS DIRECT WIRES

Would Have Geneva and London Connected For News Service.

CONSIDERATION GIVEN.

GENEVA, Dec. 7. — (United Press) Council of the League of Nations yes Council of the Leagueof Nations yesterday, said that Canada was keenly interested in the development of better telegraphic communications between Geneva and London, as Canada was dependent upon this for news of the league's activities.

He considered that a direct wire between Geneva and London was imperative.

Mr. Chamberlain responsive to Senator Dandurand's arguments said that he would ask the British Post Office, which controls all telegraph systems in Great Britain, to co-operate with the league's transit organization in order to improve the present system.

New York to Make First Gold Shipment To London Since Exchange Reached Parity

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Shipment of $1,000,000 in gold to England today was arranged yesterday by the International Acceptance Bank. It will be the first transfer of the metal to London since the exchange rate on sterling cables reached parity about two months ago.

Some surprise was expressed in banking circles here when the announcement was made. Although the recent advance of sterling exchange had carried the cable rate up to $4.88¾, it was held in many quarters that the point at which the transfer of gold is profitable had not yet been reached.

The purpose of the shipment was not revealed, the announcement merely stating that it was "special transaction." It was suggested that the transfer might have connection with dollar loans made this year to British Dominion governments with tentative mention of the flotation this week of a $15,000,000 bond issued for the Irish Free State.

Although recent reductions in ocean freight rates resulted in a slight lowering of the gold point, many bankers have held that the level is around $4.88¾, or even higher. The present freight rates is 3-10 of 1 per cent. or $1,500 on a shipment of $1,000,000.

Small gold shipments to England have been expected by some Wall Street bankers, largely for sentimental reasons, but no extensive movement to that country is anticipated. Foreign exchange experts point out that a heavy influx of gold in Great Britain undoubtedly would lead to a lowering of interest rates there, which likely would be followed by the withdrawal of heavy United States balances now held in London because of the increased interest yield available there. Transfer of these funds to the United States would have a tendency to depress the sterling exchange below the "gold point,' 'automatically checking exports by making them unprofitable.

Freakish Radio Reception—Bumper Crops Predicted For Year 1928 By Scientists

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Freakish radio reception, bumper crops and a reduction in fur production may be expected in 1928, when sun spots will reach their maximum in size and number. These predictions are made by Ralph E. DeLury, Assistant Director of the Dominion Observatory and are the result of extended investigations made in conjunction with scientists in all parts of the world.

Sun spots reach their greatest activity every eleven years and at that time are accompanied by dull weather and unusually heavy rainfall. Frequent thunder storms and a brilliant display of the Aurora Borealis are also anticipated for next year. Rodio reception will be characterized by fading and will be hampered by heavy discharges of static. Records made by officials of the Dominion Observatory in co-operation with radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries indicate that radio reception has been gradually depreciating as the peak year for sun spots approaches.

The contemplated closing of the local branch Provincial laboratory by the Government has aroused no little interest and opposition on the part of medical doctors in this district and today they attended a meeting held in the Public Library Building, at which Dr. W. J. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health, of Toronto, was present.

Dr. Bell, in a brief interview with The Examiner at the conclusion of the meeting, stated that the Government had decided to dispense with three branch laboratories, one at Sault St. Marie, another at Owen Sound, and finally the Peterborough laboratory. It was felt that, owing to the close communication of the local branch with a number of other branches, the public health of Peterborough and vicinity would be looked after in a most efficient manner quite as well. "Even with the reduced number," said Doctor Bell, "the Province will have as satisfactory and efficient a system of laboratories as is to be found in any state or province on the continent."

Man Falls From Woolworth Tower

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (United Press).—An unidentified man fell or jumped to death today from the Woolworth building, the tallest office structure in the world.

He landed among the hurrying crowds that flow past Broadway and Park Place, but only one was struck by the body.

The man was terribly disfigured and must have fallen from a great height. No one saw him fall.

The Woolworth Building is 792 feet high and towers 60 storeys about the street.

DOMINION SURPLUS IS SIXTY MILLIONS

Net Debt Has Decreased That Much in Past Eight Months.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press). — With eight months of the fiscal year elapsed, the surplus of the Dominion revenues over expenditures stands at rather more than sixty million dollars. During the month of December ,the net debt of the Dominion, largely as a result of interest payments on loans, increased by $17,732,000, but taking the eight months as a whole, the reduction in the net debt now totals $60,784,000. Prospects for a substantial surplus in the next budget, with consequent reduction in taxation, are therefore regarded as very bright.

The decrease in the net debt is fifteen millions ahead of what is was on the same date last year. The total revenue over the eight months shows an increase of twenty million dollars more than in eight months of last year, and the total expenditure an increase of five millions. The income tax is up six millions, and the post office up three millions. The excise taxes (sales, stamps ,etc.) are down ten millions.

On November 30 the net debt of Canada was $2,287,049,782, on November 24 last year it was $2,344,436,755.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

DR. W. T. HOLLOWAY

His Worship has been asked to submit his name for a third term, but wishes to retire.

U. S. BUDGET MUCH HIGHER

President Coolidge, in Submitting Figures, Stresses Need For Economy.

TOTAL OVER FOUR BILLION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Presenting a budget of $4,258,793,765 for the next fiscal year to Congress to-day, President Coolidge stressed the necessity for limiting the prospective tax reduction to $225,000,000 as recommended by Secretary Mellon. In his letter of transmittal he also cautioned against any action which might jeopardize "the balanced budget" of the government. The total appropriations recommended by the President exceed last year's budget by $244,222,641 and the amount actually appropriated by Congress for the current year by $118,649,219.

The largest item in the new budget is for national defense, an appropriation of $645,000,000 as compared with a total of $625,000,000 available this year being advocated. The increase is accounted for mainly by the naval building program, army housing, and continuation of the five year aviation program for the army and navy.

A reduction of even $225,000,000 in taxes, Mr. Coolidge emphasized, is dependent on "continued prosperity" and rigid government economy.

CLARADAY MEN CHOSEN TO RUN FOR ELECTION

Ratepayers Hold Meeting and Decide To Put Up Candidates.

FOR TOWNSHIP COUNCIL.

Secession From Township is Proposed—Many Grievances Are Aired.

All the grievances of the people of the Claraday section of North Monaghan Township were aired, candidates were chosen to be nominated and supported for various municipal offices next year, a suggestion of secession and incorporation was seriously put forward, and steps were taken for the formation of a North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association. These things were taken up at a meeting of ratepayers of the Claraday district, held last night in the school-room of St. George's Anglican Church.

The meeting was called to order by R. Butler, who superintended the election of a chairman, Herbert Bourne winning out over the Rev. J. L. Hughes and John Barnes. Mr. Butler was appointed secretary.

Mr. Bourne explained that the meeting had been called to stir up interest in municipal affairs. The municipal nominations are held during the afternoon and few Claraday people can attend. Some of them say that the two or three who do attend and show interest are trying to run the section.

Mr. Butler added that the school trustee whose term expires this year would not seek re-election, and that one should be placed on the board from the Claraday section. This brought from the trustee mentioned, Bert Arnott, chairman of the Board, the sharp question:

"Where did you get all your information?"

Mr. Butler replied that he had got it from Mr. Arnott himself on Sunday night, whereupon Mr. Arnott explained that he had said he might retire. The chairman then called for candidates for Reeve.

Frank Pratt declared that the man for this office must be one who would fix the roads right. The light gravel being put on is no good as it washes away with the rain. When ex-Reeve H. B. Rye had been proposed Mr. Pratt continued that the residents should see that the ditches opened at the corners of Braidwood and Lock and McGill were fixed as some person would be falling into them. There was no use talking to the present Council.

Mr. Rye's nomination, although he claimed not to be a resident of Claraday, was unanimous. His only other comment at the moment was to reprove his proposer for mispronouncing the name of the township, which he said is North Monahan, the G being silent.

Three were proposed for deputy reeve. They were Joseph Bell, John Barnes and Ernest Saunders. Mr. Bell's name was called first and he received practically the whole vote, but then somebody remembered that he too lived outside the district, as did Mr. Barnes. Mr. Saunders was therefore declared elected.

Many nominations were put forward for councillor. It was decided that the district should name only one for this position. Herbert Bourne, Hy. Woods and J. A. Seger had been proposed when Frank Pratt moved that the nominations be closed. Frank Pratt and Andrew Kent, at present a member of the council, were also suggested but their names were refused, while one of the ladies present said she thought that all should be candidates. Mr. Bourne was chosen as the candidate.

In the matter of the nomination of a school trustee, Mr. Arnott the retiring trustee was asked to say

He spent a very bad night as a result of the rough handling he received, and it is feared that pneumonia has set in as a result of his exposure. MOTHER WHITTEMORE GIVES THREE ADDRESSES ON WORK

Speaks at Three Campbellford Churches During Same Day.

MANY ATTEND.

Interesting Story of Her Efforts in Uplifting Girls is Told.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7.— It is not often that the visit of a person, though quite as distinguished, has left such a lasting impression upon the people of the community as that which resulted from the visit to Campbellford on Tuesday, Dec. 6th, of "Mother" Whittemore, founder of the famous "Door of Hope" in New York City and known throughout the continent for her truly splendid work as a messenger of Jesus Christ.

Taking full advantage of the opportunity, the congregations of three Campbellford churches had arranged meetings at which Mother Whittemore was to be the chief speaker. Yet her acceptance of so extensive a programme was as enthusiastic as was the fervor of her appeal on each occasion that she spoke.

"Mother" Whittemore is truly a remarkable person, her every word and movement indicative of a culture that is not often encountered. In conversation with The Examiner representative she revealed that a great love for her work and from it derives an humble satisfaction that comes only from serving the Master. "I am seventy-seven years young," said she, "and I pray that 'ere I go before Him, I may behold the opening of the one hundredth Door of Hope. There are now ninety-seven in existence."

The first gathering at which Mrs. Whittemore was heard, took the form of a noon hour luncheon in the basement of St John's United Church, of which Rev. E. Harston is pastor. There the ladies of the Missionary Society had set no less than eight tables to accommodate well over one hundred diners. Suffice it to say that practically every chair was filled, that the dinner served was a most delicious one, combining quality and quantity to a nicety and that the ladies amply deserved the hearty vote of thanks tendered by Rev. J. Grier, of St. Andrew's and replied to by Rev. Harston.

Following dinner the latter gentleman called upon the Rev. Mr. Grier to introduce Rev. Dr. F. K. Robinson, a former pastor at Stirling and later associated with the department of Social Service and Evangelism, in Toronto. Dr. Robinson, in turn, briefly explained the arrangements by which the main speaker had been enabled to reach Campbellford and concluded by introducing "Mother" Whittemore.

Allowing herself but one-half hour, Mrs. Whittemore briefly expressed her pleasure at being present, then struck into her address proper.

Taking the word "Whosoever" to mean anyone in all the world, regardless of any past sin, she began to unfold a story of "one who had called."

She told the story of Julia, a girl of the slums, whose downfall and final salvation held the interest as no work of fiction. When Julia first became known, she was but a child of fifteen, befriended by kindly folks who, however, neglected to guide her spiritually. She left her home, was overcome by evil after a bitter struggle against poverty as she worked on starvation wages and under the "guiding hand" of another woman finally lost out. Finally, while housekeeping for a wealthy Chinaman, she became ill, his petitions in the Joss House failed to save her and a medical specialist was called. Later, she was able to go about and one day discovered "The Door of Hope." Taken in and feeling the touch of God in loving kindness, she gradually threw off the grip of evil and now, under the affectionate nickname of "Saint Julia," conferred upon her by other girls in the mission, she is serving the Master.

The story of how this reformation was brought about, the many incidents that came during the same months in the life of the speaker and how she hopes to carry on, concluded the address of Mother Whittemore.

AT CHRIST CHURCH.

Speaking in Christ Church Parish Hall during the afternoon, Mrs. Whittemore was again accorded the best of attention, this time by a large audience composed mainly of ladies of the community. Nevertheless, her discourse was of a trend suited to all, and received just praise from those privileged to hear it.

The rector, Rev. N. Clark Wallace, as chairman, opened the meeting with the singing of a hymn and prayer after which he called upon Rev. Dr. Robinson to introduce Mrs. Whittemore.

Dr. Robinson,

in his opening remarks, gave a brief resume of the work being done in New York and other cities by the parent home and branches of the Door of Hope and once again called attention to the books being sold, telling of the slum work which "Mother" Whittemore and her associates are carrying on. Also placed on the table for inspection were a number of sets of beads and novelties made by children in the orphanages of the Holy Land. These were of olive wood taken from the Mount of Olives.

Mrs. Whittemore.

Following a courteous introduction by Dr. Robinson, the main speaker of the meeting arose, and in a quiet voice began. Quoting verses from the 31st chapter of Deuteronomy, she told of their significance and of their inspiring effect upon her own life. When the Lord had first called her to His service, she had held back from doing the work assigned to her, that of going into the slums to work among the very sources of sin. But God had shown her that He would go before, preparing the way for her, and since that time her hesitancy has left her. "I will give thee treasures out of darkness and secret riches from hidden places," He had said to her, and surely He meant the slums. "Wait on the Lord and He will strengthen thy heart. It is not the gift but the giver that we should wait upon," she said.

The main character of her afternoon address, however, was Carrie, a daughter of a very prominent minister . While seriously ill, Carrie had been given a small portion of morphine, and afterwards resorted to similar treatments when ill. Thus she had become a dope fiend, though surrounded by wealth and culture. The devil is not a respecter of persons, but neither does God classify sin. Through the efficacy of His blood He washes it away. Thus it came about that Carrie came to the Door of Hope, where she stayed for some time, only to leave again in a fit of violent temper. "For two long years we searched for her, then left the matter with God," said Mother Whittemore.

One day, while visiting a young couple who had had some differ-

TROLLEYS CRASH DURING RUSH HOUR

HOBOKEN, N.J., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Running wild for a quarter of a mile down grade on an elevated track when faulty brakes failed to hold a loaded trolley bound to Hoboken from Jersey City in the morning rush yesterday crashed into the rear of a standing car, likewise crowded, at Henderson street. Twenty-four men and three women were injured, eighteen seriously. Both cars were summit trolleys of the public service corporation. The impact was so strong the cars were telescoped one third of their length. Many of the injuries resulted from feet being caught in shattering steel.

DISPUTE TO BE AIRED BEFORE COUNCIL TO-DAY

Ministers From Five Big Powers Fail To Reach Solution.

WALDEMARAS FIRM.

Refuses To Give Guarantee For Restoration of Diplomatic Relations.

GENEVA, Dec. 7. —(AP). — The "big five" have failed to settle the Polish-Lithuanian dispute and must be fought out before council of the League of Nations to-day.

Foreign Ministers Briand and Stresemann and Foreign Secretary Chamberlain met with representatives of Italy and Japs yesterday afternoon to discuss Lituanians complaints against Poland but failed to accomplish anything more toward solution of the problem. As the big five delegates left the meeting they gave the impression that only questions of procedure involved in presentation of the dispute to the council were discussed but it is known that some of the statesmen reluctantly acknowledged that their direct efforts at conciliation had failed.

Sticks To Stand.

The combined political pressure of these great powers, and also Russia, has not caused the little Lithuanian dictator, Premier Waldemaras, to budge from his position. He told the Associated Press last night he was ready to give the council every guarantee of Lithuania's pacific intentions and his willingness to set up a neutral zone between Lithuania and Poland but says he could not go into the question of immediately restoring diplomatic relations with Poland or allowing the Poles untrammeled entry into Lithuania.

Earlier Premier Waldemaras said he knew nothing about the favorable turn in negotiations that had been announced by a spokesman for the Poles. The Polish spokesman had said that he had information that Waldemaras would acknowledge there was not any actual state of war between the two countries in the dispute and that further negotiations leading to an amicable settlement would offer no difficulties.

"We do not intend to discuss Vilna," said M. Waldemaras, "that city seized and held by Poland and claimed by Lithuania, but Lithuania has a legal title to Vilna which she does not contemplate surrendering."

There are just two questions the council will be called upon to decide, said M. Waldemaras. The first is whether Poland had a right to resort to reprisals, arrest Lithuanian clergy and close schools in the Vilna district, and the second is whether Poland had a right to organize bands to ferment political uprisings against the Lithuanian state.

M. Waldemaras concluded that he was always well disposed to receive concrete proposals from Poland but none have been received and there was no foundation for the Polish report that a settlement of the dispute was in sight.

GIVEN OVATION AT WASHINGTON

Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon Visit American Capital.

CALLS EXCHANGED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press). — President and Mrs. Coolidge paid a neighborly visit to Canada yesterday. Returning a call from the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon, the president and his wife took tea at the Canadian Legation. When they left Canada House, they were photographed along with the Governor General and Viscountess Willingdon and Hon. Vincent and Mrs Massey on the steps Many cameramen had assembled to record the event of the presidential call on a foreign diplomat. White House etiquette reserves much honors for Royal or Presidential visitors or direct representatives of royalty.

Mr. Coolidge who had just notified the leaders of his party that he positively would not be the republican candidate for the presidency in 1928, was keen and chatty, obviously relieved of the responsibility for the destines of his party next year.

Later the Governor General and Viscountess Willingdon and Mr. and Mrs Massey went to the White House for dinner.

Escorted by Cavalry.

Since the arrival of the Vice Royal party they had had a busy day. Met at the station yesterday morning by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg and many high officals of the government and the navy and army, they were escorted through the streets by troops of cavalry. Arriving at the Canadian Legation, the cavalry lined up and saluted the Canadian flag which hung over the legation doorway. Viscount Willingdon trudged through the snow down the whole line of two hundred mounted men and shook hands with of-

FOUR PERSONS LOSE LIVES IN ALBERTA SNOW STORMS

Country Highways and Railroads Still Impaired in Some Sections.

BOY MISSING.

Advices State Blizzard Now Sweeping South Over Middle West.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 7 (Canadian Press). — Four men dead and a boy of seven years missing is the human toll enacted by the severe blizzard which raked the south and western sections of Alberta on Monday. Fears for the safety of a mother and daughter who also had been reported missing, were dispelled late yesterday afternoon when the searchers found them safe in a neighbor's house.

Highways Blocked.

Country highways, piled high by snow drifts, testified to the fury of the storm ,and while railway service has been restored to normal on the main lines, branch roads and street car service in blizzard-swept cities and towns were still impaired. Advices from border points yesterday state that the blizzard is now sweeping south over the middle west.

The known dead are: H. Skabor, a Canadian Pacific Railway section foreman in the Beddington district, who was killed by a snow plough seven miles north of Calgary when the hand car in which he was riding was run down during the height of the storm; William Cameron, farm hand, of the Reid Hill district, fifteen miles from Vulvan, Alta., whose frozen body was found on a snow-covered trail leading to a nearby coal mine; John Richardson, trapper of the Skiff district, frozen to death, it is believed, while returning from his traps, and an unidentified man, whose frozen body was found in his grain waggon, six miles south-east of Champion, Alta.

A search party was still scouring the plains near Coalhurst for seven-year-old Johnny Hugalur, who has not been seen since he left the district school house on Monday afternoon.

Violent Storm.

The blizzard which followed a week-end chinook was the most violent within the past ten years. The wind at times reached tornado proportions, lashing over the unprotected prairie at a velocity of sixty miles an hour.

Range stock in many sections of southern Alberta was caught in the storm, but the loss, according to latest reports, will not be as large as at first thought.

Temperature Lower.

Sharp dips in temperature followed the passing of the blizzard, and extremes of twenty-five and thirty degrees below zero were recorded at a number of points on the prairies. Milder blizzards also swept through sections of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, but with the exception of blocking highways and delaying the traffic, no serious hardships have been reported.

Chinamen Guilty Of Dope Charge

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press)— Finding that he was guilty on a charge of "unlawfully having drugs in his possession," Magistrate Farrell, yesterday sentenced Tam Yam, a chinaman, to nine months in jail with a fine of one thousand dollars. The accused is a laundry man and the charge was laid by government Detectives following complaints that opium was being received through the mails by the chinaman.

Reichstag Defeats Non-Confidence Vote

BERLIN, Dec. 7. —(A P). — The Marx-Stresemann acbinet escaped parliamentary censure yesterday afternoon by 37 votes when the Reichstag objected a non-confidence motion of oppositionist parties 229 to 192.

Opposing the government were the Democrats, Socialists, Communists and the National Socialists. Questions involved were a claim of the communists that the government no longer reflects the will of the people, of the Socialists that the government economic and labour policy is wrong, and of the Democrats that financial and reparations policies are unsound and that the government is unable to take leadership in public matters.

OLD MASTERS

I have a rendezvous with Death
At some disputed barricade,
When Spring comes back with rustling shade
And apple blossoms fill the air—
I have a rendezvous with Death
When Spring brings back blue days and fair.

God knows 'twere better to be deep
Pillowed in silk and scented down,
Where Love throbs out in blissful sleep,
Pulse nigh to pulse, and breath to breath,
Where hushed awakenings are dear . . .
But I've a rendezvous with Death
At midnight in some flaming town,
When Spring trips north again this year,
And I to my pledged word am true,
I shall not fail that rendezvous.

Mining Loss Halted In Active Trading

TORONTO, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—The downturn on the standard mining exchange was halted today and a slow but fairly general recovery was set in motion. No sensational gains were shown in the morning trading, which reached a million and a quarter share turnover, but some substantial recoveries were made. Tough Oakes went up four and a half at 68½, Teck Hughes and Amulet each gained 17 points, Howey Gold gained six at 142, and Crown Reserve sold up 2½ at 61. Bidgood, Aconda, Argonaut, Barry Hollinger, Granada, Rouyn, Laval Quebec, Kirkland Lake, and Amity Copper all strengthened. Vipond was a conspicuous soft spot in a generally optimistic list, losing five at 68.

Three Strong Stocks Feature Toronto Trade

TORONTO, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Gains in Canadian Canners preferred, Canadian Oil and Loblaw Stores were strong sidelights of an otherwise uncertain session on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, when trading was a little lighter in volume. Canners preferred was up three at 115½, Canadian Oil up nearly four at 44⅞, and Loblaw up more than six at 97. Moderate gains were recorded in Seagrams, Shredded Wheat, Alberta Pacific Grain, and Brompton, while Page Hersey, International Nickel, Bell Telephone, and Massey Harris lost ground. Brazilian slumped more than three at 228⅝. British American Oil was steady at 37⅞, but Imperial Oil, McColl, and International Petroleum sold lower. Carlings firmed a half at 35½, but most other liquor stocks were unchanged.

McColl Brothers Firm Sold To Montreal Men

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—The sale of the McColl Brothers Limited Oil Company of Toronto to Nesbitt Thompson and Co. Ltd., of Montreal, for ten million dollars was announced today. The McColl firm has refineries, warehouses, divisional centres, and other branches from coast to coast, while the purchasers already control the Frontenac Oil Refineries of Quebec. A twenty million dollar merger of both companies is being speculated on as a result of the sale. John W. McColl, the president, said today the merger was "exceedingly probable if the Nesbitt Company really controls Frontenac." The price is equivalent to $65 a share for 150,000 shares, a total of $9,750,000.

Reactions Set In In New York Market

NEW YORK, Dec 7. — —(Canadian Press). — Pronounced reactionary tendencies developed in to-day's stock market. In commission house circles there was a tendency to attribute the selling to President Coolidge's reiteration of the statement that he was not a candidate for re-election, to the sharp falling off in steel production last month and the further decline in first week of december, but in banking quarters ,the view was expected that the market was entitled to a reaction on tecnical grounds after its recent spirited advances. Early declines ran from five to twelve points in some of the high priced issues.

Not all of the day's news was unfavourable, however, further advance of 15 points to 14.50 cents was announced in the price of export copper. Call money renewed at four per cent. instead of 4 1-2 and secretary Mellon in his annual report to Congress to-day characterized business as fundamentally sound and took an optimistic view of the future. Sterling exchange dropped from a high of $4.88 9-32 for cables on London yesterday to $4.88 3-16 to-day, temporarily setting at rest fears of heavy gold shipments to England following the first consignment since 1914, which leaves tonight.

LETTERS COME IN WITH SEAL MONEY

Good Wishes For Health Association Work Expressed By Many.

Some times when the remittance is returned for the Christmas seals which were sent out by the Health Association, it is really not the most valuable part of the missive. Oftentimes the letter which accompanies the remittance is fully as valuable as the money itself. The words of encouragement and good cheer which come in are very welcome, and scarely a day passes but what several such letters are found among those bringing the returns from the Christmas seals.

We are printing below two such letters, showing the appreciation that the general public have of the work done by the Health Association, although one received only a dollar's worth of seals they are sending in two dollars, with the wish that they could make it two hundred.

Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Friends,—Your stamps received and will be used. Enclosed find cheque for $2.00. Would be glad if it were $200.00. Wishing you all every success in your good work.

The other encloses a remittance and wishes the Health Association every success in their work:

Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Friends,—Many thanks for Chrismas seals. Wishing you every success in your good work. Enclosed one dollar.

The returns from the seals have been very good and are constantly coming in. If there are any who have not as yet made their returns, please don't hesitate any longer but enclose the dollar bill in the envelope which accompanied the seals, and give your dollars a chance to visit some of the homes at which the Health Association nurse calls.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB ANSWERS COUNCIL

Members Indignant at Treatment Given Their Resolutions.

The following letter was sent to the City Council by Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club, in regard to certain resolutions forwarded to the November meeting:

Acknowledge, with thanks, yours of 9th, being a reply from the City Council to our resolution to the Department of Railways and Canals asking that they repair the road paralleling the east bank of the canal and connecting Maria street with the Norwood road, and stating that the City Council had taken the matter up with the Department some time ago.

Your communication was read at a recent meeting of the Club and the writer was instructed to reply pointing out that while the City Council had taken the above matter up with the Department of Railways and Canals some time ago, no action had, as yet, been taken by the Department, and it therefore did not seem inapropos for the Peterborough Automobile Club to lend a hand in this matter asking at the same time, in the interests of the motorists of Peterborough, and particularly, the tourist traffic, that the City Council endorse our resolution and forward either a copy of their original one or a fresh supporting resolution.

Other resolutions forwarded in the same mail dealing with, (1) Marking of bus stops; (2) The improvement of the Peterborough-Lakefield road via the east bank of the canal; (3) The taking over by the Department of the balance of the Peterborough-Chemong road; as yet have not been acknowledged by the City Council and we are anxious to ascertain what action was taken as all these matters are important enough to warrant the endorsation and hearty support of the Council of the City of Peterborough.

At our meeting, copies of the press report dealing with the Council meeting at which our resolutions were presented were produced by several of the members present, who expressed indignation that our resolutions, drafted in the interests of the general public, should be the signal of laughter on the part of some of the aldermen present, which, we were gratified to note, was not general.

I am further directed to point out that the explanation of His Worship, Mayor Holloway, is not satisfactory to the Club, that the laughter which greeted the reading of our resolutions was "because all the matters had been dealt with by the Council some time ago and had been discussed so long that they now had whiskers and the Club should have known of them long ago." We submit that the above matters if not urged actively will in time have "crepe" on them, which is a far more serious condition than "whiskers," and it should be apparent to the City Council that the Peterborough Automobile Club in forwarding these resolutions, which had received intelligent consideration, was seeeking neither publicity nor something to do, but was actuated by the same ideal of community service which, no doubt, prompted the Council of the City of Peterborough in dealing with them some time ago.

Copies of our resolutions are attached for your convenience as are copies of replies received to date from the Honorable Chas. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Honorable George S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways.

The letter was received.

HONOR PAID BISHOP O'BRIEN

'Charity, the greatest of all the virtues, impels us to not only profess our love for God by word, but to express that love in dutiful, exemplary lives; it implies also the duty of making God better known, and of defending His revelation against the challenge of the doubter and infedel.

The K. of C. is the largest lay organization in the Catholic Church, and every member should feel it incumbent upon him to thoroughly study his religion, in order to be better able to give an account of the Faith that is in him. Charity also obliges us to extend the spirit of good will, of kindness and of forbearance to our neighbour, and the Church teaches that our neighbour ly with regard to class, colour or ly without regarrd to class, clour or creed. Narrow selfishness should therefore have no place in the lives of the Knights of Columbus."

"Patriotism becometh the true Knight," said the Bishop. By patriotism he meant, not flag waving nor vain boasting of one's loyalty, but real love for, and devotion to, the country of one's birth or adoption. This implies good citizenship, respect for law, intelligent persevering industry, the assumption of one's share of public responsibility, a consistent interest in all that concerns the welfare of one's country and a readiness to assume even the extreme burdens which citizenship may impose. This last duty may betimes neccessitate the actual defence of one's country against foreign aggression. In this connection, Bishop O'Brien praised the work of the K. of C. in the Great War.

Address to the Bishop.

The address read by J. R. Corkery, jr., was as follows:—

The Right Reverend Michael Joseph O'Brien, D. D., Bishop of Peterborough and State Chaplain of The Knights of Columbus for Ontario.

My Lord:—

The officers and members of Peterborough Council No. 798, Knights of Columbus, have assembled here this evening to extend to you as the new State Chaplain of the Ontario jurisdiction of our Order their greetings and congratulations.

It was with great pleasure and satisfaction that we learned a few days ago that you had assumed that office because you thereby conferred a signal honour not only on Columbianism in this Province but also on this Council of which you are a charter member Therefore, we feel that we would be lacking in appreciation and gratitude did we not on this occasion express in some manner our good will to you, My Lord, whose influence fatherly care and wise guidance we have felt and followed in the past.

The Knights of Columbus is a body of Catholic laymen directed to the accomplishment of undertakings, the beneficial results of which extend above and beyond any immediate personal benefits to the individual member. Men who are earnest and genuine and whose Catholicity is their proud boast are happy to find in this Order a medium through which they may assist in working out those larger problems for the benefit of their followmen, for the advancement of Holy Mother Church, the stability of Society and the preservation and perpetuity of liberty and well ordered government. To these lofty and ennobling ideals the personal interest of the individual member is subservient.

To us, who have seen and felt the result of your labours and undertakings when in your early priesthood you ministered as the spiritual adviser of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society your assuming of the office of State Chaplain to another society of Catholic laymen is significant. We know that from your active association with the State Officers of our Order there will come a new spirit of enthusiasm that will spell success for the Order in this Ontario jurisdiction.

Those same ideals and principles that have characterized all your undertakings and accomplishments for our thirty years since you were ordained to the Holy Priesthood, and which have so generously contributed to the substantial progress of the Church in the Diocese of Peterborough and in particular in this Episcopal City, the home of Peterborough Council, Knights of Columbus will, we are assured, likewise mark your undertakings as State Chaplain of the Order in this Province. We may be assured that subject to requirements made of you by duties and responsibilities of your Episcopal office you will give unselfishly of your time and service in the interests of Columbianism in Ontario. In conclusion we take this opportunity of assuring you of our earnest co-operation and generous support that are so essential for the successful growth and prosperity both of this Council and of the Ontario State Council. We again extend to you our hearty good wishes and good-will that you may be long spared to continue the noble work entrusted to you, and that Almighty God may continue to shower His blessings on you. We sincerely trust that this occasion may serve to strengthen the tie of loyalty which exists between the members of Peterborough Council, Knights of Columbus and Your Lordship, and that your term of office as State Chaplain to our great Order may witness the same loval and earnest co-operation between the Church and the Order that has marked the achievements of Columbianism in the past.

SIGNED on behalf of Peterborough Council Number 798, Knights of Columbus, this sixth day of December in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.

D. A. Costello, Grand Knight.

The illuminated address was the artistic work of Miss Mamie McCarthy and was a fitting embodiment of the subject. Mr. Costello presided over the meeting which was concluded with refreshments and entertainment, including habitant sketches by Ed. Desautels, piano solo by H. Theobald and Monologues by Jack Primeau.

VACANCIES TO BE FILLED.

The decision of Aldermen Denne and Phelan to enter the contest for the mayoralty means two additional vacancies on the aldermanic board, inasmuch as both were elected to the Council for two years last January.

Ex-Ald. Fife, also elected at the last election, resigned some weeks ago, so that three gaps in the Council will have to be filled by appointment.

Under the circumstances unusual consideration should be given by the electors to the candidates who offer themselves for next year's Council, seeing that the five elected will play the lion's share in selecting three other Aldermen to fill the vacancies.

In other words, the people will by their votes on New Year's Day virtually decide the personnel of nine-elevenths of the Council, a larger percentage than is normally possible under the two-year plan.

If strong men are to be appointed to fill the gaps, then it is necessary to elect strong men to make the selections.

AN IMPORTANT APPOINTMENT.

One of the most important matters that is to come before the Peterborough County Council during the present session is the appointment of a Superintendent for the House of Refuge.

This is a question that should command the serious consideration of every member of the Council.

The appointment should not be regarded as a piece of municipal patronage, but rather as a very important post that must be filled with the very best man available.

Caring for the aged is not a sinecure.

It is a responsibility that demands of the official in charge of such institutions as the House of Refuge tact, kindliness and at the same time a firmness that will ensure discipline.

Admittedly the inmates of such homes for the aged are often trying in their actions, and because of that fact the head of the establishment must be patient as well as firm.

The people of the county would like to feel that the old people who need the shelter of the House of Refuge are being well looked after, and they are looking to the Council to make an earnest effort to find a Superintendent possessing the qualities necessary for success.

AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM.

Peterborough's civic election program is to be unusually extensive on New Year's Day, for in addition to the election of a Mayor and five Aldermen, a member of the Utilities Commission and five members of the Board of Education, there will be two bylaws to be voted on, one granting a fixed assessment for ten years on the new building of the Westclox Company and the other seeking an expression of public opinion on daylight saving.

If that menu does not bring out a much above-the-average percentage of the voters on the list there is no use in trying to stir up interest.

The measure to assist the Westclox Company by a fixed assessment in its fine new building presents no controversial feature.

This rapidly-growing industry is regarded as one of the city's best manufacturing concerns, and the electors can be depended upon to ratify the bylaw when it is submitted to them.

The daylight saving bylaw, however, will be greeted by no such unanimity.

Few questions can produce such heated arguments as this matter of endeavouring to secure an extra hour's sunlight at the end of the day, and a resumption of the old controversy can be counted on during the next few weeks.

Twice the electors have rejected a similar bylaw; it remains to be seen whether or not there has been a change in public opinion since the last vote was taken.

THE CHICAGO WATER CASE.

Disregarding any right or interest that Canada may have in the matter, an American referee in the Chicago water case, Mr. Hughes, advises that the U. S. Secretary of War had—and, of course, has—proper authority to license Chicago to draw off Lake Michigan water for her drainage canal.

According to this, the conflict over the Lake Michigan water should be considered—by Americans—to be one merely between the States which consider themselves interested.

All Americans do not agree with Mr. Hughes. U. S. Secretary Hoover has declared that Canadian right does exist, to the extent that Canada is entitled to compensation for any loss by the Chicago diversion. R. J. Maclean, of Detroit, Vice-President of the U. S. National Rivers and Harbors Congress, goes further. He asserts that all the waters constituting the Great Lakes system of navigation should be regarded as boundary waters, which neither nation should assert control of at the expense of the other.

Whether the Dominion Government has ever made formal representations on the Chicago subject we do not know, but there seems good reason for it to do so.—Ottawa Journal.

THE CUBAN TRADE AGREEMENT.

Under the agreement which has been reached between the Government of Canada and Cuba, much benefit to the producers and exporters of both countries is likely to result. The agreement comes in pursuance of the policy which has been adopted by the Minister of Trade and Commerce in attempting to obtain more ready access for Canadian products in foreign markets and will improve the position of the Canadian manufacturer and exporter in this southern Republic.

Until recently, as news despatches have pointed out, Cuba has only one tariff under which goods from foreign countries were admitted, with the exception of a preference granted United States products. But when the tariff was revised recently, a new system was brought into existence, giving both a maximum and a general rate, as well as continuing the United States preference. Canadian products thereupon became subject to the maximum rate which is double the general rate, and since exports to Cuba have average $7,000,000 in value, it was evident that they would be at a disadvantage in the Cuban market and that sales in that country would be affected unless better terms were provided.

As the result of negotiations between representatives of the two Governments, these terms have now been secured. Cuba is to grant entry to Canadian exports under the general rate for a term of one year unless a permanent trade convention is concluded earlier, while Canada in return is to place Cuban exports upon the intermediate tariff list. There will thus be every opportunity to study the results of the new tariff agreement before the time for its renewal arrives, and in view of the fact that the commodities which Cuba produces for export to this country do not largely enter into competition with Canadian commodities, there is no much likelihood of the arrangement proving other than most satisfactory.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE MUCH-NEGLECTED BUTCHER.

(From the New York Herald Tribune)

When the Prince of Wales spoke in London the other days in praise of butchers he was, of course, referring to the British species; so that the picture he gave, of a stout gentleman who wears a blue-and-white apron, brandishes an ugly-looking weapon to cut off a leg of lamb, rides in a high-wheeled gig and is "something of an authority on the turf", appears to us more like a character from Dickens that a modern purveyor of frozen meats. Nevertheless, though the Prince's butcher may not be familiar to Americans, who are used to seeing that necessary person clad in white and riding in anything but a "gig", he is worthy of comment, since this must be almost the first time that anybody has taken much notice of the fraternity.

There have been many unforgettable tradesmen in literature—cobblers, tailors, booksellers, blacksmiths and draper's assistants—but where is the book which makes of the butcher a figure of romance? Even Chaucer's goodly company of Canterbury Pilgrims contained no butcher, though one can imagine him as a merry addition, a fit partner for the Wife of Bath. William Langland wrote about butchers in the fourteenth century, but only to denounce them, with cooks, bakers and brewers as doing "most harm to the many people." There is one butcher who has strayed, if unwittingly, into the history of literature. It must have been sheer inspiration which caused Mr. Shakespeare Senior to apprentice the youthful William to the local butcher at Stratford.

BUILD THAT STADIUM.

We notice that the people of Peterborough are discussing the subject of building a stadium with proper dressing-rooms, shower baths and other facilities, and The Peterborough Examiner says that if this city is to continue to hold the place it has won in recent years on the Provincial baseball map, one is inevitable. The Examiner is right; Peterborough should build that stadium. Here in Kingston we know the value of a fine one, and one given to commemorate a great, brave and generous gentleman, soldier and sportsman. But Peterborough should look ahead and provide a stadium which will be of service far into the future; it will not regret doing so. The Mayor feels that the city itself could not finance the construction of such an athletic plant, but he is firmly of the opinion that enough $5 subscriptions could be secured in Peterborough to make a stadium possible, and we believe that if the question be handled with vigor the Peterborough people would very soon find the necessary money. It must be remembered that a stadium is a direct incentive to sport, which is being more and more recognized as one of the roads not only to health but to the formation of a manly, upright, fair-dealing character. What would Greece have been without its stadium, and see the effect the Grecian games have had upon the world. It is worthy of note that the ancient stadium at Athens has been restored and the Olympic games played in it. Let history make Peterborough build that stadium.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MANNERS.

One school in Oshawa has started a course in "good manners" and this gives point to the criticism that the young people of today are not as markedly well-behaved as were the young of previous generations.

Such a charge falls a little flat when it is remembered that numbers of those criticising were once young in that golden era, and as for their manners, they seem to have gotten bravely over their earlier habits of courtesy.

The instruction of the young in good manners is to be commended, but a great deal needs to be said about example. Among the points to be raised is courtesy to the young.

One thing insisted upon by no less a person than the Premier of the Province is that the young should touch their caps to their elders. But if this practice became general, how many elders would reply to that salutation in kind?

Very few probably, until self-conceit itself realized that courtesy should never be a one-sided affair, for in that event it becomes an expression of servility.

Oshawa's school children will probably soon show the effects of their special instruction. It becomes all who know its value to be on their guard so that these children will not be rebuffed in their efforts to show the knowledge that's in them, and, more, not to be shown again that most of adult idealism is tinctured with hypocricy.

If a boy touches his cap to us, let us be humble enough to reply in kind; if they break their ranks to let us through, let us not sail through like heaven had given us a sort of railway limited's status on the sidewalks, but as people who have been honored and hoped to be worthy of esteem.—Oshawa Daily Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Add list of 1927 similes: As short-lived as a Peterborough city bylaw.

Evidently the city fathers intended the snow-shovelling bylaw only for the summer months.

Galt has voted in favour of a Government liquor store, while Renfrew decided to do without one. In other words, the former will become officially and the latter remain unofficially wet.

Fifteen miles an hour is to be the speed limit over the Hunter Street Bridge, always providing that the Aldermen do not change their minds before the necessary signs are erected.

Two entries for the mayoralty race with the election a month away comes close to being a local record.

Funny that a bylaw that looked so good when there was no snow to shovel should take on such a different appearance when the time arrived for action.

She is the picture of health, hand-painted by herself.—Brandon Sun.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday, there being practically no demand from foreign buyers.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also dull, but the tone of the market was steady and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was transacted in spring and winter wheat grades of flour, and values were firm.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the renewed demand from the United States and a moderate amount of business was done, including sales of five cars of Manitoba bran at $38.50 per ton, and ten cars of half bran and half shorts at $38.00 per ton delivered. The domestic demand was also good and prices were firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was fairly active and the undertone was steady.

The egg trade was without any new feature to note, prices being firm, with a good trade passing in all grades. The receipts were 1,037 cases.

The demand for imported beans was fair and prices ruled steady. Sales of car lots of choice white on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, ex-track, with smaller quantities on spot at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for potatoes continued of a limited character, but prices were unchanged. Car lots of Prince Edward Island whites were quoted at $1.05 to $1.10; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.10 to $1.15 per bag of ninety pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk; and Quebec varieties at 90c per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The butter market continued quiet and the undertone was easy. The receipts were 74 packages.

The feature of the cheese trade continues to be the steady demand from buyers in the United States for Western current receipts of both white and colored cheese, but as the available supplies of such are not large, only a moderate amount of business was done at 19¼c to 19½c per pound. The receipts were 1,828 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, December 7 (Canadian Press). — Rough weather looked for throughout the corn belt gave a lively upturn to corn values yesterday, and lifted other grain as well. Good export inquiry for corn was also a stimulating factor, and it was pointed out that the 1927 European corn crop is approximately 200,000,000 bushels short of the 1926 total. Despite setbacks at the start, the corn market closed firm, ⅝c to ⅞c higher; with wheat ½c to ⅝c up; oats ½c to 1c advance; and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Besides a forecast of snow and rain for the entire corn belt, talk was current that corn was being bought for export at the Gulf of Mexico 4¼c a bushel over the price of Chicago December delivery. Furthermore, the onset of the corn belt storm was expected to delay the completion of corn husking and to hinder the rural movement of corn to market. Inasmuch as initial weakness of corn values yesterday was based largely on good weather, the forecast of widely different conditions with reports of a blizzard in the North-West and West led to an abrupt change of the market position by a majority of traders.

Attention later focused more and more on increased notice of corn export business. Cable advices at hand told of large prospective European requirements and of heavy consumer buying abroad. In addition, New York messages said export demand for cash corn was developing both with Great Britain and Continental Europe. Meanwhile, Argentine and European corn markets were firm and country offerings to Chicago were moderate for this time of year, as well as being mainly well out of line with current prices.

Wheat prices held within narrow limits, and were governed mostly by the action of corn. Unwelcome showers were reported in some parts of Argentina where cutting and threshing is in progress. The aggregate of wheat trade was light and the market easily influenced.

Oats and rye were in good demand, especially toward the end of the day.

Provisions showed irregularity, being affected in opposite directions by the trend of grain and that of hog values.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

THE ARGUMENT STARTS.

Editor, Evening Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Those of your Scottish readers who are at all interested in the history of their country must read with a certain amount of astonishment the statement of our friend, Mr. Sheridan in the Voice of the People column in last Friday's issue of The Examiner to the effect that a handful of Irish bowmen were the chief factor in the victory of Bannockburn. The use of the word "handful" is at least accurate as the overwhelming majority present on that fateful day in 1314 were on the side of the English, Ireland then being a subject nation.

Perhaps Mr. Sheridan will oblige with the name of and the quotation from the "great" historian on whose authority he bases his extraordinary statement.

Surely Ireland has a sufficiently impressive military history from the time of the Norman invasions to the present without attempting to rob Scotland of her greatest martial accomplishment.

With regard to the bagpipes, has not Mr. Sheridan overlooked the fact that these also are claimed by the Emerald Isle? As a Canadan Scot, I am willing to make him a sporting offer. Let him on behalf of Ireland, surrender his preposterous claim with regard to Bannockburn and I will gladly let the Irish have the bagpipes.

Yours also for fair play,
TORONTO SCOT.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

All is quiet along the Rio Grande to-night. Mexico is being very, very good just before Christmas.

Again we hear the wail that the old-fashioned family doctor is disappearing. Yeah, so's your old-fashioned family.

Ambition is a longing a lot of people have for a more pleasant place in which to do nothing.

Opinions differ. Some think that when a fellow shows his mettle, it means he has brass.

We don't know about a five-day week. But a five-day week-end ought to prove popular.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL TOLD IT CANNOT LEASE ROADWAYS

Councillor O'Sullivan Declares By-law Needed For Rink Agreement.

OBJECTS TO MINUTES.

Busy Month Revealed By Record, Reading of Which Requires 13 Minutes.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 6 — Last night Thirteen minutes was required to read the record of the doings of the Campbellford Council during the past month, and it is only just to remark, the clerk, John MacGregor, is not a slow reader. During the reading, the results of the special meeting held in the clerk's office on Tuesday, November 29, were divulged. It was decided that the town lease to Davidson's arena the land which they were occupying and which in part belonged to the street, for the sum of one dollar per year for a term of twenty years. There were to be further conditions for renewal arranged for then.

After the motion to adopt the minutes had been made but before it had been seconded, Councillor O'Sullivan interrupted to say that the council had not the authority to lease any street or section of street. This could only be done when a by-law had been passed. Councillor Stone thought this was no reason why the minutes should not be passed and the Mayor remarked that the minutes were legal enough since they were a correct record of what the council had done at the different meetings.

Questioned by the Mayor, D. J. Lynch, the solicitor for the town, said he did not wish to express any definite opinion off hand. He would like the opportunity to look into the matter. As far as he knew at the moment, he was inclined to think that Councillor O'Sullivan was correct. He knew that in cities there was a law permitting them to do as Mr. O'Sullivan said, but he had not been able to find any ruling to govern towns and villages.

Councillor Stone, sitting next Councillor O'Sullivan, asked what authority he had for making these statements regarding by-laws and the occupations of the street. "Legal advice," replied Mr. O'Sullivan without a moment's hesitation. Then the minutes were passed without further argument.

In the matter of correspondence, the clerk read a letter having to do with calendars which were depicting some of the means of working safely. But he was of the opinion that this had reference only to the water and light office and there was no further discussion of the communication. The next was from G. A. Payne for his client William Hall. It stated that Mr. Hall was bringing action against the town for the sum of $275.00 as the amount due him on the construction of a sewer. This letter caused some small discussion, but this was soon ended when Councillor MacDonald said, "Oh, he's going to sue us alright," and Councillor O'Sullivan moved that the letter and account be laid on the table. He claimed that Mr. Hall understood everything before he began the work admitted it to the council.

"He denies that he ever said, it," said the Mayor.

"You heard him," said Mr. O'Sullivan.

"I don't think I would swear to it," replied His Worship.

"Speak up Mr. Deputy. You heard him," challenged Mr. O'Sullivan.

Both Reeve Davidson and Councillor O'Sullivan as well as most of the other councillors were prepared to take oath that they had heard Mr. Hall state that he understood. In the discussion which followed it developed that misunderstanding had first come to light when the digging was in progress and that the Reeve in absence of the Mayor, had advised Hall to cease work till matters were adjusted to the satisfaction of both the Council and himself. Apparently Mr. Hall continued in spite of this advice.

"Is there a seconder?" asked the Mayor.

"Second the motion" said Councillor Cole and it was carried without one dissenting vote.

The next communication was from the Township Council saying they would take no action regarding the lighting agreement on the river road as far as Lock No. 13. Upon the proper motion the letter was received and filed.

Bearing the date, November 11th, a letter from Peterborough was read which referred to the construction of certain sewers on Queen Street. It gave some explanation regarding the leases of Government land and advised against the construction of the proposed sewer on the ground that there was not sufficient room. It was moved that the letter be received and filed and the clerk instructed to reply to it.

A letter from the Globe Indemnity Company referred to a communication from the Town Council concerning the liability of the town for accidents happening as the result of the steel support which stands in the middle of the wide street known as Grand Road. The support is under the overhead C.N.R. bridge, and is of steel, standing on a concrete foundation. Some time ago Norman Marsden, Alderville, collided with this support and attempted to recover damages from the town. The Council referred the matter to the Globe Indemnity Company, and they replied that the man had been negligent and that the town was not liable for the damages which he sustained. The letter was received and the clerk instructed to notify the Globe Company.

There being no one present who wished to address the Council, the Mayor stated that Frank Hubble's bill had been paid by order of the Workmen's Compensation Board. He also said that Harry Cassan's sewer tax could not be changed in any way. The claim should have been made at the regular sitting of the Court of Revision. Regarding the public meeting which was to have been called, he said he had been too busy and that the others concerned principally had been much too busy for the task. His Worship then informed the Council that the ladies of the town and the Memorial Committee had assumed the responsibility for making certain improvements to the memorial property and that they had incurred an expense of one hundred and twenty dollars. Of this they had paid seventy dollars, and had asked the Council to appropriate the balance of fifty dollars. He suggested that the Town Council pay the money and request the Seymour Council to pay half of the amount to them. This was put in the form of a motion by Councillor Cole, and passed.

Regarding the building by-law No. 465, Section 10, it was pointed out that this order was twenty years old and that there was a clause in it concerning iron building material which was not adaptable to the modern type of building. After considerable discussion, the Reeve moved that the solicitor be instructed to draw up an amendment to the by-law which would be suitable to the modern requirements. The motion was seconded and carried.

The clerk reminded the Council that it was customary for the Council to ask for tenders for the operation of the two sets of public weigh scales. It appeared that this was part of the regular business at this meeting of the year. The accounts and pay sheet were ordered paid. Deputy-Reeve Davidson then moved that the Council adjourn, but before the motion was seconded Councillor Cole asked the clerk whether he had heard from the Liquor Control Board regarding the establishing of a brewers' warehouse in Campbellford. Upon being told that no reply had been received, Cole made a motion that a second letter be sent asking for some explanation why no reply had been received. The motion carried.

Again the motion to adjourn was made, but Councillor O'Sullivan forestalled it by re-opening the question of the new rink and the public property which it occupies. Then followed a discussion of by-laws, penalties, fences, occupation of land, ejection from said land, building permits and what not, but the discussion, while very interesting, was getting no where, so the Council adjourned.

ROSENEATH W.A. BAZAAR SUCCESS

Attendance Large in Spite of Bad Weather—Little Unsold.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 7.—The Women's Auxiliary of St. James' church held their annual bazaar on November 26th in the Orange Hall, Roseneath. Despite the unfavorable weather conditions, and muddy roads, a large number of visitors attended. Promptly at 2 p.m. the Rev. W. A. Pippen officially declared the bazaar open.

The hall was gaily decorated with Christmas decorations.

The fishpond, under the supervision of Mrs. P. Brown, was the source of much fun to both old and young. Early in the evening the supply of "fish" had to be duplicated.

The home-made cooking and candy department was capably handled by Mrs. James Timlin, assisted by Mrs. J. Braithwaite.

The sale of fancy articles, aprons, etc., was looked after by Mrs. G. Parker, Mrs. William Houghtailing, Mrs. John Webb and Mrs. Ross McCracken. This section was kept very busy, and by night, few articles remained unsold.

The bazaar would not have been complete without the appetizing supper at 5.30 p.m. This part was well looked after by Mrs. J. Drope and Mrs. R. Nichol, assisted by Mrs. James Webb and Mrs. H. McCracken.

Mrs. J. Drope's table was done in pink color, with pink candles and silver candlebra, while Mrs. Nichol chose pale green with green candles.

Mrs. Frank Nichol was the genial hostess for the day and extended greetings.

Mrs. James Robins, one of the main supporters at the W.A. Bazaar, was present, and gave her general assistance.

Miss M. Stewart took charge of the Dressed Doll Content, and met with decided success. Mrs. M. R. Brown, Roseneath, holding the lucky number, winner. Mrs. E. Timlin acted as cashier and filled the position acceptably.

In the evening the Roseneath Orchestra furnished a musical program, which was greatly enjoyed.

The proceeds amounted to $110 or upwards.

Mrs. M. Macleod Now Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I have suffered from backache and rheumatism for some time," writes Mrs. M. Macleod, a well known resident of Tarbot Vale, Victoria Co., C.B. "I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them very satisfactory."

Ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer come from weak kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities, all the seeds of disease, out of the blood. If they fail in this work the impurities remain and result in weakness, weariness, nervousness, headaches, backaches, dropsy and rheumatism.

A.Y.P.A. MEMBERS VISIT OLD PEOPLE

Give Program of Hymns and Other Musical Numbers at Protestant Home.

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Monday, when the members of All Saints' A.Y.P.A. paid their annual visit to the Protestant Home. This is one of the evening's of the year that is heartily looked forward to by all, when the young people have the privilege of giving an evening's entertainment to the elderly inmates.

Two very well-known hymns, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," were sung by all as the opening number on the program. Frank Clark then delighted his audience with several banjo selections. An old time melody, "Watermelon" was very much enjoyed by all. The words of this piece were given to Mr. Clark by an old negro, 90 years old, when he was down south on one of the plantations.

This was then followed by two very familiar selections, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and "Jingle Bells," Kenneth Gadd, accompanied by Miss Margaret Rome, gave two very fine violin numbers, entitled "Simple Avue" and Minuet in G," which were very wonderfully rendered by so young a violinist.

During the next few minutes intermission, the ladies and gentlemen were each presented with a small parcel made up of apples, oranges, and candy.

Community singing of a few old favorites was the next number on the program, some of which were: "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding," "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," and "Bye, Bye Blackbird."

The last part of the program was the singing of a few very well-known hymns which included: "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," "Christians, Awake! Salute the Happy Morn," and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

The Rev. J. D. Paterson then spoke a few words, saying that he had made many friends among the ladies and gentlemen and that one of his greatest pleasures was in going up to the Home, and he hoped they had all enjoyed the evening as much as the young people. He also pointed out that one of the rule of the A.Y.P.A. was that the members must be between the ages of 18 and 80. "There are a few exceptions," said he, "and sometimes some are made members before they are 18, so that if any who were over 80 years of age would like to join the A.Y.P.A. we would be quite pleased to make them honorary members. If at any time you would like us to come up and give another evening's entertainment, let us know, and we would be only too pleased to come."

The evening was then brought to a close by the singing of "O Canada" and The National Anthem.

The community singing and hymns were led by Miss B. Dawson, with Miss Dorothy Worboy at the piano.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"When are you going to see Madame Renaud about your singing lessons, Rhoda?" Faith asked the silent, brooding girl who sat opposite her at the luncheon table.

"I don't know," Rhoda answered almost sulkily. "Nils was to arrange it and I haven't heard from him. He said he would see her first and make an appointment for me. Maybe he'll tell me to-night—if he goes to see her this afternoon," she added with somber significance.

So Rhoda suspected that Nils had forced Cherry to go to lunch with him! Faith wondered if she had been listening, had overheard the one sided telephone conversation she had just concluded with Bob. But a glance at Rhoda's honest, troubled face made her ashamed of her suspicions. Faith longed to take the girl completely into her confidence, but an instinct of loyalty to Cherry forbade.

At three o'clock that afternoon Nils Jonson appeared with dramatic unexpectedness. Faith herself opened the door for him, but as soon as Rhoda heard his booming, cello-like voice she came running from the kitchen, arms outstretched, adoration transfiguring her plump face.

"Oh, Nils," she whimpered, as he swept her against his breast. "I thought you'd forgotten about me."

Faith stood aside, but her great, troubled brown eyes roved over his face and figure with a passionate intensity of interest.

Rhoda, sensing his exultation and excitement as swiftly as had Faith, drew herself out of his arms and looked up at him fearfully, solemnly.

"Nils," she burst out at last, her hands trying to shake his broad shoulders, "she's got a baby! She's got a baby and she's been divorced, Nils!"

Brother and sister did not pretend to misunderstand each other. Nils laughed and rumpled Rhoda's honey-gold hair with an immense but gentle hand.

"I know it, Funny-face!" he gibed at her fondly. "She told me. Suppose you take me to see the baby before I hustle you off to your singing teacher. She's agreed to listen to you once, anyway. I warned her, but she's game. Do you mind if I see Cherry's baby, Mrs. Hathaway? I'm pretty anxious to see it," he said earnestly, turning to Faith.

Without a word Faith nodded acquiescence and then led the way to the sun-parlor, where Hope was kicking and chuckling contentedly in her perambulator, having just awakened from her early afternoon nap.

Again Faith stood aside helplessly and watched, aware of the tremendous significance to the man and to Cherry of the scene she was witnessing, but unable to think clearly. She saw Nils Jonson's radiance dim to solemnity for a moment; saw something primitive and passionate—jealous anger probably, that this was not his child, but that of another man who had loved and possessed Cherry—swoop over his handsome face like a shadow of a black wing; then reverence and awe took its place. She saw him gather the child into his big, tender hands, his face radiant again, but with a more divine fire than had burned in his eyes a few moments before.

5TH PETERBOROUGH WOLF CUB PACK

In Council Circle, sixteen Wolf Cubs, led by Sixer Hope, opened the meeting by rendering in great style the Grand Howl. The Fifth Bite, a chapter from the Wolf Cub Handbook, was read by Assistant Senior Sixer Peters. In the lesson, two types of boys were pictured: the Brownies and the Boggarts. In the former, the picture presents the boy who is trying to go good turns for himself, his people; in fact everyone. In the latter, he is a nuisance to everyone with whom he comes in contact. He tears about yelling and shouting, disturbing everyone on the street, and at home. He misplaces his clothes and is always asking where they are. At end of the lesson Mr. Hope introduced Mr. Turner, the District Commissioner, who gave a short talk on the reading, showing the boys in an illustration, how they could help Mother and Dad in the home. Mr. John, the president, also gave a short talk. The sixers were then dismissed to the six corners, where the recruits were taught the laws. "Poisoned Well" was played. Then "pack" the command for silence and alert was heard, followed by "pack in line," "right turn," and pack followed the Assistant Senior Sixer through a series of simple exercises for a review in the Flag. Attendance was eighteen, and fees were collected by the treasurer. The meeting was closed by the Grand Howl and the pack was dismissed.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When dining, if you drop a piece of table silver or your napkin on the floor, what should you do?
2. If you find you lack a spoon for your coffee, is it better just to use the spoon you are eating your dessert with or to ask your hostess for another?
3. What is the best guide in any matter of this sort?

The Answers:

1. Call the waiter.
2. Whichever seems easier.
3. Never attach great importance to slight mistakes. Take everything easily.

FANCY BEETS.

Buttered beets make one of the loveliest garnishes in the world when sliced in odd shapes with some of the fancy potato slicers.

DOOR OF HOPE WORK IS TOLD BY FOUNDER

Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, of New York, Gives Address at Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, of New York City, gave an address on Social Service work yesterday afternoon in the Green Room Y.W.C.A., under the auspices of the Mission of Biblical and Evangelistic Education.

In her address Mrs. Whittemore gave an account of the wonderful success of The Door of Hope, founded by her over thirty years ago. When this home became overcrowded new ones sprang up, until there are now in all ninety-seven homes all under the supervision and care of this one little woman.

Mrs. Whittemore began her work at first as a result of a visit to the slums with her husband. Seeing the terrible need she decided to give up her position in the high social circle which she occupied and devote her whole life to the care of "the girls on the street."

Rev. F. L. Robertson, Toronto, the promoter of the Society, was present and introduced the speaker, whom he had been fortunate in securing to address Canadian audiences.

Owing to unforseen circumstances, the meeting in James' church which was to have been addressed by Mrs. Whittemore last night, was obliged to be postponed.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A bandeau and immense bow of tulle was chosen for the bridesmaids' headdresses at a recent wedding—an arrangement that has advantages where bridesmaids are both long haired and bobbed.

The question that friends used to ask us after we had attended a notable wedding all had to do with the wedding presents. And you know yourself that it was well to notice the presents if they were exhibited, not so much to satisfy your own curiosity but so that you could answer the questions of inquisitive members of your family who hadn't been asked—or hadn't taken the trouble to attend.

But now the important question is this: "How many of the bridesmaids had bobbed hair? How many had long hair?"

Sometimes brides-to-be seem to choose their bridesmaids with the thought of their hair. Or at least it seems so when all the bridesmaids are blonde young women with hair long enough to be knotted at the nape of the neck—or when the brunette bride is accompanied by eight young women all with short dark hair.

At a wedding the other day where all of the bridesmaids were very young four of the six had long hair which was worn in long braids carried over the shoulder, looking quite effective with the medieval type of dress worn and the closely placed veils.

Something quite new in the field of dressmaking has been originated by one of the prominent French dressmakers. It consists of a frock with an extra skirt. After all, if men like suits with two pairs of trousers, why shouldn't women like an extra skirt? The frocks I heard of were made quite simple with a draped overskirt that might be worn as such or might be used as a sort of shoulder scarf. No one has ever suggested a possible alternative use for the extra pair of trousers provided by the tailors.

REMOVE PAINT

Instead of working all year scraping paint, put on a pair of rubber gloves and use, sparingly, one of the many good paint removers on the market.

WHEN you frame a portrait of someone dear to you, it is fitting to choose a silver mount to keep the memory forever fresh.

Of course the frame needs to be kept clean and bright. This is an easy matter if you use Silvo Liquid Silver Polish.

Silvo is the right polish for silver frames, toilet articles, candle sticks, table ware, and all other kinds of silver. It is easily applied, and quickly removes tarnish, restoring the silver's original beauty. Silvo contains neither acid nor mercury.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is one of the rarely unfortunate days in planetary direction, according to astrology, which finds malefic aspects dominant.

In the total eclipse of the Moon on this date the seers find ill omens presaging increase of crime and much illness.

The eclipse is read as most threatening to Great Britain where there may be revolutionary influences as well as labor troubles.

Terrible storms are foretold. Wind and seismic shocks will cause heavy losses in many parts of the world, it is forecast.

The configuration to-day bodes ill for many workers who may become discontented under changing industrial conditions.

Women should be quiescent while this rule prevails. They may be disappointed in any effort toward reform or public service.

It is not a lucky day for weddings, since the sway seems to indicate slow prosperity and certain disappointments.

Until late in the evening it is well to avoid persons upon whom it is desirable to make a good impression.

There is a forbidding sign for those who would seek employment or promotions.

Secret organizations are subject to the most stimulating influences making for expansion and growth of power, it is foretold. Danger of earthquakes in states seldom affected by such disturbances is prognosticated.

Health protection and development is to be even more strongly stressed than formerly, owing to some sort of an epidemic, the seers declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of varied exactions. They should guard against thieves.

Children born on this day may travel widely and in that case they are likely to meet with adventures more or less unfortunate.

In the account of the Sunday Thankoffering service held in St. James' United church, the name of the church was entirely omitted.

Also that Mrs. T. E. Curvin rendered a beautiful solo, "The Ninety and Nine" at this service, and Misses May Ritchie and Aileen Rose sang a duet. The music throughout was of a missionary spirit, and highly appreciated.

MOTHER WHITTEMORE.

ences, she learned of a girl, answering the description of Carrie, who had been discovered, determined to commit suicide. A promise to delay the act gave Mother Whittemore a chance to meet her, she was later persuaded to return to the Door of Hope and after a valiant fight against the desire for drugs, assisted by prayer on the part of her benefactors, was saved for God. Incidently, her chum, a girl who had also travelled on forbidden paths, was so impressed with the power of prayer that she to accepted God as her saviour.

The addresses delivered during the day and evening were not without their many happy little illustrations, as the speaker recounted amusing situations in which she had found herself at times, during her work. For instance, she told of carrying a loaded weapon which she had taken from Carrie in a hotel and of the difficulty which she had had in concealing it as she travelled homeward in a crowded bus. As I had never been in the firearm business, I was mighty relieved when it was over," she laughed.

In conducting an institution on Faith, as the Door of Hope is carried on, Mother Whittemore and her helpers have learned to depend on God and He has answered their prayers, a time without number. On one occasion, when hot water bottles were needed, the prayers were answered beyond all hope,and thirteen bags of apples, potatoes and squashes were sent by a farmer one day after the matron had expressed a wish in prayer, for apples for the girls. In fact, Mother Whittemore made it clear that prayer, and prayer alone enabled them to keep up the ninety-seven Doors of Hope scattered over the continents.

The meeting concluded with a hymn and prayer by the speaker, and the benediction pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Wallace.

In St. Andrew's

Splendid as had been her appeal during the two previous meetings of the day, perhaps Mother Whittemore was heard at her best as she addressed an encouragingly large number of people who gathered in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in the evening.

Standing before the pulpit in the Big Red Church on the Hill, she unfolded the story of Dehlia, a redeemed sinner of the underworld, and as she did so, there was more than one tear-dimmed eye among her auditors. Her peculiar habit of breaking suddenly away from her main subject to relate some little incident that had occurred between her and God, and her unfailing return to it, was as pleasing as it was novel.

The story of Dehlia is one that goes "down deep," when related by Mother Whittemore. Dehlia's father was a man whose second marriage had not proven acceptable to his then eleven-year-old daughter. She had been placed in an institution from which she was later allowed to depart, to wander in the streets. Reaching the slums of New York, while almost beaten by hunger and poverty, she had accepted liquor and from then on, her downfall was a matter of but a few weeks. She became the pet of a gang of thieves and had reached a very low level when, one day there came to "Italian Joe's" a party of slum workers. In that party was Mother Whittemore and she immediately asked God for assistance in saving Dehlia.

The speaker then went on to relate how that girl, though a hardened sinner, had protected her life in the place.

To be near the girl, Mother Whittemore and her helpers were called upon to enter the innermost depths of New York's underworld and as the first sign of Dawn crept into the eastern sky, Dehlia was given a beautiful rose which she cherished, and through its beauty she first realized her predicament. Later she came to the Door of Hope and gradually there was born in her, the realization that God was her savior. From then on, her work among the old pals of the underworld was such that in the brief span of life left her, eleven months, at least one hundred souls were saved by her ministry.

Standing before hundreds of criminals confined in various prisons, the little Bluey or Bluebird, a mere slip of a girl of twenty-two, might be seen, pleading with them to accept Jesus Christ.

But her strength was not sufficient to throw off the effects of her earlier life and Dehlia died a triumphant death. At her funeral could be seen hundreds of those whom she had helped and during the very funeral service many more were won over to God's work.

Her story ended, Mother Whittemore concluded her address with an appeal to her audience to get closer to Jesus Christ.

At the close of the meeting an offering was taken to go to help the "Doors of Hope." Several hymns, led by the church organist, and prayer by the guest speaker dismissed the gathering.

THIRD DEGREE IS CONFERRED

Bowmanville Oddfellows Pay Fraternal Visit To Campbellford.

BANQUET FOLLOWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7. — An event of unusual importance in the life of Campbellford Independent Order of Oddfellows Lodge number 248, was the visit last evening to their rooms of some thirty members of Florence Nightingale Lodge number 66 of Bowmanville together with other Oddfellows from Cobourg and Stirling. The evening proved one of interest and profit to all present.

Arriving in town about the supper hour, the big motor bus in which the visitors travelled, was parked immediately, on the opposite side of the street and its load of happy human freight had soon reached the lodge rooms. There the degree team from Bowmanville, in a most efficient manner exemplifed how third degree business was conducted and the remainder of the evening given over to less serious matters.

The Campbellford lodgemen are good providers and they made it a point to make the banquet remain a happy memory for their guests. Later in the evening, Noble Grand P. C. Sherwin of 248 again called for order and a choice programme was given. Appearing on it were many popular entertainers of both lodges.

Among the visitors present were D. D. G. M. E. Bowman and E. A. Hircock of Cobourg; P. P. D. G. M. J. Thompson of Stirling and Brothers H. Lapp, H. Morden, L. Wright, E. Hobbs, R. Cowerly, B. Williams, T. A. Garton, K. Foster, K. Frend, O. Metcalfe, E. Ryan, O. Luxton of Bowmanville.

..The Bowmanville degree team comprised S. Little, N. G., M. Tamblyn, P. G., G. Young, Chaplain; D. Moore P. G., C.Samis, R. S. N. G., T. Goddard L. S. N. G., A. Anderson, R. S. V. G., D. Brown L. S. CLARADAY MEN CHOSEN TO RUN

something. Someone said that if he didn't retire there would be no vacancy, but it was pointed out that someone else could be elected in his place. There should be someone from Clarady, declared a voice, and the chairman explained that if this meeting nominated someone else there was nothing to prevent others choosing Mr. Arnott, J. Milby, B. Arnott and H. Killinbeck were proposed, Mr. Milby being elected.

The figure quoted by the city for the new school connection to the sewer was under fire, a ratepayer declaring that if the trustees signed up for that amount ($100 a year) they would throw them out.

The roadmaster, Archie Patterson, was another target for complaint someone asking if a new reeve meant a new roadmaster. The reply that he had served under a lot of reeves brought the retort that a lot of reeves had served under him. The administration of the Noxious Weed Act by Mr. Patterson was also complained of, a lady declaring that in wet weather the choice for walking was on the road, up to the knees in mud, or on the side, where the weeds soon had one wet through.

A comprehensive account of the troubles of the township council were given by ex-Reeve H. B. Rye. It is hard, he said, to get men to cut weeds, even those asking for work will turn it down. The farmers won't use their mowers along the road sides because the ratepayers throw old cans and baby carriages and other rubbish there.

People Want Yardage.

In the matter of road building, continued Mr. Rye, he did not see how any better could be expected for the money expended. Broken stone should be rolled in but the township cannot afford a roller. When Hy Woods suggested that the gravel be crushed fine, Mr. Rye replied that the roadmaster wants yardage, because the ratepayers kick about the number of yards of road that are gravelled for the money expended. One of those present remarked that it was the ratepayer's privilege to kick, to which Mr. Rye responded, "Most of them take full advantage of their privilege."

The fact that half the township is rural and half suburban was given by Mr. Rye as the cause of most of the difficulties. He explained that under the statute labor act, every small holder paid $2.50. To raise the same amount by a mill rate would throw the burden on the farmer, while most of the roads are in the suburban area, so the government granted legislation for the setting up of suburban areas in townships so situated. The assessments are about equal, but the rate is double for the urban part, so the urban part pays twice as much. Some people say that this should all be spent in the section where it is raised, but it goes into the general road fund.

Balanced against this, however, is the general school rate, which has been raised to help pay for the new school. This falls on the farmer as well as on the suburban dweller. Charity funds are levied on the whole township and expended almost wholly in the suburbs.

Referring to the agreement mentioned in connection with the sewer connections, Mr. Rye stated that the average frontage rate paid by the owner of a fifty foot lot in the city is $2.40. A ten per cent. carrying charge added to this, he felt, should be enough to ask the outside people, instead of $20 a year. Mr. Butler explained why the township had refused to sign the agreement, stating that it was because it would prejudice the case against the city regarding the trouble at the disposal plant.

Secession Proposed

The matter of secession from the Township was urged by Henry Woods. Mr. Rye said that the expenses would be higher, pointing to Lakefield and Norwood as examples. Mr. Wood didn't think this would be so, and stated that the farmers would oppose the secession. Mr. Rye doubted this, but Mr. Woods challenged him to run on this platform.

Difficulty in getting to the nomination meeting was brought up. It was suggested that it be held at night, but Mr. Rye pointed out that the legislation does not allow this. Mr. Bourne recalled that Mr. Rye, when reeve, had had the meeting moved from the Town Hall to May's School to benefit the suburbs, but still they couldn't get off.

Mr. Rye recalled that some years ago the council meetings had been held at night in May's School because some ratepayers couldn't attend in the daytime, but during all the meetings there were no ratepayers attended unless they wanted something. He suggested the formation of a ratepayers' association to meet between council meetings and have the business discussed and members delegated to attend the meetings would be a good thing. Now all the ratepayers have is the minutes which appear in the paper. He counselled against making it a sectional affair, so that, a few minutes later, John Barnes of Brownton and R. Butler of Claraday were appointed to call a meeting in the new school as a sort of formal opening, to which suburban and rural dwellers alike would be invited.

John Barnes also dealt with the troubles of the school trustees and council, and urged the formation of a ratepayers' association. He said that he alone had worked to get a petition signed against granting a strip of land along Lock Street to the Fair Board. He had been told that the signatures of all the ratepayers of the township would not avail as outside influence was too strong. It was not fair, he declared, that he should have to do such things alone and gain notoriety.

COUNTIES COUNCIL OPENS BUSINESS

Names Committees To Prepare For Session This Afternoon.

COBOURG, December 7. — The opening session of the Counties Council here was very brief and business-like. Warden Elliott was in the chair, and all the members of the Council were present.

The business was to appoint several committees to deal with various routine and other matters, and these committees are meeting at various times until the afternoon session on Wednesday. It is expected that some of them will be ready to report at that time.

From conversation with several of the Councillors, it appears that the matter of paving certain roads in various parts of the counties is to play an important part in the business of this session.

This Symphony may be considered as the work which did most to make Beethoven's name throughout Europe. Though it was to Beethoven's contemporaries an example of the "New Music" its strangeness did not fail to excite the strongest admiration and it has remained to this day one of the most popular symphonies in the world—perhaps, indeed, the most popular.

LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Officers Elected at Inaugural Meeting of Springville-Fairmount Society.

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 7.—The inaugural meeting of the Springville-Fairmount Literary Society took place on Friday evening, Dec. 2nd in the basement of Springville church. The meeting was a wonderful success, there being fifty or more persons present, all willing to do their part.

Rev. Mr. McConnachie acted as chairman of the evening's entertainment. In his opening remarks he spoke of the "Inferior and Superior Complex," and explained the result of each on individuals or an organization. Taking Springville for an example, he pictured it—unprogressive as it would be under the influence of the inferior complex and again as it could be under the Superior Complex when everyone overcame the inferior complex condition and tried to do their best, the result being that they gained in confidence and leadership, thus making a stronger society and a stronger church. He extended his good wishes for the welfare of the society and expressed his opinion that there is no reason why it should be anything but a success.

The next number on the programme was a reading "In the Usual Way," given by Mrs. Geo. Whitfield.

This was followed by the reading of the Resolutions of the Society by the chairman. They are as follows:

At a meeting of the Committee held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 23rd, the following resolutions were drawn up, subject to the approval of the Society.

1. That the first meeting of each month take the form of a social evening, the following committee to arrange games, decorations, etc:

Misses Connie McConnachie, Myrtle Hooten and Sybil Robertson and that the following committee have charge of the refreshments on each of these occasions.

Mrs. Geo. Whitfield, Mrs. S. S Staples.

Misses Annie Brown and Helen Whittington.

2. That the second meeting of each month be devoted to the study of some poet, Mr. McConnachie to have charge of this meeting, selecting people to give selections from the poet being studied and one person to give a Biography of that poet.

3. That the third meeting of the month be musical, Miss Daisy Murray to conduct a Glee Club which shall be responsible for the programme at this meeting.

4. That the fourth meeting of the month have for its main attraction a Debate, the following committee to select subject, debaters and judges—Mr. F. Elliot, Mr. F. McIndoo and Miss Helen Staples.

5. That the Literary Society get up a play as soon as possible, the following Committee to choose the play and select the Caste: Mrs. A. E. Sanderson, Miss J. Schaffer, Mr. Russel Earle.

6. That a Membership Fee of twenty-five cents be charged to join the society for the year, and that a silver collection be taken at the Social Evening of the month to meet the expenses of that evening.

A motion was moved by Miss C. McConnachie and seconded by Mrs. S. Staples that the resolutions be adopted as read.

Officers for the society were appointed as follows:

Moved by Mr. A. E. Sanderson and seconded by Miss D. Murray that Rev. A. H. McConnachie be appointed as Honorary President.

Moved by Miss H. Staples and seconded by Mrs. A. E. Sanderson that Miss C. McConnachie be President.

Moved by Mr. A. E. Sanderson and seconded by Mr. W. Brown that Miss Helen Staples be vice-President.

Moved by Miss S. Robertson, seconded by Mr. W. Brown, that Mr. B. Preston be appointed as Secretary.

Moved by Mr. A. E. Sanderson, seconded by Miss M. Brown, that Mr. W. Seymore be asst.-Secretary.

Moved by Miss A. Brown and seconded by Miss H. Whittington, that Mr. Harvey Johnston be appointed as Treasurer.

The appointment of officers was followed by a suitable short speech from each of the new officials in which they all assured their audience that

The next item on the programme was an Impromptu Debate:

Resolved that girls should have the priviledge of proposing.

Mr. Walter Bowles and Miss Connie McConnachie were called upon to support the Affirmative side of the debate, and Mr. B. Preston and Mrs. Geo. Whitfield to uphold the negative. Mrs. M. Johnston and Mr. A. E. Sanderson to act as Judges.

The debaters seemed to find difficulty in voicing their thoughts on such a delicate subject, much to the amusement of the audience, but each succeeded in giving several points in defence of their side.

While the judges were coming to their decision, Miss Daisy Murray led in Community Singing of "The Long, Long Trail," "Bells of St. Mary's" and "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

Mrs. M. Johnston cleverly announced the report of the Judges' decision as being—The men should have the privilege of proposing, "In the Usual Way."

A scene of Charades followed next on the programme in which the two syllable word "Sausage" was acted by a number of the young people. The Caste consisted of: Surgeon (Walter Brown); Physician (W. Seymore); Nurses (Helen Whittington and Annie Brown); Patient (Clarence Johnston); Madam Wiseman (Miss Helen Staples); Customer (Miss Daisy Murray); Worried Young Man (W. Seymore).

In the first scene a young boy was operated upon by Dr. Brown, having his one leg amputated below the knee by means of a large hand-saw. Anesthetic was administered by Dr. Seymore, but apparently was not needed, as the leg appeared to the audience to be a wooden one. Both nurses were present during the operation.

The second scene presented Madam Wiseman giving advice to a worried young man who was having diffiucilty in reaching the desired results in his attentions to a young lady. Madam Wiseman considered the problem and advised him to wear bright colours such as rose tie, purple socks, etc., as the young lady was very susceptible to colour. He must have on next meeting, affection in his heart, perfection in his person and confection in his pocket.

The third and final scene was a meat store. A customer brought her little pet dog with her while buying some meat, but her pet disappeared and all she had to take home was a string of sausages. She, however, did not seem to feel heart broken as she left the store singing, "Where, Oh!, Where Has My Little Dog Gone?"

Mrs. M. Johnston was the first to solve the Charades and was presented with a bag of candy.

Mr. J. Johnston and Mr. W. Whitfield were then called upon to choose sides for a Balloon Race. Five were chosen for each side and each were given a toy balloon. At a signal all were to run to the farther side of the basement, turn and blow their balloons until they burst, then run back to the starting place. The merriment of the on-lookers made it difficult for those participating in the race to do justice to the blowing, but finally, the race ended with Mrs. A. E. Sanderson securing the first prize.

While the refreshments were being prepared, the Roll of Membership was begun by the secretary, Mr. B. Preston. Twenty-seven of those present became members and had their names entered on the roll.

Mr. McConnachie announced the Poetical Evening of the Literary Society to take place Friday, December 9th.

Other amusements, such as darts, quoits, bagatelle, bounce the ball, spinning the plate, etc., were features of the evening's entertainment before and after the programme.

Refreshments of Boston beans and sandwiches were served, and the meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

BADMINTON CLUB HOLDS GOOD DANCE

Attendance Large at Social at Lakefield—A.Y.P.A. Meets.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 7.—The dance given on Tuesday evening under the great success in every respect, there were about one hundred and thirty present. Mrs. L. H. Graham, president of the Club received the guests assisted by Mesdames Ridpath, Elmsley and Leonard and Miss Ray. Excellent music was provided by the "Silver Slipper" orchestra, of Peterboro' and the evening was one of unexcelled pleasure. The age of youth was apparent, as the great majority of the crowd were the very young set. The Stewards were: Messrs. John Sabatino, Russell Payne, Frank Madill, Harry Stabler, J. A. Creaser, G. H. Loosemore, J. R. Charlton and K. A. Mackenzie.

Supper was served about 11.30 and was exceptionally fine, everything being both abundant and delicious.

Confederation Night.

Monday evening was Confederation Night on the A.Y.P.A. programme, but, owing to terribly icy walking, very few members appeared and the eleven who braved the rain and ice found it difficult to concentrate on the contests as a safe return home constituted a more vital problem. The committee had chosen as a slogan for the evening, "Know Your Canada" and a contest of Canadian cities, one of famous Canadians and one of Canadian provinces were taken up. The committee served light refreshments and the members departed at an early hour.

Norman Lemay has been elected the member for Peterboro' County to the Older Boys' Parliament, winning by a small majority over Kenneth Kemp Both boys are members of the Katchewanooka Square of Regent St. United-church. This will be Norman Lemay's second term.

Ladies of Apsley Hope To Raise Substantial Sum For Hospital.

APSLEY, Dec. 7.—The Ladies' Committee of the Red Cross here are busy preparing for a Bazaar in aid of the hospital, to be held in the Parish room on Tuesday next, December 6th, when it is hoped a substantial sum will be raised. Donations of articles for the bazaar will be most gratefully appreciated and may be sent to the President of the Ladies' Committee, Mrs. W. Lean, Apsley.

That the Red Cross hospital is justifying its establishment is proved by the following figures, taken from its first Annual Report just sent to Toronto headquarters covering the ten months of its existence. There have been eleven in-patients during that time. Four births have occurred. Total number of days occupied 132. Besides in-patients, thirty-three other cases have received treatment.

According to official figures of the meteorological station in Apsley, the total rainfall for the month of November was 7.4 inches, by far the highest month's rain ever recorded here. On Tuesday night a heavy thunderstorm broke over the district, but no damage has been reported.

A miscellaneous shower was given on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Zach Tucker in honour of her daughter, Charlotte whose marriage to Mr. William Earnshaw takes place on Thursday, December 8th. Major League Scouts Criticised in Report

FAR-REACHING SIGNING WOULD DESTROY SOURCE OF SUPPLY YOUNG PLAYERS FOR MINORS

President Sexton Tells National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs.

NEED PROTECTION.

Expresses Apprehension Over Major-Minor League Agreement Concerning Players.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Criticism was levelled at indiscriminate and far-reaching signing of young players by Major League clubs in the annual report yesterday of President Mike H. Sexton at the meeting of the National Association of professional baseball clubs.

Mr. Sexton declared present methods and activities of major league scouts has now exceeded anything ever thought of or foreseen by baseball people, and warned that unless protective measures were adopted the source of supply of young players for minor clubs will be destroyed.

Mr. Sexton's report occupied nearly all of the first day's session of the association. Besides expressing apprehension over numerous complaints by both parties to the major-minor league agreement concerning players, Mr. Sexton recommended definite population limits for various minor league clubs and called to the association's attention the rapidly increasing number of minor league franchises "that are going under the control of major clubs or higher class minor league clubs."

Of the latter condition, Mr. Sexton had no recommendation to make, asserting he was not fully convinced what the ultimate effect will be.

As the first seven-year period of operation of the prevailing agreement between the majors and minors reaches a close, the president said he had heard expressions of discontent not confined to a few.

"Before it leads to an open rupture I most earnestly urge both parties to confer in an effort to eliminate some objectionable features," he declared.

BRITISH DRIVER FOR AUTO RACES

Will Compete in International Speed Contests at Daytona Beach.

USE SPECIAL ENGINE

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—Captain Malcolm Campbell, noted English automobile driver, the Daily Mail says, will compete in the international speed contests at Daytona Beach, Florida, in February. He will use an engine of the type which won the Schneider Seaplane Trophy for England at Venice last September, modified so that it will fit a motor car chassis. The construction of the engine is the secret of the Air Minstry, which, however, has given Campbell permission to use it at Daytona.

TORONTO PLAYS SCORELESS GAME

Senators and Leafs Battle For 70 Minutes in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Toronto Maple Leafs and Ottawa Senators played through 70 minutes of hockey to a no score tie in a National Hockey League fixture before 3,500 fans here last night. Only at far distant moments throughout the game did play by either side reach major league calibre. Connie Smythe had a well-organized combination machine in his Leaf front rank, but after the opening ten minutes the world's champion Senators appeared to have solved their system and back-checked them into ineffectiveness.

The champions confined their goalward thrusts mainly to solo rushes that made but little headway against the heavy Toronto rearguard. Bailey, Day and Keeling looked best for the visitors, while Nighbor and Clancy stood out in the ranks of the Senators.

Leafs Press at Start

The visitors' front line staged a steady attack in the first half of the opening period, and Carson and his wings kept the local defence busy keeping them out. Finally Clancy relieved the pressure, and Roach was kept on the alert before the continuous attack was turned back. Gradually the locals devised a system whereby the visitors' combination attack was broken up at centre ice. Cox rocked Connell after a wide pass from Carson, and then Kilrea and Keeling provided dangerous one-man attacks. Towards the end the Senators took command, and the Leafs were fully extended to keep their citadel from falling.

The locals maintained the attack after the second period commenced, and Roach was again busy for a while. The Leafs failed to make use of two great chances when Bailey and Cox shot wide in succession after penetrating close in on Connell. Kilrea and Smith forced Roach to make brilliant saves, and then, at the other end, Bailey flipped the rubbed wide when Connell was lying on the ice. As the end of the period approached the Leafs had the better of the play, but Connell turned aside all their shots.

SPORT BITS

The Leafs need this week's points badly if they are to stay up near the leaders. Thursday night they take on the fast Canadian aggregation in the Montreal Forum. Saturday evening they are back home with the Ottawa Senators coming right back again.

The Mickey Ion-"Happy" Day incident of last Saturday night is far from settled. The Maple Leaf Hockey club officals are taking up the matter up with President Calder of the National Hockey League this week.

The semi-pro. baseball bug is still in the air even if this is the winter time and hockey is in the forefront. Freddy Hamilton, Grant Edwards and others of the Oslers are not idle by any means and before spring a real Ontario semi-pro baseball circuit may be in operation.

There are a lot of good professional baseball players now performing in hockey circles and they would be keen to have the opportunity to keep active in the summer time.

"Mickey" Roach Herbie Mitchell, "Roter" Roth, Norman Himes, "Babe" Seibert, Lionel Conacher and any number of others are available and with so many young players having turned to pro. hockey this winter the field is enlarged.

CLOTHING AGENT HAS DISAPPEARED

PONTYPOOL, Dec. 7.—Several Pontypool citizen have had the misfortune to lose a few dollars recently. A man claiming to be an agent for tailor made clothes measured several for clothes and received deposits on the same and has not been heard of since. No trace can be found of any such firm as he represented.

THE din and clash of arms was more to the liking of Richard Coeur-de-Lion than the pomp and ceremony of the Royal Court, consequently we find him leaving affairs of state in the hands of his ministers and embarking on the third crusade to the Holy Land. His chief exploits were the capture of Acre and Ascalon and the defeat of Saladin near Arsuf and again at Jaffa. Richard was a warrior rather than a statesman and owes his place in history to his reputation for great personal courage and military skill.

MAN ARRESTED AFTER BIG FIRE

EIGHT BUILDINGS BURNED.

HULL, Que., Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press)— Arrested in connection with the fire which swept the village of Paugan Falls yesterday with estimated damage of 25,000, Joseph Rovg was brought to Hull jail last night. The charge on which he was taken into custody was not made known. The fire broke out in one of the bedrooms of the Chatillon boarding house and swept through eight buildings before it could be halted. Two boarding houses, two stores, a laundry, and three residences were destroyed and more than a hundred persons were left homeless. Fifty employees of the construction company building the dam on the Gatineau river adjoining the village lost all their belongings in boarding houses.

Despite the fire, the village people turned out in full force to attend a dance last night. Those who lost their clothing in the fire were able to attend in borrowed plumage.

ASSOCIATION ASKS BETTER SERVICE

Would Have Marine Railway Speeded Up and Canal Finished.

At the recent executive meeting of the Trent Waterways Association, held in Orillia, the following resolutions were unanimously passed, dealing with matters pertaining to the Trent Waterways and connecting waters:

"Whereas, the operation of the marine railways in the Severn Division of the Trent Waterway is now a tedious process and the passage of boats over the heights of land is very much slower than that to which Trent Waterway boat owners have been accustomed.

"Resolved, that the Trent Waterway Development Association request the Department of Railways and Canals to arrange, for the coming season, the speeding-up of the operation of the two above mentioned marine railways to meet the requirements of the moment and not beyond the point of safety.

"Whereas, substantial increases to Government revenue have lately been noted in several departments,

"And whereas, it is now obvious to the Canadian public that the finances of the Dominions are much improved, upon which the Government is to be congratulated,

"Resolved, that the Trent Waterway Development Association endorse the following resolution sponsored by the Orillia Board of Trade:

"That in view of the improved financial condition of the Dominion of Canada, and the growing importance of the waterway as a tourist attraction, and to prepare the system for future commercial uses, the Federal Government is hereby petitioned by the Trent Municipalities and Association to proceed at once with the completion of the Trent Canal. Copy of this resolution to be forwarded to the Premier of Canada, Honorable Minister of Railways and Canals, and to interested Trent representatives in the Federal Government.

"Whereas, the tourist traffic to Ontario has now been developed to a point where the revenue to Ontario people and Government quite exceeds the earlier, most sanguine expectations,

"And whereas, the fishing in Ontario is an added attraction, much appreciated by tourists,

"Resolved, that the Trent Waterway Development Association petition the Department of Game and Fisheries to:

(1) Arrange for the placement of large supplies of game fish spawn in suitable sections of the Trent System,

(2) Consider ways and means of reducing or entirely doing away with such fish as carp and suckers, now to be found in the Trent Waterway and tributary waterways, same being destroyers of game fish.

"Whereas, the number of accidents, fires, etc., in connection with the operation of smaller craft this year have noticeably increased,

"Resolved, that the Trent Waterway Development Association petition the Department of Marine and Fisheries to inspect and license every Canadian craft propelled by power and require their carrying sufficient life-saving apparatus to ensure the safety of persons carried.

MARLBOROS WIN IN S.P.A. GAME

Dukes Qualify For Finals By Beating Varsity.

TORONTO, Dec. 7. Bombarding the Varsity citadel in a determined last period rally which netted two goals, Marlboros defeated the Blue and White last night at the Arena by 4 to 2 and thereby qualified to meet Newmarket in the S.P.A. junior final next Friday night. Unexpected strength displayed by the Blue team held the Dukes in check for forty minutes, but in the final dash they began to wilt under the terrific pace and, weakened by the loss of Bean, their lanky defence man, who was injured mid-way in the second period, they were unable to hold the Marlboro sharpshooters at bay. Led by the diminutive "Shrimp" McPherson and hard shooting Charlie Conacher, the Dukes presesd Varsiety back into their own territory and carved out a clean-cut victory in the last twenty minutes.

But the winners did not have everything their own way. In the first thirty minutes of play the Dukes found themselves outskated by the Queen's Parkers and their combination play sadly disorganized by the almost uncanny poke checking of the opposing forwards. The Varsity sticks licked into the middle of the Duke's combination thrusts and picked out the puck with disconcerting accuracy. Their poke checking tactics enabled Beal, Smith and Bean to break ahead of the Dukes' front line and their speed was a revelation. In the early stages they earned more than two goals, but overanxiousness and steady work by Goaler Baxter broke up dangerous attacks time after time.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK MC COY

"The Fast Way to Health"

©1926 MC COY, HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

A UNIQUE HEALTH SERVICE

Several years ago when I began writing for publication, the main object I had in mind was to distribute knowledge which had come to me through years of private practise. My readers have probably noticed that I seldom quote any other author, but choose to write my articles from my own personal experiences with patients.

The practical information I give I attempt to present in a simple manner so it may be understood by anyone. The language I use is much the same as I would use if you consulted me in my private practise, and my only desire is to help you in every way to understand the science of health.

In place of consulting with only a few each day, I am now giving these messages to several million people on the North American Continent.

Those of you who have corresponded with me may wonder how I can answer so many thousands of letters which I receive, and perhaps you will be interested in knowing just how I carry on such an extensive correspondence. The simple fact is that I have succeeded in giving health advice on a quantitative basis.

Because of understanding different problems which confront the health seeker, I have prepared special articles on thousands of subjects regarding the cause and cure of different diseases, so when you write to me, in addition to my necessarily short personal reply, I can enclose thousands of words of advice on the subject in which you are interested. These special treatises on different diseases have been prepared in advance so you receive an answer to your letter within a few days.

The greatest problem is that correspondents insist on asking me to diagnose their disorders which, of course, I cannot do by correspondence. No attempt is made in this department to do the work which is naturally that of your family physician. If you have been properly diagnosed and do know the name of the disorder from which you are suffering, I am always glad to send you my opinion about the best methods of treatment.

Always remember that the advice I send you is only my own opinion based upon my own study and my experience with thousands of patients in a lifetime of practice. Do not expect me to criticize the opinions of other doctors, or to attack any method of treatment which I do not believe in advocating. I am too busy giving you my advice to use the space in this column or in my correspondence with you in criticizing or condemning the advice of other physicians.

You can help me a good deal and also help yourself and the cause of health education in which I am interested, if you will make your letters short and to the point, trying to keep them to only one or two hundred words.

Many who desire a personal reply neglect to give their address, and are disappointed in not receiving a reply owing to the fact that there is such a limited space for answering questions. This is a special service which I am giving you in co-operation with the Examiner, and we have only the sincerest desire to help you in solving your health problems.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. E. J. writes: "I am going to be a mother. What should I eat or drink so that I may nurse my baby and have plenty of milk?"

Answer: Keep on a well-balanced diet before your baby is born and then afterwards if your milk is not sufficient, increase the amount of liquids you use, or drink milk part of the day, both for its nourishing qualties and because of the additional liquid.

Question: Mrs. M. C. R. writes: "You always mention boiling vegetables. I always understood that boiling takes out all the nourishment, whereas steaming keeps the nourishment in them. Please give me your opinion.

Answer: Steaming is better than boiling, and I consider cooking in the new aluminum ware the best method of steaming vegetables, as they are really cooked in their own juices, and very little of the organic salts and flavoring is lost.

Question: J. K. asks: "What causes the heart to murmur, and is a murmuring heart curable? Is it a dangerous defect?"

Answer: Most heart murmurs are curable, and are usually caused by some kind of pressure against the heart due to an overloaded stomach or too much stomach or intestinal gas. I have examined many patients who were more than eighty years of age who have had heart murmurs since early life. If these murmurs are only evidenced in a mild form they are not particularly dangerous.

Question: M. M. B. writes: "When I sit long I have a dull pain in the lower part of my back, feels like the end of spine. What causes this?"

Answer: You should first have your spine examined to see if there is any bone disease, such as tuberculosis or arthritis. Then, if you will write me again I will be glad to give you my opinion about the best method of treatment.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

I HAVE SPOKEN.

Bronze arms across a copper chest,
A statue, yet a living man,
He gives the council-fire his best,
Whether a challenge or a plan.
Born swift of thought and slow of speech,
When once his silence he has broken,
He speaks to all, yet speaks to each,
And ends the matter, "I have spoken."

But men who call themselves more wise,
Because God chanced to make them white,
Argue and answer and advise,
Debate and shout, and even write.
Yet, if it is the truth we tell,
Truth needs no other sign or token,
Let us speak wisely, and speak well,
Then speak no further, having spoken.

For who can add more truth to truth,
When once the sword of speech he girds?
Yet old men argue, yes, and youth
Obscure the truth with useless words.
Will repetition make steel steel,
Or gold more golden, oak more oaken?
Great clouds of words will but conceal
The truth's high mountains. I have spoken.

Mickey Murray Signs With Providence Reds

GALT, Dec. 7.—Few senior amateur teams have been harder hit by professional hockey than Galt Terriers. The announcement that Mickey Murray, goal tender, after a week's trial had been signed by the Providence team of the Canadian-American League, makes the sixth of Galt's crack "Big Six" team of 1924-1925, now in pro. company, and of the regulars of that team, Clare Hoffman and Alec Watts are the only two remaining in amateur company.

The first break came when Norman Himes and Clarence Boucher went to the New York Americans. Then Lawrence Aurie, now of Detroit, jumped to London, and Albert Gauthier to the Canadiens. George Himes a couple of weeks ago signed with Niagara Falls, and Jack Duncan is now threatening to make the jump to Hamilton.

Not only has the loss of these players killed senior hockey here, but has also been a blow at baseball, since five of the departed players also engage in the summer pastime.

While the intermediate hockey situation here is still doubtful, Galt is sure to have a strong junior team, and a fresh start will be made at building up a senior team for the future.

AT THE CAPITOL.

THRILLING SEA DRAMA

"The Blood Ship", Columbia Pictures' great sea special, which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow for a three day run, revives the romance of the bygone days of clipper ships, when these speedy vessels carried the flag of the United States merchant marine to the four corners of the world—and the captain was monarch of his domain.

Adapted from Norman Springer's novel of the same name, "The Blood Ship" scenes are laid along the water-front of San Francisco in the early '80's, in a sailors' lodging house run by "The Knitting Swede" (a real character who lived in San Francisco in those days), and on board the old clipper ship "The Golden Bough."

To give the required realism in setting, the clipper ship "Bohemia" was rented by Columbia Pictures, rechristened "The Golden Bough".

"The Bohemia" is a real clipper ship, having been built in 1875, at Bath, Me., by the firm of Houghton Brothers & Co. For 20 years she was engaged in intercoastal freighting between Atlantic and Pacific coast ports, and later became a carrier for the Alaska Packers Association. She has had a notable career on the seas, and is a good example of the speedy and handsome clippers that helped to make the clipper ship era the romantic period it was.

"The Blood Ship" was produced by Columbia Pictures at a cost of a quarter million dollars, and was directed by George B. Seitz. The cast is headed by Hobart Bosworth, who plays the role of James Newman. Jacqueline Logan is cast as the heroine, Mary; Richard Arlen (courtesy Paramount) is the juvenile lead and Mary's sweetheart. The supporting players include Walter James, Fred Kohler, James Bradbury, Sr., Arthur Rankin, Syd Crossley, Frank Hemphill, Chappel Dossett and Blue Washington.

AT THE REGENT.

"MOTHER."

An outstanding feature of "Mother," FBO's super production which will be shown for the last times today and to-night at the Regent Theatre, is true to type-casting of the principals.

Belle Bennett as Mary Ellis, the mother in the picture, is marvelous both as to dramatic ability and type. Her portrayal is one that will make every real mother proud, it is so human. There is no whining, no tears, and you see the smile come at a time when you know the heart is breaking—and that is the way with mothers. Crawford Kent is a typical head of a family in moderate circumstances. William Bakewell, a typical American boy in his teens, headstrong, willful but never bad, just wanting the things that others have and never stopping to consider the sacrifice his parents have to make to yield to him. Joyce Coad is an adorable "kid" sister, and the supporting cast is superb.

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Pic turization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoir. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. But presently she rejoins Fabien, and they live in dreamlike splendor. Creditors besiege them. Lescaut suggests gambling to Fabien; shows him card tricks.

"Where did you ever get such an agile wrist?" inquired Lescaut with admiration.

"You forget that for years I was a censer swinger in the church."

Fabien's amazing adaptability in handling the cards absolutely sold him on the possibilities of the game. For hours he practiced under Lescaut's tutelage, learning all the fine points and improving upon many of them. He acquired a remarkable facility in slight of hand tricks. With the help of a pair of long lace cuff ruffles he learned to shuffle and store certain cards away for future use with such adroitness that the keenest observer could detect nothing out of order.

Within a few days Lescaut introduced Fabien to various clubs. It was vital that money in large quantities should be his, therefore Fabien cast his scruples to the winds and very soon piled up a real fortune.

He discovered that one could love money without being a miser. He loved it only because it had the power to make Manon happy. They were also able to continue their extravagant mode of living and devote the hours to love and pleasure without fear of being turned out on the streets.

Love is more satisfying than fame or wealth, but it cannot exist without certain artificial stimulation that comes from contact with things money can buy and the reflected glory that follows in the wake of fame.

Fabien was a sensitive lover. It humiliated him to resort to vulgar means of filling his purse, but love had worked such a change in his nature that he would have broken every Commandment in order to keep Manon with him and give her all her heart desired. Love had carried him far away from the road that lead to a celibate's life at St. Sulpice; also, it had taken Manon away from a peaceful convent existence even before she had entered the sacred walls. Their love had made them both happy and miserable. It had taught them the agonies of separation, the gnawing anguish of doubt, the pain of poverty and the glorious contentment that comes with wealth and true love. It had gone so far as to turn Fabien into a cheat, but he had no regrets because all that he did was for Manon. He loved her! That was reason enough, at least for the time being.

Later, Fabien was to find that when a man loves there is no end to serious problems that arise to mock his happiness.

CHAPTER XVII.

A passion for gambling surged through Paris. The illustrious men and women of the day frequently gathered in the salons of the Duc de Richelieu to try their skill and see what fickle fortune could do for them before the night was over.

The Duc's magnificent apartment was also a favorite meeting place for the nobility, and on one particular night His Majesty King Louis XV came in company with Comte De Ravoir. He was in search of diversion and wore a mysterious little black eye mask to prevent recognition.

However, the disguise did not deceive the Duc de Richelieu, and when he saw the two distinguished gentlemen enter his salon he greeted them in a friendly fashion, omitting the courtly bow that was really the King's due.

"That is right," observed His Majesty, "I wish to remain incognito. Tell no one I am here."

"It is a command!" replied the Duc gravely.

His Majesty leisurely surveyed the people in the room before turning to the Comte with a shrug of annoyance. "The women are disappointing—perhaps the cards will divert us. Who is your keenest player?" The King prided himself on being very shrewd with the cards—and he was.

"A gentleman who is not yet here," replied the Duc, "Monsieur le Chevalier Des Grieux—he has recently made a fortune at our tables."

The Comte flushed hotly at mention of Fabien's name and did not share the King's interest. He had not seen Fabien since that night at Frascati's when the still unavenged insult was made in the presence of a room full of people. Nevertheless, the Comte knew that Manon had deserted him for the fiery young man, and he was determined to revenge himself in some way that would cause them both great anguish.

"I shall look forward to playing with your wizard—and I shall win! Bring him to me for a game as soon as he arrives." The King chuckled in pleasant anticipation.

"You need not wait long, your Majesty," whispered the Duc, "for there he is just coming downstairs with his lady, Manon Lescaut."

The King turned slowly, then stopped—spellbound—as his masked eyes rested upon Manon. Never had she looked more gorgeously sweet and desirable. Fabien's wealth had enabled him to buy the most priceless things Paris offered, and the mere fact that Manon wore them made their beauty more alluring. Love had also worked its miracle of perfection with her figure, and the expression on her face was a mixture of adorable innocent charm and irresistible seductiveness.

His Majesty noticed that her ornaments were as handsome as any of the crown jewels, also that she wore them like a Queen.

Through the slits of the small black mask Louis feasted his eyes on Manon's fascinating beauty. He was so intrigued that not for a moment did he permit the figure of her escort to intrude on his vision.

"A little Venus!" exclaimed the King, grasping Richelieu's arm. "Present her to me immediately."

As the Duc de Richelieu went off on his mission the King was attracted by the mention of Manon's name. Inclining his head without turning around, he listened intently to a conversation going on at a nearby table.

"So you think you can copy the pretty ways of Manon—don't, it makes you ridiculous," said a man to Nana.

"You old blockhead," she snapped back, "Manon has the best technique in Paris! See how it works with Fabien—he simply loads her with diamonds." Nana was dressed in the best possible imitation she could manage, to make herself look like Manon; she also assumed an innocent air and amused everyone by adopting a demure, sweet tone of voice.

"I see that he loads her with jewels—and she looks beautiful in them—but Nana, if I had the Chevalier's genius for cards I could buy the crown jewels."

The King was amused at hearing this reference to the royal jewel box. However, his interest in the gossip waned and he impatiently awaited the arrival of Manon. He did not even answer when the Comte spoke—he was devising a plan that would make Manon his, just as surely as he was the King of France. It was a cruel ruse he had in mind.

The things men do when they love, or think they do, are not worth honorable mention. That time old saying, "All is fair in love and war," will ever be used as an excuse for many digressions, and King Louis XV did not prove an exception to the rule.

Fabien and Manon were the center of an eager group, who greeted them as soon as they came down the stairs. He was as greatly admired by the women as she was by the men.

On that particular night Fabien was attired in lustrous white satin. His coat buttons, buckles and fob were resplendent with diamonds. It was perhaps significant that the exquisite lace on his cuffs was a little fuller and longer than usual. Contact with the world plus his recent prosperity gave him an air of assurance that was most attractive. All of this, coupled with his natural gentlemanly manner and courteous attentiveness to Manon made him a paragon of all that was expected of a man—at least from the feminine viewpoint.

The Duc de Richelieu intruded on the little group and said, "I have been ordered to present you to a certain gentleman."

WORST BLIZZARD OF YEARS PASSES

Prairies Now in Grip of Spell of Below Zero Weather.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.) — The Prairie Provinces of Western Canada were slowly recovering to-day from one of the worst blizzard experienced in a number of years, but extreme sub zero weather had replaced the fury of the storm king. At least one victim is known to have been claimed by the blizzard, which centred upon Alberta, placing a paralyzing grip on the western and southern regions of the province.

Blizzards of milder proportions were also reported from widely separated parts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Nearly one-third of Australia's 6,600,000 population lives in the cities of Sydney and Melbourne.

The custom of buying and selling slaves is still practiced in Abyssinia, where hundreds of human beings are sold each week on the auction block.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XXV — by Nicholas Afonsky

Andree's trip in search of the North Pole was one of the most dramatic of all journeys by air. Salomon Auguste Andree was born in Sweden in 1854. He studied engineering, and then entered the government embiay. In 1892 he was given leave to undertake scientific aerial navigation.

In the summer of 1893 he made his first balloon ascension, and later that year was carried out to sea in a balloon. He tried to reach the coast of Finland, but his balloon lost its buoyancy, and, though he threw out all ballast, he finally fell into the sea near a small island.

He scrambled ashore, and lay there all night, with a sprained leg, unable to attract attention. In the morning, cold and suffering from his hurts, he managed to wave his clothes about until a boatman saw him and came to his rescue. He was none the worse for his exciting experience.

Andree, tremendously interested in the possibilities of long balloon flights, finally went with his pet scheme to the Academy of Science of Sweden. That was a flight to the North Pole by balloon. The Academy sponsored the plan, and money was raised by national subscriptions.

LADIES ARRANGE FOR BASKETBALL

Decide To Divide League Into Two Four-Team Sections.

A meeting of the Ladies' Basketball Executive was held last evening at 9.30 at the Y.W.C.A. Representatives from the following teams were present: Miss Dorothy Mortimer, C.G.E.; Miss Sybil Ecobichon, 'Y' Elementary; Miss Gertie Gimblett, 'Y' Seniors; Mr. Fur, Brinton Carpet team; Mr. C. Stewart, De Laval.

It was moved by Miss D. Mortimer that the eight teams be formed into two leagues, forming a senior league for the teams who have played for a number of years and an intermediate league for the newer teams. The senior league would be composed of the C.G.E., De Laval, Woollens and 'Y' Seniors. Intermediate league: Westclox, Normal, 'Y' Elementafy and Brintons. This was seconded by Mr. Fur and carried. The league has three cups. Two of these would be for the first and second teams in the senior league and the third for the winner of the intermediate league. A game would be arranged at the end of the season between the winning teams of each league, but this would not affect the standing of either team.

It was also suggested that the winning teams be presented with a small pin for each girl. This was agreed to.

Mr. C. Stewart moved that a new basketball be bought for the league games, seconded by Miss S. Ecoblehon and carried.

It was decided to continue the regulations of previous years in regard to players, that is, that any girl playing for a team must be employed by the firm. The coaches of the senior teams will be asked to help referee the games played by the intermediate teams and neutral referees will be procured to take charge of the senior games. The intermediate games will be played in the first part of the evening, followed by the senior games. A silver collection will be taken up.

The entry fee of $2 remains the same as previous years, and must be handed in to the secretary before the league games commence.

Eight players will be allowed for each team. If at any time a team wanted to put on a new girl because of one of their players leaving town or becoming ill, an executive meeting would be called and it would be decided by them if this would be in order. Certificates for players are being issued and must be turned in the first of the year.

It was also suggested that a banquet be held at the end of the season for the winning teams and present cups.

An all-star team will be picked before the games are over to represent Peterborough in one or two out of town games. This was moved by Miss C. Littlefield, seconded by Miss Ecobichon. Carried. These players will be picked by a committee of referees and coaches and everyone will have a chance to be on this team, so it is up to the girls.

League games will commence on January 6th.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up-Nights

The embarrassing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness often brings "discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS, which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS bring you quick and certain comfort you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

SMILE THE WHILE YOU TRAVEL.

The "Vancouver Express" is by no means a joke, but you cannot help smiling when its porters hand your baggage down because the smile has become a habit. It may be that the smile is infectious and you caught it from the porter when he showed you to your berth, but one thing certain is that having travelled on the "Vancouver Express" nothing has happened to take the smile away. The service, the cuisine, the equipment, the road-bed, the gentle-handling of this million-dollar train have all contributed to your happiness—that is if you have acquired the habit of travelling Canadian Pacific between Toronto and Vancouver.

The "Vancouver Express," the continents standard of Railway efficiency, leaves Union Station at 9.00 p.m. to-night and every night of the week.

For rates, reservations, tickets, etc., consult J. Skinner, C.P.A., 343 George street, or any Canadian Pacific ticket agent. 7-23.

MRS. JOHN FOSTER.

After an illness of nearly three years due to a stroke, Nancy Morden, aged 70 years, wife of John Foster, 62 Bayfield St., passed away at the Royal Victoria Hospital on Saturday, November 26, where she had been taken only two days previous.

Mrs. Foster was born at Morden's Creek near Owen Sound, in 1856, and has lived in Peterboro and Barrie, having come to Barrie with her husband thirty years ago. The deceased was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where she attended several ladies' organizations in her younger days and was also a member of the W. C. T. U. and the Lady Forresters. Mrs. Foster was well known and well liked in Barrie and her kind disposition had won for her many friends who all received the news of her death with deepest regrets. Besides her husband deceased leaves one brother in Idaho U. S. A.

The funeral was held from the funeral chapel of G. G. Smith & Co. on Monday, Nov. 28th, to Barrie Union Cemetery. The service was attended by many friends and acquaintances and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, all evidence of the high esteem in which Mrs. Foster was held by all with whom she come in contact. To Mr. Foster a man well on in his seventies, who is left alone by the death of his beloved wife, the deepest sympathy is extended. 'Northern Advance' Barrie.

SUPPER MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Knox Celebration Brought To Close By Social Event.

MANY ATTEND.

The supper which took place last evening at Knox United Church brought to a triumphant close the program of special services and events connected with the celebration of the seventeenth anniversary of the founding of that church.

The crowd commenced to gather very early and quickly filled and over flowed the lecture hall, where the repast was served. Perhaps the busiest man in the building for some time was Mr. H. McCannan, who acted as doorkeeper to the dining hall. With promises of what was in store for them, he kept the anticipations of those in line at fever height. When they finally sat down their expectations were certainly more than gratified.

The three long tables looked very pretty with decorations of pink and white carnations and bowls of rosy apples. They fairly groaned under the weight of all the good things they carried. On them were plates of fowl, hot mashed potatoes which were really hot, rich brown gravy, mashed turnips, salads of all kinds, pickles, bread and butter, pies to suit every taste, cakes of every variety, and tea and coffee. The excellent management of all was under the direction of Mrs. J. Foster. The ladies in charge of the tables were Mrs. T. Johnston, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Hamlin, Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. M. Gilles and Mrs. J. J. Pollock.

During the supper hour, a sale of fancy and useful articles, also homemade candy, was in progress in the church parlors. In charge of the sale of aprons and towels were Mrs. R. J. Martin and Mrs. S. Watson. Those in charge of the sale of fancy work and handkerchiefs were Mrs. R. G. Clifford, Mrs. H. Baptie, and Mrs. S. Gray; while Miss Kathleen McDonald and Miss Vera Foster looked after the sale of candy.

The Sunday School orchestra, led by Mr. Nichols, played in the church at intervals between the serving of supper and the commencement of the evening's program, and was much appreciated by those waiting.

Promptly at eight o'clock the program of music and entertainment began. Rev. Mr. McDonald of Knox Church acted as chairman. Mr. McDonald, in his opening remarks, extended a hearty welcome to all visitors present. He sounded his grateful appreciation for the work of all church officials who helped make the anniversary so successful, also for the wonderful work of the ladies in connection with the supper.

The program was one of exceptional merit. It commenced with the orchestra playing selections from "Pinafore." Then followed instrumental numbers by the Misses Muriel Wilson and Mildred Hetherington; readings by little Miss Phyllis Moore and Miss John; vocal solos by Miss Isobel Blackburn and Mr. Humpage, and a violin solo by Mr. Robertson. The number of encores called gave evidence of the enjoyment of the audience. In conclusion, Mr. McCannan, K. Dinoon and Arthur Pitchford voiced the appreciation of those present for the excellent program rendered and for the work the ladies had rendered in making the evening such a great success.

MRS. C. E. SMITH IS RE-ELECTED

Again Heads George Street Ladies' Aid—Reports Presented.

SALE GREAT SUCCESS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of George Street United Church met in the board room of the new Sunday School Building on Tuesday afternoon with an attendance of about seventy members.

The President, Mrs. C. E. Smith, presided. After the secretary's and treasurer's reports had been received and adopted, Miss Mary Elliot, corresponding secretary, read a number of letters of thanks from members who had been sent plants and flowers, during their illness.

Reports by the convenors of committees were given by Mrs. J. Stubbs, Mrs. H. Foote, Mrs. B. Shortly, Mrs. J. Spencer, and Miss Morrow.

The report of convenors of the different committees was then received, Miss Shaw reported for the Apron Booth; Mrs. Hetherington, Whitewear; Mrs. Bartlett, Novelty; Mrs. Yelland, Flowers; Mrs. J. Stubbs, Home Cooking; Mrs. Kelly, Tea Room; Mrs. J. Spencer, Supper Room; Miss Mary Elliot, Christmas Tree.

Each of these convenors thanked all who had assisted them in any way in their work.

Mrs. H. T. Foote, the general convenor, then gave a very gratifying financial report of the complete returns from the Christmas Fair and Fowl Supper, reporting a balance of $,020.75. This was very enthusiastically received.

Resolutions were passed regarding sending out plants and flowers to older members of the congregation and sending basket of Christmas Cheer, as in former years.

A resolution was passed authorizing the treasurer to forward a cheque for $1,200.00 to the Board, to be applied toward the Building Fund.

Miss Addie Batten favored the audience with a beautiful solo, accompanied by Miss Pearl Carruthers.

Before vacating the chair for the election of officers, Mrs. Smith made a few remarks, thanking the ladies for their assistance and co-operation during the past year.

Rev. T. E. Todd then took charge of the election of officers for the year 1928; Mrs. J. Hales and Mrs. J. Spencer acting as scrutineers.

Mr. Todd spoke of the excellent work being done by the Ladies' Aid of George Street United Church, not only in a financial way but also in cementing together the ladies of the congregation in a closer bond of fellowship.

The following officers were then elected: President, Mrs. C. E. Smith (acclamation); 1st Vice-President, Mrs. P. Hetherington; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. H. T. Foote; Recording Secretary, Mrs. G. C. Staples (acclamation); Treasurer, Mrs. S. Oke (acclamation); Corresponding Secretary, Miss Mary Elliot (acclamation); Pianist, Mrs. P. Hagerman.

The newly-elected officers were called on to make short speeches, and after the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the meeting was dismissed with the Mizpah Benediction.

GOSPEL HALL.

Great pictures are shown at the Gospel Hall every night at seven o'clock. The hall was filled again last night. At eight o'clock Evangelist Hynd gave a most searching message on "The Great White Throne," Rev. 20. He said it was great because great multitudes would be there and a great Judge also, even the Lord Jesus Christ, and a great sentence would be passed on all present, giving a great punishment. None of the saved will appear at the great white throne, for Scripture declared "there is no judgment for the saint." The address was a very able presentation of a wonderful revelation concerning what is to come for all who reject God's offer of mercy now. The meetings continue every night.

Beg Your Pardon.

The Paragon orchestra which played at the Cricket Club dance on Friday night was six pieces instead of five as reported.

In the report handed The Examiner of the meeting on Monday evening of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, it was stated in error that Mrs. K. S. Wightman, who gave the address on "Citizenship," was president of the Local Council of Women, also that the report of the secretary was given by Mrs. N. J. Hales. The secretary of this association is Mrs. L. C. Deyell.

LOUIS FRY IS APPOINTED HEAD OF HOUSE OF REFUGE

Twenty-four Applications For Superintendent Considered By Council.

OLD PEOPLE CONTENT.

Board Recommends Several Changes in Management of House.

Louis Fry, acting superintendent of the House of Refuge, was made the choice yesterday of the majority of the County Council. Mr. Fry was recommended to the Council by Warden J. E Middleton and Reeve James Hawthorne, chairman of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge.

Twenty-four application were received by the County Clerk for the vacant position, and the members of the Council, after hearing all the applications read and having a full discussion on the qualifications of several of the applicants, decided to make the appointment by ballot. Mr. Fry on the first ballot received ten votes out of a possible 18.

Reeve Hawthorne said, "Mr. Fry is giving good satisfaction and the old people are well satisfied and content. There is an entirely different atmosphere around the house since Mr. Fry took it over, so I can honestly recommend him."

Warden Middleton expressed the same views as Mr. Hawthorne. Reeve Scott of Asphodel, the third member on the board, could not agree with the other two and although he considered Mr. Fry a fine man, he thought that Mr and Mrs. Henry Thistlewaite should be given the appointment as they were county ratepayers and well qualified for the position. He read recommendations in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Thistlewaite from the Clerk of Norwood, Rev. R. J. Stillman of Norwood, ex-Warden W. T. Buck and G. A. Brethen, ex-M.P.

Reeve Lillico of North Monaghan said he had known Mr. and Mrs. Fry for many years. Mr. Fry was for 26 years his neighbor and he considered that he was a splendid man for the position as he had good common sense a thing that was essential in dealing with old people.

Reeve Montgomery of Norwood said that Mr. Thistlewaite was a splendid type of man and good citizen.

Reeve Smithson of Otonabee said that the two applicants from Otonabee were good men and capable of looking after the House of Refuge. The result of the vote: Fry 10, Thistlewaite 4, Buchanan 1, Kimble 2, and McLaughlin 1.

Change Recommended

The chairman of the Board of Management submitted an interim report in which the Board which has been making a thorough study of conditions at the Home, made several recommendations that will be submitted to the January Council. They asked the Council to consider the advisability of appointing two members to the Board of Management for a term of five years and that the third member will be the Warden who, by virtue of his office, will be the chairman. The ordinary management will be vested in the Board which will be responsible to the Council. It was also suggested that care be taken in the future of committing feeble-minded persons to the House of Refuge, especially young men and young women.

The committee also discussed a communication from the County of Carleton, which asked that the government be asked to change the act so as not to allow those who are discharged from an Ontario hospital being sent to the House of Refuge in the case their friends and relatives would not have them. Reeve Hawthorne said that a woman had been sent from an Ontario hospital this week to the House of Refuge. It was also suggested that no woman under 50 years of age be admitted to the House.

J. B. Nelson, district agricultural representative, addressed the Council and told of the work in his department. During the summer the agricultural offices were moved from Norwood to Peterborough and the result of the change has been very favorable, as a greater amount of business has been done. Then Mr. McRae, former representative in this county was moved further east. Mr. Nelson was of the opinion that the County's Agricultural Advisory Board had not proven very satisfactory and he suggested that a committee be appointed from the members of the County Council. During the summer several Boys' clubs were started and a new school fair district was organized in the Township of Harvey. This winter there will be the usual short courses held at Bridgenorth. Mr. Nelson told the members he was going to devote his time towards the bettering of the livestock in the county, for Peterborough was in an enviable position, being part way between two fine livestock markets, Montreal and Toronto.

Family Asphyxiated; Trapped By Gas Fumes

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Trapped by gas as they sought to reach open air and safety yesterday, a man, his wife and their 7 year old son were asphyxiated in their home Their bodies, mutely telling the story of their struggle, were found when police forced an entrance into the gas-filled kitchen.

The man, Howard J. Ereisats, apparently had tried to lead his wife, Alice, and the son, Willard, from the house after he discovered the presence of gas. The mother and child lay near each other; the father had fallen a few feet away.

The gas escaped from a disconnected vent extending from a heater to the chimney, police found after they were able to enter the house. A coroner's investigation revealed that the man was probably alive when a neighbour first smelled gas and called the police. Both neighbour and police, however, were unable to enter the house immediately because of gas.

FIRE DESTROYS SOO FERRY DOCK

HATCHERY IN DANGER.

SAULT STE. MARIE, December 8 (Canadian Press). — The Soo-Michigan Ferry Dock of the International Transit Company, which operates the ferry service between the two Soos, was destroyed by fire to-day. No estimate of the damage is yet available. The fire is stated to have started from an overheated stove in the United States Customs Office on the dock. The huge Michigan State Fish Hatchery, which is next to the dock, was in danger for some time, but was saved.

INSPECTOR FINDS ANIMALS NEGLECTED

One of Team of Horses Condemned For Further Use.

A few days ago Inspector R. C. Smith received a complaint from Warkworth, regarding the condition of a team of horses and a dog. Upon investigation he discovered a mother dog with seven puppies, the mother being in a very emaciated condition, also a team of horses, which were evidently not receiving any kind of care from their owner. Inspector Smith immediately condemned one horse for further use and the owner was given a certain length of time to better the condition of his dog.

Says Wife's Father Sold Her For $1,700

MANSFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 8 (United Press).—Police are holding Mrs. Lillian Dorahs, 18, for investigation after complaint by her husband, James, 25, that she had been sold for $1,700 by her father to a 57-year-old Richland County farmer. The young wife told police she had been offered $3,700 if she would divorce her husband and become housekeeper for Albert Quinn, the farmer. She was taken into custody at the Quinn farm yesterday. Quinn denied Dorah's charges of a "sale," as did the girl's father. Police, not satisfied with developments, have ordered a thorough investigation. Dorahs said his wife disappeared from their home in Columbus, Ohio, on December 2.

The purchase in the first of the kind, the railroad has made in Canada, the announcement said.

LIBERALS PLAN TO STIMULATE HOME FARMING

Would Make Britain Less Dependent Upon Foreign Foodstuffs.

WANT CENTRAL BOARD.

Committee Would Change the Methods of Marketing and Increase Demand.

By Herbert Bailey.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(British United Press.)—Another effort to make Great Britain less dependent upon the Dominions and foreign countries for agricultural products is contained in the proposals of the Liberal party platform committee as revealed today.

The chief suggestion is that a central marketing board of business men appointed by the State should control the operation of a plan intended to improve the standard of British agricultural products, to simplify the present system of marketing, to stimulate the demand for home grown products, to secure wider markets, to increase farm production, and to obtain a higher return for farmers for their labor and their investments. It is proposed that this board of business men should also have power to adjust railway rates and develop rural transport. The preliminary expenses of this Board, according to the plans, are to be defrayed by the central marketing board, which is already extensively engaged in advertising Dominion products in Great Britain.

The Liberal committee points out that the establishment of co-operative organizations for each particular product will probably be the first move, these to be designed on the model of the Canadian wheat pools. If this system were applied to British grown wheat it would certainly have some effect upon Canadian imports.

NETHERLANDS MINISTER TO SEEK SOLUTION OF LITHUANIA DISPUTE

Appointed By League of Nations as Special Reporter On Question.

WALDERMARAS ON FLOOR.

Polish Occupation Real Cause of Crisis, Opinion of Delegates.

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (Associated Press).—A European statesman who took active part in the Washington Naval Conference—Foreign Minister Beelaerts van Blockland of the Netherlands—will seek a formula to solve the Polish-Lithuanian difficulties.

Hynheer van Blockland, representative of the Netherlands on the Council of the League of Nations, was appointed by that body last night as "special reporter" on the dispute after several hours of caustic oral attack and counter-attack by Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania and Foreign Minister Zaleski of Poland.

Mynheer van Blockland, representatator, is expected Friday, and Mynheer van Blockland expects to have his report ready before the end of the present session of the Council.

Even if the game little Lithuanian Premier did not win, all members of the Counci over to belief in his charges against Poland, he certainly won their admiration for his pluck, perseverance and the masterly manner in which he presented his bill of accusation, which included charges of persecution of Lithuanian clergymen in the Vilna districts and alleged conspiracies of the Polish state to overthrow the Lithuanian Government.

Later, when M. Zaleski, after spending some time in defensive arguments against the Waldemaras charges, asked Lithuania to forget the past and accept the Polish hand of friendship, M. Waldemaras replied that he greatly appreciated this offer, but he could not forget that several years ago in Paris President Paderewski of Poland also offered his hand in friendship, yet that within three weeks General Zeligewski seized the old Lithuanian capital, Vilna, which is still in the hands of Poland.

Desired Peaceful Relations.

In pleading Poland's side of the controversy and in denying the charges of Waldemaras, M. Zaleski assured the Council that Poland only desired to dwell in peaceful relations with her neighbor, but found this difficult because Lithuania insists that a state of war exists between the two countries. Whatever else the Council did, M. Zaleski said, he hoped it would insist on abolition of this technical state of war because it was the root of all the trouble between the two countries, and if continued might develop into actual war which would engulf all Europe.

That the Polish occupation of Vilna stands out boldly as the real cause of the crisis was the general operation voiced when the Council adjourned. M. Waldemaras alluded several times with bitterness to the loss of the former capital, and it is believed that the problem of Vilna renders Mynheer van Blockland's task all the harder. He is hardly likely to recommend the return of Vilna, but is expected to propose immediate cessation of the "state of war" as essential to the re-establishment of friendly relations and removal of the Baltic crisis as a danger to general European peace.

Reduction of Sessions.

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Daily Telegraph will publish the following from its Geneva correspondent:

The Council of the League of Nations yesterday discussed the proposed reduction of the number of Council sessions from four to three each year. Rt. Hon. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, originator of the proposal, again emphasized that the only reason for the suggestion was that it was most important that as many foreign ministers as possible from the various states which were members of the Council should participate and that they might find it difficult to go to Geneva four times each year. Sir Austen said he would not persist with the proposal if it did not meet with general approval.

A preliminary exchange of views took place between the Netherlands, Italian, Chilean and German representatives and the question was adjourned until a future private meeting of the Council.

THEFT CHARGE IS DISMISSED

Ex-Warden Coughlin Acquitted —Was Accused of Stealing Cow.

ANIMAL HAD STRAYED.

The case against ex-Warden Martin Coughlin was dismissed last night by Magistrate O. A. Langley after all the evidence had been taken. The Crown alleged that Mr. Coughlin had kept a cow, the property of Herbert Miller of Otonabee, in his possession for several months this summer.

The cow disappeared from the farm of Mr. Miller early in June and was found on the farm of Mr. Coughlin in October. High County Constable Pearson and Mr. Miller took the cow away from the farm, and late in October Mr. Coughlin was served with a summons.

Mr. Coughlin, who is a thresher, said he had only seen the cow around his property a couple of times, as he was away all summer and fall threshing, and on both occasions he had mentioned the fact to other farmers. Character evidence was given for Mr. Coughlin by Warden Middleton and the clerk of the Township of Douro.

His Worship, in granting dismissal, said he could not see where the Crown had proved its point. It had given no evidence to show that Mr. Coughlin took the cow or was using it for any purpose as it had not been shown that he milked it.

G. W. Hatton, K.C., represented the Crown and W. F. Huycke the defendant.

Winnipeg Brewers To Protest New Law

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Winnipeg brewers yesterday planned to lodge an official complaint against provisions of the new provincial liquor law which would bar hotels owned or controlled by brewers from a license to sell beer. They maintain that the law will eventually put them out of business.

The bill providing for sale of beer by the glass, was introduced in the legislature this afternoon for second reading. There are thirty-six hotels, licensed by city by-law, which have the 40-room requirement to enable them to secure a license under the terms of the proposed act.

BITING COLD WAVE FOLLOWS ALBERTA STORM

Mercury Down To Thirty-Eight Degrees in Parts of Province.

IS MOVING EASTWARD.

Drop in Temperature Practically Seals Navigation at Head of Lakes.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — King winter's most dreaded agent of destruction— the blizzard——which two days ago roared over sections of Alberta on the wings of a 60-mile-a-hour gale, last night had been charged with six deaths, serious dislocation of rural traffic and considerable havoc among range stock.

To the four deaths previously reported were added two more storm victims yesterday. The frozen body of an unidentified hunter was found in a drift of snow near Ronelane in the Vauxhall district, while hope has now been abandoned by a search party that has been probing the blizzard-raked hills of Coalhurst, Alta., for seven-year-old Johnny Huchlak, who has not been heard from since he left home for school on the day of the storm.

A bitter cold wave yesterday held the whole of the Western prairie country in its grip. Sub-zero weather was general with dips ranging from 10 to 38 below. No immediate relief is in prospect.

A strong gale was raging last night over the Lake Superior region and according to reports from Port Arthur Ont., a sharp drop in temperature has practically sealed the end of navigation from the head of the lakes this season.

The turbulent state of the lake forced the few vessels that had planned a dash for eastern ports, to seek shelter. A thick sheet of ice formed in the inner harbor and unless the weather moderates soon these freighters will be compelled to winter at either Fort William or Port Arthur, marine men declare.

Wires in District Damaged by Wind During Morning

Electric Power and Long Distance Phone Circuits Give Most Trouble—Many Chimney Fires Reported — Several Trees Are Blown Down.

WESTERN ONTARIO IS HARD HIT; LAKE VESSELS AND PORTS DAMAGED

Ships Driven From Mooring in Detroit River — One Vessel Aground On Manitoulin Island—Huge Waves Flood Harbors and Erie North Shore.

By far the worst windstorm of the year was that which sprung up soon after midnight this morning and has not, as yet, spent its full fury. Local power, telegraph, and telephone officials are thankful for but one thing: that the wind was not accompanied by sleet, in which case every line in the city would probably have given trouble. As it was, both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraph line remained unharmed, though the power lines and the Bell Telephone lines required considerable repairs.

R. L. Dobbin, Manager of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, was one who had a fund of information to give relative to damage done by the storm. He stated that the storm began in earnest about two-thirty this morning, indicated by violent surges in the main lines, and by eight o'clock this morning, the trouble on the high tension lines just outside the city became so serious that to was necessary to cut off some of the factories. This inconvenience was brief, however, and by 8.45 things were running quite smoothly again, with only minor interruptions.

There has also been no small amount of trouble within the city, caused mostly by falling branches of trees. The entire electrical department was kept busy during the morning and part of the afternoon.

Telephone Lines Out

W. R. Northgrave, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company here, stated that no less than fourteen lines out of the city had been put out of commission by the storm. Five to Ottawa, five to Toronto and four to Montreal required attention but were all repaired by noon, due to the untiring efforts of the trouble department. The damage done by the wind and falling trees was most serious about ten miles west of Peterborough, near Pontypool, while in the city about fifty telephones were reported faulty.

Firemen Kept Busy.

A windstorm such as that of today calls for unfailing vigilance on the part of the fire department and this proved no exception. At 6.31 the first call came from 475 Parnell street, where a chimney fire had broken out. Five others occurred later, one at 186 Antrim street at 6.35, another at 215 Carlisle avenue at 8.06, a third at 491 Parnell street, shortly after nine o'clock, a fourth at 465 Elm street at 10.47, and finally at 11.45 a call came from 260 Wescott street. All were chimney fires requiring the use of chemicals.

Other Damage.

The beautiful pine trees in the Normal school grounds did not escape unscathed, as several had large branches broken and two were completely uprooted. A number of windows in north end residences were broken, one being at the home of Mrs. L. C. Deyell, Conger street, and the large plate glass window in Hooper's upper store was blown out.

Mr. Edmonson, driving into the city with his daughter, had the unusual and not overly pleasant experience of having the top blown off his car. This incident occurred as he was proceeding along the Chemong road.

Several window frames, placed in position for brick work at the Collegiate extension were blown down, but little damage was done. The rolling and bumping of bricks and timber during the early hours of the morning kept residents of the district awake.

Cold Wave Expected.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—South Central Ontario today was shivering in anticipation of a new cold wave. A gale struck this

WOULD LINK BORDER CITIES

One International City Along Border Definite Vision of Future.

NEW YORK STATE-CANADA.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 8.— (Canadian Press.)— An international city, linking the border cities of New York State and Canada along the Niagara River, is a "practical and definite vision of the future," Chancey D. Hamlin, retiring president of the Buffalo City Planning Association, declared in his annual report submitted yesterday.

"One of the most entrancing tasks facing the city of Buaffio and the other communities along the Niagara Frontier," he said, "is so to carry forward the development of their respective city plans within their own boundaries that they may be co-related and fit into the picture of the greater whole."

As Buffalo's part in such a plan, he suggested the need for development of a completed waterfront park system near the American terminal of the International Peace Bridge and the early completion of a concourse from the Bridge terminal to and including Humboldt Parkway, one of the "show" streets of Buffalo.

"To this end," he said, "it would be well for Buffalo, the largest unit in the whole, to set its house in order by carrying forward as far as possible, and within the limits of its financial ability, the consummation of its own comprehensive city plan."

An international city, such as has been proposed, would have a population of 1,000,000 and taxable assets of $2,000,000,000. These bridges would link the units, which would include Lackawanna and Niagara Falls, N.Y., Niagara Falls, Ont., North Tonawanda and Tonawanda, N.Y., Bridgeburg and Fort Erie, Ont., besides Buffalo.

HUGHES WON'T RUN.

Former Secretary of State Not Candidate For the Presidency.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, issued a statement yesterday saying he was not a candidate for the Republican nomination for President of the United States. "I am not a candidate in any sense", says Mr. Hughes. "I am keenly disappointed by Mr. Coolidge's decision, but so far as my own attitude toward the candidacy is concerned, I stand by the statement I made last May. I have nothing to add to it."

REPUBLICANS TO CONVENE IN KANSAS CITY

Southern City Chosen Over San Francisco By National Committee.

ON TWENTIETH BALLOT.

General Pershing Acclaimed as Next President of United States.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 8.—Kansas City, Mo., was awarded the 1928 National. The Republican National Committee made the decision on the 20th ballot yesterday.

Kansas City polled 58 votes, six more than needed to win. San Francisco polled 39 votes on the 20th ballot, Detroit four and Chicago one. Announcement by Chairman Butler that the convention would be held in Kansas City next June was received with wild cheers by the committee of men and women.

Committeeman Crocker, California, who led the fight for San Francisco, moved that the selection be made unanimous and the committee adopted the resolution.

It was announced that the convention will open in Kansas City June 12, at 11 o'clock.

The break came in the deadlock when Connecticut swung her votes to Kansas City. Montana, which had supported San Francisco through 19 ballots, gave one vote to Kansas City, and West Virginia, Idaho and Vermont swung in with one each.

Pershing Acclaimed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—General John J. Pershing, who yesterday addressed the American Farm Bureau Federation convention, was acclaimed by some of the delegates as candidate for President of the United States. As the General concluded his address ,an enthusiastic farmer leaped to his chair and shouted: "Three cheers for Pershing, a candidate for President."

The crowded hall shook with the response and the General was surrounded by those who were eager to shake his hand.

"You're President timber, you're a candidate for President, General Pershing,' were some of the expressions heard.

No one heard the General make a reply, however.

Later, in his quarters in a bungalow atop a downtown hotel, where President Coolidge and other notables have stayed, Gen. Pershing said:

"What can I say? I do not talk politics, and there is no statement I can make."

He was almost immediately surrounded with admirers who came up to the bungalow to meet him.

Opposition Leader Repeats His Demand For Dissolution of Rumanian Cabinet

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 8.—(AP). — Amid the prolonged cheers of his supporters, Julia Maniu, leader of the Nationalist Peasant party, repeated his demand in Parliament last evening for the immediate dissolution of that body and the holding of new elections.

"We have no confidence in the present government, nor in its system of governing," he thundered to the packed and surprised assembly after Premier Vintila Bratianu informed members that the Liberals intended to carry on the government alone, because the Nationalist Peasants refused their most generous offer of collaboration."

Speaking with a vigor and boldness that astonished his supporters and adversaries alike, M. Maniu shouted:

"The country demands a complete change in the whole system of governing which has brought the nation so much misery and discredit. Public opinion and the country as a whole are utterly opposed to the present illegal autocratic regime. The best proof of this is that you have not dared to face free elections either under the Stirbey government or under the existing administration."

Pointing an accusing finger at the Liberal members of the Cabinet, Maniu declared: "If the will of the Rumanian people were not so flagrantly ignored, the gentlemen could not sit for one moment on that bench"

This evoked a burst of cheers from the Peasant deputies

Rumonia, M. Maniu went on was in a deplorable condtion because of the governmenit's "absurd economic policy," which he declared ought not be alllowed to continue a minute longer.

Even the government itself realizes this," he cried, "when it states that it has adopted the Nationalist Peasants' programme of stabilization and other reform."

COURT ADJOURNED IN REMUS TRIAL

Accused Unable To Appear in Court Room After Emotional Attack.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, December 8 (Associated Press). — An emotional attack from which he recovered only after four hours swept George Remus yesterday, and, spreading to his daughter, Romola, at his side, and his sister, Mrs. Anna Ryerson, previously seated inconspicuously among the spectators, created the wildest scene of the more than three weeks of his murder trial.

The forenoon Court session was exactly an hour old when Remus' outburt, the ninth since the trial started eighteen Court days ago, forced an adjournment. At 2 p.m., the time set for resumption, Remus was writhing in spasms on his jail cell bunk. After a 30-minute wait, the Court was adjourned until today.

Harry Truesdale, of Hamilton, Ohio, was well along in his narration of efforts to slay Remus to gain a reward of $10,000 promised by Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, herself slain by Remus in Eden Park here last October 6, when Remus gave way.

First he dig into his pocket for a handkerchief to hide the tears flowing down his cheeks. He leaned over and his shoulders shook with sobs. His daughter embraced him, patting him gently upon the back and trying to comfort him. "Daddy, daddy," her lips formed.

Remus, flushed of face and head, and crying aloud, glanced up at Judge Chester Shook with a husky appeal for "an adjournment for a minute."

Judge Shook hastily excused the jury, many of whose members were crying. Of the two women jurors, Mrs. Anna Ricking, 58 years old housewife, was the most affected. Her shoulders shook with sobs.

As the jury filed out, Remus raised his head and exclaimed to Judge Shook:

"Your Honor, I apologize."

Again and again he repeated the apology, and his voice rose and broke in a scream.

It was then that hysteria claimed the 24-year-old Romola, and a moment later, Mrs. Ryerson.

Romola, screaming aloud, was half carried into the corridor, where repeated screams echoed. Mrs. Ryerson, previously unnoticed in the crowd of spectators, let loose a shrill scream and burst into tears.

CANADA CO-OPERATE IN INVESTIGATION

Committees To Probe Five Pioneer Belts of the World.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Canada will co-operate with a committee of the United States National Research Council in an investigation of the five pioneer belts of the world. The survey will be made with a view to determining the capacity of those belts to assimilate migration and increase the production of food supplies.

The Dominion, Siberia, Australia, South Africa and South America are the countries in which the leading pioneer belts are situated. In Canada, the belt extends through the northern portion of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The scheme originated with the United States' organization looking toward the time when that country will require to import a quantity of food and when a surplus of American citizens may wish to find new homes. A resolution, it is understood, was passed by that body several months ago asking for co-operation in the work of investigation.

Yesterday afternoon, Dean Rutherford, of the University of Saskatchewan, Dr. McIntosh and Dr. McArthus, of Queen's University, Kingston, waited upon Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and members of the cabinet in the matter. The delegation, which was heard in camera, urged that the Dominion government co-operate by providing every available assistance through the various Federal departments. After hearing the representations, Premier King promised that the assistance of the Federal departments would be given. Already, it is understood, several universities have intimated their intention to co-operate.

OLD MASTERS

The last and greatest herald of Heaven's King,
Girt with rough skins, hies to the deserts wild.
Among that savage brood the woods forth bring,
Which he than man more harmless found and mild.
His food was locusts, and what there doth spring,
With honey that from virgin hives distilled;
Parched body, hollow eyes, some uncouth thing
Made him appear, long since from earth exiled.
There burst he forth: "All ye whose hopes rely
On God, with me amidst these deserts mourn,
Repent, repent, and from old errors turn!"
—Who listened to his voice, obeyed his cry?
Only the echoes which he made relent,
Rung from their flinty caves, "Repent! Repent!"

AT REGENT STREET

The C.G.I.T group of the Regent Street United Church, Lakefield, held an open meeting on November 30.

The president, Miss Merle Crawford, presided and opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by a prayer by Miss Elva Hendren, after which Miss Greta McCall read the Bible lesson.

The following program was well given:

Selection by the Junior Orchestra.

The group sang a popular C.G.I.T. song.

The main item of the evening consisted of over one hundred lantern slides. Slides showed the girls at camp, C.G.I.T. float on the first of July, the groups first bride, Lakefield cadets, and various other pictures.

The orchestra favored the audience with another selection.

The meeting was enjoyed by all but owing to the stormy night the crowd was somewhat small.

Coolidge Decision Blamed For Selling

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Sharp recessions in many of the important issues, ranging from one to four dollars or more a share occurred at the opening of the stock market yesterday. Selling was attributed to President Coolidge's reiteration of his intention not to be a candidate next year and perhaps to some fears that the shipment of a million dollars in gold to England might be followed by other transfers and lead to higher interest rates.

"I hear Myself Sing!"

—says Gigli—the great operatic tenor—of his performances—as he hears them on the new Orthophonic Victrola.

Above—four short, simple words! What a wealth of meaning they hold! For a great artist does hear himself sing on the new Orthophonic Victrola. He hears himself as you may hear him,—his highest notes pure and clear; his lowest intonations full and deep in their rich resonance.

The voice is perfect as in life, the instrumental music which accompanies, is like the background in a beautiful relief, exactly in its proper relation. So it is in hearing all music on the new Orthophonic Victrola with its Victor-controlled prinicple of "Matched Impedance" or "smooth flow of sound".

Classic—yet beautifully modern in design—and convenient are these instruments. Electrically operated (no winding) at slight additional cost. Instrument stops when the record stops. Models from $1400 to as low as $115 on convenient terms from all His Master's Voice Dealers.

OBITUARY

EDWARD J. WILCOX

HASTINGS, Dec. 8.—In the death of Mr. Edward J. Wilcox, which occurred in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Friday afternoon, Dec. 2nd, after a short illness of nine days, Hastings lost one of its most prominent citizens and also business men.

Mr. Wilcox was well-known throughout the district and was extremely popular and courteous with all people in all walks of life and embodying all shades of religious leanings, honorable, loyal and generous in all his dealings with those with whom he came in contact.

The deceased was 54 years of age the youngest son of John Wilcox and Elizabeth Wills. His mother died when he was a child and his father some twenty-four years ago. The late Mr. Wilcox was born in Trewin, England, and came to Canada in 1881. In 1905 he married Ida Stinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stinson, who survives him. He was an electrician in the employ of The Fowlds Co. for six years, when the first power house was built here. He was partner with the late Henry Lambert in hardware business for seven years. In late years he ran a market garden and was also in the insurance and implement business.

He was a staunch member of the United Church. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his sorrowing wife, one daughter, Helen, at home.

The funeral was held on Monday from his late residence, Bridge Street, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Hie preached the funeral service. Interment taking place in the Trent Valley Cemetery. The pall bearers were Mr. L. E. Kelley and William J. Warner of town; Mr. W. Wills, Cobourg; Mr. H. Tink of Hampton; Mr. E. N. Welch and H. Cruickshank of Peterborough.

A large number of floral tributes bore the esteem in which the deceased was held; among them being large wreaths from the employees of the C.N.R., De Laval, and Beatty Bros., all of whom he was agent for.

HERBERT JAMES DAFOE.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 8. — The death occurred early Monday morning, December 5th, of Herbert James Dafoe, second son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dafoe, of Belmont, in his 36th year.

The deceased was ony ill a few days and his sudden death came as a great shock to his friends.

Besides his parents, he leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Mrs. Kenneth Mark, of Saskatchewan, and one brother, Allen, of town.

The funeral service which was conducted by Rev. G. E. Lougheed was held at the residence of his brother, Mr. Allen Dafoe, Ottawa street, on Tuesday afternoon. Interment took place in Maple Grove cemetery.

JOHN WILSON.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 8.—The death occurred on December 6th, at his residence in 3rd Concession of Belmont, of John Wilson, after a short illness. The cause of death was heart trouble, following an attack of bronchitis. The deceased was in his 71st year, and was survived by four brothers and two sisters, namely: William of Banff, Alta.; Albert of Saskatoon, Sask.; George of Marquette, Mich.; Mrs. Nichol of Watertown, N.Y.; Mrs. Delcour and Frank, who resided with the deceased.

The funeral took place this afternoon. The service in Victoria Church was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wilson. Interment was made in Victoria Cemetery.

LEAFA TOTTEN.

CAVAN, Dec. 8.—The death occurred on Sunday at the parsonage, Cavanville, of Leafa, aged six, only daughter of the Rev. J. O. and Mrs. Totten.

Although not in the best of health for some little time, she was only seriously ill for one week, and in spite of all that medical skill could do she passed away on Sunday evening.

Left to mourn her loss are her sorrowing parents and one brother, Harold.

The funeral was private, the Rev. Mr. Todd, Peterboro, having charge of the service. He was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Foley, Fraserville; Rev. Mr. Howard, Millbrook, and the Rev. Mr. Rowland, Omemee.

The flowers were beautiful. Among them was a spray from the primary class of Cavan Sunday School, of which Leafa was a member, also floral tributes from Fairmount Sunday School, Ebenezer congregation, and the Tuxis Square.

Four little boys, Trevor Braithwaite, Harry Kennedy, Harold Thacker, and Neil Braithwaite, carried the casket from the house to the motor hearse, which conveyed it to Stouffville for interment. Her own family and grandmother, Mrs. Warriner of Stouffville, accompanied the remains.

ALBERTA PEOPLE REMOVING SNOW

Communication Nearly Restored After Bad Blizzard in West.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 8.—(Canadian Press). — The blizzard which claimed four lives in Alberta on Monday and which has kept the search parties scouring the Coalhurst district for nearly two days in quest of a seven-year-old schoolboy, was followed yesterday by severest cold wave of the season. The storm-harassed sections of Alberta were still removing huge snow drifts which were piled fifteen and twenty feet high along the highways, railway right of ways, and against the farm buildings. Railway service yesterday was practically restored to normal, and the districts that experienced a shortage of milk on Tuesday are now receiving adequate supplies.

The cold wave which followed in the wake of the sixty-mile gale in Alberta had spread yesterday over the entire Western plains. Edmonton, in Northern Alberta, was the coldest point in the Dominion, with 36 degrees below zero.

DUNSFORD NEWS.

DUNSFORD, Dec. 8.—Mr. Percy Thurston of Gull Lake, Saskatchewan, is spending a month's vacation here.

A song and story service was held in the United church on Sunday. The choir rendered several special selections and the pastor, the Rev. J. F. Everson, gave the history of various hymns that were sung by the congregation.

The Christmas entertainment in the United church has had to be postponed on account of illness in the community.

The new brick house which is being erected by Mr. Milburn Thurston and which will be one of the finest dwellings in the village is almost completed. Mr. and Mrs. Thurston expect to occupy it in a very short time.

Mrs. Fred Humphrey who has been in poor health for some time is not much improved.

The county road gang has been busy fixing the round corner near Pleasant Point. As this was a very dangerous place the improvement will be much appreciated by motorists.

Mrs. Torrace Robertson, who underwent a serious operation in a Peterboro hospital, is improving nicely.

Mr. James Thurston has been awarded the task of caring for the skating and curling rink and has been busy of late levelling the ground.

A large number of cattle has been shipped from the C.P.R. station here in the last two weeks by the drover, Mr. George Kennedy.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very badly with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

COASTING FACILITIES.

The Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, in writing to the City Council, to suggest that a number of hills in the city be closed to other traffic during certain hours in order to give children a chance to coast in safety, brings into prominence once more a matter that has frequently been discussed.

In the days before the motor car the coasting problem more or less took care of itself.

The youngsters of that era used any hillside that was available, dodged horse-drawn sleighs and an occasional policeman, and were happy.

But that kind of thing is out of the question under present traffic conditions, and unless the suggestion of the Home and School Association can be carried out the children in the main will continue to be deprived of participating in a particularly exciting, health-giving and wholesome recreation that should be one of the blessings associated with the cold, bracing atmosphere of a Canadian winter.

If there is any way that safe coasting facilities can be provided for Peterborough's youngsters, it should be found and put into practice.

Healthier children and fewer doctor bills will be among the results.

THE PROVINCIAL LABORATORY.

The decision of the Provincial Department of Health to scrap the Provincial Laboratory, established here some years ago, should be vigorously protested by the City Council, the Board of Health and other local bodies.

The services rendered by the Laboratory to Peterborough have been of great value, and local health authorities cannot but feel that it is a step backward to remove a bureau that has done good work here.

In the matter of detecting infectious diseases alone the time gained through having laboratory facilities available in the city is invaluable.

Under the old system, to which Peterborough is apparently destined to return, it took at least twenty-four hours to secure a report as to suspected cases of diphtheria, for example, while the local Laboratory has been able to examine a swab and make a report almost at once, giving the doctor a much better chance to successfully fight the disease if the test showed the presence of diphtheria.

In many other ways the Provincial Laboratory has justified its establishment here, and the local authorities should lose no time in endeavouring to persuade the Provincial Department of Health that Peterborough needs such a service, and that its maintenance here is very much in the interest of public health.

SMALLER COUNCILS.

The people of Windsor gave an emphatic demonstration of their belief that municipalities should be governed on business-like lines on Monday when by a vote that was nearly 3 to 1 they passed a bylaw recommending that Windsor's Council should consist of a Mayor and six Aldermen.

The Legislature will be asked to ratify the bylaw so that the smaller Council may begin operations in Windsor in 1929.

There is much about the change that will appeal to thoughtful citizens.

A small executive body can undoubtedly give better and more efficient service than a large one.

A Council of seven in all would be capable of better work, accomplish more, and waste less time than a Council of thirteen.

At the same time the smaller the membership of a civic body the more honour attached to service thereon, and consequently the less difficulty in securing capable and qualified men to offer themselves for such positions.

Windsor is on the right track.

Seven men will demonstrate their ability to handle propositions more satisfactorily than thirteen, save the city money, show greater efficiency, and prove of more real service.

KEEPING THEM CLEAN.

The Examiner believes that good citizens do not require a bylaw to force them to keep their sidewalks clear of snow and slush, and as a result of the controversy over the snow bylaw, there will be enough good citizens in Peterborough to see to it that walking conditions are made as comfortable as possible.

The bylaw repealed by the City Council was passed in the first place because of the complaints of many citizens at the condition of the sidewalks last spring, and withdrawn because of the feeling that the measure would be a hardship to many residents.

It will, at least, however, have served to direct the attention of the public generally to the desirability of giving this question personal attention.

Even without a bylaw there is no reason why the greater part of the sidewalks should not be kept clear by voluntary efforts on the part of householders.

A little work with a snow-shovel by individual citizens would bring about a marked improvement in conditions, and now that the compulsory feature has been removed through the repeal of the measure, it is hoped that the majority of householders will reciprocate by doing the necessary spade-work whenever there is a fall of the beautiful.

THE TRENT WATERWAY.

The plea of the officers of the Trent Waterway Development Association that the self-denying ordinance passed by the Orillia Board of Trade in the matter of the completion of the Severn River section should be withdrawn, is a reasonable one. There was reason for holding up the work while Canada was still staggering beneath the load of her war-time obligations. But now that the Federal revenues are more resilient, and are producing surpluses, it would no longer be fair for Orillia to stand out against her neighbors and put a stumbling-block in the way of a project upon which they have set their hearts. For this is what it amounts to. The Orillia resolution practically put a veto on any appeal to the Government last session.

The case for proceeding to complete the waterway is a strong one. It can never fulfil its purpose while one end is half corked. Whether the waterway will fulfil the commercial expectations that were sincerely held when it was started may be doubted. Conditions have changed markedly during the intervening thirty or forty years. Yet even on this point it does not pay to be too dogmatic. Anybody who would have predicted twenty years ago that because of the Trent Canal (as it was then called) Orillia would become the site of the largest plant in Canada for the manufacture and repair of ocean-going pleasure craft would have been considered a fool. But that has been one of the unexpected results, and the industry is one of the most flourishing in town.

As to the waterway's value from a tourist standpoint, there can be no question. Already the once despised Trent Canal has the most used lock in Canada, at Port Severn; and the large increase in the number of vessels that visited Orillia last summer gave an inkling of the growing favour of the route, as well as the returning popularity of the motor boat. The testimony of the Midland delegates to last week's meeting indicates that were the Severn open for larger craft, many of them would come through from the upper lakes—more, probably, than come from the southern end.

The tourist trade is no longer despised, and not to complete the beautiful waterway on which twenty odd millions have been spent and over a score of locks built, when only three locks remain to be constructed (and one of them is half done), would surely be a foolish proposition.—Orillia Packet and Times.

SMALLER DOLLAR BILLS.

The United States Treasury has decided upon a step which we believe it would be to the advantage of Canada to follow. It will issue smaller dollar bills, and gives excellent reasons for doing so. It has been found that the bills do not wear as long as they used to in the United States, and that is probably the case in Canada. Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, has found several reasons for the short life of the dollar bill. One is that it goes too often to the gasoline filling station. There it is soiled with oil-stained fingers, which causes rapid deterioration. Another is that the bill changes hands more often because of higher prices. Since worn bills must be replaced by the Government, this causes unusual expense in the actual production of money.

We learn from an American source that as a means of reducing this expense the Government has decided to produce and distribute notes three-quarters the size of those in circulation at present. Already the Bureau of Engraving has begun its great task of making a billion pieces of new money. It expects to finish the work by next November. Numerous advantages are expected as a result. The 25 per cent. reduction in weight will effect great savings in transportation, and the smaller volume will increase the capacity of bank vaults. To the Government, however, the most important effect of the change will be the saving of $2,000,000 annually in the cost of production.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE GROWING POSTAL REVENUE.

In his last budget statement the Minister of Finance announced a surplus of $35,000,000. If the national finances are as satisfactory in the last six months of the present fiscal year as they were in the first six months he will have a surplus of more than $50,000,000. Expenditures are below those of last year and the revenue is much higher. Receipts from customs and excise tax duties have greatly improved, partly because the new smuggling preventive force is now in action. The postal revenues are the most interesting of all. In July, 1926, penny postage was introduced. It was estimated by the post-office officials that this would cost $5,000,000 per annum. In past years the post-office had been self-sustaining. It cost $31,000,000 to operate and its revenues had been about this amount. After nine months of penny postage, Mr. Robb in his 1927 budget announced that revenues had fallen away $3,000,000, indicating that already the post-office was recovering part of the lost ground. Since last March the postal revenues have expanded with a speed that has bewildered even the officials themselves. In the six-month period the income has been $14,434,000 as against $12,400,000 in 1926, or an improvement of $2,034,000. The last six months of the fiscal year are always the heaviest, and the officials now declare that if revenues only hold their own for the rest of the year without making any further gains, the department not only will be self-sustaining but will turn a surplus over to the general funds.

Post-office receipts are an accurate test of business conditions. The rise in postal receipts is the result of increased activity in trade and industry. The coming Christmas will be the most cheerful, nationally speaking, that Canada has had since pre-war days.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

So far nobody has been hurt in the rush for aldermanic positions.

The Ontario Legislature may have to deal with a "beer-by-the-glass" resolution at the coming session. The motion is likely to get short shift this time at least.

Apparently the people of Windsor are determined to have law and order in the Border City. The vote given Ald. Curry, who instigated the police probe, can be interpreted in no other way.

The weather bureau predicts freakish radio reception during next year, but places the blame on sun spots and not on the United States presidential election.

President Coolidge declares that he is out of the campaign. And he does not mean perhaps.

Seeing how easy they are to get out of, there is no real reason why Ontario's jails should be overcrowded.

It would be difficult to convince Peterborough skaters that the Trent Canal is not worth every cent that has been spent upon it.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—With the exception of sales of odd loads of wheat to the United Kingdom, the export trade in grain here yesterday continued dull. On spot sales of two or three loads No. 2 Northern wheat were made at 14½c per bushel over the December option, c.i.f. Bay Ports. The trade in car lots of coarse grains was also quiet and prices were unchanged.

The flour market was without any new feature to note, prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades being well maintained under a quiet demand.

Owing the continued steady demand from the United States for all lines of millfeed combined with the liberal sales being made for local and country account, a stronger feeling developed in the local market and prices were advanced $1 per ton. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fair and values were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were firmly maintained under a good inquiry. The receipts were 1,245 cases.

The demand for potatoes continued of a limited character and the undertone was steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.10 to $1.15; White at $1.05 to $1.10; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 90c per bag in bulk, ex-track.

A moderate amount of business was done in imported beans and values ruled steady. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were offered on spot at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, ex-track, while broken lots at $2.75 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Despite uncertainty as to what will be shown by unofficial crop estimates today, wheat, corn and oats all went higher in prices yesterday. Blizzard weather interfering with the movement of grain gave considerable advantage to the buying side, and tended to hold sellers in check.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at a shade to ¾ net advance; corn ½ to ¾ higher; oats ¾ to ⅞c up and provisions unchanged to 22 cents down.

Widespread severe winter weather yesterday accompanied reports of a material falling off in arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg, Minneapolis and Duluth. Advances were also current that harvesting in Argentina was being hampered by rain. On the other hand, it was generally recognized that snowfalls over the greater part of Kansas would be of decided benefit to the Winter wheat crop. Meanwhile, however, a good deal of interest was shown in a statement issued yesterday, indicating that wheat values during the last four months have ranged lower than for the same period in any one of the three previous years, although shipments from domestic primary markets this season have been greatly enlarged.

Toward the end of the day, nevertheless, sales to realize profits wiped out much of the bulge in wheat prices. Besides, the fact that export demand yesterday for North American wheat was slow tended somewhat to weaken the confidence of speculative buyers, and so likewise did announcement of 301,000 bushels of wheat delivered yesterday on Chicago December contracts.

Corn was bought persistently, the prospect being that numerous country roads would be blocked for some time, even after the blizzard had ceased. There was also an expectation in various quarters that private monthly crop reports today would prove bullish. Oats were higher with corn.

Provisions were responsive to an easier tendency in hog values.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

Hog receipts 27,000; market generally steady to 10 cents lower; top 8.90; bulk desirable 210 to 300 pound weights $8.45 to $8.85; 160 to 200 pounds $8.00 to $8.50; 130 to 160 pounds $7.40 to $8.20; most pigs $7.00 to $7.50; bulk packing sows $7.50 to $7.85; best light weights $8.00 to $8.10.

Sheep receipts 11,000; market slow; generally steady; bulk desirable handyweight fat lambs $13.75 to $14.00; few to city butchers and shippers $14.15 to $14.25; odd loads plain kinds and wighty lambs $13.25 to $13.50; most throw-outs around $11.00; sheep steady; few fat ewes $6.75 or better; handyweight comebacks to feeders $13.50.

CAROL WOULD ANSWER APPEAL

Won't Refuse To Return Providing the People Want Him.

GIVEN INTERVIEW.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(United Press.)—Former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, wants to bring about the union of Rumanians, not to divide them, a two-and-a-half-column interview in the Petit Journal said yesterday.

The Petit Journal's special correspondent and an unnamed American correspondent held a lengthy interview with the prince's secretary at Carol's country retreat. It was said to be the first lengthy explanation of Carol's attitude.

'Gentlemen, our conception of the political situation in Rumania has been explained to you—party fights, internal dissensions, all of which are pulling asunder Rumania," said the prince.

"There is only one thing left for me to say—repeat it well that I wish to ignore these fatal quarrels. My task is not to divide but to unite. I want to realize the union unanimously called for by my people."

As he spoke, Carol glanced at the fireplace on which were pictures of the late King Ferdinand and his young son, King Michael.

The correspondent explained at some length how he made efforts to obtain the interview with the prince and his secretary.

Mysterious Tactics.

After being repeatedly told an interview was impossible, the correspondent was told to stand at the station of a certain town on a certain day. After motoring along a tortuous route at a breakneck speed, the two newspapermen entered the grounds to the hunting lodge.

At the lodge they were told, "if you hear a revolver shot stop dead. The prince is well guarded." When the correspondents arrived, the secretary received them and then went to see the prince. He returned and gave them the following declaration.

After declaring that Carol had heretofore not received interviewers or given out any interviews, the secretary said:

"What's the situation in Rumania? It has not changed since the unhappy January 4, 1926, when parliament ratified the law exiling Carol. The situations have not changed, that is to say — in Rumania the grief and regret at having seen Carol leave rests unanimous.

Daily Messages.

"Since then numberless efforts have been made to show no regard or sympathy in Rumania for my master.

"However, the daily abundance of telegrams from the higher classes of Rumanian society proves that the words of our adversaries are groundless.

"Speak, if you like, of this famous renunciation. Carol renounced the throne following political vexations upon which he does not wish to dwell. At that time, King Ferdinand was in perfect health and there was nothing to presage so rapid and terrible a denouement as occurred.

"Carol does not consider his heritage to the throne in the balance. On the other hand, he merely believes the education of his son, Michael, should rest with him and not with the council of regency.

"The unforeseen happened. King Ferdinand died. And Carol found himself in a new situation."

Carol's Qualifications.

The secretary then recounted Carol's love for his country, his education looking toward his taking the throne of Rumania, and his fitness to rule.

"Because of these, Carol considers himself alone designed to achieve the works of his father."

The secretary added that Carol saw his mission to his country in instruction and organiaztion.

"In power, Carol finds a child—his child — an infant of five years and the regency which by its composition has been transformed into a kind of registration bureau destined to endorse the wishes and serve the interest of one man alone.

"Carol last July made a declaration to the French press. He did not act as a candidate to the throne but he said in all his letters that if his people called him, he would reply immediately, 'present.' This declaration was never published in Rumanian papers.

STREET CAR MEN THREATEN STRIKE

Chicago Railway Served With Ultimatum By the Employees.

CHICAGO, December 8 (Canadian Press). — Immediate action on the wage demands of the Chicago street car men or a strike of both surface and elevator employees was the ultimatum union officials announced today. Twenty thousand men would be affected.

"The men have lost patience because of the dilatory tactics employed by the arbitrator, and insist on a strike or an immediate wage increase," said William Quinlan, president of the Street Car Men's Local.

The elevator employees are not involved in the wage dispute, but have promised to strike in sympathy with the surface car men. Mayor Thompson in Washington said: "Chicago needn't worry. There will be no strike. If the companies and men cannot agree, I will step in personally, but I haven't abandoned hope of arbitration."

SANDHURST SECOND.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Official notification of the results of the Lafferty Cup competition between the Royal Military Colleges of the Empire was yesterday received here, and showed that the R.M.C. of Canada at Kingston was third. The competition was won by the Royal Military College of Australia, with the Royal Military College of Sandhurst second, and the Royal Military College of Woolwich fourth. The competition includes the mile run, the mile and half run, the high jump, and the 50 yards dash. Australia secured twelve points, Sandhurst nine, Canada five, and Woolwich one.

The meeting of the Fourth Peterborough Troop opened last Thursday with flag break and then inspection. The Scoutmaster, Mr. Corbett, was in charge with the Troop Leader, William Taylor, as assistant.

After inspection the patrols were formed in close column in front of the flag. The Scoutmaster called upon Mr. Dicken, a member of the local association, to say a few words to the troop and to the new members, whom Mr. John, the president of the association, had rounded up.

Mr. Dicken said he was proud to be a member of the association. He hopes that in a few years Peterborough will have some of the best troops in Canada. Mr. Dicken offered to help the troop in any way he could. This is appreciated by the troop. At the end of the talk the troop gave their yell for Mr. Dicken and Mr. John.

The patrols were then dismissed to their corners for the instruction period. Mr. Corbett explained to the new boys the aim of the scouts and the tenderfoot tests.

The boys were then sent down stairs until after the investiture.

The troop was in horseshoe formation around the flag. The recruit, Harold Stuart was brought before the scoutmaster. The investiture is one of the greatest things in the life of a scout. He is sworn into the scout brotherhood which is known in every land. After taking the scout promise the recruit was sworn in. Three cheers were given, led by the troop leader. A few more games were played before the council fire was held.

At the council fire a few games were played which did not need any moving around. A number of lively songs were sung. The scoutmaster read a short story out of the "Scout Leader" about a scout in Egypt doing his good turn.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King", and thirty seconds scout silence. The troop competition still shows the Kangaroos leading.

REMUS HYSTERICAL, COURT IS ADJOURNED

Loses Self Control as Man Tells of Seeking To Kill Him.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press). — George Remus, on trial for his life for slaying his wife, became hysterical in the court yesterday when Harry Truesdale, Hamilton, Ohio, calmly testified how he had watched Remus for days in an effort to kill him for a payment of ten thousand dollars offered by Mrs. Remus ,the woman Remus slew on October 6 last.

Romola Remus, sitting next to her father., also became hysterical. The court was recessed and Romola's screams echoed down the court house corridors. Remus first buried his face in his handkerchief and sobs shook his big shoulders. He peered up from behind the piece of linen and from his seat jerkily asked Judge Shook, "Your Honor, can we have an adjournment."

'The jury will be excused," assented Judge Shook, and the ten men and two women of the jury filed out.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

The first verse of Revelation, first chapter, furnished Rev. William Allan, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, with the theme for his sermon at Sunday's morning service. The congregation, large, and with many strangers in the pews, followed his discourse with quiet and reverent interest, dealing as he did with the part played in everyday life by the angelic throng. As in the Bible days, when angels ministered to our Lord and His prophets and disciples, so was it indicated that angels still unseen surround our every movement.

"The Ministry of Angels."

Ask the average church member, began Mr. Allan, what he knows about angels, and if you are familiar with what the Scriptures have to say about them, you are likely to be both amazed and amused by the answer you will get. You will be amazed at their ignorance of the Word of God, and amused at their childish ideas of what angels are and do. Angel, meaning "messenger," is used of:

1—Deity: When, for example, you read of "the angel of the Lord" 2—Men: As in the case of the seven letters to the seven churches in Rev. 2 and 3, each of which is addressed "unto the angel of the Church," meaning, evidently, the minister of the local assembly or congregatoin. 3—Created Spiritual Being: The Word of God credits them with (a) Wisdom, as in Samuel 14, 20; (b) Strength ,as in Psalm 103, 20.

To those who know the contents of the Old and New Testaments, it is well known that angels play an important part in the Divine programme. The ministry of angels is frequent in and characteristic of the Old Testament. We may have more to say of this later; but for the present let us note the part they play in the New Testament.

Ministering Angels.

The angel Gabriel was commissioned by God to go to Nazareth and tell of the forthcoming Virgin Birth of the Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ (Luke 1, 26-38).

Angelic hosts heralded His birth to the shepherds, as graphically described in Luke 2, 8-20.

Satan knew that the Scriptures promised the presence and the protection of angels for those who are dear to the heart of God (Luke 4, 10-11).

We are told that at the close of His temptation in the wilderness "the devil leaveth Him, and behold angels came and ministered unto Him."

At His death angels semed to be entrusted with the care of His body. We know that when He ascended to Heaven, and the disciples stood gazing after Him, there stood by them angels, "which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven." (Acts 1, 10-11.)

An angel came to Peter when he was in prison with the shadow of death resting upon him, and led him to liberty and safety.

It was an angel that appeared unto Cornelius and told him to send to Joppa for one called Peter, who would lead him into the light and liberty of the children of God.

Paul said in the midst of a storm when, to all others on the ship, everything seemed lost, "And now I exhort you to be of good cheer; for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship. For there stood by me this night an angel of God, Whose I am and Whom I serve, saying, Fear not, Paul . . . God hath given thee all them that sail with thee (Acts 27, 22-24).

Angels Are With Us.

Angels know what is going on upon the earth Paul says in I. Cor. 4, 9, "For we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men." From a reference to how a woman should have her head covered in the congregation it would seem that angels are present at divine service. We know that they rejoice over the salvation of sinners.

Two angels delivered Lot from Sodom and destroyed the cities of the plain. At Bethel Jacob saw the angels of God ascending and descending. When Elisha was besieged at Dothan the angelic hosts were sent to deliver him. The angel of the Lord smote in one night 185,000 of the army of Senacherib, King of Assyria. When Daniel was thrown to the lions God sent an angel to close the mouths of the lions. It was an angel that warned Joseph to take the child Jesus, and flee to Egypt, and an angel told him when to return. Angels heralded His first advent, and also predicted His second advent, and angels will be with Him when He returns.

There was a time when angels escorted the souls of the redeemed to Paradise, as in the case of the story of Lazarus. Now Jesus comes for us Himself; but, said Mr. Allan in conclusion, I still believe that shining hosts escort us to the other side. Let us learn to look upon death in a different way—it is not so much a departure as an arrival. It is those who remain behind who need to be comforted. It is our loss. The gain is all on the side of those who have fallen asleep in Jesus. The late D. L. Moody, on his death-bed, exclaimed to the watchers, "This is not my dying day—this is my coronation day."

The Evening Prelude.

The evening diet of worship was marked by the usual encouraging attendance of the congregation and friends, when in the course of dealing with the prelude, the first and third questions were answered with short and pointed sentences. The question of the poisoning of dumb animals, dogs and cats was the subject of a disclosure of the number of these brutes, more or less great pets, which have been destroyed lately throughout the city, by means of poisoning. It shows a lack of human feeling and a spirit of cruelty not born of sane people, when so many felines have been done away. One local gentleman has offered a reward, to the Police Department, for information or conviction against anyone so treating a dog or cat. And this is going on the while the Humane Society is asking for kindness to dumb animals.

"Out for a Verdict."

This subject was chosen by Mr. Allan for his evening sermon, the words of the text being found in Joshua 24, verse 5, "chose ye this day."

They are part of Joshua's last charge to the children of Israel, before he passed on to his reward in the presence of God above. "I have no need," said Mr. Allan, "for making use of them at this time in an attempt to do something more than just occupy thirty minutes in preaching a sermon."

Preaching is not an end in itself, although too often it is permitted to be that and nothing more. Preaching is a means to an end. And the value of a sermon is not in its form, but in its effect. The object should always bulk larger than the subject. When a lawyer pleads for the life of a client he is simple in his speech and direct in his appeal. He is not speaking simply for the sake of speaking, but he is speaking with a view to influencing the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of his client. And the jury is never left in doubt as to what his object is.

The same, continued Mr. Allan, should be true of a sermon. It is an attempt, when it is at its best, to get a verdict for Christ!

What Is the Church?

An eminent preacher has reminded us that the church is not the minister's field. Yet, I think, the general impression is that it is his field. The assumption seems to be that he is paid for preaching sermons to a congregation whose responsibility ends when it gathers to listen to these sermons. That when he is not preaching sermons he should be calling on the various members of the congregation—mostly in a social capacity! That so long as he can keep everybody sweet all is well and all concerned ought to be satisfied.

The church is the minister's force! It is to co-operate with him in one common glorious task. Man is a sinner. Christ is the only Saviour. Now is the accepted time and the day of salvation. Sin and pain and heartaches have not gone out of fashion, and the medicine that the ages have tested is the only medicine that will be a remedy.

Not This Kind of Church.

Now, what kind of a church would you like St. Paul's to be? Do you think that it will be all right if we can maintain good attendances at all services—have all bills paid—keep all the members at peace one with another, and have everybody satisfied?

Would it not be important to know the kind of church God wants us to be? He has not left us in doubt! He has expressed His disapproval of such a church as I have tried to describe in the letter to the Laodicean church. And He has left on record a description of the kind of church that makes His heart glad.

This Kind of Church.

It is the Pentecostal church as described in the Acts of the Apostles. That church had no pretentious buildings, and little or none of the current culture. But it knew how to pray so as to make a difference at the other end. It could expound the Scriptures and reach the conscience so as to produce large and lasting results.

Wouldn't you like this church to be a reproduction of the Pentecostal church? Wouldn't you like to feel that God was pleased? Are you willing and ready to pay the price? Will you get back to the Bible? Will you come together for prayer? Will you seek to influence men to think of eternity?

Cease Dreaming.

Don't let us be content with just dreaming about this, let us awake, arise, and attack for God and righteousness. Don't let us argue about it. Let us cease quibbling and start to carry out the Divine commission.

That is God's way. What are you going to do about it? asked Mr. Allan. I am out for a verdict! I may never get the chance to speak to you again. You may die before another Sunday. And in any case you hinder God's work through this church so long as you delay.

Settle, once for all, the question of your relationship to Jesus Christ. Accept Him as your Saviour. Link up with His church, and live so that you will not be to blame if this church is not Pentecostal in its life and passion for the salvation of men and the glory of God.

"Let this night", concluded Mr. Allan, "be a red letter night in your experience! Before you close your eyes in sleep 'choose you this day whom you will serve.' May your verdict be: 'As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.'"

Near the end of the sermon, the lighting of the church failed, and the service concluded with but the pulpit lights shedding their rays through the auditorium.

The music at the evening service was of a varied and high order, the male voices rendering a number, the choir an anthem, and Miss B. Hill a solo.

GEORGE STREET UNITED

The Rev. A. H. McConnachie, B.A., of Springville, took charge of the morning service in George Street United Church on Sunday. His subject was "The Acid Test," and he spoke very forcefully and impressively of the tests that prove the usefulness of the Church of Christ.

A very earnest plea for men of reliability was made by the Rev. J. E. Todd, pastor of George Street United Church, in a challenging and inspiring sermon Sunday evening. Mr. Todd spoke of the value and pleasure derived from the study of the biographies of great men, men who by virtue of their contributions have left their names indelibly imprinted on this old world, and of the particular interest he had taken in study of Peter's life and the different phases of his character.

The text was taken from John 18: 25 (Peter's denial); John 21: 15 (Peter's expression of love; Acts 3rd chapter (Peter's service).

The speaker, in referring to Peter's character, said: "His greatest weakness was his lack of reliability. His nature was impetuous, hasty and erratic, and after boasting of his love for his Master, in time of need he was not to be depended on. In spite of all this, through the power of love Peter made good.

"Men of the present day have the same faults that Peter had. They also may be redeemed through the power of love. At this festive season of the year, when so many hearts are sad and lonely and there is so much want, let us use this power of love and bring brightness and happiness into the lives of those less favored than we."

In conclusion, Mr. Todd said: "The greatest danger of the Church of the present time is the cold indifference and selfishness of its members," and he prayed for men with hearts full of love for mankind who would all pull together in the work of building up the Kingdom of Christ—men of dependability and reliability, who could be counted on in times of need.

KNOX UNITED CHURCH.

Preceeding his sermon at Knox United Church in the morning, , Dr. Henry spoke a few words especially to the boys and girls of the congregation. Dr. Henry, remarked that it had been his custom to do this ever since he first preached in Brandon, Manitoba.

In words that immediately gripped the imagination of the children present. Dr. Henry described the great Scottish National War Memorial in Edinburgh, which was opened last summer by the Prince of Wales, who declared on that occasion "that it was the most impressive ceremony he was ever at." All over the Old Land are cenotaphs built to memorialize the boys who gave their lives in the Great War. No boy or man ever passes the cenotaph at Whitehall, London, without lifting his cap or hat." What are we doing while remembering our boy? he asked.

Dr. Henry concluded his sermonette by saying that the best way the boys and girls of Peterborough could memororialize the soldiers who had made the supreme sacrifice would be to lead good lives and grow up to be the very best citizens they could possibly be.

Dr. Henry took his text from Hebrews III, 12, "Take heed, brethren lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God."

"The fact that God is alive today, present in all the affairs of mankind, is a tremendous truth," declared Dr. Henry, "which we all profess to believe but which is doubtfull if we really do. God is not dead. He is not listless or unconcerned about his children, but He is still a loving protecting Father; He is still in nature, in the world, in history, in Providence: He is not an absolute God. That was the pagan, the Epicurean view concerning Him. He is a very present God. The God of the emancipation of the Israelites is the same God who to-day is the Shepherd of His Flocks. All through the Psalms the present tense is used. "Thou art a very present help in trouble,' sings the psalmist."

Dr. Henry stressed the point that God is working in and through men today. He quoted St. Paul as saying " in Him we live and move and have our being.. "Back of the loaf is the snowy flour." said Dr. Henry, "back of the flour is the meal. Back of the meal are the sun and the rain. All are from God. "God reveals himself to the great leaders of the world. All great movements are directed by him

The great thoughts of Mohammedism, of Buddhism, of Confucianism, were inspired by God. Wherever there is a ray of truth, there is a spark from God In the Old Testament we are told that the artificers in the temple were inspired by God. So all our talents are Divine Gifts.

God is still guiding history. Through everything runs a great purpose. The Bible was not written as a book but through God's guidance, men were shown that the collection of all these writings would be a great thing for his people. And what a comfort is the thought that in all troubles and perplexities God is guiding all. He knew about the Great War before ever it came to pass. The same God who brought peace and civilization out of ancient turmoils, will guide the destines of Russia of China, and of India to-day.

"Knox, Wesley, Gladstone and Lincoln were raised by God to do their work in the world just as were Elijah and David. At a time when some such movement was needed in England, the great Salvation Army came into being. We are all part of God's plan, but we must cooperate, we must do our part. If we do not do the work, God will give it to some one else, and so we shall miss our chance.

"The thought that God is working guiding and inspirng in all things makes life very sacred. It seems to sanctify all our enterprises. It also gives a feeling of intimacey with God which is very precious. We can talk to God, and he talks to us, the fellowship is very sure.

"God is a living personality that will never end. He is nearer to us than breathing, closer than hands and feet. He is our contemporary, He is always with us, yesterday, today and forever, so let us walk in blessed companionship with Him."

SMITH-VARE DEBATE OPENED IN UNITED STATES CONGRESS

Many New Measures Placed Before House at American Capital.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE READ

Norris Demands Approval of Resolutions Denying Oath To Both Men.

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 7 (Associated Press). — Congress moved into high gear yesterday after listening to the reading of the annual message of President Coolidge but without waiting to complete the formalities of actual organization, a problem still worrying the Republican majority in the Senate because of factional strife.

The Senators launched eagerly into the long-awaited contest over the right of Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, both Republicans, to occupy seats to which they were elected, while the House received the $236,000,000 Tax Reduction Bill prepared by its Way and Means Committee, along with another mass of new measures, including the $198,000,000 Deficiency Appropriation Bill.

First attention was given in both Chambers to the reading of the President's message which was received by the Senate in silence, followed by some caustic comment from Southern Senators and with frequent bursts of applause by the more deonstrative House.

Following his custom of last few years, Mr. Coolidge preferred to have the message outlining his hopes for legislation, including moderate tax reduction and touching on farm relief, flood control, and a score of other problems read rather than presented by him in person at a joint meeting of the two Houses.

Approves Appointments.

While the clerks in the Senate and House were reading his lengthy message, the President sent for approval most of the great nunberr of recess appointments he had made during the Congressional recess.

After some quibbling on the floor, the House approved the membership of the Ways and Means and Appropriations Committees, and immediately received measures worked out by these committees.

Chairman Green, of the Ways and Means Committee, gave notice that the Tax Bill—one of the major pieces of legislation to be taken up by the seventieth Congress—would be called up for consideration on Friday, virtually assuring House action on it before the Christmas recess.

In the Senate, Norris, Republican, Nebraska, opened the Smith-Vare debate before a crowded Chamber. Both Smith and Vare were present. Mr. Norris demanded approval of his resolutions to deny the oath to both men without further hearing. Senator Deneen, Republican, of Illinois, spokesman for Smith, followed, and the debate was then carried over until to-day.

Meanwhile, Senate organization was delayed again while Republican regulars sought to iron out difficulties with the five Independents from the west who hold the margin of the slim majority of the party in the organization fight with Democrats.

Confidence was expressed last night, however, that the situation had reached a point virtually assuring Republicans of the majority necessary to re-elect Senator Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tempore; Edward P. Thayer, of Indiana, secretary, and David S. Barry, of Rhode Island, Sergeant-at-Arms, and to give them control of the Senate committees.

tory one for the Chairman to make; such report to be made to the Council of the succeeding year at its first session, but emergencies have cropped up during the year that were unprecedented, hence this report. You are all aware of the unfortunate trouble that necessitated the resignation of the former superintendent. Without citing further than the troubles the former superintendent had with Mrs. Calberry and James Moore. As it did appear that they had been obstreperous and ungovernable and the superintendent was authorized by the Board to have them examined by the Magistrate, who in turn, would have them examined by two doctors; he failed to do so but rather took things in his own hands. Subsequently immediately following misbehaviour and violence of the said inmates the present superintendent had them brought before the magistrate and as a result they are now in institutions properly equipped and operated to successfully handle such unfortunates.

Referring to two men who were suffering from specific trouble, your board, on October 13th, requested the consultation fo two doctors. On being examined by Drs. Scott and Smith, the board were advised to have them removed to institutions suitable to their respective cases. One is now in the Mercy Hospital for Incurables under agreement for the County to pay $1.50 per day for maintenance, with no other charges. He was a regularly committed inmate at the time of removal. The other had been discharged from the House of Refuge early in the year, but after some months, again appeared at the House and allowed to stay there without a recommittal or authority from the Board; and following the return of his trouble, he, at the instance of the report of Drs. Scott and Smith, was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital. The question is, Who maintains him when he leaves the hospital, he not being a regularly committed inmate to such refuge at the time of his removal to the hospital.

The expenditures have been normal considering the difficulties met. The estimate of your finance committee of an expenditure of $10,094.30, will, I candidly think, cover all expenditures for the year.

Up to November the 5th, there has been paid out $7,235.39, leaving yet to meet expenses $2,858.91, which appeals to me to be adequate. Liabilities current at the end of 1926 and liabilities current that will appear at the end of 1927, will I presume not change the standing materially, when one is considered relatively to the other. At a cost of $311.00 the cows purchased have supplied sufficient milk until very recently, and from the fact that milk for six months and twelve days cost $307.50, your board advises the purchase of another milch cow.

The Clerk has been authorized to call for applications for superintendent and matron to be opened at this session for such appointment to be finally made. L. Fry and his wife have been carrying on as Superintendent and Matron some six weeks and appear to be kind to the old people and anxious to give good service.

In conclusion I would ask you to consider the advisability of appointing two members to the Board of Management for a term of five years, to be appointed at the pleasure of the Council.

The ordinary management to be vested in the board who would be responsible to the Council; then of course, the Council responsible to the ratepayers.

Important matters could be recommended by the board subject to the approval of the Council.

The third member to be the Warden who, by virtue of being Warden, shall be chairman.

That every care in the future be taken in the matter of committing feeble-minded persons to the House of Refuge, especially young men and young women.

The honor conferred upon your board is appreciated and on behalf of the board I desire to thank all for the loyal support received.

Jas. Hawthorne, Chairman.

PUPILS DEBATE WORTH OF MEN

Decide Inventor Contributes More To Human Happiness Than Legislator.

AT CAMPBELLFORD H. S.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8.—The third meeting of the Literary Society of the Campbellford High School was held in the assembly room yesterday afternoon. The pupils of the fourth form were responsible for the very excellent program which was given. After the Society had disposed of the usual minutes, and elected Grant Thain as critic for the meeting, the fourth form orchestra displayed its musical talent. This number was greatly appreciated as was also the vocal solo by Irene Dunk. Enid Richardson's reading and the piano solo by Mary Fowlds were also well received.

The topic for the debate was, "Resolved that the inventor had done more toward human happiness than the legislator." This, as is customary at such meetings, was the most interesting number on the program. The resolution was upheld by Thelma Hall and Jack Bygott, while Rosina Clarke and Ralph Speary were on the side of the opposition. In the opinion of the judges, all four speakers expressed themselves very clearly. This made the debate more than usually interesting, and added considerably to the task of the judges. When the time arrived for them to render their decision, Helen Atkinson, Donald Kidd, and Roy Johnston, the judges, gave the decision to the affirmative.

Following the debate, there was another selection by the orchestra and a reading by Edith Elmhurst. After hearing the critic's report which was along the lines of constructive criticism, the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

GOOD PROGRAM BY ELOCUTIONIST

Miss Pearl Newton Delights Campbellford Audience.

OTHERS ASSIST.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8. — The good people of Campbellford turned out in large numbers to the Baptist church of that place last evening for the purpose of hearing Miss Pearl Newton, of Toronto, in an elocutionary programme, under the auspices of the Sunday school. That they were anything but disappointed in the entertainment provided, was attested by the favorable comment heard on all sides at the close of the evening.

The chairman, the Rev. L. M. Smith, discharged his duties in most efficient manner and it was he who briefly announced various numbers contributed by local talent as well as Miss Newton's readings. Campbellford people listed on the program were Misses Turner and Stephens, heard in piano duet, Mr. A. Thompson, Miss V. Shore, Rev. L. M. Smith and Mrs. Smith, vocal soloists and Miss Isabel Bygott rendering a piano instrumental in pleasing manner.

As a character impersonator, Miss Newton proved her versatility, her impersonations ranging from Bridget O'Brien, overflowing with Irish wit, to a tragic Indian maiden devising a plan to defeat unhappy fate and se- "Aren't Men Funny," and a "School and from the infectious humor of "Aren't Men Funny," and a "Scohol Incident," during which Jimmy Jones is compelled, in spite of violent protestations and tears, to read an essay on cats, to the climax of the evening when the audience was treated to an inimitable rendering of the trial scene of "The Merchant of Venice." That, of course, was the "piece de resistance," and Miss Newton did the characters full justice. The Duke, Antonio's resignation to his fate, Bassanio's eagerness, generosity and impetuosity, Portia's serenity and skill and beautiful rendering of the mercy speech, Shylock cringing and greedy till he leaves the court a broken and humiliated creature—all were portrayed with wonderful skill and clarity.

The entertainer of the evening was also most generous with her encores which were of the same high order as the above mentioned numbers.

Following the programme a hearty vote of thanks was accorded all who had taken part. The National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

TOO MUCH GOLF.

FIRST TRAMP (approaching new suburb): What sort o' place is this, mate?

SECOND TRAMP (leaving): Not so bad. Kind-hearted, but a bit too sporty.—Punch.

16 CONDEMNED IN DEATH HOUSE

Number Awaiting Execution at Sing Sing Very Large at Present.

THREE DIE JAN. 9.

OSSINING, N.Y., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — Sing Sing's death house population was near a record yesterday. Joseph Lefkowitz, East Side clothing merchant, sentenced in Brooklyn to die for plotting the death of Benjamin Goldstein, his twenty-year old partner, brought the list of persons awaiting death in the electric chair to sixteen.

Lefkowitz and others have been sentenced to die the week of January 9th, but in all except three cases appeals automatically delay the execution. Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, the only woman in the death house, and Henry Judd Gray, convicted of killing the woman's husband in Queen's Village, Long Island, are the most prominent members of the grim little community. They will be executed the week of January 9. Their sentences, together with that of Charles J. Doran, convicted of murder during a hold-up in Albany, were upheld recently by the Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal in the State.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS MEET

Fowl Supper Held at Brickley, With One Hundred and Twenty-five Present.

A unique event in the history of the Brickley Cheese Factory took place on Thursday evening, November 24th, when the patrons and shareholders assembled in the local schoolhouse and partook of a sumptuous fowl supper. The programme for the evening opened with a few introductory remarks from the President, J. L. Doherty, who acted as chairman in his usual efficient manner. The speaker extended a cordial welcome to all, after which followed community singing. Guests numbering one hundred and twenty-five were then seated to tables laden with all things good to eat. During the supper musical selections were rendered by the Davey orchestra, also community singing, both of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

J. Irwin, the Dominion Government Cheese Grader, was present and in a short but impressive manner outlined the value of the cheese industry, also quoting figures as compiled by Dominion statistics. The speaker stated that out of every hundred dollars worth of cheese exported, $83.32 was returned to the producer; butter, $76.23; live stock, $58.00; other commodities accordingly lower. He also added that up to the present time the County of Northumberland ranked the highest in No. 1 cheese in the Province of Ontario, but there was a possibility of losing that standing during the balance of the season due to the excess of turnip feeding.

J. A. Murray, the dairy instructor for this district, was then called upon to address the meeting. His opening remarks were words of congratulations to the executive on being the originators of events of this nature in this district. The ambitions of the speaker was to advise dairymen regarding the improved condition in caring of milk, which he did in a very forceful but appealing manner.

Other speakers of the evening were W. V. Drewry, of Warkworth, a Director of the U.D.C., who was greeted with much applause. In his remarks he referred to the activities of the United Dairymen Co-operation Co. and their splendid progress in the sale and marketing of Ontario cheese. T. J. Lynch, President of Ormonde Cheese Factory, Hastings, complimented the officers of the Brickley Cheese Co. on the success of the evening. D. J. Turney, cheesemaker, was grateful for the co-operation given him during his season's work. R. Honey, J. O'Reilley and C. J. McCleary gave short speeches after which the evening was brought to a close by the chairman thanking one and all for their generous response in making the evening a decided success, and the singing the National Anthem.

Antiseptically clean FALSE TEETH mean a sweet, comfortable, mouth

FRESH, sweet false teeth every day, accomplished without any laborious brushing—is the promise HYGEOL offers.

Its cleansing action (harmless to the teeth, themselves) removes all food particles, discolorations, odors, and that tenacious greasy film. It also completely sterilizes the false teeth.

This work is accomplished by leaving the teeth immersed for twenty minutes in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water. This can be done most conveniently while dressing. At the end of that time, the teeth need only to be rinsed to complete the thorough cleansing.

If preferred, teeth can be left overnight in a weaker solution—one teaspoonful of HYGEOL to a glass of water. Results are equally good.

The members of Eastern Star, L.O.B.A., motored to Keene on Friday evening and in conjunction with Quahnelsba L.O.B.A. lodge of Keene, surprised Miss Laura Richardson, past mistress of the Keene lodge, who is leaving shortly to train as a nurse. After expressions of good wishes to Miss Richardson and hopes for her success in her new work, she was presented by the Eastern Star L.O.B.A. with a silk umbrella and by Quahnelsba lodge wtih a beautifully fitted club bag. Vimy Ridge lodge, of Peterborough, sent her a handsome purse. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and dainty refreshments were served.

A very attractive tea and sale of work and home-made candy was held under the auspices of St. John's C.W.A. at the beautiful home of Mrs. E. Stratford Martin, 273 Hunter Street yesterday afternoon. The various rooms looked lovely with open wood fires burning and delicately shaded light, which gave them a very hospitable air. Mrs. A. H. Stratton, President of the C.W.A., received the guests, and did much towards making the affair a success Mrs. E. S. Martin was a very gracious hostess and in her genial friendly manner, made the visitors feel at home. Rev. Dr. Blagrave was present. Those in charge of the tea room were Mrs. H. A. Morrow, who presided very efficiently, assisted by Mrs. C. L. Brewer, Mrs. H. W. Darcey, Mrs. G. Wesley and Mrs. Arthur E. Caddy. Miss L. Rubidge and Mrs. Bender poured tea. The table was spread with a handsome cloth of fine Maderia linen with an insertion of Florentine point lace, and a deep border of the Florentine lace of lovely design. There were also inserts of small square medallions. The decorations consisted of tall silver candlesticks, with pale orange candles. The centrepiece was a high vase of Dresden marble, surmounted by a deep pierced dish of marble holding a fern. This marble vase is antique. Silver vases holding yellow narcissus, and baby 'mums and ferns, and small pierced silver dishes holding salted nuts and bonbons, gave the table a very festive air. Large silver dishes held dainty sandwiches. There were two silver tea services of beautiful design, on large silver trays, while swan-shaped vases, filled with flowers completed a very exquisite scheme of decorations. Those in charge of the candy table were Mrs. Herbert Morphet and Mrs. L. W. Scott. The table, which was spread with a fine linen cloth, was decorated with two vases of orange calendulas, matching the containers which held candles. There was a fine assortment of candies which found a ready sale. Those in charge of the fancy-work table were Mrs. J. H. Comstock, convener, Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Hungerford. The table had a fine linen cloth and two table lamps with pink shades. There was also a vase with white 'mums, pink carnations, yellow narcissus and ferns. There was a large assortment of fine-knit woollen goods, embroidered table centres, luncheon sets, etc.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"If Cherry worried half as much about herself and her affairs of the heart as I worry about them for her, she'd stay out of at least half of the emotional messes in which she's always involved." Faith reflected with a good deal of scorn for herself and a little contempt for for herself and a little contempt for Cherry. The other emotion which she would not admit, because no woman can ever be wholly honest with herself and bear to live with herself thereafter, was envy for that very quality of Cherry's which was endlessly involving her in heart entanglements. Faith's own love life had been so narrow, however deep it might have been—and she had to console herself that at least it had been deep—that she had long since become accustomed to living vicariously in Cherry's hectic existence. So, while she was genuinely worried about this strange new situation in which Cherry apparently found herself, she was also enjoying it, feeding her own rather starved heart on the excitement of it.

Accustomed as she was, even if she could never quite understand them, to Cherry's lightning changes of mood, Faith expected to see a radiant, exhilarated Cherry come home from the office that afternoon to get ready for her hastily trumped-up date with Bruce Patton.

But when Cherry did arrive at six o'clock with Bob, Faith found that she had again guessed wrong. Bob parked the car before the house, and Faith, watching from the front window, saw her husband and her sister coming up the walk together but separated as far as the flagstone path would permit. They had evidently been quarreling, or at least talking with deadly seriousness, for Bob's lean, tanned face was grim, his mouth set with that rigidity that always sent a shiver of fear over his wife's nerves. And even from that distance, Faith could see that Cherry was even more pale and wretched than she had been that morning after her sleepless night.

Bob said something out of the corner of his mouth, not looking at her, his eyes grimly fixed on the path and Cherry answered with a stubborn but listless shake of her head, a gesture which seemed infinitely tragic to the woman who was watching them with her heart beating heavily with foreboding and a new, almost unbearable throb of the jealousy which had tormented her for months. What had those two been talking about—or quarreling about? What right had they to be so intimate that they could hurt each other like that? Faith wanted to fling open the door and hurl harsh, hurting questions and accusations at them.

Hatred of Cherry surged through her veins until she trembled. But by the time Bob's hand was on the door knob Faith was ready for them, an artificial, set smile on her lips. And when the door opened upon them they were ready for her, Cherry with a gay greeting and Bob with a casual word and a light kiss that would have deceived Faith if she had not seen them in those brief, revealing moments when they had thought they were unobserved. How often had they been forced to rearrange their faces before permitting her to see them?

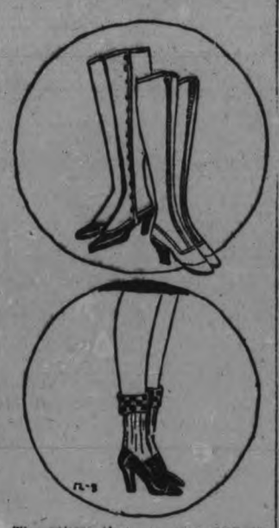
A novelty in women's stockings is made of shaded silk growing gradually darker in tone towards the back of the leg, an effect achieved in order to make the wearer's ankles appear much smaller than they really are.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



The gaiters that are worn now are very high like those shown above at the left. Gaiter-topped shoes are chosen for cold weather outdoor wear by some well-dressed women. Below is shown a pair of knitted sport socks, a daring innovation in the street costume of a well-dressed woman. They are of brown and beige and are worn with brown shoes over silk stockings with a brown tailored suit.

Signs that winter really is upon us and that the up-to-date young American girl is not above dressing for the weather may be encountered almost any day now Not of course in the appearance of fur coats for there is hardly a day in the year when some sort of fur coat may not be seen—and not in the appearance of woolen stockings because few women wear them in the city and plenty of women wear them for sports wear in the country.

True harbingers of winter appear in the form of overshoes of one sort or another and this season they are with us in most attractive guise. And here and there you even see gaiters! Some fashion prophets predict their revival.

If you still hold to the opinion that short hair is more easily kept in order than long hair or really believe women when they tell you that the only reason they wear theirs short is because it takes so much less time to keep in condition, just contemplate the new bob sets that women carry about with them solely for the purpose of keeping their short locks in order. When long hair was the rule we took it for granted that it would stay in order at least until we got home.

The newest of these bob sets are held in little cases covered with lizard or other fine leather and just large enough to contain a handless bursh and a short comb.

Women nowadays cannot quite overlook their motor cars in choosing their outside wraps and hats. If your sports car is of a delicate turquoise blue you should hardly choose a sports coat of purple tones. Some of the French dressmakers advise wraps for motor wear of neutral colors or black that make smart contrast with the greens, blues, mauves and other colors so often used for smart motor cars. Others advocate wraps that match the cars exactly.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1927.

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day in which there are contending planetary influences.

In the morning the aspects are adverse to trade and it may seem that business conditions are discouraging.

While it is wise to be careful in all commercial transactions there is promise of great gains through expanding foreign trade.

All the signs seem to presage tremendous international business enterprises in which American projects girdle the globe.

The planetary rule is most favorable to making plans and to hearing promoters who have real foresight.

One of the most profitable of industries in the new year should be the quarrying of marble and other building materials.

As the year dies there may be a tendency to despondency, for a strong aspect that encourages self-analysis prevails.

Both men and women may experience a change from egotism, which has been prevalent, to humility in the coming fortnight.

Again the seers prophesy a change of attitude toward life and a return to saner and more sober standards of amusement.

The evening of this day should be an auspicious time for social entertainments, especially for those that veil ambitious designs.

If the stars are rightly interpreted the holiday season will bring heavy storms to many cities and it is well to shop early.

Under this sway women will succeed best by catering to the vanity of men, who will be unusually quick to respond to flattery.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of great happiness in which love affairs and friendships count for much.

Children born on this day probably will be talented. Many artists are born under this sign, which brings many friends.

ONE of the commonest obstacles to the average woman's peace-of-mind was the old-time "sanitary pad." Uncertain and unsafe, it has now been supplanted with scientific protection that is absolute.

With the amazing absorbency of 16 times its own weight in moisture, KOTEX, the new way, is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad. It is the only sanitary pad filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent.

Also, it deodorizes while it acts. Also—it discards easily as tissue. No laundry, no disposal embarrassment. Obtain at any store. 12 in a box.

Note particularly that the package is marked KOTEX. If not, don't accept — it is not genuine Kotex.

ERROR MADE IN MEETING TIME

Counties Council's Motion To Adjourn Consequently Made in Writing.

OFFICIALS HEARD.

An error on the part of some of the members or officials caused some delay in yesterday afternoon's session of the Counties Council of Durham and Northumberland. While it was generally understood that the session would begin at 2.30, some of the members believed the time set to be 3.30. Consequently the Warden did not take his chair and call the Council to order till 3.35 . W. H. Nelson of Percy and W. T. Wood of Millbrook were absent.

When the minutes had been read, W. J. Maher, Cobourg, objected to their being accepted as correct, since there had been an error in the hour set. Col. MacNaughton, clerk, replied that he would require all motions to be made in writing. This was, he claimed, the correct legal procedure, but before there was any further discussion, a motion was passed accepting the minutes as correct as read.

In the communications read, there was a letter from the Globe Indemnity Company which had been presented by Col. Boggs, K.C., Cobourg. It referred to the case of the Counties vs. Crane, which involved an amount of $7,500. The company claimed liability to the extent of only $5,000, and asked that this be brought to the attention of the Council. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee and an invitation extended to Col. Boggs to be present when it came up for discussion.

There were no committees to report, and no readings of by-laws to be passed, so Warden Elliott asked for any unfinished business. Under this head W. C. Ward advised the Council that Dr. J. T. Daly, superintendent of the Children's Shelter at Port Hope, was present and suggested that he be asked to speak on the matter of the transfer of the Patrick children to the Shelter in Belleville.

Dr. Daly said the matter had been reported by the Court and an investigation had taken place. He thought the law was very clear on such matters, and proceeded to give some details of the case. The family had resided in Stockdale. The mother was dead, and the children had been put under the care of the husband's mother-in-law. Later the father became involved in some matter in the Court and was lodged in jail for a time. During this period the mother-in-law received no compensation from him for the care of his children, and the result was they were lodged in the shelter.

By this time the father was given his liberty and again took over the care of his own children. He had a home and was supporting them.

Asked about the account rendered, Dr. Daly said that it was a "just bill." He also gave an explanation which seemed to satisfy his questioner as to why the wards had been transferred to Belleville and not kept in Port Hope. The account was referred to the Finance Committee.

H. Bedal, Brighton Township, then gave notice that he would present a notice of amendment to By-law 1162.

Bovine Tuberculosis.

Mr. Smith, Northumberland Agricultural Representative, was asked to address the Council on the matter of bovine tuberculosis. He said that it would appear that his efforts had fallen flat, but that an interview with the Minister of Agriculture had revealed the fact that haste was not necessary. The situation in Ontario is well in hand, and has all the free area which it requires for the present. He further stated that nothing much could be done till further requests were entered or the Minister changed his mind. Mr. Smith also mentioned the fact that other districts were getting busy after free areas.

As a word of encouragement to the councillors, he quoted the Minister of Agriculture as saying that the triangle of Eastern Counties would be favorably considered if the Provincial (Ontario) Minister endorsed the idea. The Federal Department, he claimed, had not spent one-third of the sum appropriated for this purpose.

Another difficulty which was going to stand in the way of the Free Area proposition was the lack of expense money for transportation of the government representatives and veterinaries engaged in the work. He did not think a farmer ought to be asked to leave his work when he was in the middle of a busy season to drive the representatives on their tours of duty. Nor did he think the farmer should have to pay a man to fill his place while away on such an errand.

There are, he said, 90,000 head of cattle in the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. A small tax of ten cents per head would, he thought, provide funds for transportation purposes. This would not be a heavy drain on any farmer's funds and would be a convenient and suitably efficient method of meeting the emergency. The fund, Mr. Smith said, thus provided, would have to be carefully used as it would not allow anything like extravagant expenditure.

If this matter met with the approval of the council, it would be a great boost for the proposition when it was brought before the government for approval. He thought the fee very reasonable and that the farmer with ten cows ought not to be opposed to paying one dollar for the service he would be getting.

In concluding, Mr. Smith volunteered to explain as far as he could any matter upon which anyone wished to question him. There were no inquiries forthcoming, but Warden Elliot suggested that A. McKay, convenor of the Committee on Agriculture, get in touch with Mr. Smith.

The motion to adjourn till 2.30 p. m. Thursday was made in writing by Councillors Wight and Beadle. Col. MacNaughton was not slow to see that it was a little good-natured retort to what he had said at the opening of the meeting.

"Thank you, gentlemen," he said. "That is business."

It is understood that while some of the committees will be ready to bring in their reports at to-day's session the majority of the reports will not be heard till Friday.

Col. MacNaughton's announcement that he would hold a sale of lands in his office this morning, at ten o'clock, seemed to be a matter of interest to several councillors. These lands are sold subject to the law regarding arrears in taxes and the prices are very low indeed.

NURSE SUCCUMBS AFTER ACCIDENT

Dies in Windsor Hospital Without Regaining Consciousness.

WINDSOR, Dec. 8.--Knocked down and run over last night at 11.30 o'clock by an automobile in charge of Norman Renaud of 222½ Peter Street, West Sandwich, Mrs. Josephine Herr, nurse, 38 years of age, of 101 Wellington Avenue, Windsor, was fatally injured. She died soon after arrival at Grace Hospital without regaining consciousness.

According to Renaud, who is being held for investigation, Mrs. Herr must have run in front of his car during a blinding rainstorm, which was accompanied by a wind of hurricane velocity. Renaud said he never saw Mrs. Herr until she was run over. The fatality happened at the intersection of Askin Boulevard and Wyandotte Street, Sandwich.

ST. THOMAS ASKS TO BE RELIEVED

Is Paying Half Cost of Guards at L. and P. S. Crossings.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 8.—A special meeting of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners will be held here on Thursday, Dec. 15, to consider the city's application to be relieved from contributing to the cost of crossing-guard maintenance at the London & Port Stanley Railway Company's crossing in the city.

At present the city is required to pay about one-half the costs of crossing guards, under an order made by the board when the city adopted the one-man street car operating system. Since that order was made the city has scrapped its street cars and now has not even motor busses operating.

The board will also deal with the application of the St. Thomas Chamber of Commerce and the Empire Flour Mills to have Port Stanley declared a lake port and placed in the same category as Collingwood, Goderich, Owen Sound and other ports on the Great Lakes, so far as freight schedules on wheat and wheat products are concerned.

Michael Ormond Has Skull Fractured When Thrown Against Wagon.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., December 8 (Canadian Press).—Michael Ormond, a young man employed upon the Provincial Highway construction in the Township of Kitley, six miles north of Toledo Village, met death last evening when a cave-in, occurring in a quarry in which he was at work, threw him sharply against a waggon, resulting in a fracture of the skull from which he died almost immediately. Ormond was previously employed by Daniel McCarthy, a farmer in the vicinity, and, it is understood, leaves a mother in Springfield, Mass. Dr. E. J. F. Williams, coroner, of Brockville, is conducting an investigation.

Woollen Industry Considering Merger

MONTREAL, December 8. — The Street understands that negotiations of a definite character are under way that would bring together all of the important woollen mills in Canada. The woollen industry in this country has for some years now been in an unhappy state, largely as a result of the keen competition from English and European mills. An appeal is at present pending before the Tariff Advisory Board at Ottawa for some relief from this foreign competition, and any favorable action in this respect, coupled with amalgamation as above outlined would place the industry on a sound footing.

Among the mills likely to come into the consolidation are mentioned Canadian Woollens, Paton Manufacturing, the Barrymore Woollen Company, and R. Forbes & Company. Paton is located in the Province of Quebec, while all of the others are in Ontario.

It is understood that the Montreal Securities Corporation are carrying on the negotiations in connection with the merger, but no confirmation of this was obtainable from that source.

In a report to the Tariff Board the Woollen Association recently pointed out that imports supplied 70 per cent. of the Canadian woollen market for manufactured woollen goods. It was further pointed out that there is a market in Canada for $40,000,000 worth of woollen cloth per year, and that only a third of the market is supplied by Canadian mills, while two-thirds of the market are supplied by mills in other countries.

Drop In Corn Prices Influences Other Grain

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Grain prices went lower early today, influenced by the bearish construction placed on monthly unofficial crop reports. According to one authority the corn crop east of the Mississippi is 241,000,000 bushels less than last year, but west of the river is 249,000,000 bushels more. Opening unchanged to ¼c higher, corn subsequently underwent a decided general setback. Wheat started unchanged to ¼c off and later declined all around. Oats were weak. Provisions held about steady. Opening prices were: Wheat, December 129¼, March 132¾. Corn, December 91⅛, March 95¼. Oats, December 52⅝, March 55⅝.

Toronto Market Weak With Many Declines

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The market on the Toronto Stock Exchange was weaker today in fairly heavy trading. Brazilian sold down five points at 224, the largest loss on the board, while City Dairy lost three at 210, and Loblaw more than two points at 94¾. International Nickel, Seagrams, American Sales Book, and Arnolds were lower. Canadian Oil in active dealings gained a point at 45, and International Utilities issues firmed. British American Oil firmed an eight at 38 but Imperial, McColl, and Petroleum eased slightly. Liquor stocks were steady. Cockshutt Plow Preferred was the strongest stock on the list with an advance of seven at 112.

Mine Trading Quieter; Tendency Downward

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Stocks turned irregular in much quieter trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today. The tendency again was downward but was offset by a number of moderate gains. Dome recovered twenty at 12.85 and McIntyre 15 at 26.40, while Amulet, Crown Reserve, Granada, Potter Doal and Teck Hughes were firmer. Recessions were marked up in Argonaut, Aconda, Bidgood, Howey, Laval Quebec, Amity, and Central Manitoba, among others. Trading was under the million share mark for the first time in many sessions.

Reaction Continues In New York To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The reaction in stock prices was continued to-day despite repeated efforts of operators for the advance to regain control of the price movement. The political uncertainties created by the definite withdrawal of President Coolidge, fears of higher interest rates aroused by higher coupons on new treasury financing, and disappinting steel trade reports were the principal reasons assigned for the selling movement. "Bear" traders attacked a wide variety of issues, some of which declined sufficiently to dislodge weakened marginal accounts.

The raising of the annual dividend on the Southern Railway common from $7 to $8 annually brought about a brisk covering movement around mid day but it soon petered out. Banks called about $5,000,000 in loans but call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of four per sent.

Publication of the final government cotton estimate of 12,789,000 bales, a decrease of about 53,000 bales below the preceeding month, was about in line with the trade's expectations. An early advance of about $1 bale in cotton futures was not maintained.

FESTIVE DRESS SOON TO ADORN GEORGE STREET

Kiwanis Club, Friday Night Club and Utilities Commission Co-operate.

LIGHTS AND TREES.

Another Sign Shown of New Community Spirit in Peterborough.

George street will this year present a festive appearance over the Christmas season through the co-operation of three local organizations.

Two weeks ago the idea was brought to the Kiwanis executive by Harry C. Huffman chairman of the Public Affairs committee, and approved. When Ross L. Dobbin, superintendent of the City's Utilities, was approached, he expressed wholehearted sympathy with the project, and the assistance of the Utilities Commission was speedily promised by the members.

Then Kiwanis Club called on the Friday Night Club for help and as a result there will be twenty members of that organization ready to help on Tuesday evening next when the Christmas trees arrive. The plan is to have a twelve-foot tree fastened to every pole on George street from King to McDonnel street, and a short way along the side streets. With the colored lights so quickly installed by the Utilities Commission, the resulting display should be very effective.

The cost of the lighting is being done by the Utilities Commission, and of the trees and cartage by Kiwanis Club.

RUMOR DENIED BY INSPECTOR

Did Not Order Use of French as Tuition Language in Schools.

IN WINDSOR DISTRICT.

WINDSOR, Ont., December 8 (Canadian Press). — "In no school at any time did I give instructions that English should not be taught."

Thus Joseph Lapensee, Inspector of French-English Schools in Essex County, this morning flatly denied the rumors, emanating from Toronto, that he had ordered the teaching sisters of the Ursuline and St. Joseph's orders to abandon English as the language used in classroom instruction and substitute French as the official language for tuition purposes.

Last night, in the absence of any denial from Inspector Lapensee, who refused to either confirm or deny the rumor until shortly before noon today, Premier Ferguson, speaking as Minister of Education, is reported as saying: "It is apparent that the inspector has either exceeded his authority or misunderstood his instructions."

About the same time, A. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, wired Mr. Lapensee, asking him to report at Toronto for an explanation of the order attributed to him.

U.F.O. VOTES FOR INQUIRY

Will Investigate Charges Made Against Morrison By Hepburn.

DEBATE IS BITTER.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — The "family compact" charges made by Mitchell Hepburn, M. P., for Elgin west, attacking J. J Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, will be probed before the U. F. O. this afternoon. A motion calling for the ventilation of these charges made by M. M. Kneale, South Oxford, at the convention this morning, precipitated a brief but bitter discussion.

"We don't want mudslinging" called out one delegate while another offered a counter motion that Mr. Kneale's be declared out of order.

Secretary Morrison himself, however, insisted that the charges be ventilated, the motion having been made. Mr Kneales proposal was made after the delegates had voted on the election of the President and before the ballots had been counted. Secretary Morrison was in the chair during the proceeding of the election but he left it when the motion was made.

"I am a charged man, and as such have no right to sit in the chair," he informed the convention. It was finally decided to delve into the charges against Mr. Morrison after the noon adjournment when the result of the vote for President has been announced.

MAJOR-MINOR PACT IS TAKEN UNDER DEBATE

No Action Taken on Draft Question at National Association Convention.

HOPE EARLY SETTLEMENT.

Committee Formed To Discuss Matter of Life of Agreement.

DALLAS, Texas, December 8 (Associated Press). — Minor league grievances over the present major-minor draft code, and the controversy over the life of the agreement covering relations between the major and minor leagues, were briefly aired on the floor of the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues here yesterday.

No action was taken on the draft question, although it provoked a lengthy discussion, but the matter of the life of the major-minor agreement was referred to a committee for a construction of apparently conflicting clauses.

The major-minor agreement was drawn up seven years ago to furnish the upper and lower strata of baseball with a code to rule organizations between major league organizations and the smaller circuits. One clause of the agreement seems to indicate that the understanding is to last several years, in which event the document would become inoperative next season. In another part the language apparently indicates that the agreement is to be binding during the life of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of Baseball. Still another section of the instrument seems to make its life 25 years.

Some minor leagues, chafing under the present draft law or other phases of the agreement, hope that the understanding will terminate this year so that a new agreement can be drawn up.

AMATEUR SPORTS ON SMOOTH BASIS

Co-operation Was Keynote of Success of Meeting, Says President.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press). —That amateur athletics in Canada were on a firm and exceptionally smooth basis was the opinion of Dr. A. S. Lamb, of McGill, new president of the amateur athletic union of Canada, upon his return here yesterday from the annual meeting at Edmonton.

"Co-operation between the various branches of athletics was the keynote of the success of our meeting," said Dr. Lamb, "and we feel that everything is in order for the Olympic Games next year as far as Canada is concerned."

The main topics of which the new president spoke upon his return were the approaching Olympic Games and Canada's possibilities in them. He was appointed general manager of Canada's team at the meeting in the West, and will now arrange for the trials which are to be run off early next summer.

According to Dr. Lamb, all departments of amateur sport will be well represented. For the first time for years Lacrosse will have a representative. The New Westminster team won the Canadian championship last summer from Weston will be the team to represent the Dominion. It will possibly be augmented by a number of players from other sections of Canada to make the team as representative as possible..

Dr. Lamb had no doubt that the Varsity Grads would bring the hockey championship again to Canada.

LAKEFIELD HOCKEY LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Entry List Will Be Open Until Dec. 24—O.H.A. Players Distributed.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8.—A meeting was held on Monday evening, December 5th in the Veterans' room of the Memorial Hall to organize for the hockey season. There were present about a dozen young men representing the various teams.

Dr. M. P. Kennedy occupied the chair and stated that Lakefield had entered a team in the Intermediate O.H.A. and were grouped with Bobcaygeon and Havelock.

It was moved by Dr. Kennedy and seconded by John Sabatino that the District League eb organized as in former years and that in the event of the O.H.A. intermediates playing in it that not more than two shall play in the same team.

The teams wishing to enter the District League be organized as in so before December 24 and then the necessary business arrangements will be made.

The executive will consist of the president and secretary and one member of each team entering.

BIDDING FOR BIG CONVENTION

Toronto in Field For Annual Gathering of Minor Leaguers.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—Toronto is in the running for the 1928 convention of the National Association of professional baseball clubs according to reports from Dallas, where the minors are holding their annual pow wow. Messrs. Solman, Dunn, and O'Hara, the representatives of the local club at the gathering in their bid for support are boosting the Queen City's pretensions with a banner emblazoned with the significant slogan, "Come to Toronto, the city of freedom, in 1928." Chattanooga, Tenn., is the other city in the field for the big event, and apparently have the inside track.

The news also leaks out from the Texas town that Rochester is in the market for Bob Lamotte, whose short stopping was not quite up to specifications for the Leafs last season. The Colts can have the infielder and welcome, but before they get the former big leaguer, they will have to show Manager O'Hara something tangible. There seems to be some question as to who owns the Rochester club, although it was announced some time ago that Walter Hagen and John Ganzel had taken over the club and franchise. Apparently the noted golfer and equally as well known baseball veteran haven't come through with the collateral as yet. With Cote, late of Toledo, coming to Toronto, the Leafs have no place for Lamotte, who is a much better performer at that than he showed here.

Manager Stallings at Montreal is hustling and it will not be his fault if the Royals are not heard from next season. The ex-miracle man recognizes that he must have a winner to make the grade in the Quebec metropolis and is not loafing on the job. He has signed Bill Amos, a catcher from Washington and Jefferson College, and Rene Lafayette, a first baseman from the Texas league.

Horseshoe Experts Arrange Tourney

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8.—A challenge has been posted in several store windows, "Who is the best pitcher of horseshoes in Lakefield." A tournament has been arranged in the Lakefield rink for Thursday and Friday evenings. A practice was held on Wednesday to give the enthusiasts a chance to get into form. Percy Spence, the energetic secretary-treasurer of the Curling Club is also secretary-treasurer of the horseshoe club. This is a novelty and will attract a large number of players and also a number of fans.

CURLERS WILL FORM ONE BODY

Play For Dominion Championship at Granite Club, Toronto.

COME FROM WEST.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. —Pave the way for a Dominion Curling Association. It may not come this winter, and then again it might. But inevitably it must come, and to the firm of W. L. Macdonald, Inc., will be awarded much of the credit for bringing about a much desired consummation.

When the Macdonald establishment last December donated the Macdonald Brier Trophy for perpetual competition among rinks seeking the Canadian championship, it laid the corner stone for the foundation of a parent body that will promote the roarin' game on a bigger, better and considerably more organized scale than at any time in the past; for the various provincial and sectional curling bodies have sorely felt the need of a dominion association.

This winter, starting on Feb. 22, at the Granite Club, the trophy will undergo its second annual siege, and with word that the west is going to be represented on a much larger scale than last year comes tiding from the east that the New Brunswick Curling Association has thrown out the suggestion that without much further ado the other provinces immediately start talking about the formation of a parent body.

Word to this effect was secured from George J. Cameron of Winnipeg, general manager of the W. L. MacKenzie Company, western representative of the Macdonald firm, who has been visiting Toronto, Edmonton Calgary, Saskatoon and Regina for the purpose of outlining the rules of the 1928 dominion playdown.

The west, according to Mr. Cameron, who is curler of no inconsiderable note himself, is to be represented by three rinks this winter instead of one, in the Macdonald Brier Trophy competition. A year ago the donors of the silverware paid all expenses of one quartet east—the Barkwell rink from Yellowgrass, Saskatchewan, survivors of a special playdown among western rinks in Winnipeg. Now, each of the three prairie provinces is to send four curlers to Toronto, whose transportation and travelling expenses (with the exception of their actual stay in the Queen City of the East), will be covered by the Macdonald Brier people.

"Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba can declare their own champions any way they see fit," said Mr. Cameron. "British Columbia, where curling is hardly a major sport, will eliminate in Alberta. Seven eastern rinks will make up a field of ten stellar combinations all striving for Dominion curling honors."

Only the expenses of the three western rinks will be covered by the donors added Mr. Cameron. Eastern Canada will be expected to pay its own way. Its seven delegations will consist of two Ontario rinks (the winners of the Ontario Tankard and the Canada Life winners), one from Northern Ontario, one from Montreal one from Quebec province, one from Nova Scotia, and one from New Brunswick.

Halifax won the Macdonald Brier Trophy last winter, though given a merry run by the Barkwell troupe from Saskatchewan.

Considerable pleasure over the proposed "opening up" of the dominion curling playdown, and the possibility of a Canadian body at no distant date, was evinced by George Peacock president of the Saskatchewan association, and Secretary Jimmy Armstrong.

"The Macdonald Brier competition is a wonderful thing on behalf of organized curling,' said Mr Peacock, "and Saskatchewn, for one, would be vastly pleased to help the proposed dominion organization get on its feet."

"You can trade any player on the Browns," is the word that Owner Phil Ball has slipped to Manager Dan Howley. "You couldn't win with that ball club, so give them new faces," is said to be the ultimatum the Browns' pilot received.

That makes it appear as if a number of the Browns might figure in trades during the coming winter. It is understood that Ball has expressed a willingness to trade any player in the line-up of the club if any team can offer something nearly equal in return.

FAMOUS BOXER PASSES AWAY

Alfred Griffith (Young Griffo) Well Known 25 Years Ago.

CLEVER LIGHTWEIGHT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Alfred Griffith, 55, known to fight fans of 25 years ago as Young Griffo, died suddenly yesterday in a basement room on the west side, where he had lived for several years. Acute indigestion was believed to be the cause of death.

He came to this country from Australia and first fought as a featherweight, later moving up to the lightweight class. His most noted ring engagements were against George Dixon, Jack McAuliffe, and Kid Lavigne. He was known as one of the cleverest defensive boxers in the world. He used to wager that he could stand upon a handkerchief and no one could hit him in the face. Another wager he used to win was that no one could knock a cigar out of his mouth.

Fortune turned its back on the once famous fighter in recent years. He earned precarious livelihood peddling papers and doing odd jobs. He was often seen in doorways near the bright light district recounting the glories of bygone years. He had taken on weight and tipped the scales at two hundred pounds.

"Control is a pitcher's greatest asset," says the great Walter Johnson. "That is one thing every pitcher on any club I manage in the minors or majors must work for.

"Wrong methods in warming up are the chief cause of wildness. Most pitchers warm up, seemingly, with but one intent — to limber their muscles before starting the game. That is a serious mistake.

"There should be some thought back of every ball pitched in the preliminary workout just as in the game. I have always made an effort to make my arm answer the call in practice as in a game and therefore have always been favored with good control.

"No pitcher can be truly effective without control."

JACKSON, Minn., December 8. — Announcement that the Montreal International League Club will train here next spring, was made by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Jarvis In Training For Belanger Bout

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—With the championship clash only twelve days away Ernie Jarvis is already down to 115½ pounds which shows that the wide shouldered little Britisher is a rapid worker. When he was here last week Jarvis scaled at 121 pounds and looked it. His bulk caused some comment and Dave Garrity who manages Frenchy Belanger as a consequence held out for a $750 weight forfeit, evidently believing that the boy from over the wild waves would have some trouble in making 112 pounds. But evidently Jarvis was carrying a lot of excess baggage as Secretary Marty Berg of the N.B.A., who is abcking the Shamrock club to the limit, wired Playfair Brown today that Jarvis is training hard and that he will be in the best possible shape when he comes here.

There has already been a great demand for seats, many of the customers asking for blocks of seats. Much care is being taken to prevent the choice locations from falling into the hands of speculators who are the bane of events of importance everywhere.

Belanger is doing his daily dozen with more eagerness than he displayed prior to his bout with Genaro and his handlers are delighted with his progress. They anticipate a sudden finish with Jarvis on the receiving end.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE HEART-THROB

Poet, what tools to make a verse?
Singer, what bricks to build a ballad?
Philosopher, the rule rehearse
To mix an epigram, or salad.
Well, words must match, that much is true,
An epigram be wise and clever,
A song must have its cadence, too,
Yet none of these will live forever.
Each is a fountain on life's way,
And many weary mortals come there,
And each, to live beyond today,
Must have a heart-throb in it somewhere.

I know no other rule than this,
Whether our task be toil or singing.
Life's opportunity we miss
Who only tools to tasks are bringing.
But he who seeks to serve the world,
Who brings to toil some inspiration,
As fair a banner has unfurled
As kings, however low his station.
Whatever deeds are ours to do,
Whether to write a song, or spin it,
Our work must have its purpose, too,
Each task must have a heart-throb in it.

YANKEE LEADER PREPARES FOR FUTURE YEARS

Not Satisfied With His 1927 Champions, Manager on Lookout.

GOING SOUTH

Will Trade Veterans or Juveniles for New Players.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Miller Huggins will move north some time this week from his Winter quarters in St. Petersburg with the idea of picking up some baseball material for the 1928 Yankees. According to the generally accepted views in baseball circles Huggins needs help for his Yankees about as much as Knute Rockne needs a haircut but that does not keep Mr. Huggins from looking around.

Those 1927 Yankees look good enough to travel farther and higher as the years go by, if one is to take the records of the fading year as a true test of strength. But Mr. Huggins rates last season's records and last Winter's snowfall in the same dead past. He is more interested in what his athletes will do in 1928. Some of the champs have gone, to recall the recent releases of Shawkey and Reuther, and some more are going.

New Crop on Hand.

In the reserve list of the 1928 Yankees there are to be found several names that at this time mean not a thing to major league fans. But the Ruths, the Meusels, the Pennocks and others who have made baseball history for the Yankees must be replaced before many seasons go by and it is up to Mr. Huggins to have a new crop ready when the old guard passes on its way.

At this season of the year a major league club is permitted to carry forty players on its reserve list and one notes on the Yankee roster such names as Herbert Bryant, Samuel D. Byrd, A. S. Campbell, Allan Cook, William B. Dickey, Joseph Marticovena, Louis A. McAvoy, Roy Sherid and Floyd Van Pelt. These may all be classed as strangers, whose names mean no more than Joe Whoozis, but it may not be long before fans at the Stadium will hear such announcements as:

"Marticovena now batting for Ruth."

"Van Pelt now running for Combs."

"Campbell, number umpty-umph on the score card, now hitting for Gehrig."

They all travel over the same route on which these youngsters are about to start. Some make the grade, and no doubt there will be some Yankee juveniles of the coming Spring who will be favorites in The Bronx a few years hence.

Besides the players named above there are some others who have been mentioned previously in connection with the Yanks, but who have yet to make the grade. They will be shooting for places in the sun. Pitchers Jim Wiltse and Sam Cannon and Outfielder Elias Funk all worked out at the training camp last Spring. Leo Durocher and Al Shealy have spent a season in the St. Paul prep school and they will be on deck, probably to stay. Gene Robertson, a newcomer to the Yankees, is a former major league star.

A Good Fielder.

Durocher is said to be a better fielder now than Koenig, but he is not likely to drive the Yankee shortstopper out. His hitting is hardly good enough for that, to judge from past performances.

With most of his championship array still at hand, together with this new crop of future greats, Mr. Huggins is not satisfied. He realizes that the day he believes his team is strong enough to stand pat, that day decline will set in. He is coming here to buy or trade veterans or juveniles if the right opportunity develops. On the 1927 returns his club was all that anybody could ask. But the trained eyes of Mr. Huggins have detected some of his veterans moving fast out of the major league picture.

"They said after the 1923 series that we were set for years," the Yankee leader recalls. "We could not even win a pennant in 1924. The same nice things were said about the Senators after the 1924 series; about the Pirates in 1925, and about the Cardinals in 1926. You know how far these clubs got in the way of repeating. None of the home runs, base hits or fine pitching of 1927 will help the Yankees of 1928."

So Mr. Huggins moves up to the counter to see what the other gentlemen may have to sell or trade.

FRANCE LEADS TENNIS RANKING

Lacoste's Victories Over Tilden Place French Ace at Head.

WOMEN'S STANDINGS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., December 8 (Associated Press). — The rise of the French tennis star in 1927 is reflected in the annual classification of the "world's first ten" by A. Willis Myers, British tennis expert, which appears in the current official bulletin of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Rene Lacoste's four decisive victories over William T. Tilden 2nd place the French ace at the head of the ranking ten, but the dethroned king of international tennisdom is rated second over Henri Cochet on the strength of match victories at Cochet's expense in New York and Paris and near-victory at Wimbledon.

Jean Borotra, fourth on the list, and Jacques Brugnon, ninth, complete the French roster and numerically equals an American representation marked by the absence of "Little Bill" Johnson and the arrival of two youthful recruits, George Lott and John Hennessey.

The rankings follow:

Player.	Country.
Lacoste	France
Tilden	United States
Cochet	France
Borotra	France
Alonso	Spain
Hunter	United States
Lott	United States
Hennessey	United States
Brugnon	France
Kozeluh	Czechoslovakia

Youth swept into the women's ranking with the return of Helen Wills to the head of the list and the inclusion of Betty Nuthall of England and Esther Heine, South Africa, both of whom are under twenty years of age. The first ten women follow:

Player.	Country.
Miss Wills	United States
Mlle. de Alvarez	Spain
Miss Ryan	United States
Mrs. Mallory	United States
Mrs. Godfree	England
Miss Nuthall	England
Miss Heine	South Africa
Miss Fry	England
Mlle. Bouman	Holland

CAN THE SCALPEL CURE?

Surgical science has progressed to such an extent that it is now possible to operate on every part of the body and lose at least portions of any of the organs without producing death. Surgeons are often encouraged to perform unnecessary operations which could have been avoided if the patient were willing to remove the real causes which were producing his trouble.

Most people are familiar with the fact that such organs as the eyes, tonsils, appendix, gall-bladder and generative organs can be extirpated without death ensuing, and that the patient will live after one kidney, portions of the liver, intestines, and pancreas are removed. Surgeons have even gone so far recently as to operate on the brain and take out sections of this vital organ which only a little while ago we thought could not be even touched without danger.

Surgeons have recently opened up the heart and operated upon portions of it, with the patient still living after the operation!

The reports of surgical progress which creep into the newspapers undoubtedly have the effect of making people believe that almost everything can be done with surgery.

The other day a patient whom I had just examined was urging her sister to have an examination as a precaution to determine if any hidden disorder existed. The sister, who appeared to be a highly intelligent young woman, replied: "I'd rather wait until I am sick and then have an operation." I asked her what she expected to be operated on for, and she flippantly replied: "I should worry, I'll let the doctor find that out. I'd rather go to the hospital and be laid up for two or three weeks than to be bothered about diet." Mind you, this is not an unusual point of view, but one which I hear frequently expressed by those with whom I come in contact socially.

The publicity about people being saved by surgical operations has been so great in recent years that many people who otherwise appear quite sensible prefer to live haphazardly, but are careful to carry the telephone number of some surgeon who is famous in their locality so they can call him if suddenly taken sick, expecting that he can miraculously remove the bad effects from years of injurious living.

If the mania for surgical operations continues, and hereditary influences count for anything, we will soon be a race of queer human beings, not shaped in the image of our Creator, but more according to the fancies of the surgical specialist.

It is true that the surgeon is often a life-saver, but I sometimes wonder if the surgeon, himself, does not entirely lose his respect for those patients who continue to return for one operation after another because they have refused to heed the lesson of their first surgical experience, which lesson, if properly understood, would have prevented further mutilations.

Questions and Answers:

Question—Rose M. writes: "My skin is slowly turning a dead white in patches. I have doctored faithfully, and used seven medicines, both internal and external, but to no avail. I want to get at the cause of the trouble, but I am becoming discouraged and am going to give up unless you can help me."

Answer: A good fast for a week or ten days will stop the acidosis which is causing the destruction of the coloring matter in your skin. Then, living on a good diet will keep you from having any more of these white spots form. Sometimes, if the spots are not too large they can be successfully treated with radiations from the ultra-violet light, and the skin pigment will at least partially return.

Question—Mrs. V. G. M. writes: "Please advise if oatmeal, as it comes from the package, is bad for the digestion or otherwise unhealthful? I have a friend who eats it this way, and claims it is healthful."

Answer: The crushed oatmeal sold if you do not spoil it by adding sugar. Oatmeal should be cooked for a long time by steaming, and seasoning with only cream or butter.

Question—Mrs. R. L. writes: "Six months ago I had a small birthmark on my breast treated with the electric needle. Now this place is all healed up, but it stays tender and sore. The doctor that treated it says it is a keloid that caused the trouble and wants to treat it with X-ray or radium. Another doctor told me that X-ray would only enlarge the keloid. What am I to do?"

Answer: Find a doctor who has the ultra-violet light apparatus and he will know how to treat your keloid. These keloids should not form from the use of the electric spark if it is properly used. Sometimes, the further treatment with the electric needle will assist in removing the keloid, but be sure and find a competent physician who is well trained in electro-therapy.

SALLY GETS RIDE ON FLOAT IN SAN FRANCISCO PARADE.

Sally O'Neil Has Two Lovers, One Irish and One Jewish, in "Frisco Sally Levy."

Sally O'Neil, piquant heroine of "Mike," and other screen plays, got a ride in a parade as an incident to her latest screen role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Frisco Sally Levy," now playing at the Regent Theatre.

One of the bright spots in the picture is Sally's ride on the official float in the great St. Patrick's Day Parade in San Francisco, one of the famous traditions of the city of the Golden Gate.

To arrange this, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios constructed a special float, bedecked with shamrocks, which was entered in the parade, and Sally rode on this, while Charles Delaney, in the uniform of a traffic policeman, acted as escort, and cameramen followed it.

The new picture, directed by William Beaudine, famous director of "Little Annie Rooney," and other successes, is a lilting comedy romance of life in San Francisco, the story hinging on the affairs of a Jewish-Irish family of which Miss O'Neil is the daughter.

She has two lovers, an Irish traffic policeman, played by Delaney, and a Jewish broker, played by Roy D'Arcy.

Kate Price and Tenen Holtz are the mother and father of the heroine, and Turner Savage, Helen Levine and Leon Holmes, her brothers and sister.

When a Man Loves

By ALICE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

Manon looked at him in surprise and ignored his extended arm. "Indeed!" he replied proudly. "But that does not mean that I will accompany you."

Upon hearing Manon speak so feelingly Fabien turned from his companions and looked at the Duc with narrowing eyes that glittered like steel.

"It is a command," the Duc answered Fabien's unspoken question with an apologetic shrug.

"Who dares command Manon?" Fabien's voice was full of suppressed fury.

"I am not at liberty to say," replied the Duc, "but yonder the gentleman stands." He inclined his head toward King Louis, whose identity was concealed behind his mask.

Fabien scrutinized the lower part of the King's face and his figure without any show of recognition, then he chanced to see that he was wearing a ring with the royal seal.

"My dear," Fabien said quietly to Manon, "it is the King who commands your presence. "You must go, his will is irrevocable."

"Won't you come with me, then?" Manon was like a child who dreaded going on a disagreeable errand alone.

"I have not been invited, darling," Fabien smiled. "Here is your escort."

With Fabien's sanction Manon accepted the Duc de Richelieu's arm and they approached the King.

Fabien pretended interest in his companion's conversation, but out of the corner of his eye he did not lose one point in the little scene between his beloved Manon and the King. For the first time in his life Fabien experienced the pangs of jealousy.

The Comte made an embarrassed retreat so he would not be forced to meet Manon—he wanted to postpone that pleasure until his plans for revenge were better formulated.

When Manon found herself alone in King Louis' presence she inclined her head with unconscious charm and humility as she said faintly, "Your Majesty!" It was the first time she had ever been in the presence of royalty and her manner showed that she was pleased as well as a bit thrilled.

The King was delighted. He saw that she was about to make a sweeping courtesy and grasped her arm. "Not that—I do not wish to be recognized." He looked at her intently. "But I seem to recognize you—I wonder where—Mon Dieu! I know!" King Louis continued gazing at Manon with growing admiration.

"You remember seeing me before, your Majesty?" Manon questioned, her pretty brow all wrinkled up in an effort to think.

"Most assuredly I do," laughed the King delightedly, "and it is flattering to you that I should."

"Of course, Your Majesty! But you must mistake me for someone else—I am sure I would remember if—"

"If we had talked, yes," interrupted the King. "No, I am not mistaken, no one else in the world has a face like yours."

"Oh, Your Majesty!" Manon was overwhelmed. She succeeded in making a courtesy before the King could stop her. "It must have been in another world that we met then." Manon's eyes twinkled.

"True! You were in the land of love, but I was just on the streets of Paris," said the King reminiscently.

Manon was so perplexed that she could not think of anything to say.

"I seem to have been wrong," continued the King. "Instead of breaking, as I prophesied, your bubble of love has assumed amazing proportions." Louis was enjoying himself to the utmost and Manon's childish and charming perplexity only added zest to the occasion.

"Your Majesty, please tell me what you mean. I do not seem to understand at all."

The fickle King suddenly decided that curiosity was a beautiful trait in a woman—he had always hated it before.

"I will tell you—it is a pretty story!" The King did not take his licentious eyes from Manon's lovely face as he continued: "It was just at dusk one rainy evening a little over a year ago. I was in my coach driving along the Boulevard when my progress was halted by a young girl and her equally youthful escort, who unconsciously held up the royal procession while they crossed the street, hand in hand, aware only of the love they saw in each other's eyes. My guards wanted to throw them in prison for what they termed disrespect to me, but it was my whim to permit the young lovers to continue on their short path of happiness unmolested. Now do you understand?" He bent closer to Manon and smiled into her face.

"It is a sweet story, but I do not see where I—"

"You were the young girl," interrupted the King, then waited to see what effect the announcement would have on Manon.

"Oh," she exclaimed in mortification. "What a dreadful thing for us to have done!"

"No. It was beautiful—it amused me then and pleases me even more now that I have seen you in a different light. At what roadside inn did you leave the young man?" The question was filled with implications that Manon did not understand.

"Leave him, Your Majesty?" she inquired in surprise. "I would not leave him for the world—here he is now!" Manon smiled happily as she saw Fabien approaching them with the Duc de Richilieu.

The presentation of the Chevalier Des Grieux to his King was an odd affair. The fact that the King insisted upon his identity being kept from the people in general forced the Duc to introduce them in pantomime, omitting names. He had previously explained to Fabien that a certain masked gentleman—Fabien understood who he was—desired to engage in a game of cards with him. For two reasons Fabien eagerly accepted the challenge. First, it would put an end to the King's long and animated conversation with Manon. Second, it would give him a chance to match his skill against a man who was reputed to be a worthy opponent.

The fact that the best card player in Paris turned out to be Manon's escort supplied an additional interest for the King. To play a man for the sake of matching card wits was diverting, but to play a man for his lady was the essence of high sport and made a game worth the power of concentration.

The King had decided that he wanted Manon—he had also made up his mind to play cards with Des Grieux. The two desires fitted together very well. Without further ado he seated himself at a small card table and signified his desire for Fabien to take the other chair.

The two men eyed each other speculatively. It was the King's gaze that shifted first, and to cover up his annoyance he turned to the Duc de Richelieu and said, "See that we have no onlookers."

The Duc bowed in obeyance. "Monseigneur prefers a quiet game," he said to Manon, and offering his arm, led her away to a respectful distance.

They were joined by Lescaut, who since Fabien's prosperity had become a constant and faithful satellite.

Among the other interested spectators was the Comte de Ravoir. The sight of Manon aroused him as nothing on earth had ever done before, and he so detested Fabien that his thoughts were engrossed in devising a plan whereby he could dispose of him and again win possession of Manon.

Manon was the innocent victim of three men's desires. The Comte's awakened interest literally put her in a position that offered no security from this man who had enjoyed her exclusive society for a short period.

The King also desired Manon and was fast driving Fabien into a corner from which he could no longer reach out and protect his loved one.

At the card table the two players continued to measure the possibilities of the game and each other.

CANADIAN MEMBER BRINGS IN REPORT

Senator Dandurand Urges Strong Action Against Narcotic Traffic.

GENEVA, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Strong action against narcotic evils was called for in the report submitted to the Council of League of Nations yesterday by Senator Raoul Dandurand, Canadian representative on the Council. The report was unanimously adopted. Repeating the charges made by the league's opium commission that the illicit drug traffic continues on an enormous scale and is backed by huge financial resources, Senator Dandurand urged the nations belonging to the Council to hasten ratification of the Geneva opium convention. Little progress can be achieved in combatting the traffic until the convention enters into force, he said.

The Canadian delegate also urged the governments to study the possibility of more adequate control of narcotic factories.

He told the Council that Canadian ratification of the Geneva convention will be submitted to parliament.

Mexico, Ecuador, and Russia, non participating nations in the recent conference on import and export prohibitions and restrictions will be given an opportunity to adhere to the treaty adopted at the conference. The council of the League of Nations passed a resolution yesterday that the treaty, which is intended to remove some of the barriers to international trade, be sent to these countries for their signature, if they so desire.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR XXVI by Nicholas-Afonsky

Andree's balloon was finally made in Paris. Andree paid much attention to his supplies of arms and ammunition, preserved foods packed in labeled packets of strong fabric, enough to last for four months being carried, snow shoes, sledges and the framework of a boat that could be easily assembled.

In 1896 he went to Dane's Island to make the dash to the pole. But that summer the winds were adverse, and the flight was postponed a year. On July 11, 1897, Andree with three companions, started from Dane's Island to blow with the winds over the pole to Siberia or Alaska.

On July 22, one of Andree's homing pigeons, carrying an "all goes well" message, was killed by some fishermen near Spitzbergen. On August 31 and in May of the next year, buoys bearing messages dated July 11, reporting safe progress, were picked up. That was the last ever heard of Andree.

Years later, a missionary reported an Eskimo tribe from the far north, who had told of the coming of a "white house" out of the sky, with two starving white men, who shortly died. They showed the missionary ropes like those on Andree's balloon which, they said, hung from the "house."

OTONABEE CHAPTER HEARS TALK ON IRISH

J. F. H. Wallace Gives Address On Irish Wit and Humor.

The Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., had an unusual treat yesterday afternoon when J. F. H. Wallace gave them an address on "Irish Wit and Humor." The Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. was filled to capacity to hear him. In commencing his talk Mr. Wallace spoke briefly about the history of the Irish people, the problems, the troubles, the disturbances and political chaos through which they have passed. Out of this troublous past has evolved a present state of affairs whose stability and soundness shows great promise for the future. Mr. Wallace then pointed out that through all their turmoils and upheavals, the Irish people have maintained the ready wit, the sense of humor, the cheeriness of nature which is peculiar unto themselves. Theirs is no studied wit. One finds the keen humor, the epigramatic answer and the surprising turns of phrases as among the uneducated peasantry as among the upper classes. Like water gushes from a well, so their witticisms seem to gush forth.

Mr. Wallace then went on in a smooth, delightful style to give many examples of Irish wit and humor, some few of which are quoted below:

"An Irishman was repairing some pavement in a London street. In the course of his work he made quite a pile of stones on the sidewalk in front of a small shop, thus somewhat obstructing the thoroughfare. The storekeeper came out and ordered him to take the stones somewhere else. 'And where will ye have me take them?' asked Pat. 'Oh, take them to Hades,' angrily replied the shopkeeper. 'Sure, I'd better take them to heaven, they'd be more certain to be out of your way there, your worship,' said Pat.

There are a great number of places in Ireland, the names of which have the word 'devil' connected with them, such as 'Devil's Glen,' 'Devil's Highway' and the like. An Englishman traveling in Ireland, asked Pat how this came about. 'The devil seems to own a lot of your land in this country, how is that?' he asked. 'Sure, sartin he does,' answered Pat, 'but he's an absentee landlord. He lives in England.'

'Where are you going Pat?' asked the priest one day, as he saw Pat embarking on a railway train. 'I'm going to the races,' said Pat. 'You're going to the devil, you mean,' answered the priest. 'Well, that may be,' replied Pat, 'but I'm all right, Father, for I've got a return ticket.'

The Irish peasantry have a great fondness for pigs. These animals often live with them as part of the household. An American, travelling in Ireland, one day stopped at a lowly thatched cottage and asked if he might have a cup of milk. The good woman, instead of just giving him a cup of milk, gave it to him in a bowl. While drinking, the American noticed a couple of pigs sniffing at him continually. 'Your pigs seem very fond of me,' he remarked. 'Sure, they're just jealous of you,' said the good woman, 'because that you're drinking out of their bowl.'

Pat and Mike had been having a gay evening and were rather the worse for wear. On driving home, their car went at rather peculiar angles. 'Pat, aren't you driving a bit too fast?' finally asked Mike. 'Begorrah, I thought it was you that was driving,' said Pat.

An Englishman, a Scotchman and an Irishman were talking together. 'What race would you rather belong to if you weren't Sotch?' asked the Englishman of the Scotchman. 'I'd rather be English if I couldn't be Scotch,' politely replied the Scot. And what race would you rather belong to?' asked the Scotchman of the Englishman. 'Oh, I'd rather be Scotch,' answered the Englishman, very politely. When the Irishman was asked his preference, he quickly said, 'Sure if I couldn't be Irish, I'd be ashamed of myself.'

The ripples of laughter which greeted the stories on all sides, as Mr. Wallace told one after another, showed the enjoyment of all ladies present. At the conclusion of the lecture, Miss Tomkins, Regent of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., voiced the appreciation of the meeting at having Mr. Wallace speak to them.

CANADIAN BRIDES SUIT YOUNG SCOTS

Trip Home Just To See Old Folks, Not To Get Married.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 8. —"We can get as good, or better brides out here," announced four husky young farmers of Scottish birth, now settled in Southern Saskatchewan, travelling home for Christmas on the Canadian Pacific boatside special, which left Winnipeg for St. John, to connect with S. S. Montrose. "Yes, they are better out here and they're cheaper to get too—you don't have to pay passage money. We are going home to see the old folks, having had a fine crop, and next summer, we'll look the girls over."

The Christmas special carries more than four hundred passengers, the largest to leave Winnipeg in years. The majority of the travellers were British born, many of the people from large cities who have made good on prairie farms, some of them with five and six little children, going to meet their grand parents for the first time. One Swedish group of eight are going home for two months, E. Jounson, the head of the family having settled near Austin, Manitoba, thirty seven years ago, this being his first return visit. All the children were clothed in Gordon plaids.

WIRES IN DISTRICT

region in the night, steadying to a forty miles an hour westerly wind to-day. The mercury eased to twenty-two degrees above zero this morning, with the weatherman forecasting colder temperatures and snow.

No shipping was proceeding on the lower lakes to-day, as far as could be learned here. Signs were blown down and windows smashed in various sections of the city by the force of the wind.

The storm wrought havoc among the Great Lakes shipping boats in the congested Detroit river channel and seriously affected the ferry service to Windsor. A tug boat's crew of five was safely landed by fire boat rescuers after it had been lashed about helplessly and driven upstream in the face of the gale. Three occupants of the rescue boat narrowly escaped drowning when they capsized on the way to aid the crew of a launch which had been driven on the rocks near St. Clair. The Wabash car ferries, Manitowoc and Detroit, unable to dock, rode out the gale in the river channel.

Toronto Item.

The high wind partially stripped the roof of the tower of the Metropolitan Building, while the roof of Calvary Church at Silverthorne, a suburb, was blown away completely. The walls and part of the roof of an apartment house under erection at Moore Park were blown down. Toronto's chief damage, however, lay in the destruction of plate glass windows and the wrecking of signs.

Gale Sweeps Lakes.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — South-west winds, which have attained a velocity of fifty miles an hour, are whipping Northern Lake Huron and Georgian Bay into fury and local shipping men express the opinion to-day that the Algoma Central Steamship Line steamer Agawa, which ran ashore on Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, during a snow storm yesterday, will be battered to pieces by the heavy sea.

The storm, which started yesterday, attained its height during the night and showed no signs of moderating this morning. It is regarded as fortunate that few boats are on the lakes at this time of the year.

White caps are rushing up on to the rocky coast of Manitoulin Island and shipping and fishing operations locally are entirely suspended until the gale subsides.

Power Lines Down.

OSHAWA, Dec. 8. — Canadian Press.) — Much damage is reported throughout Central Ontario this morning to power and other wire transmission systems as a result of high winds last night and this morning. Industries in this city and other points dependent upon light and power supplied by the Central Ontario Power System found themselves out of action by reason of interruption in power supply. Many poles were down and long stretches of wire laid low. The Hydro Commission has several gangs of men out repairing the damage but operations are difficult owing to the continued high winds.

The trouble did not extend very far eastward. At Belleville there was merely a little local trouble. Madoc and Deloro in the Belleville district were repaired within a few hours.

Boats Break Away.

DETROIT, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—The steamer Tashmoo, one of the largest excursion boats on the Detroit river, was torn from its moorings here early to-day by a fifty mile an hour gale, which lashed the channel docks and destroyed a number of smaller boats and launches. The Tashmoo, valued by the owners at half a million dollars, crashed into the bow of the Detroit-Windsor ferry Prime, tearing the latter away from her moorings. Boat steamers, with no one aboard, were driven upstream by the gale and the Tashmoo pounded helplessly against the Belle Isle bridge. The Promise was driven against the Grand Trunk railway shipping dock and crashed into a coal boat. Both were damaged.

Steamer in No Danger

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The crew of the steamer Agawa, which ran on the rocks on the south shore of Manitoulin near Michael's Bay yesterday, is in no danger, it was stated at the offices of the Algoma Central Steamship Lines, operators of the boat, to-day.

It is reported, however, that the Agawa is leaking badly.

Storm warnings are still out at the ship canals here and at the Sault, Michigan, though it is expected that there will be better weather later in the day.

Shipping is temporarily at a standstill. The fleet of boats at anchor at Detour and Whitefish Bay became ice encrusted in the blizzard which raged last night. The vessels tied up awaiting better weather include a large fleet which was beating its way down Lake Huron yesterday, of which the Agawa was one.

Waves Wreck Bridge.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — The Waters of Lake Erie are being savagely lashed by a windstorm which to-day sweeping the lake. At Port Dover, a bridge was torn away and much damage caused by high water. At Port Ryerse the water rose five feet and some sidewalks were washed away. In this city, many signs were blown down and billboards failed to hold against the strong wind.

Niagara Hard Hit.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press). — The southern portion of Niagara district was badly hit by storm last night and this morning. At Port Colborne, a strong wind from the lake blew the water into the harbour, putting the pier two feet under water. The accompanying heavy rain also helped to fill cellars and factory floors with water. The lower floors of the Maple Leaf Flour Mill and the Government elevator are submerged.

Men on the way to work found themselves stranded in a shack half way out on the Pier, where they were still marooned this morning. The boats in the harbour are holding their positions with difficulty. The Valley Camp broke loose from her moorings at the East Pier and was blown across the harbour to the Canada Steamship dock. A tug helped to get the vessel clear. Twenty tons of coal were washed from a coal dock. All construction work on the ship canal has been suspended.

Crystal Beach Park is said to be completely under water. Local line street cars at Welland are completely tied up by a blizzard.

Two Canada Steamship boats, the Saskatoon and Selkirk left Port Colborne at noon yesterday for the head of the lakes. While the Selkirk is believed to be out of the storm area, some apprehension is felt for the Saskatoon.

Crew In Danger.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Considerable anxiety is being expressed by wireless operators on the vessels tied up in harbour here following the receipt of a message from the steamer Agawan, on the rocks of Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, and being badly battered by the terrific south-west gale which is sweeping North Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. The message said that the engine room bulk heads had given way and both cargo holds and engine room are now flooded. The crew has taken up a position on the forward part of the vessel to escape the waves which are raking the lower parts at the stern. The bow is five feet out of the water, testifying to the force with which the Agawa struck the reef. It is also reported that the vessel is aground a considerable distance from shore and that efforts to reach the wrecked ship have, as yet been futile.

OBITUARY

MRS. DAVID STINSON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. Stinson, relict of David Stinson, who passed away on November 27, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Graham, of Detroit, Mich., was largely attended on November 30.

The service, which was conducted in Trinity United Church, was in charge of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, who had known the deceased from his childhood days. Mrs. Stinson had reached the good old age of eighty-two years, and had lived in Omemee practically all her life until about seven years ago, when she moved to Detroit. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Emily Cemetery by Messrs. Richard Grandy, Charles Ivory, R. Poast, T. J. Parsons, Reeve Southworth, and Harry Lamb.

Many beautiful flowers adorned the soft grey casket.

Messrs. Fred and Walter Stinson, of Detroit, sons of the deceased, accompanied the body to Omemee. Other mourners were a grandson, Mr. Albert Graham and his wife, of Trenton.

Stabber's Total Is 25; Police Renew Search

The latest victim of the "phantom" was Mrs. E. Haupler, eighteen, who was stabbed on the street last night. Her injuries, like those of the previous victims were not serious.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

region in the night, steadying to a forty miles an hour westerly wind to-day. The mercury eased to twenty-two degrees above zero this morning, with the weatherman forecasting colder temperatures and snow.

No shipping was proceeding on the lower lakes to-day, as far as could be learned here. Signs were blown down and windows smashed in various sections of the city by the force of the wind.

The storm wrought havoc among the Great Lakes shipping boats in the congested Detroit river channel and seriously affected the ferry service to Windsor. A tug boat's crew of five was safely landed by fire boat rescuers after it had been lashed about helplessly and driven upstream in the face of the gale. Three occupants of the rescue boat narrowly escaped drowning when they capsized on the way to aid the crew of a launch which had been driven on the rocks near St. Clair. The Wabash car ferries, Manitowoc and Detroit, unable to dock, rode out the gale in the river channel.

Toronto Item.

The high wind partially stripped the roof of the tower of the Metropolitan Building, while the roof of Calvary Church at Silverthorne, a suburb, was blown away completely. The walls and part of the roof of an apartment house under erection at Moore Park were blown down. Toronto's chief damage, however, lay in the destruction of plate glass windows and the wrecking of signs.

Gale Sweeps Lakes.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — South-west winds, which have attained a velocity of fifty miles an hour, are whipping Northern Lake Huron and Georgian Bay into fury and local shipping men express the opinion to-day that the Algoma Central Steamship Line steamer Agawa, which ran ashore on Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, during a snow storm yesterday, will be battered to pieces by the heavy sea.

The storm, which started yesterday, attained its height during the night and showed no signs of moderating this morning. It is regarded as fortunate that few boats are on the lakes at this time of the year.

White caps are rushing up on to the rocky coast of Manitoulin Island and shipping and fishing operations locally are entirely suspended until the gale subsides.

Power Lines Down.

OSHAWA, Dec. 8. — Canadian Press.) — Much damage is reported throughout Central Ontario this morning to power and other wire transmission systems as a result of high winds last night and this morning. Industries in this city and other points dependent upon light and power supplied by the Central Ontario Power System found themselves out of action by reason of interruption in power supply. Many poles were down and long stretches of wire laid low. The Hydro Commission has several gangs of men out repairing the damage but operations are difficult owing to the continued high winds.

The trouble did not extend very far eastward. At Belleville there was merely a little local trouble. Madoc and Deloro in the Belleville district were repaired within a few hours.

Boats Break Away.

DETROIT, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—The steamer Tashmoo, one of the largest excursion boats on the Detroit river, was torn from its moorings here early to-day by a fifty mile an hour gale, which lashed the channel docks and destroyed a number of smaller boats and launches. The Tashmoo, valued by the owners at half a million dollars, crashed into the bow of the Detroit-Windsor ferry Prime, tearing the latter away from her moorings. Boat steamers, with no one aboard, were driven upstream by the gale and the Tashmoo pounded helplessly against the Belle Isle bridge. The Promise was driven against the Grand Trunk railway shipping dock and crashed into a coal boat. Both were damaged.

Steamer in No Danger

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The crew of the steamer Agawa ,which ran on the rocks on the south shore of Manitoulin near Michael's Bay yesterday, is in no danger, it was stated at the offices of the Algoma Central Steamship Lines, operators of the boat, today.

It is reported, however, that the Agawa is leaking badly.

Storm warnings are still out at the ship canals here and at the Sault, Michigan, though it is expected that there will be better weather later in the day.

Shipping is temporarily at a standstill. The fleet of boats at anchor at Detour and Whitefish Bay became ice encrusted in the blizzard which raged last night. The vessels tied up awaiting better weather include a large fleet which was beating its way down Lake Huron yesterday, of which the Agawa was one.

Waves Wreck Bridge.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — The Waters of Lake Erie are being savagely lashed by a windstorm which to-day sweeping the lake. At Port Dover, a bridge was torn away and much damage caused by high water. At Port Ryerse the water rose five feet and some sidewalks were washed away. In this city, many signs were blown down and billboards failed to hold against the strong wind.

Niagara Hard Hit.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press). — The southern portion of Niagara district was badly hit by storm last night and this morning. At Port Colborne, a strong wind from the lake blew the water into the harbour, putting the pier two feet under water. The accompanying heavy rain also helped to fill cellars and factory floors with water. The lower floors of the Maple Leaf Flour Mill and the Government elevator are submerged.

Men on the way to work found themselves stranded in a shack half way out on the Pier, where they were still marooned this morning. The boats in the harbour are holding their positions with difficulty. The Valley Camp broke loose from her moorings at the East Pier and was blown across the harbour to the Canada Steamship dock. A tug helped to get the vessel clear. Twenty tons of coal were washed from a coal dock. All construction work on the ship canal has been suspended.

Crystal Beach Park is said to be completely under water. Local line street cars at Welland are completely tied up by a blizzard.

Two Canada Steamship boats, the Saskatoon and Selkirk left Port Colborne at noon yesterday for the head of the lakes. While the Selkirk is believed to be out of the storm area, some apprehension is felt for the Saskatoon.

Crew In Danger.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Considerable anxiety is being expressed by wireless operators on the vessels tied up in harbour here following the receipt of a message from the steamer Agawan, on the rocks of Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, and being badly battered by the terrific south-west gale which is sweeping North Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. The message said that the engine room bulk heads had given way and both cargo holds and engine room are now flooded. The crew has taken up a position on the forward part of the vessel to escape the waves which are raking the lower parts at the stern. The bow is five feet out of the water, testifying to the force with which the Agawa struck the reef, it is also reported that the vessel is aground a considerable distance from shore and that efforts to reach the wrecked ship have, as yet been futile.

OBITUARY

MRS. DAVID STINSON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. Stinson, relict of David Stinson, who passed away on November 27, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Graham, of Detroit, Mich., was largely attended on November 30.

The service, which was conducted in Trinity United Church, was in charge of the pastor, Rev .E. W. Rowland, who had known the deceased from his childhood days. Mrs. Stinson had reached the good old age of eighty-two years, and had lived in Omemee practically all her life until about seven years ago, when she moved to Detroit. Her husband predeceased her twenty-seven years ago.

Left to mourn her passing are a sorrowing daughter, Mrs. David Graham, of Detroit, and four sons, Charles of Minneapolis, Walter, Melville, and Fred of Detroit, as well as several grandchildren, to whom the sympathy of old friends is extended.

The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Emily Cemetery by Messrs. Richard Grandy, Charles Ivory, R. Poast, T. J. Parsons, Reeve Southworth, and Harry Lamb.

Many beautiful flowers adorned the soft grey casket.

Messrs. Fred and Walter Stinson, of Detroit, sons of the deceased, accompanied the body to Omemee. Other mourners were a grandson, Mr. Albert Graham and his wife, of Trenton.

Stabber's Total Is 25; Police Renew Search

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press). — Victims of Bridgeports "Phantom stabber" totalled twenty five to-day while police renewed the hunt for marauder who has escaped capture since striking his first blow on February 20, 1925. The latest victim of the "phantom" was Mrs. E. Haupler, eighteen, who was stabbed on the street last night. Her injuries, like those of the previous victims were not serious.

BIRTHS.

GORDON.—To Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Gordon (nee Violet Forsythe), on December 8th, a daughter.

FRENCH.—To Mr. and Mrs. French, 442 Driscoll Terrace, a daughter—

To Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Pringle, at Nicholls Hospital, December 8th —a daughter.

FOUR MEN DROWNED.

Lose Lives When Cable Snaps and Raft Goes Down Tailrace.

PAUGAN FALLS, Que., December 8 (Canadian Press). — Four construction company employees of this town were swept to their death in the tailrace of the power dam here to-day when a steel cable anchoring the raft on which they were working snapped without warning.

COUNTY COUNCIL RECEIVES REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Chairmen Report Most Favorable Year In All Departments.

GRANTS MADE TO LEGION.

Engineer Reports Wallace Point Bridge Will Require Further Repairs.

The County Council spent most of the day yesterday dealing with the business of the various committees. District Highway Engineer Fellows was present and he asked that the members submit to the Highway Department the names of the various bridges in the county 20 feet and over that they want the department to pay 50 per cent of the cost and maintenance.

Under new legislation the government has agreed to pay 50 per cent. of the cost and upkeep of all bridges in the county twenty feet long and over. This is considered by the members to be the best highway legislation ever submitted to the county.

Mr. Fellows told the members that he expected the Wallace Point bridge to cost considerable more for maintenance in the future as another pier will have to be rebuilt and stringers put in. This information opened the question up as to whether the bridge should be closed. Reeve Smithson, of Otonabee, claimed that the road leading from the Bensfort bridge to the city should be assumed as a county highway, as keeping both roads from the bridge to the city, in repair by the township was asking too much. He said the township would be willing to take over the road from the Bensfort bridge to the Keene road, which is at present a county highway if the county would accept into the highway system the road leading from that bridge to Peterborough.

Reeve Smithson in his report to the council gave the incomplete expenditures on the various roads in the county system this year. Over $11,000 has been spent by the county in building and maintaining the highways in the county system.

H. Gainey, chairman of the Suburban Area Commission, submitted his report to the council, which showed an expenditure of $32,374.91 on roads under the jurisdiction of his commission.

Warden Middleton told the Commission that the part of the Chemong road looked after by that body was in a better state of repair than that taken over by the government for a provincial highway. Reeve Smithson said it had been a pleasure to work with the commission, the work had been well done this year and the commission had taken over all the roads that it was fair to ask it to assume the responsibility of. Reeves Scott, Lillico and Leahy thanked the commission for the improvements in the roads in their townships. A motion of appreciation for the work the commission had done during the past summer was moved by Reeve Tanner, seconded by Reeve Cavanagh, and carried unanimously.

Grants To Legion.

The Council endorsed the good work done by the Canadian Legion in the County and made a grant of $150 to the Peterboro Branch and $100 to the Lakefield Branch. Dr. Kennedy appearec on behalf of the Lakefield Branch.

The only fireworks of the day developed when the council was in county property committee. Ventilation in the registry office was being discussed. Fred Morrow, county registrar asked for several improvements in the new offices. He maintained that there should be windows in the vault. The council previously had taken the stand that their should be no window in the vault as they were held responsible for the property there.

The council carried its point and ordered the county engineer to have the ventilation improved. They suggested that less smoking in the vault by city lawyers might improve conditions. The engineer was also asked to get plans from Professor Anderson of the University of Toronto whereby the accoustic properties of the Court Chamber could be remedied.

County Property.

A very satisfactory report was made by Reeve W. H .Montgomery, chairman of the County Property committee. The committee that supervised the building of the new addition to the Court House was able to keep well within the estimates. Up until the end of October, $27,015.92 had been spent on that building. Added to this will be furniture, fittings and various appliances some of which have been bought while others are on the waiting list.

The new addition houses the registry office, clerk of the Surrogate and County Court and also provisions have been made for an office for the Crown Attorney. The registry office is one of the finest in the Province for a County the size of Peterborough. There is a slight defect in the ventilation but the engineer was ordered to have this remedied. The building committee was authorized to purchase the required

INMATES VISIT COUNTY COUNCIL

Old People Given Motor Ride Arranged By H. C. Huffman.

LIKE SUPERINTENDENT.

Through the kindness of H. C. Huffman, of this city, all the old people of the House of Refuge at Lakefield who were able to go for a motor trip were given one yesterday. Nineteen in all made the trip. The drive included a sight-seeing tour of the city. While in Peterborough they visited the County Council in session at the Court House. There they all spoke favorably of their new superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fry. One old man, who was very feeble, said he was glad to get the drive even if it was a cold day. The Examiner asked him how he was being used and he said, "Excellent. My, they are fine people."

Tommie Linton gave the Council a step dance and a jolly half hour was spent by the Council with the old people. Mr. Huffman also supplied ice cream to the inmates last night.

After the old people had returned it was moved by Reeve Scott, of Asphodel and Warden J. A. Middleton, that a letter of appreciation be sent to Mr. Huffman for his kind act toward the old people.

PRISONER TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF

Frank Renaud Leaps Into the Furnace at Belleville Jail.

LIKELY TO DIE.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). — Frank Renaud an inmate of the county jail on an offence against the L. C. A., attempted to commit suicide this morning at 9 a.m. when he jumped into the furnace in the basement of the building. The door would just about admit him and he went in head first, his whole body going in. He was a trusty about the jail. Robert Colling, the turnkey and Tom Ketchson, the warden, located him and pulled him out and sent him to Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Colling's hands were badly burned in releasing the man from his perilous position.

At the hospital on examination he was found to be severly burned about the body and hands.

Drs. Tennant and Rutherford attended him. It is not likely the man will recover. This man would have completed his sentence on Monday, December 19th and it is believed that he became despondent. He was conscious at all times.

Accused Pair At May's Landing Convicted By the Jury of Voluntary Manslaughter

MAY'S LANDING, N.J., December 9 (Associated Press). — A jury that had deliberated for more than 23 hours yesterday convicted Margaret Lilliendahl, bob-haired housewife, and Willis Beach, bald-headed chicken farmer, of voluntary manslaughter in the killing of the woman's aged husband.

Mrs. Lilliendahl wept quietly as the jury forewoman rendered the verdict that made her liable to a prison sentence of not more than ten years, or a fine not to exceed $1,000, or both. Beach, his pasty face set in a twisted sneer, did not so much as flinch.

Imposition of sentence was deferred until Saturday morning over the protest of Assistant District Attorney Hinkle, who prosecuted the case.

"I ask for immediate sentence of these defendants," Hinkle said, "without commiseration. We feel that all the mercy that should be given the defendants has already been given by the jury."

Robert H. McCarter, trial lawyer for Mrs. Lilliendahl, however, pleaded that new evidence had been discovered, and that he wanted time in which to examine it more thoroughly and to prepare motions for a new trial.

During the trial neither defendant showed the least sign of considering the possibility of an adverse verdict, but the long suspense of the jury deliberation may have given them some intimation that their liberation was not the certainty they had believed it.

The widow took the stand to defend herself with her story that her husband had been shot by two negroes, who made her drive her 72-year-old husband into a sandy lane near Hammonton. Beach's defence was an alibi, he asserting that he had been at home eating lunch with his family when the shooting occurred.

MEMBERS VISIT COUNTY COUNCIL

E. A. Peck, M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Give Short Addresses.

ON VARIOUS MATTERS.

A short visit was plad to the County Council this morning by E. A. Peck, M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M. P.P. Both members gave short addresses. Mr. Bradburn told the council about the wonderful possibilities in Northern Ontario and the power development there. He explained how the forests were protected from the fire menace and what opportunies that country held for young people.

Mr. Peck was asked about immigration. He was of the opinion that the government was considering putting quota restrictions on all but British born immigrants, although he claimed he did not know the secrets of the minister or the council. The great problem that faces the minister is to get the right kind of immigrants and it is being considered whether it is advisable to allow immigrants to come from Central Europe.

A communication was read to the Council from Frank Barrett, secretary of the Fish and Game Association. He asked that the Council consider a game reservation as this county is being depleted of both game and fish. He charges that he has seen 30 and 40 men fishing at Katch-

FOUR VESSELS NOW AGROUND IN HEAVY SEAS

Several Others Missing — Tug Unable To Reach Agawa.

SHIP BREAKING UP.

Pieces of Wreckage Come Ashore—Fishermen Prepare To Rescue Crew.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Four lake freighters today were aground in heavy seas. While there was anxiety for half a dozen other vessels which are missing, it is pointed out that none of these is equipped with wireless and they are likely in shelter.

The disabled steamers are the Algonquin at Copper Harbor, the Martian at Hare Island, Thunder Cape, the Altadoc at Keewanaw Point, and the Agawa at Michael Bay, Manitoulin Island. All four except the Algonquin are reported in danger of breaking up and aid is being rushed The disabled steamers carry a total of about 110 men but latest despatches contain no mention of immediate danger to their lives.

Agawa Breaking Up

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—A special despatch from Owen Sound states that at Province Bay, Manitoulin Island, wreckage was reported to be coming ashore, believed to be from the steamer Agawa and grave fears were expressed for the safety of the crew. The correspondent also reports that the Tobermory wireless station reported that the rescue tug Strathbogi was anchored at Cape Croker in Bruce Peninsula unable to proceed because of the storm. Purvis, a fisherman, was instructed to take food and clothing and keep fires burning in the night to be able to receive the crew if they could get ashore.

The steamer Martian of the Canada Steamship Lines is now reported aground on Thunder Cape, Lake Superior, but the crew is believed safe.

Relief Sent to Aid Stricken Grain Ship

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press). — The salvage tug Strathbogie left here at eight o'clock last night in an attempt to reach the steamer Agawa, which is hard aground on Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, and being pounded by high seas. The Strathbogie is expected to reach the scene of the wreck before noon to-day, although with all aids to navigation was withdrawn from the coast line of Bruce Peninsula for the winter, and with a terrific gale blowing on the lake, it may take the tug longer.

The Agawa carries a crew of 21 men, who are believed to be still aboard.

The wireless set on the wrecked steamer went out of commission shortly after noon yesterday when the engine room bulkhead gave way from the pressure of water which had leaked into the cargo holds, and the dynamos which furnished the precious "juice" for the radio set were submerged.

The wind here is not quite so strong as it was earlier in the day, when it attained a velocity of 50 miles an hour at times, but the temperature is dropping quickly and it is decidedly cold.

Advance Reef is shown on the marine charts as being between three quarters of a mile and one mile from the shore of the Manitoulin Island.

LOCAL ENGINEERS HEAR INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON RADIO

J. M. Thompson Gives Address On Modernizing of Old Radio Sets.

MANY CHANGES.

Meeting Was Held in Conjunction With Peterborough Radio Club.

The Chamber of Commerce was filled to capacity last evening for the meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held in conjunction with the Peterborough Radio Club. It opened sharp on schedule time, and during the next hour those present enjoyed a most interesting and instructive discourse on the modernizing of old radio sets and the correction of troules encountered with B. eliminators.

The special speaker of the evening was J. M. Thompson, Esq., Radio Engineer of Feranti Electric Ltd., who had come from Toronto for the purpose of addressing the meeting. Mr. Thompson was introduced by Mr. Burchill, chairman, who spoke briefly of the main speakers past career and concluded by announcing his subject.

Reviews Changes.

J. M. Thompson opened his address by stating that he purposed reviewing some of the changes and advances in radio construction and reception during the past eighteen months.

The most notable has been the change from the old system of having many dials, to the new idea of a two or even single dial control on the receiving set. This inclination has been due to the average fan's desire to get music without having to "fish" for stations. Last year, many sets were manufactured with two dials and within the last few months the single dial machine, plus a volume control, has become almost standard.. The reducing of the dials has presented a problem for electrical engineers for it has meant changes in coils and other new departures which the speaker explained.

Change Standard.

The attempts to equalize amplification within the set have also met with some success according to Mr. Thompson and he went on to show why amplification in the older sets was faulty and what has been done in the newer machines to improve it. He also spoke of the A. C. set and its possibilities, the shielded tube its principles, and advantages and confidently stated that the six-tube set would be the standard rather than the five-tube set.

"Shielding" he explained in detail before going into discussion of the power tube which, he claimed, has come into its own, this year. Mr. Thompson then handed out some timely hints to radio fans regarding the changing of tubes and batteries of their sets, discussed "regeneration" and the trouble that faulty lightning arresters may give.

At the front of the room, on a table was placed some radio equipment with which the speaker illustrated many phases of his address, particularly showing the proper treatment to be accorded "motor boating." He concluded by calling for questions from his auditors and answered several.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Thompson and the gathering was dismissed though many remained to enjoy a less formal discussion of electrical topics with the visitor from Toronto.

COUNCIL NOT SITTING.

GENEVA, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). — Premier Pilsudski arrived here thisafternoon in connection with the controversy between Lithuania and Poland. He went immediately to a hotel where he was met by Von Blockland of Holland, who has been designated by the league of nations council as special reporter on the dispute. A public meeting of the League Council will be held to-morrow to discuss the matter. Briand and Chamberlain will be the principal speakers. Efforts will be made to bring about an amicable settlement of the crisis. It was unlikely that the Premiers of the two countries would face one another in open council owing to the tension existing between the two.

Vessels Founder During Blizzard Over Great Lakes

Two More Grain Steamers Are Reported Victims of Storm That Swept Over Lake District Yesterday—S. S. "The Altabos" Aground Off Kewatin Point—Michigan Believed a Total Wreck.

RAGING SNOW AND WIND STORM HAMPERS COMMUNICATIONS WITH STRICKEN VESSEL

Estimated Property Damage in Western New York State and Canadian Provinces Bordering On Waterfront Will Reach Many Thousands As Result of Terrific Gale.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Two more steamers are reported victims of the storm that has swept the Great Lakes during the past two days.

The steamer "F. B. Squire," of the Jenkins Steomship Company, has foundered, but no particulars have been received as to where the disaster occurred, while the S.S. "The Altabas" of the R. M. Patterson Company, is aground at Keewenawa Point, probably a total wreck.

No word has been received as to the safety of the crews of either boat, in wireless reports received here last yesterday.

The first vessel victim of the storm's fury was the steamer "Agawa," which went aground on Advance Reef, Manitoulin Island, on Wednesday.

Messages from the Lower Lakes report that storm conditions are the worst that have been experienced for years. At the head of the lakes, the weather has calmed down somewhat, but there is prospect of the temperature being extremely low, with little wind.

Wireless Damaged

HOUGHTON, Mich., Dec. 9 (A.P.). —Canadian steamer Altabos, believed to be loaded with grain, was driven ashore off Keewenawa Point, Mich., late yesterday, according to a wireless message received at the coastguard station at Copper Point. The message said the crew was safe. The ship's wireless receiving set was damaged, hampering communication with the vessel.

Coastguard officials at Copper Point said it would be impossible to go to the assistance of the stricken ship last night because of the 50-mile gale and raging snowstorm in the district. The coastguard has been unable to obtain the exact position of the steamer and a blind search in the storm would be foolhardy, officials said.

The Altados is a 5,600 ton steel freighter out of Fort William, Ont., and usually carries a crew of about 35 men. After the first wireless message stating she was aground and that the crew was safe, no further word was received from the vessel.

The coastguardsman at Copper Point planned to await further possible word from the ship and proceed to her assistance at the first break in the storm. If no further word is received, the coastguard ship will shove off for Keewenawa Point at 4 a.m., and make a general search of the district. The distress message said the ship was somewhere off Keewenawa Point but failed to give the exact position.

Property Damage Heavy.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 9.—(A.P.)—A gale off the Great Lakes yesterday swept Western New York and the Lake provinces of Canada, disrupting shipping, tearing boats from their moorings in harbors, damaging houses, flooding wide sections and uprooting trees and poles.

While the gale subsided in the late afternoon from a maximum in the early morning of 84 miles an hour to around 70 miles an hour velocity, the weather bureau predicted that high winds would prevail last night and to-day with some snow, and warnings were displayed for lake craft.

No estimate of the damage was available last night, but it was expected to reach many thousands of dollars.

A Buffalo man was killed when he was struck by a newspaper truck, the driver of which was blinded by driven snow. Yesterday's gale hit Buf-

COUNCIL HEARS GOOD REPORTS

Counties Road Superintendent Tells of Work Done—Second Grader Needed.

WILL PLANT TREES.

COBOURG, Dec. 9. — When the Counties Council was called to order yesterday afternoon at 2.40 and the roll called, there were six members absent. These were Britton of Newcastle, Peake of Seymour, Ross of Codrington, Thickson of Bowmanville, Thompson of Cobourg and Wood of Millbrook. Some of the absentees came to the council chamber later.

Col. MacNachtan read several communications. The first was an account from the Wellington Continuation school for tuition of pupils from the United Counties. Under date Dec. 6, 1927, there was an account for light on the Hastings bridge. The former account was passed, but the latter was referred to the Finance committee. A second account from Hastings amounting to $2,700 was referred to the Road and Bridge committee. This was for widening the bridge in that village.

The first committee to report was the Forestry committee. In its presentation it said the members had inspected several properties in the county of Durham which might be suitable for reforestation purposes. Several of these had been too high-priced, but they were strongly in favor of purchasing the tract as indicated in the sketch accompanying the report. There were also other properties available at reasonable prices which would make up the desired 1,000 acres. In the original tract there were only 790 acres. This could be purchased for $8.70 an acre.

W. J. Maher, speaking in the report, was strongly in favor of the reforestation scheme. He thought that anyone who saw the areas already planted could not help but realize that the trees were in their natural element. Timber, he said, was growing more valuable every day and it would continue to do so. Trees, he said, were a crop, and should be considered just as a farmer would consider his grain. The generation of forty or fifty years hence would be truly thankful for what the present generation did in providing such a heritage.

C. A. Wright, Darlington, said that the trees were a "long-distance" crop, but were, nevertheless, a good idea and an excellent investment. He recalled how he had been among those who ridiculed the original idea at the outset but was ready and eager to admit that he now believed differently. He thought it a step in the right direction. He thought it would be a good idea to have the township interested in the scheme.

Mr. Richardson, of the Government staff, addressed the council. It was four years since he had done so but during that time the Hon.. Mr. Finlayson, Minister of Land & Forests had addressed the council and advised them to purchase more land. The block which the present committee had selected, he said, was admirably suited to the reforestation plan, and he would be pleased to recommended it to the minister.

He had brought a small picture machine with him and wished to show some slides to the council. This would enable them to grasp the true situation much more readily than an ordinary lecture would. Just before showing the slides, he explained that it required three to four years for the trees to establish themselves and that there would be more growth during the period of the following four years. He also explained the three-fold programme for reforestation which the government was following. This was fully detailed in the government circular, municipal forests, page 18. The trees on the Peterboro Road, two miles west of Norwood also came in for special mention.

The slides shown, clearly depicted the growth of the trees from the stage of seed preparation to the ten inch trunk of twenty-year-old specimen. The slides showing the methods employed at the Government nurseries were of particular interest to the council.

Warden Elliot, after Mr. Richardson had finished, spoke briefly, saying that the committee's visit to the nursery at Fort William had been a revelation to them. He was very much in favour of the reforestation plan. The report of the Reforestation Committee was accepted.

Road Report Given.

Mr. Grier, superintendent of the County Roads when asked for his report, said he had prepared it along slightly different lines than usual. Instead of giving his report by townships, he had prepared it by roads. He had also prepared an individual copy for each member of the council and these would be distributed after the session.

The expenditures of the United Counties for maintenance and construction of roads, given by roads, are:

County Road, no. 1 ....$2,083.40
County Road, no. 2 .... $1,842.09

Total $89,220.35.

There were two concrete bridges constructed, four steel bridges, one other completed and two repaired or altered. Twenty five corrugated iron culverts have been installed, nine miles of road constructed and forty one miles gravelled A total of 30,6612 yards of crushed and pit gravel were used at a price of slightly over $1.00 per yard. Two hundred and fifty miles of road have been graded some of it two and three times, with the power grader.

A motion to receive the report was carried and Warden Elliot gave a brief verbal report from the road committee. He said there was little left for that committee to report since Mr. Grier's report had covered their work very completely He wished ,however, to express himself as being in favour of purchasing a portable stone crusher. This could be transported to the most convenient places much more rapidly and with less expense than the large one at present in use. The purchase of a second power grader also received

WILL SUBMIT SOLUTION FOR BORDER DISPUTE

Geneva Council To Consider Report on Polish-Lithuanian Situation.

AT SATURDAY SESSION.

Occupation of Vilna By Poland To Remain Unsettled Until March.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable. — The Daily Telegraph will publish the following from its Geneva correspondent:

"It is understood that the following solution will be submitted to the Council of the League on Saturday for a clearing of the Polish-Lithuanian situation.

1.—"Poland shall agree to recognize the full and complete independence of Lithuania as a sovereign state:

2. —"The present co-called state of war between the two parties shall cease and more normal relations shall be established which, however need not mean the resumption of of consular or diplomatic relations, but must bring about a reopening of railway, postal and telegraphic traffic as well as the transmission of traffic through Lithuania and Poland to neighbouring countries.

3.—"The League Council is to appoint a commission to visit both sides of the frontiers between these two countries and report regarding the alleged mobilization of troops by Poland and also the existence of irregular armed bands which have been molesting the frontier villages and responsibility for which, each country accuses the other.

"The real question at the root of the whole dispute, namely the occupation of Vilna by Poland remains unsettled until March.

Yesterday afternoon's public meeting of the League Council decided to submit the thorny question of German minority schools in Polish Silesia to the Hague Court. The remainder of the session was occupied by another of the everlasting Polish squabbles ,namely the transport of Polish munitions through Danzig port for Polish vessels.

"No wonder the general exclamation in League lobbies is that the institution seems to exist for no other purpose than the settlement of Poland's disputes with her neighbors."

OUTSIDE OSHAWA.

OSHAWA, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Beaten into insensibility and left on the roadside two miles from her home by her abductors, Mrs Roy Cutts, Oshawa, was found on the highway to-day by passengers of the Toronto-Oshawa bus. They rushed her to Oshawa General Hospital, where she is suffering from head injuries, shock, and exposure. Mrs. Curtis said that two men in a large sedan had accosted her on the highway last night and one of them struck her with a flashlight when she refused to enter the car.

Members Divided On Prayer Book Issue

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press Cable).—It has been a long time since there has been such "lobbying" in connection with any parliamentary business as the intensive campaign for and against the draft of the new prayer book on which Parliament will soon be involved in debate. The House of Lords will likely pass the book on Wednesday, but not by an overwhelming majority. On Thursday the House of Commons is expected to show a substantial majority for the bill approving the prayer book revisions.

Premier Stanley Baldwin will speak in favor of the bill and so will a number of Labor members, including Commander Kenworthy, Misses Bondfield, Wilkinson and Lawrence and the Duchess of Atholl.

Sir Douglas Hogg, Attorney-General, is against the bill and will be supported by Labor members: Rt. Hon. S. Walsh of Ince, J. H. Hayes of Edgehill, and Col., Rt. Hon. J. C. Wedgwood.

Archbishop Short has already addressed the Liberals urging them to support the new prayer book.

WILL ATTEMPT NON-STOP HOP

Lindbergh To Try Flight From New York To Mexico City.

2,000 MILE TRIP.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press) — Charles A. Lindbergh has decided to attempt a non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City.

The spanning of the 2,000 air miles between the capitals of the United States and Mexico will be the next international mission undertaken by the ambassador of good-will, Charles A. Lindbergh.

A telegraphic invitation from President Calles of Mexico to make the flight reached the trans-Atlantic flier yesterday and he has accepted. Although his plans are not complete Lindbergh said last night that he would not necessarily attempt a non-stop flight.

"I have not studied the project," he added, "and the route depends on flying conditions. Whether or not any stops will be made en route also must be decided later."

It is Lindbergh's present intention to start from Washington, not New York, and to use his "Spirit of St. Louis."

COLD WEATHER FOLLOWS GALE

Sub-Zero Temperatures Prevail Over Western Provinces of Dominion.

ROADS STILL BLOCKED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 9. —(Canadian Press) — Death-dealing storms had given way to extreme sub-zero temperatures in Western Canada last night. The death toll attributed to the blizzard which howled across Southern Alberta early this week was reduced to six to-day following offical denial of a report that the frozen bodies of two sheep-herders had been found in a snow drift south of Tabor.

The sting of winters icy blasts was felt over a stretch of territory extending from the Pacific Coast to Eastern Ontario, and thence into the United States. Country roads were still blocked in the three Prairie Provinces and disorganized railway service was gradually being restored to normal in the storm-wrecked regions. As a result of the intense cold, which reached as low as forty below in the Rocky Mountain area, trains from West were many hours behind schedule to-day.

Schools Closed.

Country schools were closed in many districts and several cities and towns in Alberta were still on restricted milk supply. Shipping on the Great Lakes was at a complete stand-still with prospects of a number of vessels being trapped in the ice now rapidly forming. While ice-breakers were manoeuvering to maintain shipping channels free of ice. A sharp drop in temperature threatened to seal the end of navigation for the 1927 season.

The blizzard that whipped Lake Superior accounted for the foundering of the steamer Agawa of the Algoma Central Steamship Line which was driven on a reef off the Manitoulin Island. Throughout the day, watches on the mainland were helpless to proceed to the assistance of the crew of 21 man aboard the vessel. Late reports indicated that a tug had been despatched to the aid of the disabled steamer.

The coldest points reported on the Continent during the day were Hudson Hope, B. C., and Mayo in the Yukon territory where the mercuries dropped to 51 below zero. At Aklavik in the Artic th low points of 48 below was recorded while Edmonton, Alta., registered an official extreme of 41 below. In contrast to these frigid dips Fort Simpson, far up the Yukon, reported the unusual temperature for this time of the year of 2 below. Temperature ranging from 20 to 30 below zero were common on the plains of Western Canada.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

RECOGNIZING GOD IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 11. The Recognition of God in National Affairs. Isaiah 37:5-11, 14-20.

BY WM. B. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Text: Isaiah 37:5-11, 14-20

So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say unto your master, Thus saith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

And he heard say concerning Tirhakah, king of Ethopia, He is come forth to make war with thee: and when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah, king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands by destroying them utterly; and shalt thou be delivered?

And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up unto the house of the Lord, and spread it before the Lord.

And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying,

O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, that dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made heaven and earth.

Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear; open thine eyes, O Lord, and see: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent to reproach the living God.

Of a truth, Lord, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations, and their countries.

And have cast their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; therefore they have destroyed them.

Now, therefore, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the Lord, even thou only.

This lesson cannot be adequately understood unless one has an appreciation of the position of Israel among the nations in ancient times. This position has been compared to that of such countries as Belgium in modern Europe—the position of a buffer state between great rival and contending powers. Palestine, in its very situation, was naturally the battle ground between warring empires, and much of the history of Israel must be read in the light of these rivalries.

What was the wise and sound policy for Israel in this situation? Isaiah believed that it was the policy of neutrality and the avoidance of entangling alliances with other nations.

If Israel made alliance with Egypt, she incurred the vengeance of Babylon.

If she made alliance with Babylon, she incurred the vengeance of Egypt.

Wisdom as well as sound policy, inclined Israel to take the high-minded and noble position of attending to her own affairs and developing sound ideals of government within her borders. It was, of course, very difficult to do this, for even high-minded people are not always let alone in the managing of their own affairs.

Hezekiah High-Minded.

Hezekiah, king of Judah, was a high-minded and able ruler. In the early part of his reign he was not disposed to listen to the counsel of Isaiah, and he allowed himself to become involved in a hostile attitude toward Assyria.

Later, however, he inclined to listen to the advice of Isaiah, and when he and his advisers had gotten in difficulties, Hezekiah sent to Isaiah.

Isaiah's message was reassuring, that God is the true master of the fate of men and nations, and that strength and power, arrogant in blasphemy, have in them the seeds of weakness despite all appearance of force. Isaiah assures Hezekiah that Sennacherib will hear disconcerting tidings and will return to his own land, there to perish by the sword.

Had Isaiah some direct premonition of this through the revelation of a dream or otherwise, or was he making a general prediction concerning the fall of a tyrant?

We do not know, but it would be interesting to discover the instances in history where great military projects have failed just when they seemed on the point of achieving the most complete success and the virtual annihilation of opposing forces.

Think, for instance, of the career of Hannibal, amazing in its genius and in its successive stages of accomplishment, yet for some mysterious reason, never explained in history, breaking down in the climax at the very gates of Rome when Rome had seemingly not the slightest possible chance of escape.

Probably it is in the light of such amazing deliverances as this, frequent in the records of profane history, that he must interpret the experiences of Israel.

In the narrow reference to particular events the hand of Providence does not always appear, but in the steady march of nations and in the development through time we may see more clearly the workings of Providence and we discover the power of the true saint and statesman as distinguished from the seeming triumph of hypocritical leaders and self-seeking politicians.

Modern Application.

The teachings of a lesson like this are somewhat hard to develop except in this general way and with application to modern problems. It is almost impossible to reproduce in our own minds the exact historical situation, but it is not difficult to sense the religious realities and the principles of wise policy and good government as they apply to the internal foundations of the nation and to dealings with others.

In America at the present hour no problem is more acute than that of our relationship to other nations and peoples. What is our attitude and our policy going to be? In one sense it might well be that of the avoidance of entangling alliances.

We ought to be doing all in our power, not only for the preservation of world peace and for the attaining of conditions that would assure world peace for the future, but also in every possible way for the making of goodness and righteousness effective against evil, error, and injustice among men.

To do this is no simple matter. It seems the purification of our own hearts and the clearing of our own vision. It means consecration to high ideals of a sort that we have as yet only in a minor way achieved. It is, however, the goal of all sound government as it is the aspiration of Christian purpose and the fulfillment of the prophetic spirit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

RECOGNIZING GOD IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 11. The Recognition of God in National Affairs. Isaiah 37:5-11, 14-20.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Text: Isaiah 37:5-11, 14-20

So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say unto your master, Thus saith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

Behold, I will send a blast upon him and he shall hear a rumour, and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

And he heard say concerning Tirhakah, king of Ethopia, He is come forth to make war with thee: and when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah, king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands by destroying them utterly; and shalt thou be delivered?

And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up unto the house of the Lord, and spread it before the Lord.

And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying,

O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, that dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made heaven and earth.

Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear; open thine eyes, O Lord, and see: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent to reproach the living God.

Of a truth, Lord, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations, and their countries.

And have cast their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; therefore they have destroyed them.

Now, therefore, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the Lord, even thou only.

This lesson cannot be adequately understood unless one has an appreciation of the position of Israel among the nations in ancient times. This position has been compared to that of such countries as Belgium in modern Europe—the position of a buffer state between great rival and contending powers. Palestine, in its very situation, was naturally the battle ground between warring empires, and much of the history of Israel must be read in the light of these rivalries.

What was the wise and sound policy for Israel in this situation? Isaiah believed that it was the policy of neutrality and the avoidance of entangling alliances with other nations.

If Israel made alliance with Egypt, she incurred the vengeance of Babylon.

If she made alliance with Babylon, she incurred the vengeance of Egypt.

Wisdom as well as sound policy, inclined Israel to take the high-minded and noble position of attending to her own affairs and developing sound ideals of government within her borders. It was, of course, very difficult to do this, for even high-minded people are not always let alone in the managing of their own affairs.

Hezekiah High-Minded.

Hezekiah, king of Judah, was a high-minded and able ruler. In the early part of his reign he was not disposed to listen to the counsel of Isaiah, and he allowed himself to become involved in a hostile attitude toward Assyria.

Later, however, he inclined to listen to the advice of Isaiah, and when he and his advisers had gotten in difficulties, Hezekiah sent to Isaiah.

Isaiah's message was reassuring, that God is the true master of the fate of men and nations, and that strength and power, arrogant in blasphemy, have in them the seeds of weakness despite all appearance of force. Isaiah assures Hezekiah that Sennacherib will hear disconcerting tidings and will return to his own land, there to perish by the sword.

Had Isaiah some direct premonition of this through the revelation of a dream or otherwise, or was he making a general prediction concerning the fall of a tyrant?

We do not know, but it would be interesting to discover the instances in history where great military projects have failed just when they seemed on the point of achieving the most complete success and the virtual annihilation of opposing forces.

Think, for instance, of the career of Hannibal, amazing in its genius and in its successive stages of accomplishment, yet for some mysterious reason, never explained in history, breaking down in the climax at the very gates of Rome when Rome had seemingly not the slightest possible chance of escape.

Probably it is in the light of such amazing deliverances as this, frequent in the records of profane history, that he must interpret the experiences of Israel.

In the narrow reference to particular events the hand of Providence does not always appear, but in the steady march of nations and in the development through time we may see more clearly the workings of Providence and we discover the power of the true saint and statesman as distinguished from the seeming triumph of hypocritical leaders and self-seeking politicians.

Modern Application.

The teachings of a lesson like this are somewhat hard to develop except in this general way and with application to modern problems. It is almost impossible to reproduce in our own minds the exact historical situation, but it is not difficult to sense the religious realities and the principles of wise policy and good government as they apply to the internal foundations of the nation and to dealings with others.

In America at the present hour no problem is more acute than that of our relationship to other nations and peoples. What is our attitude and our policy going to be? In one sense it might well be that of the avoidance of entangling alliances.

We ought to be doing all in our power, not only for the preservation of world peace and for the attaining of conditions that would assure world peace for the future, but also in every possible way for the making of goodness and righteousness effective against evil, error, and injustice among men.

To do this is no simple matter. It seems the purification of our own hearts and the clearing of our own vision. It means consecration to high ideals of a sort that we have as yet only in a minor way achieved. It is, however, the goal of all sound government as it is the aspiration of Christian purpose and the fulfillment of the prophetic spirit.

THE TRENT CANAL.

The Trent district is to be given splendid publicity as usual next month at the New York Motor Boat Show, where the Trent Waterway Development Association will have an elaborate exhibit, great quantities of literature will be distributed, and the radio used to call attention to what the Trent has to offer.

If motor boat owners could be assured that the canal was completed the representatives of the Association would have little difficulty in securing a visit from so many of these owners that the movement of traffic along the waterway would take on the appearance of a procession.

In its present condition the system of rivers, lakes and artificial waterways has been able to attract a large number of boat owners from across the border, but the vessels that have hitherto been seen in local waters represent but a small fraction of the fleet that would come were the canal completed.

It is satisfactory to note that from one end of the Trent Waterway to the other the feeling is growing that there must be an unanimous and concerted demand for the finishing touches to be put on.

COMMUNITY SERVICE.

Frequent evidences are being given of the development of a community spirit in Peterborough that cannot fail to make this city a better place in which to live.

The latest demonstration that such a spirit is growing in strength and vigor is afforded by the co-operation that is being shown in the decoration of George street for the Christmas season.

In this service, that will be appreciated not only by the merchants but by the citizens generally, the Utilities Commission, the Kiwanis Club and the Friday Night Club are all playing a part.

The Commission has supplied the coloured lights and installed them, the Kiwanians are looking after the evergreens, paying the cost of transportation and supplying some of the help needed for their erection, while the Friday Night Club is furnishing a squad of twenty men who will put the Christmas trees in their proper places.

This is real team-work on the part of the three organizations, and the display that will result will be pleasing on its own account and doubly so because it reveals a spirit of willingness to help that is most gratifying.

The old slogan, "Let George do it," seems to be disappearing in Peterborough, and a new and better version, "Let us help George do it," is taking its place.

THE HOUSE OF REFUGE.

The appointment of Louis Fry, who has been acting in that capacity for some time, as Superintendent of the County House of Refuge seems to have been the result of a commendable determination on the part of the members of the County Council to secure the best official available.

An opportunity had been given to test Mr. Fry's qualities, and it was largely on the recommendation of the Warden and of the Chairman of the Board of Management that his appointment was made permanent.

The Chairman was able to declare that since the change in Superintendents the old people have been well satisfied and content, and that there is an entirely different atmosphere around the House of Refuge.

This is information that will be pleasing to the people of the county, for as The Examiner, in urging that the appointment should not be regarded from a patronage viewpoint has already pointed out, there is through the county very strong anxiety that the inmates of the House of Refuge shall be given sympathetic and careful attention.

The changes proposed in regard to the Board of Management, which will be submitted to the Council at the session in January, have been drafted in an endeavour to make sure that such attention is given, and the recommendations will doubtless receive the earnest consideration of the 1928 Council.

THAT TRIP TO TORONTO.

The action of the Provincial Department of Agriculture in providing a trip to the Royal Winter Fair for 500 young Ontario farmers from all parts of the Province impressed most of Ontario's newspapers as of excellent educational value and likely to give the delegates a higher conception of the importance of agriculture.

It would naturally be expected that any opposition to this policy would develop in urban circles, but the city journals have commended the department's action, and it has remained for President Amos of the United Farmers of Ontario to utter the first complaint.

The U.F.O.'s head doesn't like the idea at all.

It will create, he declares, the harmful impression that the Government is a never-failing source of wealth which may be drawn upon at will.

Mr. Amos, The Examiner maintains, is worrying over nothing.

If the young farmers of Ontario escaped being infected with the germ of paternalism during the days of the Drury Government, there is not much danger that they will be harmed by a trip to the Royal Winter Fair at the Government's expense.

The problem of the day is how to keep the young men and women on the farms.

Surely to let some of them see what an important place agriculture holds as demonstrated by the Winter Fair and similar shows helps.

GROWING BUSINESSES.

A speaker who addressed the Detroit Adcraft Club last week predicted that 4,500,000 automobiles would be sold in America next year.

How the average man would have laughed, 15 or 20 years ago, if such a prophecy had been made then as to conditions in 1928. The growth of the motor car business has been one of the most spectacular things in the world's industrial and commercial history. The rich man's "toy" of 1905 and 1910 has become the average man's necessity in 1926 and indeed for several years past. And this tendency is increasing. More and more persons are getting cars and thousands of others who used to own only one are now buying two or more. Indeed, there are plenty of families with three, four, five or six machines in the garage.

It couldn't be done, the cynics used to say a few years ago. The automobile was just a passing fad. It would never be generally used. The cost was too great, roads were to rough and so on. But the motor car produced good roads here and everywhere, the prices came down on account of quantity production and now some kind of a car is within the reach of practically everyone.

With all these facts in mind, who will be bold enough, now, to predict that aircraft will never come into general use? The chances for the development of air machines are brighter than those enjoyed by automobiles in the years gone by. For instance, the world is familiar with gasoline engines, and knows pretty well how they perform. Secondly, everyone has become educated to the idea of great speed. It is only a short step from the fast motor car to the fast airplane.

Interest in aviation is growing in Canada. This is only natural because Canada demonstrated, during the Great War, that it is capable of producing flyers w[ho] have no superiors. Another thing is that our country remarkably well adapted for the use of airplanes. Ca[na]da is a land of long stretches. One cannot think o[f] single nation that could use the airplane to greater [ad]vantage. Flying clubs are being formed in various [Ca]nadian centres. The Federal Government is assist[ing] the movement and has purchased a number of small E[n]glish planes in order to give it impetus. These are to [be] distributed to the flying clubs under certain conditio[ns]. All this is valuable. As Commander Richard E. By[rd], North Pole and Atlantic flyer, said in a recent arti[cle] what aviation needs is public sympathy. And the [best] way to get this is through making the public fami[liar] with it.

Mr. Ford has sensed the trend. He is in the [air]plane business now and his plant is turning out a [new] machine approximately every 11 days. The aircraft [in]dustry is developing slowly but surely. A few years f[rom] now it is going to be a very large institution, an [im]portant factor in the life of Canada, the United Sta[tes] and other countries.—Border Cities Star.

THE DAY OF ARBITRATION?

"It is feared that hundreds of thousands will work pending a settlement," is the statement in a [dis]patch from Sydney, Australia, telling that dock wor[kers] are on strike. It is added, "a similar strike tied [up] shipping from November, 1924, to August, 1925."

The new strike is beginning because the dock[ers] will not work over-time (for over pay) under t[he] of an arbitration award.

This is industrial war; and there is no wa[y] venting such war except arbitration, and a willingne[ss] on both sides to abide by arbitration.

The strike of 1924-1925 in Australia did throw out of employment, either directly or by its consequences, the breadwinners of a couple of hundred thousand people for several months. It lost many millions of dollars in wages to the workers, who never got anything to make up for it that they could not have got without the strike. It cost employers many millions of dollars. It destroyed the prosperity of New South Wales for a time. And it bred or accentuated bitter class feeling, with lasting evil.

One would have imagined that so recent a folly and disaster would have prevented what threatens now. But human nature is so pugnacious that a set of pleased anticipation has generally preceded a chance for a fight in most of us—especially if we are part of a crowd. We don't expect to get hurt. We expect to "show the other fellow something." The fight comes on, and when both sides are well battered and bruised and disheartened and disgusted, we make peace. Then when the wounds are healed up, it is the tendency of poor humanity to put a chip on its shoulder and get ready for another fight.

* * * *

Canada had a splendid piece of legislation in the Lemieux Act, which forbade a strike in any public service until arbitration had been tried. True, neither side was under compulsion to accept the award. And it is refusal to accept an award which now threatens Australia. But almost without exception in any dispute, Canadian employers and employed were sensible. Out of 436 disputes in Canada handled under the Lemieux Act in some twenty years, a settlement preventing or ending a strike was reached in more than 90 per cent. of the cases. This fine statute has been declared ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament by the law lords of the British Privy Council, who hold that such legislation is properly a Provincial matter. This may be law, but it also looks like folly, when one reflects that the most important services which that legislation protected, for instances the railway or shipping systems, stretch from ocean to ocean, and cannot possibly be made subject to the legislation of any Province.

* * * *

Fortunately—and naturally, in men of intelligence—the leaders of the chief unions on this continent recognize the vital desirability of arbitration. President Green of the American Federation of Labor at the recent Los Angeles convention declared emphatically:

"Whether we like it or not we must substitute the battle of economic statistics for the battle of the strike. Labor will never forego the right to strike, but industry is now so huge and complicated that the strike weapon loses its force, while statistics, if truthfully obtained, reflect the real values in industry which become amenable to public consciousness and subject to the more powerful instruments of conciliation and arbitration."

The leaders of the greatest of North American unions, namely of the International Typographical Union and of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, have long ranged themselves on the same platform.—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The export and local trade in grain in the domestic market yesterday was exceedingly quiet owing to it being a holiday throughout the Province of Quebec. The tone was steady and prices showed no change.

Owing to the continued limited demand from both foreign and domestic buyers, the trade in Spring wheat grades of flour was quiet but the undertone was firm. The demand for Winter wheat flour was confined to small lots and values were steady.

An active business was again transacted in all lines of millfeed and prices were unchanged. A good trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were firmly maintained.

A weaker feeling developed in the potato market and prices were reduced five to ten cents per bag. This was attributed to the continued limited demand from all sources. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Whites were sold at $1.05 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.10 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at 95c per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 90c per bag in bulk, ex-track.

Only a small volume of business was done in eggs, but prices were firm. The receipts were 340 cases.

The trade in imported beans was quiet, but the tone of the market was steady. Car lots of choice white hand-picked on spot were quoted at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel ex-track, with smaller quantities at $2.75 per bushel ex-store.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in butter but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 168 packages.

The cheese market was without any new feature to note, the demand being limited and values were unchanged. The receipts were 339 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Active selling based chiefly on December private estimates of the 1927 corn crop led to an all round setback in grain values yesterday. Closing quotations on corn were heavy, 2¼ to 2⅝ cents net lower at the day's bottom level. Wheat finished ⅞ to 1⅜ off; oats 1⅛ to 1¼ and 1⅝ down, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

The outstanding feature of the monthly unofficial crop fixtures issued yesterday was the fact that one of the leading experts placed the total corn yield at 2,655,000,000 bushels, whereas general expectations were for a total of 2,650,000,000 bushels. The higher estimate was in sharp contrast with a preliminary forecast this season of 2,646,000,000 bushels and also with 2,657,000,000 bushels final returns for 1926.

Increasing weakness of the corn market in the late dealings was evident, notwithstanding that the average of yesterday's unofficial estimates pointed to an expected yield of 2,645,000,000 bushels and also indicated that corn supplies in all positions this season would amount to but 2,776,000,000 bushels against 2,825,000,000 bushels last year. Much of the selling of future deliveries of corn, especially as the day drew to an end, was on standing orders from holders who sought to stop losses at various fixed limits.

Wheat lacked adequate support from buyers who appeared to be unnerved as a result of corn price downturns. The circumstance that unofficial estimates on the wheat crop were about as had been looked for failed to act as a counterbalance, and so likewise did Kansas reports of damage by freezing, it being asserted that snows over the Western belt amounted to less than had been thought.

Oats prices dropped with corn, although yesterday's private reports suggested an oats crop 33,000,000 bushels under the government preliminary report and 77,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Provisions were firmer early, responsive to an upturn in hog values, but later showed effects of weakness both in corn and cotton as well.

THE IRISH OF IT.

Sir:

Under the caption, "The Argument Starts," which calls for more of it, I want to say about Bannockburn and Ireland a few things. Mr. Sheridan being Irish was not afraid to sign his name. "Toronto Scot" takes refuge behind that signature. I say that may be the Scotch way of doin' fightin' but it is not the fair way and if there had been less sulking behind things at Flodden field there would have been no such regrets as there were on that day. "Toronto Scot" talks about the pipes. Doesn't he know that the Irish pipe has only one pipe while the Scotch has several. The reason is that the Irish requires less blowing to make it go. The Irish not being used to blowing could not use the Scotch pipes. Keep 'em and may they make your headache for many a day. My grandfather was Tim O'Rourke and he fought at Bannockburn for he told me so himself and he said they beat the English on that day by a stratagem. When the English were charging the Scotch didn't even know how to spit on their hands till Tim O'R. showed 'em and when he cried "St. George and beef and beer," the English stopped and said "Where's the beer?" and when they stopped my grandfather had his eye knocked out but it was a glass eye and when the English saw him putting his eye back in his head and coming on against them they fled thinking it was the Divill himself.

TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

To the Editor:

Dear sir:

Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to ask a few questions of the Board of Education.

The undersigned has laid the charge of discrimination against the principal of one of the schools. He has also laid a charge of assault against a teacher on the staff of the same school. These charges have been laid in writing and in person to the Board and individual members of the Board, but the Board of Education have repeatedly denied me a hearing, and have exonerated both teachers of any wrong.

My charge against the teacher is: that she took my daughter by the shoulders, gave her a severe shaking, and repeatedly slapped her across the face and ears.

Is this charge serious enough for an investigation?

The charge against the principal of discrimination is laid because on two occasions he picked my boy out for punishment and let the other offenders go without a word of reprimand, but threatened (by letter to me) to expel my son from school.

Is a principal allowed to make meat of one and not the other?

Is the Board of Education to be allowed to ignore these charges?

Should I have a right, as a citizen, to press these charges?

Yours truly,
ADAM G. MELROSE,
493 George Street South
Peterborough.

LEAN BELIEVED NEAR THIS CITY

Was Given Ride By Local Motorist—In Port Hope Wednesday.

LIVES IN TORONTO.

A local man is believed to have given Major Osborne Lean, missing Toronto man, a ride in his car and it is thought that Lean is somewhere in this district.

He was reported Wednesday in Port Hope and was also noticed on the Provincial Highway west of here on Thursday, standing in the roadway beckoning to passing motorists. Identification cards have been widely circulated in this section and citizens are joining in the hunt.

It was learned that Major Lean visited H. W. Mitchell's drug store here at 6.20 p.m. Wednesday, and a few minutes after leaving the store Harry Munro, junior clerk, was positive in his declaration that it was the man in question.

Seemed Dazed.

"He seemed to be dazed," Munro said, "and he did not appear to be aware of his whereabouts. He walked with a decided limp in his right leg and carried a cane."

It was further learned that Major Lean, after aimlessly walking about the store for a few minutes, asked the price of packages of tea on display He also viewed a radio, and seemed to be interested in the subject On being asked by the clerk if he was a radio traveller, he vaguely replied: "Oh, no, I am an insurance man" He did not make a purchase. Following these remarks, he departed from the store, and a few minutes later was seen standing at the junction of the Peterboro and Provincial Highways and from photographs Harold C. Beaty recognized the missing Torontonian. Police authorities are of the opinion that this was the last time he was recognized in Port Hope.

Answers Description.

Munro said that the man aswered the description sent out by Police Headquarters. He appeared to be about 50 years of age, dark complexion, about six feet in height, and weighing about 200 pounds. He was dressed in a dark suit and coat, walked with a limp, and carried a cane to assist him.

K. H. Cousland, 13 Glenmorris Avenue, Toronto, whose wife is niece of Mrs. Lean, accompanied by T. Sheehan and R. B. Scott, also of Toronto, has made an exhaustive search from Oshawa on the west to Cobourg on the east, and to Lake Scugog on the north. At 11 o'clock last night it was thought that Lean had been located, as a local citizen had noticed a man answering his description on the street. However, upon investigation at the Ontario Hotel, this person tallied with the description on the identification cards except that he was gray-haired and Lean is practically bald.

May Have Obtained Lift.

Accompanied by Night Constable W. Harvey, the searchers made a round of cafes, hotels, and boarding-houses, but no clues were found. In a steady rain the search still continues. The theory is advanced that he may have secured a ride from town at 6.30, as he has not been noticed since that time.

Mr. Cousland said that at 4.30 Wednesday afternoon the postmaster of Newcastle saw a person answering Lean's description standing on the pavement in the village waving his cane at passing cars as if asking for a ride. He was acting in a dazed and meaningless manner, and immediately before dark, it is stated, he was again spotted on the highway east of Newcastle by a truck driver.

Mr. Cousland related that Major Lean would have in his possession a sum not more than $15.00, as he had banked his salary prior to his departure at 4.45 p.m. on the day of his disappearance from Toronto. "He was wounded in 1916, the searcher said, "and I don't believe he suffered shell shock. He has never felt the effects of his wartime experiences before, and I believe his mind is now a total blank."

INSTAL OFFICERS AT LODGE MEETING

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9. — A very pleasant social event took place in the L.O.L. Hall, Fallis Line, on Wednesday evening, in connection with the regular meeting of Orange Lodge No. 40, a hot fowl supper being served at the conclusion of the business session, the wives of the members and guests being included, for the first time, in the invitation for this part of the happy gathering.

Past County Master Brother J. H. Paul, installed the newly-elected officers in their respective positions, and among the other guests of honor were County Master Brother W. W. Gray of Perrytown; Brother R. J. McKnight, W.M. L.O.L. No. 79; Past Worshipfull Masters, Brothers James Roddy and A. J. Henderson, and Rev. P. C. Howard, who has taken a number of degrees in connection with the Orange Order.

The officers of L.O.L. No. 40, for 1928 are: W.M., Bro. W. Williamson. D.W.M., Bro. Austin Sutton. F.S., Bro. Wesley Fallis. R.S., Bro. W. Leach. Treas., Bro. N. Belch. D. of C., Bro. L. S. Morton. Committeemen: 1st, Bro. Milton Fallis; 2nd, Bro. Wilbert Belch; 3rd, Bro. W. E. Belch; 4th, Bro. Leonard Henderson.

About eighty guests sat down to the bountifully-supplied tables after the formal closing of the lodge, the ladies coming in for this part of the evening's program, and at the conclusion of the supper hour, County Master W. W. Grey acted as chairman and, after a brief address, called upon Rev. P. C. Howard, who gave the address of the evening. Mr. Howard spoke upon Orangeism, stressing the importance of its high ideals and its necessity to the well-being of the nation, and urging also the need of living up to its principles in actual practice.

Others who spoke briefly were Brothers R. J. McKnight, W.M.; J. Roddy, A .J. Henderson. Musical selections were furnished by Mr. W. and Miss Lillian Crocker, with violin and organ at intervals during the evening.

The formal vote of thank to Rev. Mr. Howard for his able address, was moved by Brother T. H. Aiken, seconded by Bro. W. A.Y.P.A. HOLD MINSTREL SHOW

Young People of St, Thomas' Church, Millbrook, Give Entertainment.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9.—The A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' church sponsored a very delightful social event on Saturday afternoon when an afternoon tea was held at the home of the president, Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard.

The first real touch of winter, keenly felt in the atmosphere out of doors, was completely banished when the guests, who kept coming and going all afternoon, entered the hospitable home and received the warm welcome extended by host and hostess, Rev. P. C. and Mrs. Howard. Miss Ella Grandy and Miss M. White, also assisted in receiving the guests.

A bright coal fire burned in the grate in the living room, and in the dining room gleaming silver and chins shone upon the daintily-laid tea-table, while blue candles in silver holders featured the A.Y.P.A. colors of blue and white.

Misses Ada Attwool and Gladys Gray poured tea, and serving the guests were: Misses Maretta Gray, Edna Lowery, and Muriel Smith. Making the tea, and refilling the plates of sandwiches and cakes, were Mrs. T. H. Harkness and Miss M. Christie. Mr. A. A. Needler acted as cashier, the A.Y.P.A. funds being considerably increased as a result of the pleasant event

On Wednesday, December 7, the A.Y.P.A. will hold a "Minstrel Night", the meeting being open to the public.

BEWARE OF BLADDER WEAKNESS GETTING-UP-NIGHTS

Disturbed Rest Undermines Health, Says Vitality, States Physician Who Recommends Home Treatment

Men and women who are constantly annoyed and distressed by Bladder Weakness or Urinary Irritations should take immediate steps to combat their trouble before it reaches a serious or perhaps dangerous stage!

Backaches, Headaches, pains in feet and legs, nervousness, restlessness, frequent but scanty urination with burning and pain, getting-up-nights—these are some of the more troublesome signs of Bladder Weakness or Irritation that should have prompt attention.

No matter how stubborn your case may seem to be or how many different medicines you have tried without success—don't give up, and think your case hopeless or the natural consequence of advancing years, until you have tried the special private prescription of Dr. Southworth, a physician of nearly 50 years successful experience.

In order to reach the many thousands who cannot come to his office, Dr. Southworth has placed his URATABS in good, local drug stores—and invites you to try them without risk of cost, unless pleased. If URATABS bring you swift and certain comfort you will be happy. If they do not satisfy, they will cost you nothing—so, if you need this grand medicine, try it today! All good druggists.

Rev. Mr. Todd Preaches at Springville United Church.

SPRINGVILLE, December 9.—On Sunday, December 4, Rev. J. E. Todd, B.A., of George Street Church, Peterborough, was the minister in charge of the morning service at Springville United Church. His highly enlightening sermon was great appreciated by those present, and it is only regretted that more were not privileged to be there to hear it.

Owing to the low temperature of the day, many of the regular attendants found at too late an hour that their cars refused to start. Those llivng only a short distance from the church walked, others chanced a ride with their more fortunate neighbors, but many were obliged to stay at home.

In a police case at Salford, England, recently, the prisoner's name was Smith, Inspector Smith conducted the prosecution, and both police witnesses were named Smith.

COUNCIL HEARS

a good investment as there were too many roads for one grader to give satisfaction to all of them. Mr. Grier asked by the Warden, said the present grader had cost $2250.00.

G. H. Hooten, Cavan, expressed his pleasure at being a member of the committee, and after paying a compliment to Mr. Grier, said that the second power grader seemed to be a very necessary purchase.

W. H. Nelson, Murray, told the Council that there had been many unforseen expenditures during the past season. Considering the road mileage of the Counties, he did not think the $90,000.00 appropriation large enough for the work it was expected to do. The erection, repairs and alterations to the several bridges had taken a large portion of the money.

Mr. Fellows, Government Road Engineer, spoke at the request of the Council. After paying a compliment to Mr. Grier, he recommended that the Council supply him with a car. In so doing, he claimed that Mr. Grier had no knowledge beforehand that he was going to make such a request. He also stated that the Councillors had had more to do this year than ever before and suggested that every man be appointed for a term of five years. This would be a thoroughly legal procedure. The appointing of a different man each year added considerably to the difficulties of the road commission and engineers.

A motion to amend by-law No. 1162 was given first reading. Then, by moving the suspension of Rule 37, the second and third readings were passed. The by-law has to do with the resignation of F. J. Rosevear from the school board, and appointed W. J. B. Davidson for the remainder of the present term, 1927-8-9.

On motion of W. F. Ellit and M. Wilson, it was ordered that the County Road Superintendent's report be embodied in the minutes This has not been the rule up to this time.

Councillors Maher and Holman presented a motion to appoint a committee to go through the papers in the vaults and destroy any that were unnecessary. This was because the vaults are already overcrowded. Councillor Bygott, Campbellford, asked what would be termed unnecessary documents. Mr. Maher suggested such things as old pay sheets, letters from such institutions as the Sick Children's Hospital, etc. The legality of the procedure was questioned by Mr. Thompson of Cobourg, but Mr. Maher thought that it was legal and that no one would go in and ruthlessly destroy documents.

An account for $475.50, which had been laid on the table wa sagain re-opened. This is a rebate on the cost of bridges erected and is presented by the town of Cobourg. After a brief discussion the Clerk was instructed to advise the Town Clerk as to the action of the Counties Council.

Upon motion the session adjourned till 10.00 o'clock Friday morning.

A reception was held and supper served to a few intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents. Many useful and handsome gifts were presented to the young couple.

Roads and Bridges.

Reeve Duncan Brown, chairman of the roads and bridges committee submitted a very favourable report of the work done this year in his department. Local interference stopped the committee from rebuilding Belmont Street bridge in Norwood which is in a bad state of repair and requires a new bridge immediately. A subway is being considered over the C. P. R. tracks at this point. The floating bridges were costly for upkeep this year. Over $16.000 was spent during the year in bridge maintenance and construction but the committee finds that it has $2,200 left which will be required to meet the unexpected construction of the Wallace Point bridge.

falo from the south-west, piling up the waters of Buffalo harbor and submerging sections of the Hamburg Turnpike and Woodlawn Beach sections in the southern district of the city. The harbor level was reported to be eight feet above normal.

Vessels Torn From Moorings.

Five of thirty lake steamers were torn from their moorings in the harbor, and one of the boats crashed into a scow, sending the craft to the bottom. A fishing boat in Barcelona, N.Y., habor, south of Buffalo, was sunk and two other craft were beached there and badly damaged.

Veteran fishermen at Dunkirk, N. Y., said the lake level was the highest in a generation. Fishing boats were swept out into Lake Erie and cellars of homes along the waterfront were flooded.

Temperatures Dropped.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Riding out of Canada and the Northwest on the crest of a terrific gale, winter Wednesday overspread virtually the entire country, causing a dozen deaths and resulting in heavy damage to lake shipping, disrupted transportation and communication facilities and causing much misery and suffering.

Temperatures ranging from near zero to 53 degrees below prevailed throughout the Northwest states and while this section attempted to dig out of huge snow drifts brought by the blizzard and tumbling mercury, the cold wave passed rapidly east of the Ohio river and south to the Gulf of Mexico, reaching cold fingers toward the New England states on the east and California on the west. Weather bureau forecasts indicated severe cold for another day at least, although some relief from sub-zero temperatures in the Northwest was anticipated.

The coldest point in the United States Wednesday was Culbertson, in Northeastern Montana, which claimed 53 degrees below zero, while at Glasgow, in the same state, it was 47 below and numerous points reported 15 or 20 below zero.

Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Upper Michigan, in addition to the cold, were hard hit by the snow storm. In Minnesota and some places in other states, schools were dismissed, while telegraph wires and poles were down and train service was hampered.

Air Mail Halted.

Air Mail service virtually came to a standstill as the storm vented its fury, but when the weather cleared, companies having mail contracts prepared to take the air again.

In Central Illinois, there was a menace of floods as well as of cold as many streams were reported running bankfull and some were overspreading the valleys.

Many Deaths.

Deaths attributed to the weather were reported from Iowa, four; Illinois seven, including four in the Chicago district; South Dakota 1; Wisconsin 1, and Montana 1. Some of the deaths were from exposure, some from accidents and some from heart disease attributed to the cold.

Lake vessels at Buffalo, Detroit, Milwaukee and other ports were menaced by the gale. Four freighters and a passenger steamer were torn from their moorings at Buffalo, a steamer was on the rocks near Michael Bay and boats moored in the Detroit river were torn from their fastenings.

Fire added to the sufferings caused by storm and cold and at several points disastrous fires were reported. A group of students and several families were driven from their homes in Chicago into zero temperatures by fire attributed to overheated furnaces, and a blaze at East Chicago, Indiana, starting from the same cause, wiped out part of a business block ,with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Chicago, the largest city in the path of zero temperatures, found hundreds of homeless clamoring for shelter as the first real winter weather struck. Scores were given temporary quarters in police stations and relief organizations were attempting to provide food and warmth for many others.

Parts of the Northwest were almost isolated from the outside world by the combination of cold and snow. Telephone and telegraph communications were cut off, train service was crippled and roads were impassable in parts of Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Nebraska.

HER LITTLE GIRL CAUGHT COLD PLAYING IN THE SNOW

Mrs. A. Coakley, 29 Yale St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"My little girl caught a terrible cold through getting wet while playing in the snow. Everything I did for her did not seem to give her any relief.

"I then went to the drug store and asked the clerk if he knew of something good he could give me. He told me about so I decided to try it.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

"After the bottle was nearly used I noticed that the cough was gone, and by the time the second bottle was used the cold had gone. Now I will never be without it in the house."

COUNTY COUNCIL REPORTS

CHAIRMAN OF ROADS AND BRIDGES.

The duties of your chairman, in so far as bridge construction, has been light, and due to the close attention given by the various Reeves, the matter of maintenance and repairs has also been easy for your chairman.

As you are aware, this Council had intended to rebuild Belmont Street Bridge in Norwood, but local individual interference precluded the building of such bridge at present.

The floating bridges as usual were costly to maintain, but from what now appears, exceedingly good judgment has been exercised in making necessary repairs this year.

Construction has cost as follows:

Paid re Boland's Bridge, November 1st	$1,725.00
Estimated yet to meet	150.00
		$ 1,875.00
Completing Squaw River Bridge		485.00
Completing Doyell's Bridge		53.00
Completing Douglas' Bridge		193.00
Completing Apsley Bridge		80.00
Completing Brown's Bridge		266.00
Expended, 1926		13,060.00
		$16,025.00
Levy, 1926	$9,613.00
Levy, 1927	5,047.00
		$14,660.00
Over expended in 1926 and 1927		1,365.00
Government subsidy for 1926 Bridges		3,565.00
Leaving		$ 2,200.00

Wallace Point Bridge outlay must be met, which means Peterborough County pays half, and according to the above estimate the $2,200.00 will be available if you class the expenditure as bridge building and not in the general rate.

There is in the office the names of the bridges supposed to be over 20 feet from abutment to abutment, but I think a closer observation should be made so as to correspond correctly with By-law No. 1336, June 25, 1927.

Respectfully submitted,

DUNCAN BROWN, Chairman.

County Property Chairman.

I respectfully beg to submit the following, re Court House additions:

Dec. 31, 1926—Paid out for same	$16,879.53
Oct. 31, 1927—Paid out for same	10,136.39
	$27,015.92

Added to the above are furniture, fittings, and various appliances unforseen and not as yet determined. I am not in a position to even approximately estimate.

Other maintenance and repairs that had become necessary were authorized, namely: Repairs to roof on Grand Jury room; repairs to floor of Gaoler's residence, and other minor improvements.

I would respectfully solicit the voice of the whole Council in determining any matters that are not yet finally agreed upon re Court House additions so that the city will be satisfied with proper authority as has been obtained in all that is completed.

Your chairman desires to thank all for their interest and assistance.

Respectfully submitted.

W. H. Montgomery, Chairman.

GIRLS' DEATHS NOT EXPLAINED

Jury Returns Open Verdict at Inquest Into Beamsville Case.

MINERAL POISON CAUSE.

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., Dec. 9.—Despite the positive assertion of Dr. William Jaffray, of Hamilton, the pathologist ,that Gladys Fretz died of a metallic or mineral poisoning, a coroner's jury sitting in the town hall here yesterday afternoon refused to commit itself as to what caused the mysterious death of the two Vineland girls and returned an open verdict. After 45 minutes' deliberation the eight jurors returned to declare that "from the evidence submitted we are unable to come to any conclusion as to the cause of death."

Dr. Jaffray who conducted a post mortem on the body of Gladys Fretz stated that the condition of the liver and the brain was such as to indicate death by metallic poisoning and had found no evidence of food poisoning or of any condition of disease which would have caused death, he said.

"Can you say what type of mineral poisoning." He was asked by Coroner C. W. Elmore, "Was it mercury, lead, or what."

Mineral Poisoning.

'I cannot say what sort," he doctor replied, "but my findings indicate mineral poisoning."

A crowd of 150 filled the town hall for the hearing. The fact that many of them, despite the cold weather, had driven some miles to hear the evidence indicates that wide interest was excited throughout the Niagara Peninsula by the mysterious deaths of these two sisters, 19-year-old Gladys and Jessie, seven years younger, and the subsequent illness of their mother.

Strictly speaking the inquest concerned only the death of Gladys, but since her final illness was the same as that which had killed her sister two days before, the inquiry was really considered to be into both deaths.

Only three witnesses were heard. These were, first, Dr. A. H. Addy, of Jordan, the family physician, who attended both girls, then Dr. Jaffray and finally, the pathetic emotional outburst of Jacob Fretz, the sturdy Vineland farmer, who was the girls' father. The bent, weather-beaten farmer made a picture to compel sympathy as he stood at the front of the hall and racked his mind, it would seem, for some hint to give the jury as to what caused the girls' deaths. He was in tears more than once and his voice at times sunk to a hardly audible pitch. He repeated his previously stated opinion that Jessie, the 12-year-old girl, who died on October 28, succumbed to some complication of the attack of scarlet fever which she suffered last spring.

Lord and Lady Willingdon To Visit New York and Boston.

WASHINGTON, December 9 (Canadian Press). — A troop of cavalry lined up in front of the Canadian Legation to-day for the third time in as many days. This time they came to escort Canada's Governor-General and Lady Willingdon to their train for New York and Boston, where they will visit privately before returning to Ottawa. Their Excellencies have finished three strenuous days of entertainments on their first official visit to Washington. The leave-taking was simple, Secretary of State Kellogg bidding them farewell.

POULTRY PRIZE LIST READY TO GIVE OUT

Many Requests Made From All Over Province—Large Number Will Be Distributed.

The prize lists for the Peterborough Poultry Association, for their annual Winter Poultry Show, have been delivered to President F. H. Dawson's Flour and Feed Store, Water street. Those who are interested in showing their birds at this show, which takes place January 10-11-12, may procure one of these lists from Mr. Dawson.

This promises to be one of the largest and best Poultry Exhibits in Ontario, and judging from the interest manifested it will have a very large attendance.

The poultry industry is becoming a very important factor in Canada today and on account of this, the people of Peterborough should get behind this annual Poultry Show and make it a community affair, as the local Poultry Association is doing its best to see that poultry and eggs are marketed well and in good condition, which is profitable both to the poultrymen and the consumer.

During the past year, the Association has had poultry experts here, lecturing to the farmers and local poultrymen, on the housing, feeding and marketing of their products, which has resulted in giving a wealth of information to the poultry enthusiasts.

On Wednesday evening the play entitled "Can't Afford It," was put on by the young people of Bethel under the auspices of the League of the United Church. Music was provided by Dr. Munroe's orchestra from Warsaw. Quite a number attended, although the weather was rather inclement.

Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., of Toronto, who preached at both services in the United Church last Sunday gave two very splendid addresses. His subject in the morning was "The Good Old Days" and in the evening, "The Better Days to Come," both subjects being based upon Ecclesiastes, 7th chapter, verse 10. Special music was rendered by the choir at both services.

On Friday evening last the students of the Norwood High School held their annual "At Home" in the armouries. The programme consisted of dances and games interspersed with vocal solos and group singing. A very dainty lunch was served. Nearly forty ex-pupils of the last four years were present.

MANY PAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. DAVIDSON

Large Number of Friends Attend Funeral Held Yesterday.

The depth of affection and the widespread esteem felt for the late Mrs. R. W. Davidson was revealed yesterday by the large attendance of friends and relatives at the funeral services conducted from the home, 171 Antrim Street. A life-long resident of the county and city and a woman possessing a rare combination of gifts, the late Mrs. Davidson had endeared herself to old and young by her charming qualities of heart and mind. A musician of unusual talent, a gracious hostess, and a loving friend, the deep regret and sorrow felt in connection with her unexpectedly sudden passing, although she had been ailing for over a year, was most evident at yesterday's services. A constant stream of friends visited the home, and yesterday taxed the accommodation of the house during the services.

Rev. William Allan, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of which the late Mrs. Davidson was a valued member and an active worker in many of the church's activities, officiated. After pointing out the inevitability of death, the joy of the Christian faith that loved ones will be known and recognized after death was emphasized and comfort extended to the bereaved relatives and friends. Touching tribute was paid by Rev. Mr. Allan to the many estimable qualities of the late Mrs. Davidson.

The pall-bearers were six elders from St. Paul's Church, Messrs. D. H. Moore, H. F. McKeown, James Dutton, H. B. Cowan, J. A. Feir, and George MacDonald. Two of the elders were former members and elders of St. Andrew's Church, in which the late Mrs. Davidson acted as soloist for a number of years after coming to Peterborough, and two were for many years associated with her in the work of the choir of St. Paul's Church.

The chief mourners, besides the bereaved husband, R .W. Davidson, and the three daughters, Daisy, Violet and Isobel, included the late Mrs. Davidson's three brothers, Dr. J. W. Fitz-Gerald, Buffalo, N.Y., Dr. R. R. B. Fitz-Gerald, Lockport, N.Y., and A. J. Fitz-Gerald, Toronto. Those in attendance included numerous members of the former Presbyterian Church in Lakefield, which the late Mrs. Davidson, who was a daughter of the late John S. Fitz-Gerald, of Smith Twnship, attended as a girl and in which she acted as organist for many years, and friends and relatives from Smith Township, in which she was brought up and spent the early years of her married life, as well as many residents of the city. Among them were a group of students from the Collegiate Institute, who desired to pay this tribute to one whose friendship and hospitality they had often enjoyed. Floral tributes were numerous and unusually fine. The body of the late Mrs. Davidson was laid to rest in the shadow of the chapel in Little Lake Cemetery.

TRINITY CHOIR HOLDS BANQUET

R. F. Downey Re-elected President at Business Meeting That Follows.

BALANCE IN TREASURY.

The choir of Trinity church held its annual banquet yesterday evening in the Reid street Hall. About forty were present and enjoyed the good things kindly provided by members of the Women's Association of the church. The tables so daintily set received a full share of well deserved admiration.

After the banquet, the President, R. F. Downey, made a few remarks welcoming the new members to the choir, followed by a few words from W. G. Morrow, who, with others of the Music committee, were the guests of the evening. W. D. Campbell, well known for his wit and humour, caused much laughter during the course of his speech.

The election of officers for the year then took place, at which the pastor, the Rev. D. Wren, presided. The following were elected:

Hon. Presidents—Rev. D. Wren and J. Ridyard, Sr.
President—R. F. Downey.
Vice-Pres.—Aubrey Adams.
Secretary—Miss Elva Jackson.
Treasurer—Miss M. Wolstenholm.
Librarian—J. Kennett.
Convenor Lookout Committee—Miss L. Emmerson.
Convenor Social Committee—Miss A. Blanchard.
Gown Attendant, Ladies—Miss E. Forster.
Gown Attendant, Men — George Nicholls.

The Treasurer's report shows a good balance on the right side.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the ladies who so kindly provided the banquet. W. D. Campbell suitably replied on behalf of the ladies.

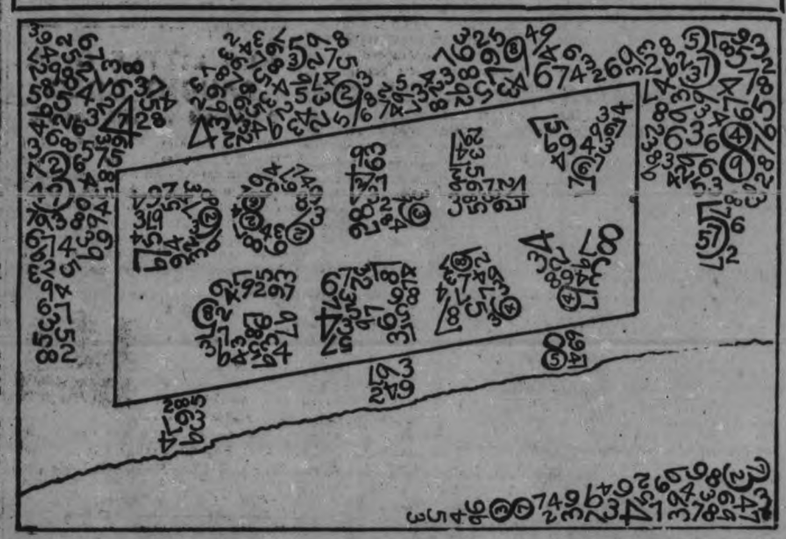
SOLVE THIS PROBLEM

Simply add together all of the numbers below, just as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column. There are no combinations. All are single figures running from two to nine, and each figure is clearly indicated, the sixes having a curved stem and the nines a straight stem. Do not count the two L's in "Dolly" as two 7's.



NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER

To make certain that no one knows the correct answer and to guarantee every contestant an equal chance to win, several figures were removed by different persons at different times, from the original drawing before it was printed. Each person noted on a slip of paper the total of the numbers he erased, enclosed it in an envelope and sealed it and these envelopes, along with an envelope containing the original total were deposited in the safety deposit vaults of the Capital Trust Co. at Toronto, from whom no one can get them until the contest closes. The correct answer now is the sum total of all the figures appearing in the puzzle below, and what this is no one will know until the envelopes have been opened and the total of the figures removed subtracted from the original total by the judges, of whom there are three.

(1) A well-known Church of England clergyman.

(2) A Toronto High School teacher.

(3) A Chartered Accountant, formerly with two of the largest departmental stores and mail order firms in Canada.

There are no tricks to or hidden figures in this contest. It is purely and simply a matter of skill in finding all the numbers shown and then adding them correctly, and the degree of skill and care you use will determine the prize you will win.

The only requirements for entry and to qualify for the prizes are those listed here. YOU WILL NOTE THAT THERE IS NOTHING WHATEVER FOR YOU TO SELL. The rules are simple. Read them carefully now and avoid misunderstanding and confusion later.

FIRST PRIZE—Chrysler Four coach sedan. Without a doubt the finest powered and most beautiful-looking car in its class. Has a pick-up of from 5 to 25 miles per hour in eight seconds, and a speed of 50 miles per hour. Exquisitely upholstered, distinctively smart, wonderfully smooth riding, and built to ride the roughest roads. Value, $1,065.00, plus bonuses noted in prize list.

FIRST PRIZE—Chevrolet Coach Sedan—a car that anyone would be proud to drive. Body by Fisher in the latest and most pleasing color combinations, beautifully upholstered, roomy, smooth riding and easy to drive on any road. Value $850.00, plus cash bonuses noted in prize list.

SPECIAL PRIZES FOR EARLY ANSWERS.

To the contestant sending in the correct or nearest correct answer to the puzzle, postmarked as having been mailed not later than December 19th, 1927, a special prize will be awarded as follows:

$150.00—If $5.00 order is sent in with winning answer.

$100.00—If $4.00 order is sent in with winning answer

$50.00—If $3.00 order is sent in with winning answer.

Note that not only will your stockings cost less the more pairs you order, but the amount of your prize is also increased. For instance, each pair of stockings ordered after the first two pairs costs you only $1.00 a pair instead of our regular price of $1.50 a pair. At the same time the amount of your prize is increased $50.00 for each additonal $1.00 after $3.00 and up to $5.00.

The winning of these special prizes will not bar a contestant from winning one of the regular prizes.

In the event of a tie, a special tie-breaker requiring skill only to break it—no selling—will be sent to those tieing. Under no circumstances will any further money be accepted or required from those concerned.

Make this Christmas a Silk Stocking Christmas for your family and friends and a Packard Christmas for yourself.

A WORD ABOUT "MONARCH" SILK STOCKINGS

Throughout the country—from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, from the border to the Yukon—thousands and thousands of women in all walks of life are enjoying the luxury of carefree silk stockings—stockings that don't easily rip or run from the hem; that don't easily get "holey" at the heels and toes; that don't rip or run when they are slipped off or on that look smart always; that embarrass—never.

Such are Monarch, the best known and most widely worn good silk stockings made in Canada.

Made of soft, lustrous, service-weight silk, in the newest and most exquisite colors, with a double ladder or run-stop on a three-inch elastic hem; four-ply soles and heels; shaped ankles; seamed at back and form-fashioned to fit well and wear well, Monarch Silk Stockings are in a class by themselves.

DOLLY GRAY KNIT GOODS CO.

is owned and controlled entirely by born-in-Canada Canadians, and we have satisfied authorities who have enquired that our resources are ample to carry out this contest successfully.

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES CAREFULLY.

1. Anyone except (a) employees of The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Co. and their immediate families, (b) the judges and their immediate families, may enter this contest and compete for the prizes.

2. Entries must be accompanied by at least $3.00 for two pairs of Monarch silk stockings, $4.00 for three pairs or $5.00 for four pairs. By looking at the list of prizes now you will notice how the value of your prize is increased and the cost of your silk stockings decreased when you order more than two pairs.

3. A contestant may solicit orders from friends if he or she wishes, and for such orders will be entitled to submit solutions of the puzzle. Friends who order through a contestant may also submit solutions of the puzzle. You will find the approach of Christmas and the suitability of Monarch silk stockings as Christmas gifts a splendid way to increase the value of your prize.

4. No solutions will be accepted unless accompanied by a cash order. All solutions are recorded and none can be altered once they are received.

5. Contestants need not send in the full amount of money required at any one time. For instance, a contestant intending to win the Packard Car and the bonus, may send in a $3.00 order with his or her solution and later on an order for the balance necessary to qualify for the Packard. Accurate records are kept and every time a contestant sends in a remittance, the amount of it will be added to what the contestant already has to his or her credit.

6. Contestants may send in a different solution of the puzzle each time they make a remittance, but only one correct answer will be awarded a prize.

7. All money orders and cheques must be made payable to The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Company. Cheques must be marked and include exchange. Acknowledgments will be made at once and stockings forwarded as soon as they reach us from the mills.

8. Every effort has been made to show each figure clearly. If in doubt about any figures do not attempt to send in a solution, but send in the puzzle with a ring around the figure that is giving you trouble and our Contest Department will be glad to tell you by return mail what it is.

9. Contestants may have as many puzzle forms as they wish free, by writing to our Contest Department, care of P.O. Box 392, Toronto.

10. If no contestant sends in the correct answer, prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions.

11. Should more than one contestant send in the correct answer, a simple tie-breaker requiring skill only for its solution will be sent to each contestant concerned. Only those tieing will receive this second problem, and NO MONEY WILL BE REQUIRED OR ACCEPTED FROM THOSE REQUIRED TO SOLVE IT, NOR WILL YOU BE ASKED TO SELL OR BUY ANYTHING.

12. The closing date of the contest is December 22nd, 1927. Solutions postmarked as having been mailed after that date will be returned unaccepted. Contestants are advised, however, to send in their solutions as early as possible and win the special prizes offered for early solutions.

13. The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Company reserves the right to reject any entry they deem undesirable to accept, and to return all money received with such entries.

14. Contestants in entering this contest agree to abide by the rules and regulations herein set forth and to accept the decision of the judges as being final.

Toy Land, North Pole,
November 15, 1927.

To Boys and Girls of Canada:

Sirs and Ladies, — I trust you will not object to my writing to you in this serious matter, but, Sirs and Ladies, I wish that you could manage not to have toys for Christmas.

Perhaps you know that it is my custom to go to sleep in November and never wake up till March. The bed that I have made for myself is in a nice, soft snow-drift, that is the most comfortable that one could wish.

But, Sirs and Ladies, can I sleep? No! The noise which the dolls and animals make in Mr. Santa Claus' house is terrible. Every day, when a sleigh-load goes off for the Canadian Department Stores, Peterboro, there is such a cheering and hurrahing and good-bying that it would make you think the Prince of Wales was coming. And at night, there is such a singing and laughing and merry-making before the toys go to bed, that there is no peace at all for a sleepy bear.

Now, Sirs and Ladies, I can understand the toys being glad to find themselves made, and ready to go out for Christmas, but could you not arrange to have only books for Christmas, so there would be no need for all this noise, and I could get some sleep?

Yours, still yawning.
POLAR BEAR.

CHURCH SOCIETIES HOLD JOINT MEETING

Cavan Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. Re-elect Their Officers.

CAVAN, Dec. 9.—On Thursday afternoon the Cavan Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. held a joint meeting in the church. There were eighteen ladies present. It was the election of officers.

The Ladies' Aid held their session first, with the president, Mrs. A. Kennedy, in the chair.

After the opening devotional exercises a few items of business were disposed of. The treasurer gave an account of the receipts and expenditures, showing a balance of a little over three hundred dollars. It was voted to give two hundred and fifty dollars to the Board of the church.

The officers were re-elected for another year:

President—Mrs. A. Kennedy.
Secretary—Mrs. Ray Syer.
Treasurer—Mrs. James Douglas.
Organist—Miss A. Tinney.

Mrs. Kennedy invited the Aid to meet at her home in January.

Mrs. R. S. Staples took the chair for the W.M.S. election of officers. After singing and prayer the closing business of the year was discussed.

A bale of goods and two dollars had been sent to Cobourg to forward to an Indian school.

The mite boxes were handed in and their contents counted. They contained six dollars and thirty-two cents with some boxes not yet given in.

The allocation for Cavan W.M.S. this year was thirty-five dollars, which sum is expected to be realized before the end of the year.

Owing to the change in the church year, which will now end in December this year will have only been nine months, and as this was the first year for the W.M.S. in Cavan, it was moved, seconded and carried that the same officers be re-elected for another year:

President—Mrs. R. S. Staples.
Vice-President—Mrs. Snider.
Recording-Secretary—Mrs. Totten.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. R. Matchett.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. W. Perrin.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. Swain.
Secretary of Christian stewardship and Finance—Mrs. D. J. Hunter.

Mrs. Matchett was asked to take up the first chapter of the study book at the next meeting.

The book is entitled "New paths for old purposes," by Margaret Burton.

It contains world challenges to Christianity in this generation.

After the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mesdames Kennedy, Syer, Staples, Swain and Staples, and a short social time enjoyed before dispersing.

Mrs. J. McPhate, Worthy Matron of Peterborough Chapter, No. 161, was recently the recipient of a token of love and rememberance from her "mother chapter," Cambus, No. 13, Scotland, consisting of a Worthy Matron's sash, collar, and jewel. Sister Wilkie, who is a member of Bethsada White Shrine, Scotland, forwarded Sister McPhate (who was High Priestess) a silver "charter case." The various gifts have been greatly admired by all who have seen them on account of the fine spirit of their donors whose actions exemplify the saying, "Though lost to sight, still to memory dear." At the last meeting of Peterborough Chapter, Sistetr McPhate formally presented the articles to the Chapter, which were accepted, with thanks, and many kind references made to the Scottish members of Cambus Chapter No. 13.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Rhoda, won't you please remind Cherry that we are waiting dinner on her?" Faith's voice was so level and cold with displeasure that Bob, engrossed in the afternoon paper, flicked a quick, appraising glance at her, which she felt but would not meet.

"Rhoda may not be quite such a treasure as I had hoped," Faith said to Bob, still in that cold, controlled voice that was at such variance with her usual warmth and kindliness. "She confided to me to-day that she is afraid Cherry is going to hurt Nils rather badly."

"That so?" Bob was maddeningly noncommital as he unfolded his paper to the sports news.

Faith said no more, but her lips trembled and then tightened ominously, a danger signal that Bob, devouring football news, missed entirely.

"She says she doesn't want any dinner, to please excuse her," Rhoda reported sulkily, as she slipped back into her own chair.

The dinner, prepared hastily by Rhoda after her return from Madame Renaud's, was really so very good that it deserved much better attention than it received from any of the three silent diners. At last Bob seemed to feel the heaviness of that silence.

"What did Madame Renaud say about your voice, Rhoda? Nils told me he was going to take you to see her this afternoon," he asked cordially, his blue eyes alight with genuine interest.

A new wave of color swept over the girl's face. "She's willing to take me as a pupil, but she says she can't tell yet whether I'll ever be a real singer or not. She says she's never known of a case like mine. She could hardly believe I could imitate the great singers as I do, and she told Nils I was either a freak or a genius, and that only time could determine which I really am. But she's going to try me out. Mr. San Remo had already spoken to her about me."

"Good!" Bob applauded heartily. "Thrilled, Rhoda?"

"Scared to death," she smiled at him, brightening in spite of herself. "I'd like to make you and Mrs. Hathaway proud of me, after all the trouble you've taken."

During the rest of the meal Bob talked desultorily with the girl and his wife, but it was plain to Faith that he was preoccupied, glad to shield his moody face behind his newspaper.

As soon as she could escape Faith went to Cherry's room.

She pushed open the door so gently that Cherry did not hear her, and Faith had another revealing glimpse of Cherry that day, a Cherry unconscious of being observed. The girl was crouching on the floor beside Hope's crib, her hands entwined in the apple-green bars which kept the baby from falling out, her head thrown back, her eyes closed, and such misery on her white, drawn little face that Faith almost dropped the tray.

"Cherry!" she cried out, her voice sharp with fear. "You're ill! Why didn't you tell me? Oh, darling!" And she dropped to her knees, setting the tray on the floor so carelessly that the coffee slopped out of the cup.

Cherry turned her head away, fighting for control, and in a moment her high, artificial laugh rang out.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 10th, 1927.

According to astrology this is an unfavorable day in planetary direction, for adverse aspects rule.

Speculation may be especially unlucky while this configuration prevails and sudden fluctuations of stock are indicated.

With the closing of the year the procession of prominent men and women who pass from earthly interests will be unusually large, for the new era is rapidly sweeping away all who retard progress.

While reactionary influences will be strong in 1928 they will be confined to manners and morals, the seers prophesy.

Under this sway double-dealing and dissimulation are supposed to be encouraged. It is well to watch for deception.

This is not a lucky day for beginning ocean voyages as severe storms are forecast by those who read the stars.

A winter of extraordinary cold in eastern, middle western and northern states is to send large numbers of tourists south.

There is a forbidding sign for entering into any sort of written agreement to-day, when the stars make it easy to be fooled.

Neither a borrower nor a lender be while this configuration prevails, for banks may be difficult to deal with.

Trouble through printed revelations regarding certain phases of diplomacy is foreshadowed.

Women continue subject to a sway making for success through the aid of men rather than by independent effort.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have difficulties in the coming year. Slanders and quarrels with friends are indicated.

Children born on this day may be emotional and restless with an inclination toward self-pity. If properly guided they usually achieve high ambitions.

CHANCEL GUILD SALE SUCCESS

Ladies of St. John's, Lakefield, Raise Large Sum in Effort.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 9.—The Chancel Guild of St. John's church held their annual sale of work in the Parish Hall on Thursday and were extremely successful, the receipts amounting to well over one hundred dollars. The room was attractively arranged and attracted a great many visitors during the afternoon, naturally the fairer sex was in the majority as the wares were of the sort to tempt the feminine customer. Mrs. L. H. Grahame and Mrs. (Rev.) W. J Creighton received the visitors. Mrs. Langley and Mrs. J. W. Todd presided at the fancy work table, while Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Connell took charge of the home cooking and candy table. Miss Atwood had the doll's clothes display and Miss Ogilvie had the baby dolls. Mrs. H. J. Stuart was the convenor of the team room committee and was assisted by Mrs. K. A. Mackenzie and Miss Graham.

Mrs. Marling and Mrs. Dench also assisted in various ways.

Lighthouse Nan.

The drama "Lighthouse Nan" was put on in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the local branch of the Woman's Institute. The play was given by the dramatic section of the Mission Circle of Mark Street United Church, Peterborough, and was well acted and staged and was greatly enjoyed by those who saw it. Musical numbers were given between the acts which varied the programme.

In spite of the bad weather there was a good crowd present, the hall being more than half full and as the roads were in a terrible condition it was considered to be a good turn out.

The entertainment given in the Queen street theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings is under the auspices of the Katchewanookan Tuxis Square of Regent Street United Church and the proceeds will be devoted to boys' work in the village. The entertainment will consist of a movie, "The Cheerful Friend" featuring Reginald Denny, and a comedy and musical numbers by local talent.

Fourteen tables of euchre were played at the A.Y.P.A. card party on Thursday night, the prizes were won by Miss Dell Watson and Mr. George Heffernan and the consolation prizes by Miss Grace Bickell and Mr. Clare Chittick.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

MADOC, Dec. 7.—The Sunday morning services at the Church of St. John the Baptist (Anglican) consisted of Sunday school at ten o'clock, followed at eleven by the full morning service. The surpliced choir led in the responses and chants as well as the hymns.

Rev. Mr. Lansbury is preaching a series of Advent sermons which are much appreciated by his people.

The afternoon service was held at the Anglican church in Queensboro.

Rev. T. G. Marshall at St. Peter's Presbyterian church took as his subject for the morning, "Nail Prints." Sunday school was held as usual with a good attendance.

The evening's service opened by a song service which was hearty and enjoyable. The sermon was the fourth of the series on Famous Women of the Bible, "Deliah."

At Trinity United church the attendance of Sunday school and Bible classes is increasing. Practice of Christmas hymns and preparations for the Christmas tree are in full swing and all are intensely interested.

The morning's service was unusually well attended. The subject for the sermon was "Drums in the Darkness" and children as well as those of mature years were much interested to hear of the mission work of the church in "darkest Africa."

The music given by the choir was splendidly augumented by the solos rendered by Mr. Baird of Oshawa, who gave two splendid solos, and also sang again in the evening.

The subject of the evening's sermon was "The Judgment Day." Special hymns were sung, the concluding one being "Christian Love Me More." Mr. Baird's solo, "It Was Alone He Bled and Died" was very appropriate.

MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9.—A special study of the prophet Isaiah was the theme of Rev. F. H. Howard's sermon in the United church on Sunday morning, the Sunday school lessons at present being from the writings of this the greatest of all prophets "a man who spoke to the times, and also to the eternities; hence he is the prophet for all times."

Practically nothing is known of Isaiah's early life beyond the fact that he was the son of Amoz. His mother's name is not revealed, nor his place of abode though it was likely at Jerusalem. He belonged to the cultured classes, possibly to the nobility for tradition asserts he was cousin to King Uzziah in whose reign he prophesied, as well as three other kings, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah.

He was undoubtedly a statesman, unfailing in his allegiance to God, living constantly on a high moral plane, possessing poetic genius and a remarkable mastery of words, so that his book, which divides naturally into two sections: Chapter 1 to 39 (as many as there are books in the Old Testament), and chapters 40 to 66 (as many as there are books in the New Testament), is the great masterpiece of Hebrew literature. The first section breathes the Old Testament spirit of warnings and judgment, and the second the New Testament spirit of grace and peace.

His biography is really the history of his times, and his conversion and call to service, related in that wonderful sixth chapter, find their countertype in Paul's transforming vision on the Damascus road; Isaiah is truly the Paul of the Old Testament.

For half a century Isaiah was true to his ministry, laying bare the sins of Israel, and calling the people to repentance. "Come back to God" was his courageous counsel in the face of growing immorality and worldiness among his countrymen, and unfaithfulness in the king himself. The key word of his book is "Vision", and the thought presented "That judgment shall pass through, and a remnant shall remain."

Isaiah has been called "The Messianic Prophet", for his major theme is 'the Coming One'—'seen near, seen far, one Christ; it is Jesus, Jesus, all the way.' The wonderful fifty-third chapter might rightfully be called 'the gospel according to Isaiah' so clearly does it depict the Saviour.

The manner of his death is unknown—tradition has it that he was sawn asunder with a wooden saw—like Paul he 'would fill up in himself the measure of the sufferings of Christ'; what matter the way of his passing since he found 'God is my refuge and strength, and my exceeding great reward.'

A blind girl who plays six instruments was the outstanding success of experiments in music and dancing conducted recently by the Blind Institute at Cardiff, Wales.

TRANSIENT TRADE BILL IS OPPOSED

Opponents Say Measure Would Harm Manufacturer Without Aiding Stores.

TORONTO, Dec. 9. — Legislative proposals regarding the problem of the transient trader ceased Wednesday to be the issue over which manufacturers and retailers joined in public argument, and became instead a subject for private consideration by the sub-committee of the Ontario House, which has been hearing the recent representations. The public hearings of the sub-committee closed with the submission of a brief upon behalf of the automobile industry, and with arguments by eminent counsel which contended that the proposed legislation was wrong in principle, would not assist the retailer, and would, on the other hand, work positive injury to important manufacturing interests.

The final argument against the legislation, which proposes a license and a scale of license fees for every hawker, peddler, and transient trader in every municipality in which he operates, was presented by Messrs. Peter White, K.C., and J. R. L. Starr, K.C. Mr. White spoke at the greater length, and contended that the proposed bill, if enacted into law, contained simple grounds of evasion, and that its only effect migh well be to send much business which is now Ontario's into Quebec.

The possibility of evasion which Mr. White particularly foresaw was that of the "short-circuiting" of merchandise, a species of strategy reminiscent of the O.T.A. days. When prohibition was in force, but before it was supplemented by the law against importation, it was evaded by the sending of orders to Quebec or to Niagara Falls, New York, after which the liquors would be delivered from Ontario warehouses. The method was a simple one to adopt, Mr. White pointed out, and it would enable any drastic licensing law to be evaded, since the manufacturer could canvass with Montreal or some other Quebec point as his headquarters, and argue that no orders given to him were complete until accepted in his Quebec office. Since no Ontario law could affect orders thus given, the plan would, in the opinion of Mr. White evade the legislation.

Mr. White argued that the legislation had to be considered under either one or two headings, namely as a measure of prohibition towards transient traders, or as a measure for the raising of taxation. Considered under the latter heading he regarded it as quite unjustifiable. There was, he pointed out, no demand from any municipalities for such a tax, which would be insignificant in relation to the total of any municipality's taxation, but of greatest importance to the concerns required to pay it, many of whom it would force out of business.

If a new method of merchandising was developing which rendered the public a service, he said, it should not be taxed by any municipality, except insofar as it utilized municipal facilities. In this connection Mr. White intimated that some adjustment of the taxes at present exacted for the use of roads might be reasonable, since one of the problems of the time was to keep the railways, which had to pay for right-of-way, ties, and tracks, upon a competitive basis with trucking concerns which had none of these expenses.

Wrong in Principle

Considered as a measure of prohibition, Mr. White continued, the legislation was wrong in principle. It was impossible, he maintained, to so improve the position of the retailer. The only legislation which could improve the position of the retailer would be legislation which would insure a sufficient volume of business at profitable prices, which was obviously impossible.

J. R. L. Starr, K.C., in his argument was of the same opinion as Mr. White, namely that the legislation would do the retailer no good, and at the same time would seriously hamper the manufacturer. The hawker, peddler, and the transient trader, he said, did not constitute the difficulty with which the retailer today was faced, but rather the growth of the chain store and departmental store plan of merchandising. He declared that driving the manufacturer out of business would not help the retailer, and also emphasized the dangerous influence which the legislation would prove to drive the industry from Ontario to Quebec.

The automombile dealers in presenting their opposition to the proposals, submitted a strong brief covering the position which it would place them in.

"While we have no desire to evade paying our just and fair share of license fees to the province," the brief stated, "we take this opportunity of pointing out to you the impossibility of the financial burden that this bill, if enacted in its present form, would place upon them by enabling the many and various municipalities throughout the province to improse varying degrees of inequitable and discriminatory license fees, of which even the minimum are impossible to bear.

"We must reasonably assume that with the maximum fee left at an indefinite figure the average dealer would have to pay for himself and four salesmen the sum of $2,500 more or less."

The members of the sub-committee before whom these presentations were concluded will spend a week in considering them individually. They will then commerce to confer with a view to framing a legislative measure for the House to pass upon.

Possibilities of New Pro. Baseball Dispute Seen

FIVE ASSOCIATION MEMBERS ARE ORDERED TO DISCONTINUE MODIFIED DRAFT AGREEMENT

Fourteen Leagues Vote Against Pact at National Meeting.

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE

Majors Used Minor Leagues as Developing Ground for Youngsters.

DALLAS, Texas, December 9 (Associated Press). — Possibilities that baseball might see another controversy such as that which shook the game before the present major-minor league accord was reached, was seen here last night when the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs ordered five of its members to discontinue their modified draft agreement with the major leagues.

The American Association, the International League, the Pacific Coast League, the Three I. League, and the Western League were ordered to discontinue the modified draft immediately, fourteen leagues voting aye on the resolution and five no. Those who voted against the resolution were the Pacific Coast League, the Three I. League, the Western League, the Western Association, and the Mississippi Valley League.

By its action, the Association automatically put the American Association, the International League, the Pacific Coast League, the Three I. League, and the Western League in a strictly non-draft classification.

When the major-minor agreement governing relations between the upper and lower stratas of baseball was adopted in 1921, it was accepted only with the consent of all parties. At that time all minor league clubs were given the option of accepting the draft or definitely rejecting it.

Forced to Accept.

The American Association, International, Coast, Western League, and Three I. League at that time refused to accept the draft, while the other minors agreed to it. Later, however, John Conway Toole, president of the International League, charged pressure was brought to bear on these clubs through the refusal of major league clubs to send them players or allow them to obtain players from the other minors.

As a compromise, the five non-draft leagues finally accepted what is known as the modified draft, under which they can obtain players from the major leagues, with the understanding that such players can be drafted back to the majors. Players belonging to the leagues who have not come to them from the majors, however, are not subject to the draft.

Under this system, representatives of the other minor leagues charge, the majors have scouted every college, sandlot, and industrial team, signed a majority of the new crop players every year, and then placed them with the five leagues under the modified draft, knowing that they can reclaim them through the draft. Smaller leagues complain that the practice has made it difficult for them to obtain promising youngsters at reasonable salaries, and also claim that it enables the major leagues to sell a man for a large sum in the spring and then reclaim him, for the standard draft price, in the fall.

Delaney-Berlenbach Bout Set For To-Night

CHICAGO, December 9 (Canadian Press). — Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney, whose rivalry in recent years for the world's light heavyweight championship resulted in the most stirring battles in the history of that division, will come together for the fourth time to-night, engaging in a ten-round encounter at the Coliseum.

The match will draw upwards of $50,000 at prices ranging from $3.00 to $16.50, in contrast with the $422,000 gate at their last encounter when Delaney defeated the one-time "Astoria Assassin" in their 15-round battle at Ebbet's Field, Brooklyn, to win the world's light heavyweight title.

Both warriors finished training sieges without mishap. Delaney will weigh about 177 pounds to-night, only two pounds above the light heavyweight limit, with Berlenbach weighing about 172½. Delaney probably will enter the ring a 7 to 5 favorite, with little or no betting on the result.

SCOUT NEWS

DELORO BOY SCOUTS.

The monthly partol competition for November resulted in a very close finish, the Loons with 23½ points just nosing in with a half point lead over the Otters, while the Eagles were only one point behind them. In individual scores, the old timers did not have matters all their own way, for while the O'Neill brothers tied for top place, two new recruits of two months' standing were only one point away. These were Scouts P. Gray and M. Barlow.

Mr. William Simmons, who has been seen in the ring at 110 pounds in Deloro's past, has taken the boys in hand and the boys are acquiring the art of self defence quite rapidly.

At the last meeting, the first steps were taken on the formation of the Deloro Boy Scout hockey league that will function as soon as the rink is in use. The boys were also informed that applications were in order for the Marksman's badge class. Four new recruits have turned up this week, so the New Year should see almost two dozen lads in the organization, with the stage set for a lively season of competition with neighbouring troops.

SECURES BALL CONVENTION.

DALLAS, Texas, December 9 (United Press). — Toronto, Canada, was selected yesterday for the 1928 meeting place of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs.

Toronto, with its banner inscribed "The City of Freedom," easily defeated Chattanooga, Tenn., Terre Haute, Ind., and Richmond, Va., and other bidders.

Yankee Coach Not For Cleveland Club

COLLINSVILLE, Ills., Dec. 9.—(United Press).—Art Fletcher, Yankee coach, mentioned as manager of the Cleveland Indians, told the United Press yesterday he would reject such an offer if it were made to him.

"I have never been approached on the matter and I do not want to be," Fletcher said.

"I am satisfied right where I am."

Fletcher characterized as a "pipe dream" reports that he had been signed to manage the Indians.

No Betting Motion Is Given Approval

SYDNEY, Australia, December 9 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The measure prohibiting betting on greyhound racing staged at night has passed both the Senate and the House of Representatives and it is anticipated that this will kill the sport of dog racing, which is not expected to survive the opposition provided by horse racing in the day time.

The Melbourne Legislative Council has passed a Bill prohibiting betting on mechanical hare racing. The Victoria Legislative Assembly had previously passed a Bill to this effect.

SPORT BITS

Tex now offers Tunney a fight every two weeks if he wants it. Well, if Dempsey can stand the pace, let's go.

Walter Hagen is going to star in four movie golf romances. Now we'll learn how a golfer can escape kidnappers and, though drugged and shot at from every tree on the course, win the open tournament and wed the daughter of a wealthy sinker manufacturer.

Addition of Kiki Cuyler to the Chicago Cubs' outfield will make the Wilson-Stephenson-Cuyler trio one of the best in the league.

LIKE FIVE-TEAM GROUP.

At the request of the management of the Lindsay Junior Hockey Club the Convener of Group No. 2, F. W. Moynes, has communicated with Peterborough St. John's, Stouffville, Markham and Uxbridge asking for suggestions before the schedule is drawn up and submitted.

For years the Lindsay juniors have been pitted against Peterborough in a double schedule arrangement, which has been just fairly successful. It has been felt that the fans would like to see more junior teams in action and that the added gate returns would take care of added travelling expenses.

It is understood that Peterborough (with two junior teams, an intermediate and a senior team) will object because of lack of ice accommodation for the extra games.

An effort will be made to have the schedule completed next week.—Lindsay Daily Post.

NO REVIVAL THIS YEAR.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press).—President Gilroy of the Manitoba Hockey Association, declared yesterday that no further effort would be made this year to revive senior hockey in Manitoba, but plans would likely be made for a revival next year.

The proposed four-team inter-Provincial league, which would include Port William, Port Arthur, Brandon and Manitoba Varsity, was entirely in the hands of the N.H.A. executive, he said.

The action of Brandon in applying for a berth in the Thunder Bay League has somewhat clarified the situation.

DELANEY SHOULD BEAT BERLENBACK

Famous "Paralyzing Paul" Only Shadow of Former Self.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Jack Delaney and Paul Berlenbach will meet for the fourth time Friday evening in Chicago. This is one of those bouts billed for ten rounds with no telling what may happen before that number is reached.

Delaney must be hard put to find opponents when he must pick on Berlenbach. While it is true that Paulie once was able to slam out a decision over the Bridgeport sharpshooter, it must be remembered that Berlenbach is far from the fighter that he was.

Four months ago Dan Hickey tried to coax the former light-heavyweight champion into retirement. Paul refused and Hickey tore up the contract that bound Berlenbach to fight under his direction. The stolid Berlenbach has had two fights since then and showed up poorly. He has nothing but the memory of his famed left hook and indomitable grit. Joe Lohman went the full route with him and Mickey Walker punched him full of holes.

If Berlenbach continues to meet the tough ones, taking the sort of whipping Mickey Walker handed out, the fans will forget all about the splendid record he compiled in his palmy days and remember him as the fighter who would not quit when he had enough.

It is a tragedy to see a once great fighter being beaten at every start. This is how Berlenbach will wind up if he persists in fighting classy ringmen like Jack Delaney.

Johnny Risko used to toss sugar bags at a Cleveland wholesale house. For a heavyweight boxer he couldn't have made a better start in life than that.

Fletcher to Manage Cleveland Indians

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(United Press).—It is the general impression among baseball men that the Cleveland Indians got a mighty fine manager when they obtained Arthur Fletcher to lead the 1928 club. Fletcher in his heyday was known as one of the scrappiest ball players in the National League, and there are many who rate him among the best shortstops of the game.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, swears by Fletcher. He traded him to the Phillies in 1920 for Davy Bancroft in order that he might later become manager of the Phils.

Fletcher took over the reins at Philadelphia in 1922 and remained at the helm through the 1926 season. He never got the Phillies above seventh place, but his task was a hopeless one.

OMEMEE MAN IS U.F.O. CHIEF

Bruce McNiven Elected President To Succeed W. A. Amos.

REPORTS ARE READ.

TORONTO, December 9th— Bruce McNiven, immediate past vice-president of the U. F. O., was elected president of organization at its session yesterday. He scored his victory over Harold Currie, of Strathroy, a former vice-president of the U. F. O. The majority was not announced but it is understood that Mr. McNiven was elected by a large margin.

W. A. Amos, who has been president for five years, refused to let his name stand. On motion of R. W. E. Burnaby, life memberships were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Amos in appreciation of Mr. Amos' long service.

George Buchannan, of Lanark, was elected vice-president by acclamation. Eight candidates were nominated, but all but Mr. Buchanan withdrew.

At the opening of the session, Mr Amos read the report of the Canadian Council of Agriculture which was referred to the incoming executive for action. The report favored the continuance of income tax and protested against the duty on binder twine. It also favoured medical examination of immigrants in their country of origin.

Another feature was a recommendation for the reorganization of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners to include a Western member. Another was that a Canadian woman marrying an alien should not lose her citizenship.

The U. F. O., the report said, had contributed $600 during the past year, to assist in keeping a representative of the council at Ottawa.

At the evening session, A. E. Darby chief of the Research Department of the Council, delivered an interesting address on the work of the Tariff Advisory Board and a review of the year's progress by the council.

Greetings of the Toronto Central Council of the Canadian Labor Party were conveyed to the convention by wire from Bert Morrison.

Among the resolutions passed were those favoring musical instruments and instruction in all elementary rural schools, one high school course with optional subjects leading to Normal and University, the setting aside of May 18 as "Good Will Day" in the schools and one thanking the co-operative company for its year's work and advocating co-operative creameries in Northern and Eastern Ontario.

GOVERNMENT PAID STUDENTS FOR RIOT

Peasant Party Leader Makes Charges Against Bratiano Regime.

BUCHAREST, December 9 (Canadian Press). — The provocation of fatal anti-semitic riots in two former Hungarian towns to divert attention from the present Rumanian political crisis has been charged against the Liberal Government. The riots occurred in Cluf, eighty miles from the Hungarian frontier, and Oradea Mare, within ten miles of the border. Professor Madgearu, leader of the National Peasant Party, asserted that the Government gave the university students eighteen thousand dollars to support the anti-semitic movement.

After having traveled 4,000 miles to be operated on at home, following an accident off the coast of South America, George F. Newby, aged 63, a seaman, died at Hull, England, recently.

ecoma lake at night during spawning season.

Mr. Bradburn was asked to explain what the department was doing in regard to the preservation of fish and game. He said that for some unknown reason the department had been unable to get any bass spawn to live during the last couple of years. Reservations were being considered at Loon Lake and Reeve Curtis said that the residents in the eastern part of the county were trying to get the department to take over Mud lake as a reservation for fish.

FOUR VESSELS

The Copper Harbor coastguard was expected to start to-day to the relief of the crew of the Altadoc, reported ashore at Keewanaw Point, Michigan, with a crew of more than thirty.

Reports that the steamer J. B. Squire foundered with 25 men have not yet been confirmed.

While the terrific winds abated through the night, temperature dropped with alarming rapidity, and the mercury is now near the zero mark throughout the lake district and below zero at some points. The freeze-up, it is feared, would again tie up the grain fleet. Heavy snow is resulting in the packing of ice in Mud Lake. Nine vessels are held up in the St. Mary's River near Detour.

CREW STILL SAFE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, December 9 (Canadian Press). — Superintendent W. J. McCormack, of the Algoma Central Steamship Lines, received a message from Manitoulin early to-day that a resident of Mindemoya had picked up a radio message from the Agawa to the effect that the crew were still safe aboard the bessel. The operator on the vessel had rigged up a receiving set to broadcast the message, but it was not strong enough to go very far. The Algoma Central has made arrangements for a tug now at Providence Bay to go to the relief of the Agawa as soon as the weather permits.

Captain W. C. Jordan, of Collingwood, captain of the Agawa, is one of the most capable sailors on the Great Lakes.

RUMOR CONFIRMED.

Confirmation was made to-day of a report that the Paterson Line 5,500-ton steamer Altadoc last night went ashore at Keewanaw Point, Mich. It was learned to-day the crew was safe but the vessel is in a bad position. Last night the Altadoc broadcasted SOS signals, which were picked up by vessels and shore stations.

The Thomas Britt is reported fast in the heavy ice in Mud Lake, and close beside her is the Brockton. The tugs Alabama and Seban, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich, have gone to their assistance. The steamer S. B. Squire is said to be lying in Mid River, near Port Huron, Mich., while nothing has been heard so far of the Saskatoon and Selkirk, up-bound from Port Colborne, which are overdue at Detour. With conditions improving, the Hamonic fleet left here to-day for the lake head. The Midland Prince and Dayton are reported at the head of the Canadian locks, but there is no word of the King and Ogles Bay.

ANOTHER BOAT ON SHORE.

DULUTH, Minn., December 9 (Canadian Press). — The coastguard cutter Crawford has left for Copper Harbor, more than 100 miles up the north shore, to stand by the Canadian package freighter Algonquin, grounded during the storm on Lake Superior. The crew will be taken off to-day by the coastguardsmen. It is thought the vessel is badly damaged ,and it may be left on the rocks until spring.

Resolution of Protest.

The Club passed a resolution to be sent to Hon. Forbes Godfrey, protesting the closing of the Provincial Laboratory here. It was pointed out that the city had spent $8,000 in fitting up the offices a few years ago, and that a great deal of the work will have to be carried on in Peterborough even if the Laboratory is closed. In the opinion of the members, it is in the best interests of Peterborough and district that the branch should remain in use.

Reports on the year's work were submitted by the Treasurer, Charles Elliott, and the Secretary, John R. Heron.

The retiring officers are: Isaac P. McNabb, President; Dr. John J. Craig, Immediate Past President; John I. Allen, Vice-President; John R. Heron, Hon. Secretary; Charles H. SODALITY RECEIVES 77 NEW MEMBERS

Reception Ceremony Held at St. Peter's Cathedral Last Night.

Seventy-seven new members were received into the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Peter's Cathedral last evening at a reception held in the Cathedral and attended by a large number of people. About one hundred and fifty girls, representing old and new members of this society, were present and joined in the services, which consist in part of the singing of a number of hymns in honor of the Blessed Virgin, and a procession with lighted tapers.

The young ladies were received into the Order by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who addressed them later. Rev. Father O'Sullivan, C.S.S.R., of London, Ontario, who has been conducting an introductory Triduum during the past three days, also addressed the candidates. Both speakers stressed the beautiful life of the Blessed Virgin Mary as a model for her followers, and pointed out the manner in which the Sodalists may imitate her example.

Priests in the sanctuary included Rev. P. Costello, Rev. G. Maher, and Rev. K. Corkery.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT MEETING OF UNDERWRITERS' ASSOCIATION

J. C. Stephenson Gives Address at Annual Gathering of Insurance Men.

ON COMPETITION.

Tells of Different Kinds of Competition in Present Day Selling.

The annual meeting of the Underwriters' Association of Peterborough is always one of interest and profit to its members and this was never more forcibly shown than on the occasion of their 1927 conference held last evening in the Empress Hotel. A splendid supper, most interesting speaker and a speedy business session, during which the officers for the coming term were elected, were the main features all those responsible for all three are deserving of commendation from their fellow members.

At six-fifteen, some forty-five members of the Association, together with a number of guests, sat down at two long tables in the south part of the spacious dining room and there the proceedings of the evening were carried under the chairmanship of President N. Tobin.

.. .. Jack Primeau Entertained.

Since no such gathering is quite complete without a generous supply of real humour, the executive had secured as one of the speakers, no less capable a fun maker than one Jack Primeau and it was he who, at the close of the supper proceeded to put all present in a most happy frame of mind with his monologues, jokes and "wise cracks." In fact, so well did he please that he was forced to respond with an encore.

Address on Competition.

President Tobin, in a few words introduced the main speaker of the evening, J. G. Stephenson, organizer of the London Life Insurance Company, announcing that the subject of the latter's address would be "Competition." Before concluding, he also welcomed several new members of the association.

Mr. Stephenson.

After expressing his pleasure at being present, the speaker went straight to his task. "Competition," said he "is something which the Insurance fan faces from morning until night." The chief and prime factor of competition is no money or scarcity of money and the recent good crops in the prairie provinces would serve to lessen the seriousness of this condition.

In speaking of competition, he did not intend to speak of or compare companies for ratios and comparisons are often very fictitious things. Certainly there is less inter-company competition at present than ever before. The three main items of competition which Mr. Stephenson did mention however, were, sales resistance, distrust by one company of another both of which have been largely overcome and last of all, the competition of other sales propositions as opposed to insurance. He then proceeded to enlarge upon all three.

A quarter of a century ago, our grand-fathers were positively antagonistic to any form of insurance and our fathers, though less forceful in their condemnations, were quite apathetic so that it required more ability and grit to sell one hundred thousand dollars worth of insurance than is now required to sell half a million. Men are becoming interested in Life Insurance and its growth and their children are quite enthusiastic over its possibilities. These have been the grades of states of mind that sales ability has produced. The same has been true of the automobile industry and its growth; men who condemned have become interested and benefited thereby.

Since this outside resistance has been largely overcome, the only form of competition between companies as doped out at the home offices. However, there should be no competition in the Underwriters Association ranks.

New Competition.

There is a new form of competition of which only the fringe has yet been seen, it comes with the designing of the new form of policy which gives the maximum coverage at lowest possible premium. Its popularity will be decided in the field by the agents. Various policies have been discarded in the past, because the agents have not considered them or favored them when selling.

The speaker stated that he has learned from bitter experience that it is difficult to change from a high premium class of business to a low premium class of business. It is necessary to raise the rate of production; the underwriter should not think in thousands but in numbers of sales.

"Another factor to be contended with is the present inclination of the public to take chances on the stock market so that the money which might otherwise be spent on insurance is turned into other channels. The confidence in the purchase of "paper" which the people gained from satisfactory returns from Victory bonds benefited the Insurance

National Bank To Drop From Exchange

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).— Stockholders of the National City Bank, the largest financial institution in the country, yesterday were asked to approve action of the directors in requesting the withdrawal of the bank's stock from the list of the New York Stock Exchange. The step, which was made known in a letter from Charles E. Mitchell, president, was regarded in Wall Street as a move to check active speculation in the bank's stock.

Declaring that the action was taken without intention of casting reflection upon the exchange, Mr. Mitchell said that banks, as institutions of credit depend upon continued public confidence. "If," his letter added, "in times of financial disturbance, that confidence should appear to be questioned by the quotations for their stocks on the exchange, serious results might follow, even though such quotations reflected only an unimportant volume of transactions. In the fundamental respect of being credited institutions, banks differ materially from the industrial, railroad and public utilities corporations whose stocks are listed on the exchange."

Heavy Snowfall In Vancouver District

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 10 Five inches of snow fell in the Vancouver district Thursday night, bringing the total precipitation to twelve inches during the past 48 hours.

On Thursday afternoon a heavy rain set in, clearing most of the snow away, but late in the evening the weather turned colder, followed by snow. Little inconvenience was caused by the snow in the city, but telegraph and telephone communication suffered during the night, due to the accumulation of wet snow on the wires.

Yesterday the weather was bright, with four degrees of frost.

Transcontinental trains were reported four to eight hours behind schedule, with further delays possible.

STORM AND FOG DELAY RESCUE OF SHIP CREWS

Cold Gales Sweep the Upper Lakes, Holding Up Rescue Tugs.

SHIP NEAR AGAWA.

Snow Storm Makes It Impossible To See Vessel—Many Ships Missing.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). — Every rescue agency was being marshalled today in a dramatic battle against the raging gale which lashed the Great Lakes and held the fate of more than three score men shrouded in its fury.

Mountainous waves and bitter subzero blasts early today defied organized efforts to reach the crews of the freighters Agawa and Altadoc, wrecked on widely separated reefs in Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Reports have been received of wreckage being tossed ashore from the Agawa, which has been helplessly pounded on the rocks off Manitoulin Island for the past two days. Tugs dispatched to the assistance of the foundered vessels were forced to take shelter before the onslaught of the storm and the heavy fog. Reports that the crew 35 of of the steamship Altadoc had been rescued by U. S. coastguards last night were discounted today.

A number of other lake vessels were overdue at various ports today, but marine men were of the opinion that the ships were riding out the storm in wind protected inlets. None of the unreported boats were equipped with wireless. Tugs were standing by the steamer Martian, which is aground on Hare Island, about fifteen miles from Port Arthur. Efforts will be made to refloat the vessel as soon as the sea subsides. Word was also received today that the steamers which had been fast in the ice in Mud Lake had been released.

COMMUNITY CAROL SINGING IS PLANNED FOR CHRISTMAS

Jubilee Chorus and Other Singers Invited To Lead Music.

ON FRIDAY WEEK.

Event Will Be Open To Everyone in City of Peterborough.

The splendid record of community effort made by Peterborough this year is to be given a fitting final touch by the gathering together of citizens to sing old Christmas carols on Friday, December 23. This effort has been launched by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., who so successfully led the community singing at the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

It is planned to make this an annual event, with the idea of visiting city churches in turn, and all singers are invited to join the choir that will lead. The event will be held this year in St. Paul's Church, where Mr. Chenhall is organist. It is not in any way denominational, and all creeds are welcome to join in the old Christmas carols. The programme will be planned to fill just one hour—from 8 o'clock to 9 o'clock—on the Friday before Christmas.

"We will sing the real old-time carols," Mr. Chenhall told The Examiner to-day. "There will probably be a selection from the "Messiah" of those parts which are more particularly appropriate to the season, but those who attend will be expected to join in the carols. The words will be published, to recall them to mind."

The first practice of the singers who will lead will be held in St. Paul's Church on Sunday at 4.15. All who assisted in the First of July chorus are requested to be present, and also any others who are willing to lend their talent in this community effort.

"It will be a splendid finish to the year," Mr. Chenhall said. "There was the big chorus and community singing on Dominion Day, and then The Examiner community party on Hallowe'en night. Kiwanis Club, the Friday Night Club, and the Utilities Commission are co-operating to decorate the streets for Christmas. The gathering of citizens to join in the old carols will be a wonderful event."

Mr. Chenhall expressed the hope that a committee may be appointed next year to arrange the event, and to receive invitations from other churches for the 1928 gathering.

GERMAN MINERS FACE PROBLEMS

Must Reorganize Their Industry To Meet British Competition.

STRIKE HELPED THEM.

ESSEN, Germany, Dec. 10 (United Press). — British competition may force the coal barons in the rich Ruhr district to re-organize the entire German mining industry, involving such delicate problems as the closing of unprofitable mines. This problem has been demanding solution since the stabilization of German currency. When, in the spring of 1926, a climax was approaching the Britiish coal strike changed the situation completely. As the last favorable contracts then concluded by the German mine owners with foreign buyers are gradually expiring, the need for solving this problem again has become acute.

GRANT HELD UP BY GOVERNMENT

Harvey Township Fails To Get Colonization Grant From Department.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

William Anderson, ex-Warden of the county and M.P.P. for Peterborough County, addressed the County Council yesterday afternoon. In studying the Old Age Pension Act, Mr. Anderson said he had come to the conclusion that it was a splendid piece of legislation and that old people in the House of Refuge in the province might get this grant and thus the expenses of running the homes would be less burdensome on the county ratepayers. "I do not know whether the government of the province of Ontario intends to adopt this legislation, but if they do not the people of this province will elect representatives that will take advantage of splendid legislation." Mr. Anderson discussed the advisability of taking over some of the northern townships of the county for a reforestation area. "Roads in the northern townships have to be built and maintained so would it not be better to let the government reforest this area and have them look after the roads also." The speaker said there were two townships in the county that the minister of lands and forests thinks would be favorable for a reforestation area if the people are willing to let the government take over the land.

Grant Held Up.

Harvey is one of the townships in the colonization area of this county, and this year that township has failed to get its grant from the government. Reeve Parker discussed the matter with the council. He said Mr. Finlayson, the minister of lands and forests, had promised him last spring that the government would go fifty-fifty in all road construction. "We have always got it before and I know of no reason why the grant should be held up, as the council passed the necessary by-law. The minister told me to appoint whom I wished to supervise the work and spend it where it should be spent and the government would pay its share," said Mr. Parker.

Dr. Smith, of Lakefield, who is house surgeon at the House of Refuge, submitted his report. He said that the physical condition of the inmates was a little better than the average. During the year four had died of old age, seven were admitted, one was sent to the asylum, one to the home for feeble minded, and one to the home for incurables, leaving 24 inmates at the home. He recommended that an infirmary room be set aside and that all applicants for admission should have their family doctor fill out a medical sheet along with the application.

Ex-Reeve Walsh of Douro, was a welcome visitor in the gallery and he was asked for a short address. Mr. Walsh was a member of the county council from 1913 to 1919, and in the present council there are only two members who sat with him, Warden J. A. Middleton and Reeve John Clark. He congratulated the county on its splendid financial condition and said as far as they were concerned in Otonabee the taxes had been reduced.

Finance Committee.

Reeves Hawthorne and Scott asked for an etxra grant of $200 towards the East Peterborough Exhibition as their fair board had had a very bad day and lost money. The extra grant was allowed.

The committee also granted $100 to the Institute for the Blind, and the salary of the superintendent of the House of Refuge was set at $1,000 a year, subject to a month's notice.

Rebel Losses Heavy In Mexican Revolt

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10. —(A. P.)—Twerity five rebel generals four colonels and two lieutenant-colonels, have been killed, mostly by execution, since the beginning of the Gomex-Serrano revolutionary attempt, say El Universal Grafico yesterday.

The newspaper says that in the same two months period the Federals have lost only two colonels and two lieutenant-colonels who were killed in skirmishes in the mountains in the state of Vera Cruz.

No estimate has yet been made either official or unofficial, of the number of casualties among enlisted men of either rebels or Federals, but it is believed that the number will not be greater than two or three hundred, as there were no really big battles, the rebels in most cases surrendering before battles became serious.

COUNCIL ENDS WORK OF YEAR THIS MORNING

Supports Victoria County Protest Against Return of Insane.

SUGGESTS INSTITUTION.

County Declines To Issue Debentures at Present—Clerk Elliott Returns.

The final session of the County Council was held this morning. Bylaws were passed confirming the reports of the committees on finance, roads and bridges, county property, and county roads. A communication from the County of Victoria was endorsed whereby the counties of the Province will memorialize the Provincial Government against sending people who have been released from the Ontario hospitals to the county Houses of Refuge. Victoria County Council proposed that the Government provide a special institution for such people or reimburse the county for keeping these people. Reeve Hawthorne, in speaking to the resolution, said that the House of Refuge was not the place for these people as they might become insane again and cause considerable trouble to other inmates at the home.

There was a very sad touch to the closing proceedings of the County Council as Fred Middleton, brother of the Warden, passed away this morning. Ex-Warden Curtis acted in the place of Warden J. A. Middleton. Reeves Montgomery and Scott moved that a message of condolence be sent to the Warden of the County.

Warden Middleton came into the chamber before the Council adjourned, and he thanked the members for their co-operation during the past year "I was not going to come up this morning, but I wanted to thank the members for their help and co-operation in carrying on the business of the county this year," he said.

Tenders for the County debentures were opened, but the Council decided that, as it did not want to issue debentures for any more than $15,000

MINISTER STRESSES PREPARATION NEED

Powers Should Find Out What Agreement May Be Reached.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Laborite Daily Herald today prints an exclusive interview with Sir Austen Chamberlain, in which the British Foreign Minister said that the failure of the recent tripartite naval conference showed the danger of going into conference with other powers on a vital question without having first ascertained what sort of an agreement might be expected. He was encouraged, however, by the fact that the failure had not embittered the very friendly relations of the three governments He declined to give an opinion as to whether another disarmament conference was possible in the near future.

Damage Amounting to $30.000 Done in Village Centre

Fire Starts in Edwards' Barber Shop and Spreads to Bullock and Barker and Chittick Garages On Either Side—Many Cars Are Lost.

LAKEFIELD CREAMERY AND OTHER BUILDINGS NEAR SAVED BY STRENUOUS EFFORTS OF VILLAGE BRIGADE

Burned Buildings in Centre of Village Near Other Frame Structures—Peterborough Brigade Renders Valuable Assistance in Preventing Spread of Flames.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10.—The most serious fire in Lakefield in some years occurred this morning, destroying the garage owned by Roland Bullock at the corner of Queen and Reid Streets and the barber shop of Ernest Edwards next door in the same building, and damaging the garage of Barker and Chittick, which was next to the barber shop. The loss is estimated at $30,000, including the two buildings and a number of cars in the Bullock garage, and some loss to the dressmaking establishment next door, which is conducted by Miss Hampton.

Only the prompt response of the Lakefield brigade to the alarm which was sent in at 5.15, and the arrival of part of the Peterborough brigade at 5.45, twenty minutes after a call had been sent in, saved a much greater loss. The buildings destroyed were of frame construction and several other frame buildings are close to them.

The fire started in the Edwards barber shop, the cause being as yet unknown. When the alarm was sent in, the flames had broken through the roof and the building was beyond saving. The cars were taken from the livery garage of Baker & Chittick, next door and the firemen confined their efforts to saving the nearby buildings, principally the Lakefield creamery, which is separated by only a narrow yard from the burned buildings. Other buildings which were in danger were the Fitzgerald Hardware Store, the Royal Bank, and Northey's barber shop, across Queen Street, and Webster Brothers Furniture and Undertaking establishment across Reid Street.

Commendation of the work of the Lakefield fire brigade, under Chief A. H. Clarke was expressed by Chief Gimblett of Peterborough, who arrived with a motor pumper just as the Lakefield fire engine gave out under the heavy strain imposed upon it The Peterborough firemen had their lines working with twenty minutes of the time the call was sent them.

Chief Gimblett recommended to the Lakefield Council that a small triple combination pumper be procured, considering it an economic purchase for the village.

The visiting firemen were very thankful to Mrs. George Spence, who served coffee and other refreshments to them.

The building destroyed was originally built as a hotel, continuing to be used for that purpose until local option came into effect It was later bought by Mr. Bullock who used the south half as a garage and rented the north half to Mr. Edwards. The upstairs had been at times rented as living quarters but at the time was not occupied. It is understood that no insurance is carried.

RUNS FOR UTILITIES.

"My term as Mayor coming to a close with the New Year, I have decided to offer my services on the Utilities Commission." His Worship Mayor Holloway told The Examiner this morning. I will endeavor to promote economy and efficiency in this department and will devote all the time that is necessary to accomplish this object."

LAYMEN ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Anglican Men Fill Vacancies and Discuss Business.

HAVE MANY ACTIVITIES.

A meeting of the Laymen's Association of the four Anglican churches of the city was held in Hooper's Lunch Room on Thursday evening for the election of President and Vice-President, the latter office made vacant through the death of R. B. Rogers.

Charles Lacheur, postmaster, and W. J. Kent, druggist, were nominated for the office of president, which resulted in the election of Mr. Lacheur. Mr. Kent was then nominated for the position of vice-president and unanimously elected.

The discussion which followed, relative to activities of the association, produced many suggestions which will be considered by the executive and brought forward for adoption at the January meeting.

There appears to be a wide field of activity for a laymen's association, in visiting outlying parishes, distribution of books, magazines and other literature of which there appears to be an abundance, providing speakers for the various functions, and generally assisting smaller congregations.

The list of officers follows:
Hon. Pres.—E. A. Peck, M.P.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—J. A .Aylmer.
President—Charles Lacheur.
Vice-President—W. J. Kent.
Secretary-Treasurer—John Edgar.
Representatives from St. Luke's Church—R. McKee, H. Adams.
Representatives from St. John's Church—F. D. Kerr, J. J. Howden.
Representatives from All Saints' Church—R. J. Bolton, William Buller.
Representative from St. George's Church—Mr. Arnott.

These, together with two laymen in the Deanery outside of the city, form the executive.

FAVOR INCREASE IN FIRING RANGE OF TURRET GUNS

Debate Marked By Heated Varbal Battle at American Capital.

HEAVY MAJORITY.

Provided It Is Permissable Under Terms of Washington Arms Limitation Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (Associated Press).—After a short but heated verbal battle, the House went on record yesterday in favor of increasing the firing range of the big turret guns on United States battleships provided it is permissible under terms of the Washington Arms Limitation Treaty. The vote was 215 to 75.

Under an amendment to the $198,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill, the President, either personally or through the Secretary of State, would be called upon to determine whether the elevation would be in keeping with the provisions of the pact. The amendment also allotted $940,000 for beginning the work.

Shortly after the vote on gun elevation, the deficiency bill itself was approved and sent to the Senate.

Before final action on the bill, the House also participated in a round of discussion of the recent charges of Rear-Admiral Magruder against what he described as waste and inefficiency in administration of naval affairs.

Would Form Committee.

Representative McClintic of Oklahoma, a Democrat on the navy committee, presented from the floor a resolution proposing creation of a special committee to investigate Magruder's case.

During debate on the resolution, Chairman Butler of the naval committee said that as soon as his committee was organized he proposed to initiate an inquiry into the case.

A few minutes after making this statement, Butler plunged into the fight for gun elevation. He recalled that Charles Evans Hughes, while Secretary of State, had said that it would not violate the Washington treaty to increase the range of United States guns, and said that within the last 48 hours the "present Secretary of State" has concurred in that view. Butler later said that he had been advised through the Navy Department that Secretary of State Kellogg after study of the elevation question had expressed the opinion "that the elevation of the guns as proposed was in no violation of the Washington treaty."

TREATY SIGNED.

MADRID, December 10 (Canadian Press).—A general treaty of aerial navigation, regulating the reciprocal treatment to be given airships in flights from one country to another, was signed yesterday by Spain and Germany.

The treaty was signed at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs by Primo de Rivera, in behalf of Spain, and by the German Ambassador in behalf of Germany.

Defence To Move For New Trial In Lilliendahl Beach Murder Case

MAY'S LANDING, N.J., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The shadow of two Negro killers was cast again yesterday over the murder of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, for whose death his widow and Willis Beach were convicted of voluntary manslaughter.

Edison Hedges, counsel for Beach, said he would move for a new trial on the strength of confessions from two Negroes whose whereabouts he would not reveal. Mrs. Lilliendahl has insisted since her husband's death last September 15 that he was slain and robbed by Negroes in a wooded lane near Hammonton.

Hedges declined to reveal the nature of the confession he said he had obtained. The negroes "might be in Brooklyn" he told reporters.

Brooklyn police, however, said they had arrested no negroes in connection with the murder and that their assistance in investigation of the crime had not been requested.

Robert S. McCarter, Mrs. Lilliendahl's attorney, said he, too, would move for a new trial this morning because he had obtained new information after the case was given to the jury.

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Beach are to be sentenced today by Justice Luther Campbell. The verdict returned by a jury of five women and seven men after 23 hours' deliberation, carries with it a maximum prison sentence of ten years, with the added possibility of a $1,000 fine.

PRISONER TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF

Frank Renaud Leaps Into the Furnace at Belleville Jail.

DIES LATER.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). — Frank Renaud an inmate of the county jail on an offence against the L.C.A., died tonight. He jumped into the furnace in the basement of the building this morning. The door would just about admit him and he went in head first, his whole body going in. He was a trusty about the jail. Robert Colling, the turnkey and Tom Ketchson, the warden, located him and pulled him out and sent him to Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Colling's hands were badly burned in releasing the man from his perilous position.

At the hospital on examination he was found to be severly burned about the body and hands.

Drs. Tennant and Rutherford attended him. It is not likely the man will recover. This man would have completed his sentence on Monday, December 19th and it is believed that he became despondent. He was conscious at all times.

BLUNT QUESTION ENDS DISPUTE

Pilsudski Demands Whether Lithuania Wants Peace or War.

ANSWER IS PEACE.

GENEVA, December 10 (United Press). — A soldier's blunt challenge, "Do you want peace or war?" led dramatically to what League Council members believed to-day would be an immediate settlement of the Polish-Lithuanian dispute. The League Council met secretly to discuss the dispute and Marshal Joseph Pilsudski of Poland and Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania faced each other across the table.

After a formal discussion, it is told, Pilsudski, dictator and war hero, suddenly turned to Waldemaras and said: "What it is? Is it peace or war? Do you want peace?"

Waldemaras, astounded, hesitated, and then replied: "We want peace."

"In that case," Pilsudski is quoted as having said, "I have nothing more to do here. Zaliski, my Foreign Minister, will remain and draft an agreement—and I am going to order a Te Deum sung in all Polish churches."

Says Sugar Magnates In Accord With Cuba

PARIS, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Colonel Jose Tarafa, chairman of the Cuban Sugar Defence Committee, finished his mission in Europe yesterday and will leave for London at noon today.

The says he goes "with the certainty that everybody in the sugar business on the continent agrees that something must be done to stabilize the industry and that most of them are in accord with Cuba as to how it should be done."

He takes with him a signed agreement with the European sugar exporting countries, excepting Holland, and he is still in negotiation with the Dutch beet sugar producers and with representatives of the cane producers of Java.

Col. Tarafa also has the assurance of both the Dutch and Java interests that while they are not yet ready to enter into the recent agreement at Paris, they will throw no obstacles in the way of its successful workings.

PILSUDSKI WILL SUBMIT CLAIMS TO THE COUNCIL

European Statesmen To Confer On Polish-Lithuanian Situation To-day.

FRANCE SIGNS PACT.

Believed Dispute Holds Potential Danger For Peace of Europe.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(A.P.)— Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, premier of Poland, came to Geneva yesterday to join the discussions in which the League of Nations is seeking to terminate the technical state of war between Lithuania and Poland which has existed since the Poles occupied Vilna seven years ago.

The Polish premier found that a big gathering of European statesmen, including Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania, was already on the ground. He ran into such an exhausting series of conferences that last evening he frankly told his friends he had had enough for one day and went to bed.

"Too many cooks may spoil the broth," commented one distinguished diplomat last night in referring to the great number of diplomats who are here trying to restore harmony between Poland and Lithuania.

The coming of Premier Pilsudski has caused general realization of the serious state of affairs existing in the Baltic and has created a feeling at Geneva that the quarrel between the Warsaw and Kovno governments holds potential danger for the peace of Europe. This feeling was reflected in yesterday's feverish activities, which included a conference yesterday afternoon between Premier Pilsudski, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, and Foreign Minister Briand of France.

Would Like Compromise Solution.

Pressure is being exerted on Premier Waldemaras to influence him to accept a compromise solution, but he has in Lithuania a following which apparently expects positive action, while Lithuanians in the United States are bombarding him with cablegrams exhorting him not to weaken.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Beelaerts van Blockland of the Netherlands is struggling hopefully with the big job of solving the controversy. It is believed here that his

WILL OPEN JANUARY 26

Dominion Parliament Open For Second Session at Ottawa.

APPLY NEW RULES.

OTTAWA, Ont, Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press). — Parliament will be opened on Thursday, January 26th, Premier King announced last night, at the conclusion of a meeting of the cabinet. The approaching session of the sixteenth parliament of Canada. It will be notable for several things.. Hon. R. B. Bennett will appear as leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition The new rules of the House of Commons will be applied. The Government's legislative programme will be watched with usual interest in view of the new Northern country projects and the proposed development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

No definite intimation has been given as to the matters which will be before parliament but it is safe to assume that the St. Lawrence power and navigation project and the immigration question generally will be the subject of some of the major debates of the late winter weeks. With the approach of the opening there is a renewed interest in the six senate vacancies. It is expected that the Government will make these appointments—three in Quebec and three in Ontario—before January 26. It is said that the Ontario vacancies have created something of a problem and Prime Ministers in the past have said that the appointments to the Senate were among the most difficult matters which come before Governments.

OLD MASTERS

Mother earth, are the heroes dead?
Do they thrill the soul of the years no more?
Are the gleaming snows and the poppies red
All that is left of the brave of yore?
Are there none to fight as Theseus fought,
Far in the young world's misty dawn?
Or to teach as gray-haired Nestor taught?
Mother Earth, are the heroes gone?

Their armor rings on a fairer field
Than Greek and Trojan fiercely trod;
For Freedom's sword is the blade they wield,
And the gleam above is the smile of God.
So, in his isle of calm delight,
Jason may sleep the years away;
For the heroes live, and the sky is bright,
And the world is a braver world to-day.

United States Flier Sets Altitude Record

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Lieut. Carlton C. Champion, the plucky navy flier, who refused to leave his "ship" after it had developed engine trouble and burst into flames, has been credited with having attained the greatest altitude ever reached by man in a heavier-than-air machine. A communication received yesterday by the National Aeronautic Association from the Federation Aeronautique Internationale announced that the latter organization, the recognized arbiter of aerial records, had accepted Champion's mark as a record.

The barograph, which Lieut. Champion risked his life to preserve in the perilous descent, showed after calibration that his plane, a Wright Apache, had reached an altitude of 38,474 feet on a flight last July 25 from Anacostia naval air station here.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Don't be silly"! Cherry cried, while her strange, artificial laugh was still echoing in Faith's bewildered ears. "Can't a girl have a headache without your taking it as a major tragedy? Um-m! Almond cake! Did the incomparable Rhoda make it?"

Stooping to retrieve the tray which Faith, in her dismay, had set upon the floor, gave Cherry an excellent excuse not to meet her sister's hurt, puzzled eyes.

"Cherry," Faith began abruptly, "please tell me what's wrong. You're desperately unhappy about something, frightened, too——"

"What a superb imagination you have!" Cherry gibed lightly, but still her eyes would not meet her sister's. "I tell you it's only a headache. That's why I acted so queerly last night."

"You seemed all right at dinner yesterday," Faith persisted. "But of course if you don't trust me, don't want to confide in me—Oh, Cherry, darling, has Nils Jonson anything to do with this queer mood of yours? You were so rude to him, so unlike yourself——"

"Why shouldn't I be rude to him, if you call turning down an invitation which I didn't want to accept being rude?" Cherry demanded defiantly, after she had drained her cup of coffee. "Aren't you forgetting that he's merely the brother of our servant, a man whom we never saw until yesterday and whom we shall probably never see again after his business with Rhoda's singing teacher is finished? Why should I put myself out to be charming to a rube from Minnesota, when I don't feel well? Really, Faith, there's no pleasing you! If I had flirted with him, you'd have been the first to scold me. And since I don't you think I must be coming down with a mortal illness. "Well," she jumped up from the bed and thrust the scarcely touched tray of food into Faith's hands, "I've got to dress for the sheik."

"Which one?" Faith asked coldly, hurt and angry at Cherry's obvious attempt to deceive her.

Cherry laughed again, but her golden eyes blazed with a strange fire. "I thought you knew I had a date for tonight with Bruce Patton. If Farmer Nils is a sheik, I must be 'way behind the vogue. If I were interested enough to describe him, I'd say that he belongs to the cave-man era, which passed out about 1910. Let's see—what shall I wear?"

"Cherry, do you really dislike Nils Jonson so much?" Faith brushed aside her sister's patter ruthlessly.

"Dislike him?" Cherry laughed, pretending to be greatly absorbed in contemplating her wardrobe. "Isn't that putting it rather strongly, darling? I neither like nor dislike him. He means so little in my young life that I don't give him a thought unless you or Bob lugs him into the conversation. I think I'll wear the gold chiffon, gold stockings and gold slippers, with that heavy, old-fashioned gold necklace that Bruce gave me."

"Where are you going with Bruce?" Faith paused at the doorway to ask.

"I haven't the faintest idea," Cherry retorted gaily. "But he'll have something exciting planned—don't worry! Bruce Patton is my idea of the correct answer to a maiden's prayer."

"With a large label reading, 'Object—not matrimony'," Faith retorted cruelly, and closed the door upon a sister whose beautiful face was distorted with fury.

LABOR APPROVES SOVIET PROPOSAL

Urges British Government Seriously To Consider Disarmament.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (United Press)—The National Joint Council of the Labor movement passed a resolution yesterday declaring it desired to "express our sense of the importance of the Russian disarmament proposals.

The resolution added that the "Council therefore requests the British Government to express its willingness seriously to consider the proposals with a view to preparing the way to a general acceptance of complete disarmament."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Evangelist Hynd Gives Address at the Gospel Hall.

Evangelist Hynd spoke last night in Gospel Hall on the Signs of the Times, and mentioned a number of Scriptures dealing with what might be looked for at the close of the present dispensation, notably II. Peter, chapter 3, and Matt. 24. Scoffers mentioned in Peter's epistle were very manifest. Many are denying the Deity of the Lord Jesus and His work accomplished on Calvary, where He paid in Blood the mighty debt of sin and died that awful death to make atonement for man's guilt. God raised Him from the dead and today He sits on the throne and is surely coming again soon.

LUMBER CAMPS WELL SUPPLIED

Few Calls For Men Received Lately at Employment Bureau.

LITTLE UNEMPLOYMENT.

According to H. Robertson of the Government Employment Bureau, business in the city, so far as his department is concerned, is running quite smoothly. There is a small amount of unemployment, but no calls have come for extra men of late. The lumber camps that are in operation at the present time are well supplied and replacements, that is, where present employees leave their jobs, are the only openings.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SUNDAY, DECEMBER 11th, 1927.

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology, which finds the sway favorable for intellectual pursuits.

The clergy is subject to the most stimulating and helpful direction of the stars, the seers announce, and they will be much in the public prints.

All the signs appear to indicate bitter contention between and arouse difficulties.

Men as well as women will again turn to spiritual consolation after devotion to material interests, it is prognosticated.

While there may be criticism in books and periodicals of long established creeds, religion will interest many long indifferent, if the configurations are rightly interpreted.

The evening should be fairly good for the association of friends and even for courtship, although both men and women may be able to appear better and wiser than they are.

Music is subject to the best influences and artists should benefit greatly through new demands on them.

Inventions are marvelously well governed by the planets and the radio as well as aviation will profit by them.

Hospitals now come under a rule making for great demands on them, and they may expect large benefactions.

This should be an auspicious day for making appeals for charities or philanthropies.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of gain through trusts or syndicates.

Children born on this day have the forecast of unusual success. Many public men and successful women are born under this sign.

FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 12th, 1927.

Contending planetary influences are strong today, according to astrology, which finds the rule adverse to sports as well as certain lines of business.

Merchants should benefit from conditions that seem to promise much buying of the less costly products of manufacturers.

The Sun is in an aspect supposed to be helpful to jewelers and those who deal in articles of gold or silver.

Bronze now comes under a sway making for a revival of interest in art objects of this metal, which will lend its tone to costumes.

Women should be cautious under this planetary government which is supposed to thwart their ambitions and encourage futile effort.

This is not a fortunate wedding day for girls who are not willing to be meek to the master of the house.

There is a promising sign for workers, who should profit greatly during the approach of the holiday season.

Even though it is winter, dealings in real estate will be active the seers predict, for ownership of land is to be more desired than in previous years.

Quarrels over money affairs may be easily precipitated while this configuration prevails.

Holiday letters and greetings come under a rarely favorable sway late this afternoon. Love missives should be lucky.

Editors and publishers have the prospect of wonderful good fortune. They will profit greatly in the coming year.

Increase in the birthrate is prognosticated for the coming year when boys will predominate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which there will be satisfactory changes, but they should beware of extravagance.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted and popular. They should exceed on the stage and should be trained to be thrifty for the tendency will be to ignore the value of money.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

An imported four-piece costume consisting of cloth skirt with knitted slip-on sweater and cardigan and a fur-trimmed top coat to match the skirt.

Some women feel about four-piece ensembles as they do about the once cherished "parlor suite." A sort of admission of not being able to make tasteful selections oneself.

And so, while many of the most notable of French dressmakers seldom let any woman escape from their showrooms with only a frock or a wrap or a suit by itself, but always with companion pieces to go with it, there are plenty of extremely well-dressed women who still retain for themselves the privilege of making their own selections and combinations—all the more attractive, perhaps, because they are not so palpably preconceived.

The four-piece suit is, however, chosen by many women as a convenient and really smart sports ensemble for cold weather. It consists, as you know, of a skirt usually mounted on a light-weight bodice—a slip-on sweater comes next—then a cardigan or jacket and last of all a substantial top coat. There are all sorts of possibilities in such an outfit. For really cold outdoor wear the four pieces may be worn. For days not quite so cold the coat may be worn but the jacket or cardigan omitted. For warmish days in winter the slip-on sweater and jacket may be worn without the top coat—and substitute slip-on sweaters may be worn in place of the original one.

I was much interested the other day to hear a new shade used in France—called white blue—described as "the same shade as water in a porcelain bathtub." And that really is a perfect description.

And have you heard that real flowers were coming back into fashion as boutonnieres and shoulder posies? Of course women will go on wearing the artificial sort, which are much more convenient, but a number of very smart women here and in Paris make a point of wearing real flowers not only in the evening but with the street costume.

SECOND LECTURE IS WELL ATTENDED

Prof. Pratt ontinues Talks on American Poets at Y.W.C.A.

An appreciative audience filled the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association last night for the second of Professor's Pratt's lectures on American poets. Miss Margaret Hamilton presided and announced the musical numbers of the evening, which included a pianoforte solo, a "Minuet," played by Miss Mary Harstone, and two songs, "The Blind Ploughman" and "Advice," sung by Miss Daisy Murray, with accompaniments played by Miss Gwen Donley.

Speaking first of Robert Frost, the New Englander who interprets in rugged verse the spirit of the soil, Dr. Pratt quoted some of the work of this man, whose style is non-rhetorical, severe and economical in design. A realist, "but not sensational, like the realism that emphasizes degradation," he has a style marked by calm, intense expression, filled with controlled pathos, but always steering clear of the slough of sentimentality, which was admirably displayed in "The Death of the Hired Man," the two stanzas of "The Pasture," "The Mending Wall" and "Good Bye and Keep Cold," a whimsical address to an orchard.

Carl Sandbergh, head of the "vers libre" movement in the United States, which has its expression "in that movement whose high priestesses are Harriet Munroe and Amy Lowell," was next chosen, and was characterized by the speaker as "the most indigenous of the United States poets," with the national consciousness of his land expressed in his verse, which is strident, blatant, powerful, full of the idiosyncrasies of its speech, with words fierce, strong and impetuous, centred about America's industrialism. Non-lyrical, with a "bull-necked atmosphere" about the verses, which is of that free verse type cynically termed "shredded prose," Sandbergh loves to talk of the smoke-stacks, the machines, the factory smells, of his land.

A powerful quoted poem was "Chicago," "hog butcher of the world, stacker of wheat, a sprawling city with big shoulders," whose wicked, crooked, brutal soul was laid bare by the composer, turning at last to the other side of the city, "laughing as a young man laughs; the stormy, husky, brawling laughter of youth."

"Cool Tombs" was another quotation, and the six-line bit called 'Fog,' with its haunting simile in "the cat feet of the fog," coming in to sit on its haunches, surveying the city, and then moving on. "Nocturne," written on a pool of water in a brick yard, was another example of this author's crass humor, also the brief pungency of "Grass," the lurid symbolism of a "Jazz Phantasy," and the descriptive opening stanzas of a poem entitled "Smoke and Steel," from the book of the same name, painting in words the heart of steel, which is made of "smoke and the blood of a man." "In the blood of men and the ink of chimneys, the smoke nights write their oaths" was an unforgettable sentence of dynamic effect.

A few excerpts from "The Spoon River Anthology," by Edgar Lee Masters, who took a little Mid-Western town and brought back to it in verse two hundred of its dead citizens, to make them write their own epitaphs, "honest and remorseless," were read, also the odd poem called "Silence," with heart-catching bits descriptive of the many silences of life, and the conclusion: "If we in life cannot speak of profound experiences, should we expect the dead to tell us. But the silence of the dead shall be intelligible as we approach them."

Speaking of the large number of American poets who are devoting their time to making articulate the unspoken woes of the poor, Dr. Pratt referred especially to Edwin Markham and read a portion of his famous "The Man With the Hoe," which was inspired by Millais' painting of a peasant. His poem on Abraham Lincoln was also quoted, and Louis Untermeyer's "Caliban in the Coal Mines," the desperate cry of the subterranean worker for light: "God, if You wish for our love, fling us a handful of stars."

A bit of the burlesque humor of Alex. Rogers, in a quotation in the negro dialogue, finished the evening's programme.

PAIR SENTENCED TO 10-YEAR TERM

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Beach Go To State Penitentiary For Crime.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press).— Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and Willis Beach, convicted of voluntary manslaughter for the killing of the woman's aged physician husband, Sep. 15 last, were to-day sentenced to ten years each at hard labour in the State prison at Trenton.

The sentence was the maximum penalty for manslaughter. New evidence by which they hoped to win a new trial was not forthcoming. The widow's counsel declined to say whether they would make an appeal.

The sentence on the widow and the Ashen faced chicken farmer with whom she is alleged to have had intimate relations was the final step in their trial for the killing of her husband.

THE MARKETS

Selling Of Rail Shares Checks New York Rally

NEW YORK, December 10 (Canadian Press).—The rally in stock prices was checked to-day by the heavy selling of railroad shares. Early gains of one to five points in a wide variety of stocks were substantially cut down or converted into losses by a late liquidating movement. Operations for the advance had lifted more than a score of issues to new peak prices for the year, or longer, in early trading. Southern Pacific crossed 126 to the highest price in 15 years, but quickly sold off more than three points on the O'Fallon decision.

The closing was heavy.

Toronto Market Firm; Trading Range Wide

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Trading was widely scattered on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The market was generally stronger, with Canadian Pacific Railway and Brazilian leading the lists with gains of 2½ and 2 points respectively. The former closed at 210½ and the latter at 225. International Nickel closed 15-8 down at 71 5-8, Canadian Oil was one higher at 44, Consolidated Smelter one better at 270, and Massey Harris one-quarter stronger at 37¾. Among the liquors, Carlings showed 1¼ better at 37¼, and Walkers a half point at 60½.

All Grains Advance After Steady Opening

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—An all around advance in grain values took place today following unusual steadiness displayed at the opening. The entire list of Chicago initial quotations showed no change exceeding a quarter cent in either direction, but the Buenos Aires market opened one cent higher and this stimulated buying here. Starting at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c off, Chicago wheat soon scored a moderate general advance. Corn opened unchanged to ⅛c up and then rose decidedly. Oats paralleled the action of corn. Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 128⅜, March 132½. Corn, December 88, March 92⅜. Oats, December 52, March 54⅝.

Department Store Rumor Is Denied

Both G. T. Clarkson, trustee in charge of the Canadian Department Stores, Limited, and C. L. Burton, General Manager of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, gave emphatic denials last night that negotiations were under way by which the Robert Simpson Company might take over some of the 21 department stores scattered throughout the Province and one in Montreal. "We are not interested," said Mr. Burton. Mr. Clarkson said no proposition of the kind had been received by him.

IN POLICE COURT.

Ezra Ketchum of the village of Norwood pleaded guilty this morning to the charge of selling liquor and was sentenced to two months in the common jail. Mr. Ketchum was arrested by Chief of Police Puffer of Norwood.

COUNCIL ENDS

for the addition to the Court House and the tenders requested $25,000, it would not issue any at this time.

The Council took a very humane attitude towards the baby in the jail, and it decided to pay 75 cents a day for its keep in a private home until it was two years old or was adopted.

The Council was informed that the insane Chinaman in the jail had been taken back to China by two of his fellow-countrymen who were returning.

Orders were issued to cover the steam pipes under the floor of the jailer's residence.

F. T. Webster was instructed to prepare plans for the draining of the swamp on the Block road in the Township of Otonabee. Mr. Webster recently made a survey there, and notified the County that there was a drop of one foot three inches in the first 3,000 feet, and considerably more in the rest of the swamp. A floating bridge is over the creek on this road, and every year there has been considerable trouble with the bridge. The digging of this ditch, it is hoped, will overcome the necessity of having a bridge of this kind on that road.

County Clerk Elliott announced to the Council that he was ready to assume his duties again after the summer's leave of absence. Members of the Council expressed their pleasure at having Mr. Elliot come back and look after the duties of county clerk and treasurer.

Reeves Montgomery and Cavanagh paid tribute to Charles Elliot for the way in which he had carried out the duties in the absence of his father, and all the Council joined in the expression with a hearty handclap.

From all reports the personnel of next year's County Council is to be considerably different, as many of the Reeves have indicated that they are not going to run for office again.

LEGION NOTES

Just over two weeks from now Christmas will once again be with us, and as unemployment is becoming more prevalent it is expected that quite a demand will be made upon the resources of the branch funds in order to make provision for those in need among the members of the Legion.

In order to raise funds to assist in this worthy cause the Euchre committee have for some time arranged for a mammoth euchre drive and dance which will take place on Wednesday, December 21st. Tickets valued at 50c. are on sale now and can be obtained from the various agents and also at the office of the secretary of the Legion at Murray street.

Those purchasing tickets, besides attending the euchre and dance, have also a chance on the great prize draw, which takes place on the same night. The prizes are of a high class, consisting of a Chesterfield suite, valued at $175.00; table, $22.00; lamp, $16.00; cedar chest, $14.50; ton hard coal, $15.00; Kenwood blanket, $10.50, and a silk bedspread $7.00, in addition to five geese.

In addition to the foregoing prizes, each purchaser of a ticket will have a free chance to win a pair of all wool blankets, kindly donated by the Canadian Departmental Stores, Limited. Free coupons for this special prize will be distributed to-day and are to be dropped in the Canadan Legion coupon opposite the elevator on the third floor of the above named store.

Liquor Store Open For Several Nights

For the convenience of the working people and all those who cannot get to the Government Liquor Store during the day, the Liquor Commission has decided that the Peterborough Liquor Store should stay open until 9.00 o'clock on Tuesday, December 13 and 20, and on Thursday, December 15 and 22. The store will also be open until 6.00 o'clock on Saturday, December 17 and 24.

CHRISTMAS MUSICALE

The Christmas Musicale of the Women's Art Association was held yesterday afternoon in the studio of the Conservatory of Music, with a good attendance of the members. The program was appropriately arranged for the Yuletide season, the musical numbers being marked by the Christmas atmosphere. They were announced by the president, Mrs. William Blackwell.

Several finely-rendered vocal solos were given by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, contralto, and Mrs. W. H. Hohner, soprano. Mrs. Liddle sang "The Birthday of a King," "Oh, Thou That Tellest" from "The Messiah," and a very attractive number in an old Christmas carol, centred about the legend of "Good King Wenceslas," the Saxon monarch who commenced the giving of gifts at Christmas tide. Mrs. Liddle's lovely contralto voice was warmly encored in this selection, which was repeated by request, and had the accompaniment of the ensemble which formed a part of the program.

Mrs. Hohner sang "Night of Nights," "Come Unto Him" from The Messiah, and "Holy Night," with accompaniments played by Miss Marion Adams. Mr. Liddle played for Mrs. Liddle. The ensemble, with Miss Isobel McKee at the piano, and led by Arnold Spencer, violinist, played a jolly Yuletide arrangement of Christmas airs, entitled "Around the Christmas Tree." Members of this youthful group of musicians are Jack Thackeray, 'cello; Max Warne, Stewart Widdess, Stanley Northrop and George Barns, violins, and Sid Parkins, clarinet.

The various numbers on the musical program were heartily encored. At the conclusion of the entertainment, afternoon tea was served.

The exhibition and sale of work held by the Women's Art Association during Thursday and Friday of this week at the Conservatory, under the auspices of the Guild of Arts and Crafts, was very successful. A comprehensive idea of the scope of the talent of the members was afforded by this display of their ability along various lines of artistic endeavor, which covered a wide range. Against the wall, in cabinets and on tables were arranged many pretty things. A feature of the exhibition was the distinct note of progress marked by the work since the exhibition of a like nature, which took place last season. The idea behind this exhibit was happily phrased by the president, Mrs. Blackwell, to whose initiative much of its success is due, in a quotation: "Criticism may be baneful or benign, constructive or destructive, but applied with discrimination it will generate an educated public spirit; and when our artists realize that they are working for a community that has some tincture of civic and national pride, they will receive the incentive that stimulated the masterpieces of the past."

The exhibit included some lovely things in handicraft; sketches in oils and water colors, in bits of natural beauty, figures and still life, hand-pointed china of the daintiest types, in free and conventional designs, in lustres, black and white silhouette work, Dutch figures and peacocks, Christmas cards and bridge score covers, specimens of batik work and of tied and dyed effects in gay scarfs and cushions, and table linen, painted lamp shades, hooked, crocheted and braided rugs, homespun bags and scarfs, pretty sealing-wax novelties, raffia bags, exquisite little taffeta party bags in pastel tints, a finely-embroidered table-cover, tiny worked wool mascots, painted scarfs and handkerchiefs, gesso work (a type of gilded papier mache handicraft) in book ends, candlesticks and a teapot, and something unique in an old-time sampler, the work of Mrs. N. H. Sutton, who chose a real old-time verse for a central figure to a design that included Adam and Eve and the wily serpent. The verse ran thus: "Our parents ate forbidden fruit, and from their glory fell; And we their children thus were brought, To death and near to hell." An illuminated address, the work of Miss Mamie McCarthy, and loaned by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, to whom it was recently presented by the Knights of Columbus, was another novel feature. Many of the members had exhibits in three or four of the sections.

Ladies contributing to this display of lovely handicraft included: Mrs. John Crane, Mrs. P. L. Allison, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mrs. T. Cruickshanks, Mrs. William Blackwell, Mrs. F. C. Webber, Mrs. B. L. Barns, Mrs. R. Regan, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Mrs. J. Kennett (who also demonstrated weaving with a hand-loom on Thursday), Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. J. H. Seals, Mrs. A. Harris, Mrs. B. Moore, Miss Cameron Edwards, Miss Geraldine Glover, Miss L. Elliott and Miss Mamie McCarthy.

Assisting Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, general convenor of the exhibit, were Mrs. T. Cruikshanks, Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. B. L. Barns, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Mrs. J. H. Seels and Miss Mamie McCarty.

It is the intention of the Association, as is done in other cities, to maintain a constant exhibition at the studio of examples of the work of various members, these pieces to be placed in a special cabinet provided for the purpose.

W. H. CLUXTON BURIED TO-DAY

Pioneer Resident of This City Borne To Grave By Masonic Brethren.

BORN HERE IN 1842.

From the Comstock Funeral Parlors, George Street, this afternoon, there moved to Little Lake Cemetery, the funeral cortege of one of Peterborough's truly pioneer residents, the late William Henry Cluxton, whose death took place in Port Hope on Thursday, December 8, terminating a long and useful life of some eighty-five years' duration. In that solemn little group that travelled by motor to the graveside were many brother Masons, paying their final respects to the eldest member of the local lodges.

Early in the nineteenth century there came to Canada from Ireland the late William Cluxton, who settled in Peterborough and set up a general merchandise business after taking a week's journey by stage to Montreal, where he purchased his supplies. Residing in what was known as the Scotch Village with his family, Mr. Cluxton became owner of what was later known as the Cluxton building, situated at the corner of George and Hunter Streets.

On March 19th, 1842, there was born into his household a son, William Henry, whose life, or the major portion of it, was destined to be spent in and for the City of Peterborough. William Henry Cluxton grew to manhood, gaining his education in the public schools here. He subsequently went into the insurance business, his office being situated in the Cluxton building. As an agent for the Liverpool-London Globe Company, of England, and the Hartford Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, he became known. Later he was associated with his father in the exporting of cheese to England. It is interesting to note that the cheese was loaded into cars at Peterborough and placed on board the ships at Montreal.

The late Mr. Cluxton was known, too, as a sportsman and became quite a noted marksman. He strongly inclined to the hunting of partridge. He was also associated with the Curling Club of his native town as one of its original members.

Early in life, deceased became a member of the Masonic Order, with which he was associated at the time of his death, which occurred at the home of Mrs. Ada Ambrose at Port Hope. He was therefore the oldest member of the local lodge, and it was quite fitting that his brothers should be in charge of his funeral.

On retiring from business here some twenty-five years ago, the late Mr. Cluxton moved to Windymere, his home near Bobcaygeon, and from there, during the past year, he went to Port Hope.

Among those from outside points attending the funeral were: Mrs. George Cluxton, of Toronto, a sister-in-law; Lawrence G. Cluxton, a nephew, from Montreal, and Walter H. Cluxton, a nephew, of Toronto.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

STORM AND FOG

on board since Wednesday. The whistle of the boat can be plainly heard although a haze of snow over the lake renders it invisible. It may be possible this morning for tugs from Little Current to come around the east side of the island and reach the Agawa. The wind has moderated considerably and the sea is calmer. Nothing definite as to the fate of the ship's crew is known.

Tug Held Up.

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—An Owen Sound wireless operator heard the tug Strathbogie at 10.30 o'clock this morning broadcasting from her position in the lee of Cove Island. The tug declared that the weather was so bad at the top of Lake Huron that it was doubtful if a start could be made to-day from her present position toward the wreck of the Agawa.

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The situation of the crew of Agawa remains perilous today, seventy-two hours after the ship grounded in Michael's Bay. The tug Strathbogie today was again baulked by weather in attempts to go to the Agawa's aid and is at Cover Point thirty miles away. The Agawa's hull is believed to be still intact.

The crew of the Altadoc are awaiting coastguardsmen to take them from their badly damaged vessel but are in no immediate danger.

The threatened tie-up of lake freighters was averted for a time when three steamers, the Britt, the Brockton and the Assiniboia, crashed their way through the ice jams in the Sault canals.

A wireless received at Port Arthur stated that coastguard crews had been unable to locate the Altadoc on Keewanaw Point. The tug Champlain, however, was believed standing by.

The tugs Bronson and Bowman are standing by the steamer Martian aground on Hare Island. The weather at the head of the lakes is moderating but navigation conditions are still bad.

Missing Steamer Safe

The steamer S. B. Squire, reported a day ago to have foundered in Lake Huron, arrived in the Lower St. Mary's River today covered in ice.

Strathbogie in Shelter

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Whether or not the rescue tug Strathbogie will be able to reach the grounded steamer Agawa in time to save its crew is again doubtful. After a report that the tug had today endeavored to make a new start from Tobermory, it was learned that it is now anchored off Cove Island at the tip of Bruce Peninsula, within thirty miles of the Agawa. It is sheltering from the terrific westerly gale blowing across the top of Lake Huron. To attempt to leave the shelter of the island would be suicide, according to word from Tobermory.

Tie-Up Averted

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The threatened tie-up of lake freighters was averted for a time when the steamer Britt, which has been fast in the ice in Mud Lake, was released by the Thompson Towing Company tugs about midnight. The Britt proceeded eastward. The steamers Brockton and Assiniboia followed her through. The weather here has moderated slightly.

Hope to Save Crew

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—According to a long distance telephone conversation with Little Current, Ontario, marine men of Manitoulin Island have not yet given up hope of rescuing the crew of the Agawa. Reports that fires were going on the ship were revived today and experienced Lake sailors are ready to put out with tugs from Providence Bay and other points the moment a lull in the storm gives them opportunity.

Max MacKenzie Wheelman.

On the boat Agawa, the wheelman is Max MacKenzie of Collingwood, a nephew of the Rev. A. W. MacKenzie of Lakefield. The young man who is but 16 years of age but a fine speciman of manhood, spent three years on the Conway, a British ship for training boys for merchant marine. On this ship were 400 cadets of which theff were six cadet captains, three of them being Canadians.

Watch and Overcoat Are Sold For $3.00

An overcoat was sold on the market this morning by Auctioneer J. F. Thornton for $3.00 and when the former owner of the coat came to investigate, he found that his gold watch valued at $10.00 had gone along with the overcoat in one of the pockets.

Little attention was paid to the man who bought the coat and as the result nobody knows who it was. The police were asked about the case but no clue to the purchasing party was furnished. All the owner of the watch can do is to wait and trust to the honesty of the buyer of the coat.

REGULAR BAPTISTS HOLD ORDINATION

Dallimore of Toronto was ordained pastor of the Regular Baptist Church of Cannington and Sunderland. Delegates from many nearby points composed the ordination council. Rev. C. M. Carew of Fenelon Falls was appointed moderator of the council.

SOVIET PLANS GENEVA AGENCY

LONDON, December 10 (United Press). — The suggestion of Hon. Raoul Dandurand that the League of Nations ought to have its own leased wires between Geneva and London in order that the British Empire might be kept fully informed as to the League's activities, has evidently suggested to the Soviets that they ought also to be in a position to watch what the League is doing.

In this connection it is understood that the Union of Soviet Republics will establish a branch news agency at Geneva from which to obtain the latest information. It is believed to be part of a propaganda movement aimed at the resumption of diplomatic relations with countries like Great Britain and Roumania. It has been disclosed that Litvinov during his visit to Geneva, recommended that Lithuania call off the state of war with Poland, but at the same time refuse to establish diplomatic relations. His object was later revealed when he asserted that the League ought to compel Britain and Rumania to entertain official relations with Moscow.

The French retort to this proposal was that the time to raise such a question was after Russia had become a member of the League. It is not believed that the Soviets have any intention of joining the League in view of their previous declarations, and observers opine that their object is to make use of it to further their European policy and propaganda activities.

BAZAAR IS HELD BY LADIES' AID

St. James' Church Society is Holding Annual Sale of Work.

Friday afternoon and all day today, a steady stream of customers has been attracted to the store at 285½ George Street, where the Ladies' Aid of St. James' United Church is holding its annual bazaar. This bazaar is usually an event in the society, and is also eagerly looked forward to by seekers after the article of unusual beauty and usefulness wanted for gifts at the Christmas season.

Mrs. A. Wilson, the Ladies' Aid President, welcomed all comers with her usual grace, introducing them impartially to the various booth managers.

The arrangement and color scheme was extremely pretty, bringing out many novel and pleasing ideas. Nearest the door was the Fancy Work booth which overflowed into a prettily decorated window. Here Mrs. F. D. Elliott, Mrs. R. Bannon and Mrs. F. Armstrong displayed a variety of beautiful luncheon and buffet sets, table runners, doylies and scarves of the finest hand needlework.

A table of knitted articles consisted of tiny wool suits to fit children from two to four: booties, mittens and everything needful for the cold days, was in charge of Mrs. A. Emery and Mrs. J. Ruth. These ladies also displayed a quantity of useful flannelette garments and several fascinating patch-work quilts.

Another equally interesting table in charge of Mrs. Hugh McCullough, was filled with aprons of many styles and colors, made a special appeal to the housewife.

The King's Own Bible Class was represented by Mrs. W. K. Sloan and Mrs. M. H. Drysdale, who joined the Ladies' Aid by contributing many beautiful articles for the sale, also assisting at the bazaar.

Mrs. Frank Pratt had a huge assortment of homemade candy, cakes and pies. A row of delicious plum puddings, with the recipe attached to each, and daintily tied in Christmas wrappings, were sold with amazing rapidity.

Mrs. Harold Fry made a very capable and efficient cashier, and was expected to almost do the impossible, being in demand in two or three places at the same time, with her rapidly growing wallet.

At the present no definite statement of the proceeds of the affair has been given, but from appearances the returns must be very gratifying to those interested.

The Husband Hunters

The play The Husband Hunters," presented by the senior pupils and some ex-pupils of King George school, last evening, under the direction of Mrs. E. Wand, was a decided success. Numbers were turned away as the hall of King George school was packed to its utmost capacity at at early hour.

The first act was the "School for Fascinators," where general deportment, music and cooking was taught, but whose real aim was to secure husbands for its students. The part of conductress of the school, Mrs. Ketchume, was exceedingly well taken by Marion Mitchell and she was ably supported by the girls of the school.

The Widow Dubb ..Bernice Ferguson
Mandy Dubb ..... Phyliss Rome
Miss Bean ..... Margaret Grierson

They were being instructed to write love letters and wrote to some of the prominent men of Peterborough, in the persons of Judge Huycke, Dr. McPherson, J. J. Turner and J. A. O'Brien, describing their good qualities and accomplishments. This caused many ripples of laughter and loud applause from the audience.

The girls of the school who were taking cooking lessons, Jean McCauley, Barbara Gray, Nora Gemmel, Eva Barringer, Hazel Seymour, then came in and decided to send out samples of their cooking.

A splendid part was then enacted when a number of girls, Dorothy Dodds, Emelene Millar, Gladys Mortimer, Hilda Joyes, Phyllis Rome and Margaret Grierson, dressed as up-to-date "young men," designated in the play as "The Swells," came in and did the "flirtation song" and "step" with the cooks and three girls in Cinderella costumes, Viola Ferguson, Isobel Hamilton and Maude Joyes. Mrs. Wand sang the verses of this song, and the Cooks, Swells and Cinderellas gave the chorus.

The following boys, John Crow, Morgan Perry, Jack Smith and Henry Shepherd, put on some exceedingly clever vaudeville stunts, dressed in high silk hats and carrying canes.

After the "flirtation chorus," Mrs. Wand was presented wtih a beautiful bouquet of American beauty roses by little Florence Trebilcock, and Mrs. George Rowe delighted the audience with her readings.

Those taking part were entirely trained by Mrs. E. Wand, and she deserves great praise for her work.

TWENTY VESSELS ARE STRICKEN DURING GALE OVER GREAT LAKES

Thousands of Dollars Damage Done To Shipping Property.

NO DEATHS REPORTED.

Seven Downbound Grain Steamers Are Overdue at Detroit.

OWEN SOUND, December 10 (Associated Press). — The wake of the blizzard which swept with sub-zero weather across the country found more than twenty storm-ridden vessels on the Great Lakes in distress, wrecked or limping toward port yesterday.

Although no deaths were reported, thousands of dollars of damage was done to shipping, the gale leaving a trail of smashed shore property, wharves and ships.

Wreckage, believed to be from the steamer Agawa, was washed ashore at Providence Bay, Manitoulin Island, although the crew was reported safe. The Canadian steamer Martian was also reported in trouble near Port Arthur.

Three freighters whose whereabouts were unknown were located as the winds abated and the temperature rose. The steamer Hamonic wirelessed that she was in the shelter of Michipicoten Island, and the steamers Midland Prince and Dayton tied up safely at Sault Ste. Marie.

Grain Vessels Overdue.

The Oglebay, upbound from Sault Ste. Marie and the F. B. Squire, out of Port Colborne, Ont., were yet to be heard from, while at least seven down-bound grain vessels were overdue at Detroit. No word had been received as night fell from the grain-laden Altadoc, reported going to pieces on a shoal off Keweenaw Point.

Fast in 12 inches of ice in Mud Lake at Sault Ste. Marie, the steamer Thomas Britt awaited the outcome of attempts to reach her by the ice crushers.

An eighty-four-mile-an-hour gale snapped four vessels and a passenger steamer from their moorings at Buffalo, two of the ships being badly battered. Two package freighters headed up the lakes and two rum runners, said to have left Port Colborne, Ont., were unreported.

Chicago District Free.

No vessels were in trouble in the south end of Lake Michigan around Chicago, where the mercury hovered around 20 degrees above zero as the peak of the cold wave moved eastward. Warmer weather throughout the Middle West and South was in prospect for the week-end, with the milder winds only a few hours behind for the Atlantic seaboard.

The snow-choked roads of Wisconsin, upper Michigan, Minnesota, and the Dakotas took the attention of the occupants of those states as they attempted to restore rail communication and travel. The weather to the north was still sub-zero, Hibbing, Minn., reporting 34 degrees below, and snow was predicted.

Several additional deaths attributed to the cold were reported, sending the total for the storm well above the thirty mark.

FREIGHTER ASHORE.

MARQUETTE, Mich., December 10 (Canadian Press). — A large lake freighter, heavily coated with ice, was driven ashore off Shot Point in Lake Superior near here last night. Coastguardsmen were despatched to her aid. The ship's identity was not determined.

The bow of the boat is hard aground, not more than 600 feet off shore, and she is in about seven feet of water. It is expected to be several hours before the coastguard ship can plough her way through the heavy ice formations to reach the stranded vessel. The crew can be seen from shore walking about the deck, and are in no immediate danger. Shipping men here are of the opinion that the vessel is the Oglebay, upbound from Sault Ste. Marie for Duluth with a cargo of grain, which has been missing.

business but now the stock salesmen are cashing in on it," said Mr. Stephenson. But the time of reckoning will come and a new distrust will be formed in the minds of the public thinking more deeply on the subject of Life Insurance. The people must be taught that insurance is not merely a commercial business but that it is something higher.

Another form of competition is to be found right in the Insurance offices, in other words, the poor salesman builds up a sales resistence by ill-timed or poorly advised sales and since charity begins at home, such salesmen should be weeded out. This form of competition can be lowered by building up a better knowledge of life insurance and stressing what it does, not what it is. The salesman should not try to tell his prospect what he knows but what his prospect should know. In other words, the insurance man should learn to fit the policy to the man.

In aproaching a prospective policy purchaser, there are several things which the salesman should consider. He should learn to sum up physically, consider his financial standing and whether a low or high premium policy is advisable, and finally appeal to him according to his temperament for life insurance is a matter of sentiment, not logic. The speaker gave instances of how such courses have been applied before concluding.

Votes of Thanks.

In rising to move the vote of thanks to the speaker, Mr. Primeau Mr. Stephenson, D. Moore, guests at the head table referred to the success of the gathering so far, mentioned various phases of the address of the evening and concluded by voicing the appreciation of the members. His motion was seconded by John Strickland.

Election of Officers.

It is the custom of the Underwriter's Association to elect officers annually. Accordingly, the president, Mr. Tobin at this juncture called for nominations and the new officers were subsequently chosen.

Just before so doing, however, he took occasion to remark upon the splendid year which the association has enjoyed and announced that since the local organization has increased its membership, it has qualified as one of the few in Canada which will be honored by a visit from Dr., Rockwell, of New York, a noted insurance lecturer who will hold a three-day conference in this city some time in February. He also spoke of the good work done by the other officers and of the necessity of getting behind the new ones to help make the conference a success.

In the election of officers, the vice president of 1927, H. B. Mathews, of the London Life Company was honored with election to the presidency, the secretary, treasurer, Mr. Kenmure of Imperial Life Co. was made vice-president and H. Tiffin of the Manufacturers' Life Co., was elected secretary treasurer.

The appointing of an executive committee was necessary, and the following being named to comprise it:—

The officers for 1928 and Messrs. Boulton, F. Hickey, D. Bissell, C. L. Sackville, A. Jones and J. D. McQueen. Brief speeches were made by the newly appointed officers, the minutes of the last meeting were read and the meeting came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

UNITED COUNTIES DISCUSS BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

Recommend Appointment of Commitee To Form Restricted Area.

FINAL SESSION.

Council Presents Warden Elliott With Gold Watch and Chain.

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—At the final session of the Counties Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham yesterday, the main items of business were the various reports which were to be presented to the Council as a whole. Besides the reports of the Road and Bridge Committee, the School Committee and the Finance Committee, the most interesting was the report of the Agricultural Committee. Following the usual formal heading, the report reads, we recommend the organization of committees in the townships of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham to secure the necessary signatures for the establishment of a restricted area for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. And that the appointment of these committees be deferred until the January session, 1928. This report carried the signatures of thirteen members of the committee. Since the matter of these restricted areas demanded considerable of the councillors' time at one of the sessions when a government representative was present to address the meeting, it is expected that every effort will be made to secure the said area.

The matter of a hundred dollar increase in the salary of the turnkey of the county jail was not favorably considered. It was finally left over for reconsideration, and the report amended to read that no action be taken. It was then accepted as amended. Dr. Hess, Hastings, read the lengthy school report. It appeared to be mostly a list of grants to the various rural schools throughout the counties.

Presentation to Warden.

But the item of business which every member of the Council awaited with the keenest interest was begun when Maher, Cobourg, under the heading of new business, moved that the Council act as a committee of the whole and Dr. Hess occupy the chair. Hess spoke briefly in a humorous trend and asked Maher to address the Council. Maher seemed to find his task both easy and pleasant. He spoke fluently, complimenting Warden Elliot on his ability as a councillor and leader and as a model for the younger citizens to follow. He claimed that it was not so easy to say nice things to any man when he had not the gift of blarney. He would rather fight with the chairman during the meetings and be a good friend of his afterward. The purpose of the proceedings, Maher explained, was to present to the Warden a gold watch and chain as a token of friendship from his fellow-councillors. The watch, he said, represented only a few dollars in money but it carried with it a great deal of sentiment. Money, he said, could not buy sentiment. He expressed a wish that each tick of the watch would recall many fond recollections of his association with the 1927 council and that Heaven's sweetest blessing would be for the future of his family.

Dr. Hess, with a few remarks which were very fitting to the occasion, stepped forward and presented Warden Elliot with a very beautiful gold watch. The watch was suitably inscribed, and carried with it a gold chain and a Masonic charm.

Warden Replies.

It did not require an expert to see that Warden Elliott was very much touched by this act of friendship. For a time it seemed that he would not be able to round out his remarks to the proportions of a fitting speech. He began by saying very frankly that he was greatly embarrassed and felt quite unable to suitably express his thanks. Of all the duties which had been his during the year, his present one was the hardest. He was sure that the watch would often recall his year in the Warden's chair. It had been the most pleasant year of his life, and he felt sure that the councillors could not fully realize the pleasure which his service on the Council had afforded him. He claimed that every member of the Council had done all in his power to assist him whenever called upon and that the success of the Council had been entirely due to their co-operation. He also mentioned the willingness with which the officials of the county had assisted him. Regardless of the hour he had found it necessary to call upon them for information or advice, they had always been ready to give it to him freely and fully. Colonel MacNachtan, in particular, had been very obliging. Mr. Grier, the road superintendent, had been another official with whom it had been a great pleasure to work. In conclusion, he stated that the watch would always remind him and that he would never forget the year he had spent as Warden of the United Counties.

Colonel MacNachtan was asked to address the Council. Years come and years go, he began, and it was sixty-four years since he had first begun to work in the county clerk's office as his father's assistant. During that time he had seen many changes. And in this respect he recalled a gentleman of many years ago, a Mr. Allan of Bowmanville, who used to come to his office and chat with him on the affairs which were at that time considered the olden days. It had been an uncle of the Colonel who was Warden of the Counties when the Prince of Wales opened the present building which housed the Council Chambers. He did not wish to compare Warden Elliott with any other Warden. He merely wished to say that he had always found Mr. Elliott a very faithful officer of the counties and a man who did his duty with exacting care and promptitude. Warden Elliott, he said, was always on the dot when wanted, and he was very pleased of the opportunity afforded him to add his personal congratulations to those of the Council.

Gives Recitation

Deputy Reeve Hooten, Cavan, was prevailed upon to give a reading. On a previous occasion, Mr. Hooten expressed his inability to make a speech. Now he is always called upon to recite, and his talent is always appreciated. This time it was the testimony of a Dutchman who was present when a steamboat on the Mississippi River was blown to atoms. It was a very humorous number and was received with loud applause.

Major J. M. Bygott, Campbellford, remarked that this was his first year as a member of the Council and he had received a great deal of instruction, in more ways than one. He had enjoyed every minute of his time in Cobourg and thought that the warden had been very generous with his advice and wished to add his personal congratulations to those of the Council as a whole.

Reeve Dudley, Colborne, claimed that he was no speaker and that as this was his fourth term and he had never yet been called upon for a speech, he had had no practice. He wished to say that, though he came from a small town, he was very proud of that same town. After adding his congratulations to those of the Council, he thought it best to act on some advice which he had received from Col. MacNachtan upon his first arrival at the Counties Council. This was, that he should never make a speech unless he had something to say. And when he had said what he had intended to say, he was to sit down. Therefore he sat down.

Reeve Nelson, Percy Township, was inclined to be humorous when he rose to address the assembly, but he, too, extended his congratulations in the utmost sincerity. Reeve McKay, Starkville, thought it unfair that Elliot should receive all the flowers. He reminded the councillors that unless he had a good wife who was not afraid to stay at the helm while her husband was attending to the affairs of the Counties, Elliot would have a different tale to tell. That the Council agreed with this phase of the subject was evidenced by the applause which rose as the speaker sat down. At this point the motion that the committee rise was carried and Warden Elliot returned to the chair. The motion to adjourn was already in the hands of the Clerk and before it was put into effect, the Warden expressed his hope that they would all be back for 1928 and wished every member a very merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

The inscription on the Warden's watch reads: "Presented to Milton J. Elliot by the Counties Council of Northumberland and Durham for the year 1927.

PILSUDSKI WILL

plan of settlement will involve, first, recognition by both Lithuania and Poland that a state of war no longer exists between them; second, declaration by both countries that henceforth they would be "neighbourly," and third, appointment of a commission which will temporarily watch over the disputed frontier and report any vital development to the council of the League of Nations.

Some doubt existed last night whether the council of the League of Nations would discuss the affairs this morning, much depending upon last-minute developments. League officials were inclined to the belief that Marshal Pilsudski would be present at the final discussion.

The general belief expressed here is that the council will find a way of securing at least a provisional settlement of the dispute, and by at-induce Lithuania and Poland to resume diplomatic relations and co-operate in economic and financial affairs.

Signs Conventions.

GENEVA, Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—France yesterday signed the convention for the International Relief Union created under the auspices of the League of Nations.

The purpose of this organization is to help those stricken by calamities such as floods or earthquakes.

U.F.O. PASSES RESOLUTIONS

Government Control Act Emphatically Condemned By Convention.

IMMIGRATION ASKED.

TORONTO, December 9 (Canadian Press). — With contentious resolutions cleared out of the way, the United Farmers of Ontario convention passed swiftly through those remaining on the order paper in the final session to-day. The convention adjourned at noon after concluding its work. Among the resolutions approved were one favoring compulsory grading of all eggs sold commercially and another urging increased efforts to secure juvenile immigrants of both sexes, provided they are physically examined. The amendment recommending examination was moved by Miss Agnes MacPhail. A resolution urging that before Canada entered any war there should be an appeal to the people was moved by Mrs. Wilmot of Sharon, but she agreed to withdraw it until next annual convention. Another resolution asked exemption from taxation of farm improvements, while others sought reduction of the deer hunting season from thirty to fifteen days.

Emphatic condemnation of the Government Liquor Control Law as a temperance measure was declared by the United Farmers of Ontario in convention to-day. The resolution passed by the convention asserted that the appalling number of motor accidents, the overcrowded jails, and the increased number of assaults were proof of the futility of the Government Control system, and condemned the measure. There was practically no discussion on the resolution.

Major League Magnates to Hold Conference Next Week

MANY CHANGES DURING PAST FIVE SEASONS

Coming Meeting Brings Constant Circle in Majors To Mind.

MEET AT NEW YORK.

Pittsburgh Pirates Had Won Two Pennants and World Series.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — The arrival in New York to-day of baseball men who will be going into conference next week in the annual meetings of the major leagues illustrated strikinly the many changes which have taken place in the national pastime in the past five years.

Five years ago only four of the present day managers who will ake part in next week's discussions were at the helm of their respective clubs.

Five years ago Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was considering dealing out drastic discipline to George Herman Ruth, whereas, as every school boy knows, the Babe is now a model youth of baseball

The Pittsburg Pirates who hadn't had a flag for 16 years, won two and a world series in the past five seasons.

Perhaps the most striking example of the changes wrought in this brief period, however, is furnished by a comparison of the managers of 1923 and those engaged for 1928:

American League.

New York—1923, M. J. Huggins; 1928, M. J. Huggins.

Detroit—1923, T. R. Cobb; 1928, G. Moriarty.

Cleveland —1923, T. E. Speaker, 1928——.

Washington— 1923, O. Bush; 1928, S. Harris.

St. Louis—1923 L. Fohl; 1928, D. Howley.

Philadelphia—1923, C. Mack; 1928, C. Mack.

Chicago—1923, W. Gleason; 1928, R. Schalk.

Boson— 1923, F. L. Chance; 1928, W. Carrigan.

National League.

New York—1923, J. J. McGraw; 1928, J. J. McGraw.

Cincinnati— 1923, P. J. Morgan; 1928, J. Hendricks.

Pittsburg—1923, W. B. McKechnie; 1928, O. Bush.

Chicago—1923, W. Killefer; 1923, J. McCarthy.

St. Louis—1923, B. Rickey; 1928, W. B. McKechnie.

Brooklyn—1923, W. Robinson; 1928, W. Robinson.

Boston—1923, F. L. Mitchell; 1928, J. Slattery.

Philadelphit — 1923, A. Fletcher, 1928, B. Shotten.

Two Have Survived.

Of the four managers, two in each league, who have survived the exigencies of that brief five year period, three are getting ready to step aside and are drilling understudies to do their stuff for them within another season or so.

Connie Mack is ready to let Eddie Collins have the reins in Philadelphia, John McGraw is grooming Rogers Hornsby for the job as boss of the Giants and Wilbert Robinson may have bought Davy Bancroft from the Braves withsomething simlar in mind.

Only Miller Huggins, once despised as a manager, goes on turning out one pennant winner after another.

MAY HOOK UP WITH THE BEARS

Tris Speaker May Play With the Newark Club Next Season.

Not satisfied with landing Jacques Fournier and Bill Lamar, big leaguers of repute for his Bears, Walter Johnson, manager of the Newark club, has virtually closed with the famous Tris Speaker, last year with Washington and for many seasons Ty Cobb's greatest rival. If he does he will have the greatest drawing club in the International League. It is reported from Rochester that Manager Stallings of Montreal has purchased the release of Frank Gilhooley, ex-Leaf, from the Colts. It is also reported that Walter Hagen has pulled out of the Rochester Club, leaving John Ganzell holding the sack.

INSPECTOR WILL RESIGN SHORTLY

Must Remove All Cause For Dissatisfaction, Says Premier.

TORONTO, December 9 (Canadian Press). — Inspector Lapensee, French inspector in the bilingual schools of Essex County, will resign his position after Christmas. Premier Ferguson, after a conference with him to-day, said that the inspector had absolutely denied the complaints published in the press, "but unquestionably it appears he caused a certain amount of dissatisfaction. No matter what the cause, we will remove all dissatisfaction and irritation," the Premier continued. "Inspector Lapensee may have unwittingly created this, but we must deal with it. He was only appointed temporarily until after Christmas, and after that he will be discontinued."

RICKARD MAY ATTEND BOUT

Famous Promoter Shows Interest in Belanger-Jarvis Scrap.

IN TRAINING.

TORONTO, Dec 10—Frenchy Belanger's little spat with Ernie Jarvis for the tadpole title is attracting attention from coast to coast, and some big fry in the sporting world will be here on the night of the 19th when the Canadian and English representatives clash at the Coliseum. There is a possibility that Tex Rickard will be on hand if only for the purpose of assuring himself that flyweights can draw a gate in the neighborhood of $30,000. The famous New Yorker laughed at the idea of little fellows drawing anything like that amount, according to Marty Berg, N.B.A. secretary, and the latter immediately invited the big fight promoter to come along and see for himself. Rickard said he would think it over.

Nearly all the officials of the National Boxing Association, including President Thomas Donohue, who is exercising a patrnal supervision over the bout, will be in attendance. Incidentally, he was delighted with the manner in which the last show was staged and said so in a latter to the Shamrock club, Jim Toland, manager of Harry Goldstein of Boston, who was beaten by Belanger at Montreal after holding the local champion to a draw, and Fred Winsor of San Francisco, manager of Johnny McCoy, claimant to the coast flyweight title, will be among those present. Winsor is the man who first managed Jack Dempsey, and McCoy, who hails from Rochester, is the first boxer with any pretensions to championship ability that he has handled since Jack Kearns took the Manassa Mauler away from him.

It will be good news to the "eight bit" boys that Playfair Brown has decided to reduce the reserved seats originally slated at $1.50 to $1, which means that now that the tax has been cut from 25 cents to 10 cents that the tariff for the next show will be lower than it was at the Belanger-Genaro bout. On the night of the show 3,000 general admissions will be sold at $1, including tax. The higher priced ring-side seats are being gobbled up fast and the advance sales promises to be the greatest in the history of boxing in Toronto, evidencing to the limit the enormous interest taken in the championship tilt.

Jarvis will be here on Monday. Nothing but good reports come from the Belanger camp regarding his training preparations. Both boys will be fit.

SPORT BITS

Asks Admission.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 10. — Brandon would like to play in the Thunder Bay Senior Amateur Hockey League with Fort William and Port Arthur, it is announced here yesterday. A wire has been read from G. C. MacKean, president of the Brandon Hockey Club, stating that the Brandon Club has been given permission to negotiate to enter the Thunder Bay Association will consider their application. Lake head clubs are being consulted on the matter, though it is not likely that they will consider it unless another team is found in Manitoba to make it worth their while making the jump.

Allan Cup Play.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 10. — This year's solution of the annual difficulty concerning senior Allan Cup hockey as between Thunder Bay and Manitoba appears likely at the present moment to bring about an arrangement whereby four teams will play through a schedule. Port Arthur and Fort William clubs, after a conference yesterday, gave out an announcement that they would approve of a series made up of Port Arthur, Fort William, University of Manitoba and Brandon if arranged by the Thunder Bay and Manitoba associations. There is reason to believe the associations will get together on this basis.

Signed Carlson.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—George T. Stallings, manager of the Montreal baseball club of the International League, has signed Carlson, pitcher, formerly with the Baltimore Club.

Not Play To-Night.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Following examination of his injuries, it is not considered likely that Nelson Stewart will appear with the Montreal Maroons in their N.H.L. game with Detroit tonight. Stewart was injured in the game with Rangers last week. He may, however, get on the ice for short periods, it was said yesterday.

Suspension Lifted.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Suspension of Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, was lifted yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission to allow the Basque to engage in a series of matches throughout the country.

Uzcudun originally was suspended for failure to fight Phil Scott, British heavyweight, here. He was permitted to meet Johnny Risko recently in a match arranged before Paulino came under the ban.

What You Want In the WANT ADS

INSIDE SPORTIN' DOPE

By A WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

I wonder, Mac, if some of the hockey magnates has heard the story of the bride that dug out her cook book and made 1 of them fancy puddings for desert the 1st dinner she cooked for her hubby. And the 2nd part of the sketch, smacked his lips over it, eat a coupla helpings, and said it was great. Next day at dinner the same kinda pudding appeared, and friend husband ,not quite so enthusiastic, eat a fair share. The 3rd day the same old desert without much response from the male half of the newlyweds. When it happened for about a week there come a day when the hubby turned pale at the sight of the pudding, and sez he guesses he won't have none. "Why," sez the ball and chain, busting into sobs, "I thought you told me you liked that pudding." "So I do," sez he, "but, by heck, I don't figger in eating it every day for the rest of my life."

That's about the way the hockey menu is being loaded up in Peterborough this winter, Mac, and right here and now I'm going to make the prediction that if the program as she is being planned now is carried out the fans is going to get so darned sick of hockey that they won't be enough at some of the fixtures to prove they was a game. This burg can't stand hockey 5 nights a week for a month or more, and it is a safe bet that some of the clubs will find nothing in the old sock long before the end of January. The Lakeshore group, both junior and intermediate, has got the brilliant idea of working in a double schedule that under the best of ice conditions wouldn't get through till the middle of Feb., and if there was any postponed games on account of mild weather, would be good for another week. Those birds must be figgering on jumping right into the semi-finals out of their group, and it is a cinch the O.H.A. will tell them they'd better be figgering in a winner around Jan. 31 as usual. Anyway, a double schedule in four and five-team groups is too much hockey when other games has to be worked in, too. And too much hockey can do the game nearly as much harm as no hockey at all, especially as it won't all be good.

Mister Mickey Murray is the latest Peterboro hockey product to jump into the moneyed class. Mister Murray is with Providence in the American-Canadian loop, and making good. By the way, Mac, the 8 former local players now in the pro. ranks would make a mighty sweet cash and carry outfit. By shifting Mister Jack Adams back to the defence, you could get the following line-up:

Goal—Mister Joe Dwyer, Kansas City; Mister Mickey Murray, Providence.

Right defence—Mister Jack Adams, Detroit.

Centre—Mister Babe Bogardis, Stratford.

Right wing—Mister Irvin Bailey, Toronto Leafs.

Subs.—Mister W. Ranger, Kansas City; Mister M. McDougall, Toronto Ravinas.

With Mister Jack Adams as playing manager, they's a gang that would take some beating, and 5 of the gang started their hockey career right here in Peterboro, too.

Well, they ain't much chance of getting them together, so we'll quit with this ripe dream.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

MAROONS BACK IN CAMPAIGN

Meet Detroit Cougars at Montreal To-night After Week's Rest.

N.H.L. FIXTURE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—After a week's rest the Montreal Maroons swing back into action in the National Hockey League campaign when they meet Jack Adams' Detroit Cougars at the Forum tonight. It appears, however, that the seven-day respite from schedule games has not been long enough to allow injuries to mend and Maroons will probably start without Nels Stewart at centre. Dunc Munro has practically recovered from the injury to his hand and that to his ankle and will start on the defence with Red Dutton.

Nels Stewart suffered a painful injury to his side when Ching Johnston dug his stick into the Maroon centre in the game with Rangers here a week ago Thursday.

With Stewart unlikely to start, Maroons will have their regular defensive bulwark, with Siebert, Phillips and Ward as the first strong forward line, with Frank Carson, Oatman, Touney and Emms in reserve.

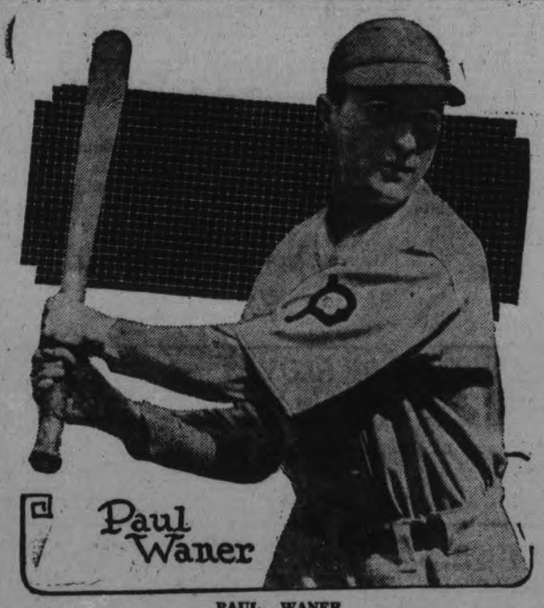
Adams and his Cougars are dut this morning. They leave again after the game to play Boston at Detroit Sunday night, and then fly back here to meet Canadiens on Tuesday night.

TRIBE STILL LACKS PILOT.

The Cleveland Indians are still without a playing manager, being unsuccessful in their attempt to land Bucky Harris, Washington pilot, or Eddie Collins of the Athletics.

BEST SINCE VILLA.

Ignacio Fernandez, Phillippine featherweight, who has been going good among the topnotchers of this country, is probably the best fighter from the islands since Pancho Villa.



PAUL WANER

The Pirates' right fielder, has been chosen as the most valuable player in the National Baseball League, a much coveted honor, which carries with it a bronze medal and a $1,000 cash prize. He received a total of 72 out of a possible 80 votes.

Are Likely To Play Against Each Other

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 10. —Two of the best quarterbacks of the past football season will show their wares at the same time and against each other here on Christmas Day.

These two stars are Morley Drury, Southern California's sensational back who graced practically every All-America team this year, and Billy Spears, Vanderbilt star, who was the outstanding player in Dixie this year.

Drury is expected to play with the western all-stars against the southern all-stars, who will have Spears as their field general in a charity game on Christmas Day.

The exhibition should give critics a splendid opportunity of comparing these two brilliant backs.

ORANGES FOR HEALTH

One of the strongest reasons why the use of oranges is increasing so rapidly is because the public is becoming convinced that the orange is a healthful fruit. Of course, the co-operation of the orange growers has been helpful in producing better grades of fruit, and in controlling shipment and refrigeration. We can now depend upon getting fruit of a better flavor and with better keeping qualities.

The average person, however, does not use oranges for food because of their flavor, color or cost. If you will ask the next ten people you meet why they use oranges, probably every one will tell you that it is because they think it is good for them. They have arrived at this opinion mainly because of their own experience, as they will tell you they feel better when using orgages in their diet.

Scientific investigation has proved that oranges do have a healthful value. This is not a new discovery, for we find as early as 1646 Ferrarius wrote one of the first books on citrus fruits, in which he recommended orange juice for "pestilent fevers accompanied by eruptions." At that time a water was distilled from the orange flowers and was said to be of "joyous odor and good for a sluggish stomach."

A good deal has been written in recent years about the vitamins in oranges, and while these substances have never been actually seen, it is believed from experimentation that the citrus fruits contain large amounts of at least the vitamins A, B, and C.

Orange juice is now a regular part of the diet of babies. It is recommended by physicians because of the fruit sugar, and also because of the vitamin C which is sometimes deficient in milk. Oranges contain a goodly amount of calcium, even though they are considered an acid fruit. This calcium is used by the body in building bones, and it is especially important that young babies secure enough of this element from their foods.

The citric acid in the orange and other citrus fruits acts as a valuable stimulant to digestion, especially increasing the biliary flow. This makes it especially helpful to those who have a tendency to sluggishness of the liver. One who has been bilious a good deal cannot take a better treatment than to live for a few days exclusively on a citrus fruit diet. After the good has been accomplished with such a fruit fast, it is a wise thing for one with a tendency to liver derangements to make at least one meal a day of oranges or grapefruit.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Anxious Anne writes: "I have been reading your articles every day, and have heard that your wonderful advice has helped many in their ailments. I am 17 years of age and am losing my hair very fast. In fact, parts of my head are almost bald. I also have a lot of dandruff. I have heard that sweet oil is good. Do you recommend this?"

Answer: Change your diet so you use more of the salad vegetables, to get the calcium and silicon you need for hair growth. Next, have your scalp treated by radiations from the ultra-violet light. After your scalp has been thoroughly sunburned by this treatment, start using the application of ice to your scalp twice daily, rubbing in some kind of vegetable oil afterwards. You must first supply the blood with hair building materials, and then increase the circulation to the scalp so the hair roots will be sufficiently irrigated.

Question: Mrs. G. L. asks: "Will you please tell me if rice is good to eat raw? Will it make one fat? Or is it better cooked? I have a friend who eats a lot of it and claims it is fattening. I am underweight, myself, and would like your opinion about the rice."

Answer: Rice should always be cooked, and the unpolished kind used. It is true that rice is fattening, but if you are underweight I would not advise you to try to gain weight by overeating of any kind of so-called fattening foods. It is better to keep your diet well balanced, overcome your nervous tendencies, and your weight will soon come to normal.

Question: E. G. D. asks: "Wht would cause a dark spot to appear on each cheek about the size of a dime?"

Answer: Dark spots are caused by some faulty formation of color pigment in your skin. This is usually due to faulty metabolism, and can be prevented by a correctly balanced diet.

EXPANSION

Owing to the increase in our business, we found it necessary to build an addition to our factory and install therein a ten-ton hoist, also a granite surfacing machine that prepares the stone for the polishing mill. We will also add a sand blast machine. These additions to our plant will give us one of the best equipped Monumental manufacturing shops in Ontario, and will enable us to handle, with a great saving of time and labor, all orders entrusted to us at prices that defy competition.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MY ROAD

There are two roads I travel on,
And one road is the highway.
There wealth and honor both are won,
But that road isn't my way.
All day I battle men and fate,
Upon the world's hot highroad,
And crowd, and push, and have, and hate
And then I come to my road.

There are two roads, and one dips down
Where cottage lights are gleaming,
A little bridge, a little town,
And even a little dreaming.

I come upon it just at eve,
A path that leaves the highroad,
And then the world's white dust I leave
And feel my feet on my road.

There are two roads that run through life,
And one road is the fame road,
And there's a road to house and wife,
That never is the same road.
I hope for heaven, as all men hope,
Yet not beyond the highroad
I think I'll find that lovely slope,
But at the end of my road.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

WON'T CONTEST SEAT.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I wish that you, through the columns of your paper, would clear up the erroneous impression that your report of the meeting at Claraday last Tuesday evening, has created, that is, that I am contesting the Reeveship of North Monaghan with Mr. Lillico, the present Reeve. I said at the meeting that I was not at the moment prepared to say that I would consent to run. I had not then, nor have I now, any intention of contesting the seat with Mr. Lillico; and until he says that he is not a candidate for 1928, I cannot consider accepting nomination for the office.

Yours truly,
H. B. RYE.

"CAT AND CANARY" TO AMUSE LOVERS OF MYSTERY HERE.

Everyone who has taken an interest in attempting to solve mysteries is promised the thrill of a lifetime when "The Cat and the Canary" opens as the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

"The Cat and the Canary," a Universal production with an all-star cast headed by Laura La Plante, is said by those who have seen its pre-views to be by far the most mysterious mystery ever filmed.

Six people, three women and three men, go with an attorney to a supposed haunted house to hear the reading of a will. The attorney is murdered—each of the six persons might have done the killing.

Which one of them was it—if any—is undiscoverable until the final scene.

"The Cat and the Canary" is a screen adaptation of the great stage success of the same name by John Willard. It was directed by Paul Leni, perhaps the most famous of a score of foreign directors who have come to this country in the past two years.

In addition to Miss La Plante, the cast embraces some of the best-known names of filmdom, including among many others, Arthur Edmund Carew, Forrest Stanley, Creighton Hale, Gertrude Astor, George Siegmann, Flora Finch, Martha Mattox, and Tully Marshall.

CLEVER STROKES IN FILMS "JUST GROW"—LEONARD

Like Topsy, subtle bits of business and artistic "touches" that are injected into the cleverest motion pictures, "just grow," according to Robert Z. Leonard.

Leonard is a master at swift, deft touches. All of his productions abound with them, and "A Little Journey," which comes to the Regent Theatre on Monday is said to be no exception to this rule. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

"Some clever by-play on the part of the actors, some graceful or amusing gesture not originally written into the script, is known, to the profession, as a piece of business," says Leonard.

Claire Windsor and William Haines have the leading roles in "A Little Journey," which was written by Rachael Crothers and adapted to the screen by Albert Lewin. Harry Carey and Claire McDowell are also in the cast.

FOURTH TROOP WINS.

The knot race between the 4th and 5th Peteborough Troops was run off last Wednesday at the Peterborough Scout Headquarters. The teams consisted of four Scouts from each troop Mr. Taylor of the 3rd Troop was in charge.

The Scouts lined up at one end of the building. When the whistle was blown number one of each troop had to run to the other end of the building, tie the reef knot and run and touch the next one on the team. The team from the 4th troop came in first.

On Thursday, Mr. Taylor on behalf of the Association, presented the compasses to the winning team at the troop meeting. The prizes were donated by the Y.M.C.A.

The winning team was as follows: J. Hefferman, C. Routly, J. Penrose and L. Welsh.

First Choice by almost 2 to 1

In outselling any other "Six" at or near the price, by almost 2 to 1, Essex is all by itself as first choice in public estimation of value.

Yet even these overwhelming sales figures do not express the full preference. They do not record the long period when the greatest production in Essex history could not keep pace with demand and thousands of buyers were forced to do with other cars.

In this preference is registered the unmistakable verdict for the performance, comfort and values that belong exclusively to Essex:

6-Cylinder Smoothness and Dash—High-compression Power and Performance—Size and Roominess without Unwieldiness—Steady Riding without Useless Weight—50 miles an hour all day long—and far greater speed when wanted—Riding Ease Like Flying—Economy of Price, with Operation and Maintenance Engineered to Lowest Costs.

It is exclusive performance because Essex Super-Six design is exclusive. And because every part of motor and chassis is engineered to true balance with every other part.

Every Cold is Serious

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs and body pains, chilly feelings, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest and a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, thirst, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine seems almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, aiding expectoration and preventing the inflammation from reaching the lungs.

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, train for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her to Ravoir, connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris. Manon's brother steals her for Ravoir. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. She rejoins Fabien, and they live so extravagantly that Fabien is forced to capitalize a genius for cards. The King plays Fabien at cards for Manon, and accuses him of cheating.

Lescaut, better than anyone in the room, appreciated the seriousness of the situation. He had grown sincerely fond of Fabien and Manon and wondered what he could do to help relieve the situation.

After what seemed an eternity the King rose and said contemptuously, "Monsieur le Chevalier, you are a cheat—the stake is mine!"

At the first move fom King Louis Fabien also rose to his feet and under cover of getting up he made a quick, significant gesture to Lescaut to get Manon out of the room.

No sooner was the sign made than Lescaut rose to the occasion and started guiding her toward the door. The Comte, however, understood and attempted to block their way.

"Sire, you are the King," said Fabien, quietly addressing His Majesty, "and one dares not say of one's King and he cheats."

The King was speechless with amazed fury.

The crowd gasped—could it be possible? Two aces of diamonds were played. Did the King substitute or did le Chevalier?

The Duc de Richelieu and other loyal subjects sprang to the defense of their King with drawn swords, and Fabien found himself facing them alone.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Two powerful guards joined the Comte and prevented Lescaut taking Manon from the room. King Louis' prey was trapped.

Through virtue of his title the King was master of the situation and no one dared do anything without his sanction or a word from the Duc de Richelieu.

Not even a whisper was heard in the great salon.

With unexpected suddenness His Majesty's little evening of pleasure had come to a rude halt. It was unheard of for a man to oppose the King's will. It had never been known to happen before, and Louis was the most surprised person there. Many times in the past he had selected a woman and gotten her without so much opposition and trouble. But never before had he dealt with as devoted a lover and protector as Fabien. Unfortunately the whole incident savored of scandal that he could ill afford to become a part of in such a public place.

After a whispered word to the Duc, Louis retreated from the room. He walked slowly, with head erect and no indication of fear, but it was nevertheless a forced retreat. The crowd divided and made an isle for their King, that lead him to a private room at the head of the stairs. He was compelled to pass within a few feet of Manon who, under Lescaut's surreptitious guidance, was being gradually pushed toward the entrance doors in a vain hope of escape.

If it had not been for fear of public criticism, King Louis would have taken Manon with him and thus brought the matter to a satisfactory finish; instead, he whispered to the Comte de Ravoir:

"See that she is brought to me in yonder room, without delay!"

The Comte's head bowed in obeyance, but inwardly he rebelled at the idea. Manon must be his again. Of that much he was determined, in spite of the fact that she was the King's property won from her lover in a card game.

Back by the table the Duc de Richelieu was saying to Fabien, "Monsieur, Des Grieux, I demand that you apologize to your King!"

Fabien's only answer was a mocking laugh!

The crowd gasped in amazement, as one man. Quick to avenge the brazen insult Richelieu drew his sword. No sooner had the long steel flashed from its sheath than Fabien's ready blade crossed it in mid air with a resounding clang! It was only the work of a moment to disarm the Duc de Richelieu, although the small victory gave Fabien no advantage, as other loyal supporters of the King closed in and opened attack.

For a brief second Fabien dared search for Manon in the crowd—he saw that Lescaut was leading her up the stairs and that the Comte was struggling to push through the surging mass and reach her side! With a mighty effort Fabien turned his back toward the stairs and cleverly kept his adversaries at bay while working backward, step by step in the direction of Manon. His one desire was to reach her. He bravely fought three or four men at a time, while others stood ready to enter when their friends fell.

Fabien proved himself as conconquerable with the sword as he had been at the card table. Finally, the cowardly, joint, attack of several noblemen succeeded in disarming him. But if they anticipated a calm surrender they were mistaken. Fabien was fighting for the only thing in the world that made life worth living and he knew that if he was captured Manon would be made an unwilling prisoner in the King's Palace. The very thought of it gave Fabien new strength to carry on.

Deprived of his weapon it was necessary to do something without further delay. He leaped on top of a nearby table and swinging a chair from the floor raised it on high and brought it down with dangerous force upon the heads and swords of the men who tried to wound or capture him.

Fabien fought like a ferocious animal of the wild, trapped by a band of hunters in his lair. His daring and very fierceness seemed to intimidate them. Their swords could not get past that chair that he swung about him in deadly circles.

The success gained by his strategic position gave him a moment's respite. Immediately he looked for Manon. To his horror he saw the Comte pushing her into a private room at the head of the stairs while two of the King's Guards seized Lescaut and prevented him going with her.

Fabien's sanity almost snapped at thought of what might be Manon's fate behind that closed door. He had no sword and it appeared that the entire salon full of people were against him. What could he do?

Down at the other end of the hall some servants were entering with long clubs that were destined to dislodge him from his place on the table. He threw his weapon—the chair—at the people who were between the table and the staircase; then with a superhuman effort he crouched and leaped over the sprawling men onto the back of a guard at the foot of the stairs. Before anyone was quite aware of what had happened, Fabien began fighting his way up the stair case.

One man with a little more courage than the others climbed up the balustrade and surprised him by lunging upon him with all force. They fell together on the landing. In the fight that ensued Fabien wrested his adversary's sword from his hand and stood on the blade to protect it while he hurled the man bodily upon the crowd below, as they fought to come up the stairs.

Encouraged by the comforting feel of a sword in his hand again, Fabien fought like a demon. Finally only one man remained between him and the door he had seen Manon enter, what seemed to be an eternity ago. With a sharp cry the man fell back, gasping from the pain in his shoulder. Fabien withdrew his sword and rushed to the closed door that kept Manon from him. It was locked!

Glancing down the corridor he saw Lescaut entering another room—perhaps an adjoining one, but the risk involved in trying to reach it was too great. He pushed and thumped against the locked panel with the entire strength of his body. The lock snapped! He entered and closed the door behind him just as the angry supporters of the King surged upon the landing.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

STIRLING UNITED CHURCH

STIRLING, Dec. 10.—The service in St. Paul's United Church last Sunday evening was in the form of a patriotic one. The choir gave two anthems, the solo parts were taken by Misses B. Conley and I. Bronson.

Mr. Gerald Clute, organist and choir leader sang, "The Trumpeter" and Miss Bessie Conley gave the solo, "Did you see Christ there," Mr. Barrett preached an excellent sermon mentioning Canada's wealth, but considered her greatest assets were her Christian men and women.

The mission band of St. Paul's Church held an open meeting on Monday evening with a large number in attendance. The President, Mrs. Earl Leury, was in charge. The band has reached its allocation and has a surplus in the bank. After the business part was concluded, an excellent program consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, duets, readings and a play entitled "Mother's Faith" was enjoyed by all. The collection amounted to $14.00.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XXVIII — by Nicholas Afonsky

Five years after his first successful dirigible, Zeppelin had a second one ready, with lighter engines. But it had too great lifting power, and could not be operated at a safe level. It was destroyed during the night after its first flight by a gale on Lake Constance, where it was anchored.

The Zeppelin III became the kernel of the great German air war fleet. It carried eleven passengers for sixty-nine miles, and performed other feats that at the time were considered remarkable. The Zeppelin IV, after a world-record trip of twenty-one hours, was destroyed, after landing, by fire.

Zeppelin, now an old man, though beset by misfortunes, had the full backing of his countrymen and government. The Kaiser honored him as the conquerer of the air, and knighted him. In June, 1909, he made a voyage of over 900 miles, but his airship collided with a tree and was badly damaged.

In April, 1910, the first aerial passenger Zeppelin ship, carrying the first aerial restaurant, started out with thirteen passengers. They ran into a gale of wind and rain, and finally plunged earthward to land in the treetops with great injury to the ship, but little to its passengers.

We recommend that the Chairman of this Committee, Ald. Stocker and Denne be a committee to investigate and report on the disposal of cans at the incinerator.

We recommend that the lots owned by the City on Maria Street and Engleburn Place be given to real estate agents to sell at the prices recommended by the Assessor.

This Committee received the following tenders for the collection and removal of garbage during 1928:

Board of Works.

The Board of Works reported as follows:

Joseph Vinette waited upon the Board and asked that cinders be placed on Lisburn Street. We recommend that the Chairman of this Board and the City Engineer inspect the street and make improvements as requested.

We recommend that notice be given to G. C. Mitchell that in taking gravel from the pit on Lot 1, Plan 21, he must not come closer than six (6) feet to any street.

We received a letter from Hodgson and Willison for permission to erect poster panels on property on Bethune Street between Hunter Street and Brock Street and on Ware Street near Lock Street. We recommend that the request be referred to the City Engineer with power to act.

We recommend that the charge to the Canadian General Electric Co. for the use of the roller for four days, they having furnished the coal for the roller, be $50.00.

We recommend that the Township of Douro be charged $120.00 as the Township's share of the cost of the use of the road roller for twelve days on the River Road.

Your Board received a report from the City Engineer that Mrs. Alice Haskill, employed in his office, will leave at the end of the year, and asking that a successor be appointed to come into the office on December 1st to have a month's training before Mrs. Haskill leaves. We recommend that the Chairman of this Board, the City Engineer, and the City Clerk be given authority to make the appointment as requested.

We received the following telegram from Border Transit Limited, in reference to truck and plough for snow removal: "Approximate cost of equipment $4,200.00 complete. Will rent to city $2.50 per hour, including driver, gas, oil, etc. Will rent from city on same basis if our proposal is acceptable. Expect delivery inside of 10 days." We recommend that the City try out this system of snow removal by using the equipment of the Border Transit Limited on such streets as the City Council or the Board of Works desires to use it and on which the busses of Border Transit Limited do not operate, at the offer made by that company, namely, a rental of $2.50 an hour, including driver, gasolene, oil and all expense of its operation, this work to be done under the supervision of the City Engineer and the City to have the right to terminate the agreement at any time.

We recommend that the matter of purchasing three (3) acres of land on River Road and Dunlop Street for gravel be referred to the Chairman of this Board to ascertain the price of the land.

We authorized that a by-law be prepared to limit the speed of any vehicle passing over the Ashburnham bridge to ten (10) miles an hour and we recommend that the City Engineer be instructed to have the required signs put up on the bridge when the by-law is passed.

Your Board was waited upon by E. A. Peck, M.P., and Bert Arnott (Chairman), Bert May and Harvey Webber, Trustees of School Section No. 2, North Monaghan, they asked that the Trustee be permitted to connect the new schools of that Section with the City sewer system. The following resolution was passed to be submitted to the City Solicitor for his opinion and to be presented to the Council with the Solicitor's opinion.

That the Trustees of School Section No. 2, North Monaghan, be permitted to connect their new school building on Braidwood Avenue with the City's sewer system, under the direction and supervision of the City Engineer, provided the Council of the Township of North Monaghan enters into an agreement with the City to pay to the City $—— a year for the permission, payable on the 15th day of December in each year, the first payment to be made on the 15th day of December, 1928, and also provided that the Council of the Township enters into an agreement with this City to endeavour to procure legislation to amend the provisions of the Public Health Act which enables the Township to make a general agreement with the City for the use of the sewers of the City by residents of the Township so that the rental for connections to the sewer may be collected by the Township from such residents as taxes are collected and, further, that upon this amending legislation being enacted the said Township Council will enter into such a general agreement on the conditions verbally agreed to this year, including the payment of $20.00 a year for each connection.

LINDSAY STORE DAMAGED

Loss of $3,500 Sustained By B. Babcock By Fire in Night.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec 10. —(Canadian Press). — Damage of $3.500 was caused by a fire which broke out in Garfield Babcock's grocery store last night. The blase had gained considerable headway before it was noticed.

The firemen, aside from their long jaunt to Lakefield, answered two calls locally within the past twenty-four hours. At 8.03 p.m. Friday a chimney fire at 130 Maria street, gave cause for alarm while this morning overheated stovepipes at 249 Simcoe street, necessitated a run.

REV. J. H. SUTCLIFFE ADDRESSES PARENTS

Murray Street Pastor is Speaker at Home and School Meeting.

A large crowd was in attendance at the meeting of the Central Home and School Association held last evening in the kindergarten room of the school.

The president, Mrs W. H. Lacey was in the chair. The secretary Mrs. E Bartlett and treasurer Mrs. Vincent gave their reports which were adopted. Mrs Lacey on behalf of the Home and School Association presented the teachers with a couch for use in their rest room of the school. The attendance banner for the month was won by Mr. Steer's room.

After the business meeting was over, a very interesting programme was given with a piano solo by Miss Margaret Patoine. a humorous Dutch reading by Miss Eva Outram and an encore in a mixed radio receipe which was very amusing. A piano selection by Miss Jean Howson. Vocal solos by Miss Ruby Quartermaine accompanied by Miss Margaret Flowers A Christmas recitation by little Dorothy Boorman was very cleverly given, also a missionery offering, which she gave as an encore. Miss Margaret Flowers also rendered a delightful piano selection During the evening, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Church delivered an address on "Praise and Perseverance." He spoke of greater community and greater school enthusiasm. He urged the parents to praise their children, some were inclined to knock rather than boost, which he claimed had a bad effect on children. He related the bad effect on "knocking" on feeble minded children. As an example he used a chalk line on the black-board, by means of the teacher, telling the child, it could not draw a straight line, and was finding fault with it, the child gets nervous and consequently a very crooked line appears. Telling a child he is right and priasing him a little goes a long way towards helping him.. "Everyone is human," said Rev. Sutcliffe, even Sunday School teachers fail. He illustrated with the case of two teachers. One was continually telling his class about bad sins, and bad people while other teacher told his class all the good things in life. "Tell all evil and no good and you are using the wrong method. You can't keep evil before the eyes of people and expect good things. Don't misunderstand praise. Some things should be blamed." Say good things about your neighbour's children, it will help a great deal saying good things will help your own child. Perseverance, the speaker said ,along with patience was a good help to children. One must keep at a child to make him persevere. He quoted an instance where men were working on a tunnel, they worked and worked then decided to stop. Another company came along and with a little work and perseverance light was soon seen and the tunnel finished. Parents should be an example of perseverance. Children will catch the disease. Pray to the best of your ability. Success will come to us ,if we do the things required. Staying with it brings the solution, if you stay with it long enough.

A vote of thanks to Rev. Sutcliffe and those taking part on the programme was given by Mrs. Bartlett, seconded by Mrs. Lacey. At the conclusion of the programme, dainty refreshments were served by Mesdames Skitch, Lush, Weir and Vass of the social committee.
